The week which followed our last report was marked by a gradually increasing demand for Manila, and prices steadily advanced until quotations ruled 1s. per cwt. higher, both for clayed and unclayed, than those current on the 24th ult. The advanced rates have since been firmly maintained, but as holders require a further rise, the business has been checked, although a good disposition to purchase is still manifested. In other kinds of East India a moderately extensive business has been done at prices which show an advance of 6d. per cwt. on those ruling for last mail. The business done has comprised the following transactions:—Manila: At auction 3,166 bags clayed were sold at 22s. 6d. to 23s., washed at 21s. 6d. to 21s. 9d.; subsequently an offer of 4,734 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) was bought in at 22s. 6d. to 23s., washed at 22s., but since the sale the whole has been sold at 22s. 3d. to 22s. 6d.; by private sale on the 22nd ult. 4,000 bags brown Manila sold at 21s. 6d.; on the 24th there was a further sale of 4,000 bags similar quality at 22s. 6d.; subsequently about 22,000 bags clayed have been sold at 22d. 6d. to 24s. 3d., and 100 tons Ilo Ilo at 20s. 6d. Penang: Last week at public sale offers were made of 2,760 bags in small lots, of which about 1,100 sold—middling to fine brown (duties 4s. and 4s. 9d.) at 24s. to 27s. 6d., yellow (duty 4s. 9d.) at 28s. to 29s., grainy at 35s.; 239 baskets low brown (duty 4s.) being bought in at 17s. to 20s. The only offer this week, 1,067 baskets low to common date sort (duty 4s.), was bought in at 16s. 6d. to 17s. 6d. There has been no private business. Java: 212 bags grainy yellow (duty 5s. 3d.) offered in public sale were sold at 31s. to 31s. 6d.

The total deliveries are slightly larger than in the previous week, and 1,200 tons in excess of last year's, the landings include 1,740 tons Manila and are but slightly less than in 1869, and the stock is brought down to 88,073 tons, being only 350 tons more than last year. Stock, Oct. 22, 90,942 tons against 89,244 tons, Oct; 29, 88,073 tons, against 87,724 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the forty-three weeks ended Oct. 29, 1870, was, of Penang, 2,747 tons, against 3,483 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 17,056 tons, against 30,956 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 1,867 tons, against 2,344 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 21,963 tons, against 16,563 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 99 tons, against 191 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 2,882 tons, against 1,074 tons. The stock on Oct. 29 was, of Penang, 3,111 tons, against 1,277 tons; of Manila Java, and China, 28,001 tons, against 41,583 tons.

CUTCH.—The market is steady, with more business doing. Small lots of fine have been sold at 20s. to 20s. 6d., and 1,200 boxes good, Elephant mark, at 20s. per cwt. At auction 70 boxes from Penang sold at 19s. to 19s. 3d.; 1,000 boxes good Pegue were bought in at 20s. per cwt.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—Subsequent to our last report there was a further decrease of activity, and prices had a downward tendency, but the market is now steadier. At auction, of 278 casks Ceylon offered, only a few lots sold at 37s. 6d. for good in pipes; 48 casks Karical realised 32s. 9d. to 38s.; 300 casks Cochin were partly sold at 42s. to 43s. 6d. per cwt. Stock, 7,618 tons, against 5,747 tons. Afloat, about 551 tons Cochin and Ceylon, against 1,856 tons Cochin and Ceylon same time last year.

COIR GOODS.—Yarn is in steady demand at firm rates: 245 tons 307 bales Ceylon and Cochin in auction partly sold at £17 10s. to £50 5s. for low to fine; a little coarse red Coconada at £11 15s. per ton; several parcels Rope and Fibre were withdrawn. Aloe Fibre: 344 bales Manila offered were all sold at some decline, commencing at £13 15s., and closing at £15 15s.; chiefly at £14 15s. to £15 5s. per ton.

CAMPHOR.—Has been in rather better inquiry, but, nevertheless, sales have been of only a retail character. With heavy arrivals both from China and Japan, the bulk of which have been sold afloat at prices far above the present nominal value, and with only a restricted demand from the Continent, the future position of the article is very uncertain. Present prices are exceedingly low, and should be attractive of speculation, but, with a continuance of heavy shipments, it is doubtful whether the required speculation will set in. The unsettled state of China has, as yet, had no beneficial effect on the article. At auction of 90 cases China offered only 40 cases sold at 75s. for middling quality, with allowance of 2 lbs. per case in lieu of reweights. The Cymbeline has arrived from Japan with about 2,200 tubs, as also the Hopewell, from China, with 5,666 cases. Stock 4,496, against 4,480 last year.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—One case good reed has been placed at £13; a sale of 30 cases is advertised. Block is without improvement. 27 cases sold as under: good at £7; fair at £6; and common dull drossy mixed at £4 10s. per cwt.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anniseed: The speculation noted in our last continued with unabated activity until sales were effected at 9s. 5d. to 9s. 6d. per lb.; market then became exceedingly quiet, and at the auctions last week, when 10 cases were offered, there was no demand, and 9s. only being bid, the parcel was retired. Citronelle without change; about 120 cases good average quality have been quitted by auction at 2d. to 2½d. per oz. Fishers held for higher prices. Lemon Grass most dull of sale; of 92 cases Cochin, 40 sold at 2¾d. to 3d. per oz., and 3 cases Fishers at 3d. per oz. Nutmeg: Following our last, 6 cases fair to fine white of good strength sold with spirit at 8d. to 8½d. per oz., but at a recent sale when 3 cases were offered, 7½d. was not attainable.

GAMBIER.—There is a moderate demand at previous rates. At auction 1,037 bales fair block partly sold at 16s.; 129 baskets cubes sold at 18s. 9d.; 565 bales 1,390 bags ditto taken in, pressed 18s., free 19s. 6d. Privately for arrival 125 tons block at 15s. 10½d. per cwt., ex ship, and 150 tons for Liverpool at 16s., with all faults, have been sold.

GALLS continue steady, but not much business has been transacted middling crinkly is quoted at 42s. 6d, and a sale is reported at 43s. Smooth, which used to be in most favour are now comparatively neglected—last price paid 41s. 9d. 502 cases arrived per Serica and Forward Ho.

GUMS.—Benjamin: 2nds Sumatra sells at fully former value; 168 cases in auction half sold, fair and good white, £9 5s. to £9 12s. 6d.; middling and fair, £8 5s. to £8 12s. 6d.; mixed brownish and false packed, £6 15s. to £7 10s.; thirds very dull; fourths, 30s. inferior. Siam lower and dull; of 53 cases only a few sold at £18 to £18 7s. 6d. for hard clean tear in block, and £8 to £8 2s. 6d. for thirds. Manila Copal: Quiet; 244 cases at sale only a few placed at 30s. 6d. to 43s. 6d. for common to good clean hard, and 21s. 6d. to 38s. inferior to good soft. Damar: Steady; 172 cases Singapore and 34 cases Batavia retired. Gamboge: Firm, but arrivals; 2 cases sold at auction at £12 5s. to £12 7s. 6d. per cwt. for pipe, partly run, rather mixed fair to good.

GUTTA PERCHA.—The extreme dullness continues. The arrivals during last month were heavy; and stock is now increased to 471 tons against 146 tons last year. There are still afloat to this port 185 tons. A small lot submitted to auction was withdrawn in the total absence of biddings.

HEMP.—The market for Manila has been quiet throughout the fortnight; the private business has been confined to the sale of about 750 bales at £50 to £55 for common to good fair roping. At auction 1,160 bales were offered and chiefly bought in—common, £50; barely fair, £53; good fair, £55; only 250 bales being sold—common brown, £48 15s.; superior, £56 5s.; sea-damaged, first-class, £47 5s. to £52 5s.

ISINGLASS.—High rates are maintained, and fine selected qualities command extreme prices. Auctions have embraced 29 cases Penang and Manila, the whole of which found buyers at 4s. 3d. for fine clean bright pipe, 3s. 5d. to 3s. 6d. fair, and 1s. 9d. good cake.

INDIA-RUBBER.—There is again less doing, but owners are firm 12 baskets Singapore at auction retired; of 54 baskets Assam offered half sold at 7d. for common earthy, sticky and foul.

HIDES.—At the last sales there was a fair demand for East India Hides, and the bulk of those offered were cleared. Prices were irregular, but most of the fair and good descriptions sold at ¼d. to ½d., and in some cases ⅜d. per lb. higher. Middling and inferior sorts do not on the whole show much change, though occasionally ¼d. per lb. higher. 18,832 Dry Singapore, Penang, &c., Ox and Cow Hides offered, 13,756 sold—best light, 9½d.; seconds, 8d. to 8¾d.; best heavy, 8½d.; seconds, 6d. to 7½d.; extra heavy, 7d. to 8d.; thirds, 5d. to 6¼d.; small, 7¼d. to 9d.; fourths, 3½d. to 5¼d. per lb. 7,848 Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides offered, 2,533 sold—best heavy, 4¼d. to 5¼d.; light, 6d.; seconds 4d. to 4¼d. per lb. 430 Manila Buffalo Hides offered, none sold. 456 Siam Buffalo Hides offered, none sold.

JAPAN WAX.—There has been no business; an offer of 100 boxes at public sale was bought in at 74s. per cwt.

MUSK.—Maintains its value and has been in scanty supply; 15 caddies realised 29s. to 30s. per oz. for fair slightly heavy fleshy pods; pickings 19s., and good shaped second pile, many false packed, 15s. to 16s. Cabardine; 8 caddies very wet, unsightly and badly trimmed pods retired at 16s. Last price paid for fine dry, of good shape and flavour, 15s. 6d. per oz. Grain sells readily at 48s. to 52s. 6d. per oz., as in quality, and fine would command 54s. to 55s.

PEPPER.—Black: Less activity has prevailed, but holders remain firm, and for Singapore, which is scarce, rather higher prices have been paid. On the spot about 3,500 bags have been sold—Penang 5¼d., and Singapore 5⅜d. to 5¼d.; for arrival about 4,500 bags Penang, distant 4¼d. to 4 15-16d., near at hand 5d. to 5 1-16d., and Singapore at 5 1-16d. to 5 7-16d per lb. White is a shade dearer, about 700 bags Singapore selling at 6¼d. to 6⅜d. per lb.

PLUMBAGO.—The better qualities are rather more saleable, but no general improvement in the market can be quoted. Large quantities continue to be brought to auction, but small lots are only placed—lump, fine bright, 20s. 6d.; good bright, 16s. to 18s.; middling, 11s. to 12s.; dust, 8s. 6d. to 9s. 6d.; low, 4s. 6d. to 5s. per cwt.; chips, good bright, 13s.

PRESERVES.—An offer of 50 barrels China Ginger found buyers at 6¼d.

RHUBARB.—The recent advance in China kinds has been completely lost; at the last auctions 128 cases were offered, which were quitted with difficulty. Good sightly well-trimmed root, bold, sound, and of generally even pinky fracture, realised 2s. 11d. to 3s. 2d.; small but good and fine coat 2s. 3d., very fair 1s 6d. to 1s. 8d., fair 1s 4d. to 1s. 5d., ordinary 1s., very ordinary perished 5½d., and low wormy 3d.; 1 case superior dust realised 1s. 1d. per lb. A few cases of fine extra bold root realised 5s 3d. to 6s. 7d. per lb., and 2 cases (Russian trimmed) 6s. 9d. to 10s. 3d. per lb. It is almost impossible to sell the lower kinds of root, the stock of this class being so very heavy, and with a revival of continental trade, root now worth 1s. 8d. to 3s. per lb. should, in the ordinary course of events, rise in value.

RICE.—The market for all descriptions has maintained the dull tone noticed a fortnight since and but a small business has been transacted at easier rates. The inquiry for floating cargoes has become much less active, and in these but little business has been done. In auction 6,162 bags damaged Rangoon, per Magnolia, sold, first-class, 8s 3d. to 8s. 9d.; second class, 8s. to 8s. 4½d.; third class, 6s. 9d. to 7s. 9d.; fourth class, 6s. to 6s. 6d.; repacked, 7s. 9d.; low, 5s. 6d. to 5s. 9d.; also 4,088 bags good middling white Bengal at 10s. 6d. to 10s. 9d., and 1,675 bags damaged and repacked Rangoon, from Cape, at 7s. 6d. to 8s. 3d. The private sales consist of 1,000 bags Dacca at 9s. 3d., 4,000 bags good Rangoon at 9s. 1½d.; for arrival 250 tons Ballam at 8s. 9d., 50 tons low ditto at 8s., and 100 tons Soolie Bengal at 8s. 10½d., all quay terms. The following floating cargoes have been sold, the Queen of the Lakes 1,530 tons Rangoon at 9s. 1¼d., the Lady Macdonald 800 tons Necransie at 9s. 4¼d., both for the Continent, and the Alumina 850 tons Moulmein at 9s. 4¼d. ex ship for London.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: Only a limited inquiry has been experienced and 51 bales offered by auction were bought in, second sort at 2s. 11d., ordinary coarse at 6d. to 10d. per lb. Chips are steady; 148 bags good and fine sold at 4½d. to 6⅝d. per lb. Mace is 1d. dearer; 13 cases 35 boxes Penang sold, ordinary dark and small to good fair red rather palish 2s. 10d. to 3s. 7d. per lb. Nutmegs are firm; 52 packages Penang sold, small limed, 132 to 113 to the lb., 1s. 9d. to 1s. 10d.; 106 to 104, 2s. to 2s. 1d.; 96, 2s. 1d.; 82, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 7d.; 75, 2s. 10d.; and 71, 2s. 11d.; 21 cases Java partly sold, 98 to the lb., 2s.; defective, 7d per lb. Cloves: Penang are again dearer, 12 cases selling at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3½d. for middling to fine; Zanzibar have sold in favour of the buyer, but are now held for higher rates. 600 bags being disposed of, fair, 2¼d.; a few lots, 3d. per lb. Cassia Lignea: 93 boxes were bought in at 105s. to 108s. per cwt.

SAGO.—Business to arrive, and market steady at present low rates. Auctions have embraced 4,559 bags and boxes, about half sold at 17s. 6d. to 18s. for the boxes good quality, and 16s. to 17s. bags middling to good. Flour: 1,242 bags sold at aution at 15s. to 15s. 6d. for good Borneo, and market firm.

STICKLAC.—Siam continues very scarce, and no private sales are reported, the market is firm on reports of shipment of a parcel to Calcutta from here; 255 cases sold at auction at 52s. 6d. to 54s. 6d. for good, and 59s. very fine.

SOY.—The market is very dull; of 53 casks China at auction 2 casks sold at 2s. 2d.

SHELLS.—The periodical auctions were held on the 25th ult. Mother-o'-Pearl: Of 24 cases Manila offered, 5 cases were sold at £9; 2 cases Macassar realised £12 10s. Tortoise: A good supply offered went off slowly at previous rates; 8 cases (1,830 lb.) Manila were partly sold at 12s. to 16s.; 1 box Penang sold at 11s., and 1 box Singapore hoof at 34s. Green Snails: 200 baskets 72 cases and 11,000 loose Penang and Singapore partly sold at 4d. to 4¾d.; small, 2d. to 3d.; broken, 1½d. to 1⅞d. each. Other Shells: 42 cases Japan Ear, 7 barrels Rice, 12,000 Conch withdrawn; 4 cases Bull mouth sold at 1½d., and 5 baskets Crocus at 1¾d. each.

TIN.—Prices have given way, the demand being quiet; the current quotation for Straits is £127, showing a decline of 20s. per ton, while Banca and Billiton rule at £126, being £2 lower.

TAPIOCA.—The market is steady; the public sales have embraced large quantites, viz., 2,470 bags Singapore, of which rather more than half sold at 1¼d. to 1⅝d. per lb. for fair, and 2⅜d. to 3d. fine well made, and about 800 bags Pearl half sold, bullets at 18s. 9d. to 19s.; good and fine small 18s. to 18s. 6d., medium 17s. 6d. to 18s., large 17s. 6d. to 18s. 142 bags Flour sold at 1⅜d. to 2d.

TURMERIC.—Without change.

VERMILION.—There is only moderate demand for this article, consequently the market is rather quiet; a few cases China have been sold privately at 3s., being the previous value.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

Business in this Market since we last reported has been limited by an advance in prices, which have ruled with considerable steadiness; only occasionally a slight concession has been made to secure renewed contracts for forward delivery. At the close the Market is steady, with a limited business both in Yarns and Goods. The increased activity in Cotton serves for the moment. not only to check any downward tendency, but rather to give more firmness to quotations. Yarns: Spinners very firm in their demands for an advance, amounting generally to ½d. to ¼d. per lb., which prevents business. Water Twist quiet, in respect to China qualities. Cloth: Producers have advanced their pretensions for most descriptions, but have met with much difficulty in establishing any higher rates than were previously current. India Shirtings are quoted fully 1½d. per piece higher. China descriptions are also dearer, but political uncertainties and anticipated disturbances have caused buyers to persist in their recent policy of quietness. For T-Cloths for China few inquiries are made.

The quotations for China qualities rule as follow:—8¼ lbs. Eagle Chop Grey Shirtings, 11s.; other chops, 9s. 4½d. to 10s. 3d.; 7 lbs., 7s. 10½d. to 8s. 4½d.; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., 5s. 9d. to 7s. 3d.; 7lbs., 6s. 9d. to 8s.; 8¼ lbs., 8s. 9d. to 9s.; Water Twist, 16-24, 1s. to 1s.; 28-32, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2d.; Mule Twist, 40, 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2d.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

There has been a fairly active demand for Greens, Japans, and Oolongs, and prices for the last named description exhibit a slight advance. For other kinds the enquiry is limited to the actual requirements of the Trade and rates show a downward tendency.

The following are the current quotations:—Hyson, common to fair, 55c. to 66c.; superior to fine, 70c. to 85c.; extra fine to finest, 95c. to $1.25. Young Hyson, Canton made, nominal; common to fair, 45c. to 60c.; superior to fine, 65c. to $1; extra fine to finest, $1.15 to 1.40. Gunpowder and Imperial, Canton made, nominal; common to fair, 70c. to 85c.; superior to fine, 95c. to $1.10; extra fine to finest, $1.25 to 1.60. Hyson Skin and Twankay, Canton made, nominal; common to fair, 48c. to 55c.; superior to fine, 58c. to 63c.; extra fine to finest, 65c. to 70c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Oct. 5, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 19,086,204 lbs.; Japans, 9,707,319 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,746,894 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,511,462 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 40,206,343 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 50,072,510 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 5, 4,979,756 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 29,818,136 lbs., there remains a total of 15,274,618 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Sept. 20 to Oct. 5 amounted to 836,448 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 1,549,658 lbs.; and the exports to 387,650 lbs.

SILK.

The following is from Messrs. O'Donoghue and Howell's Circular:—We have to report a brisk market in silk during the past month. Previously, the uncertainty as to what course trade would take, together with the scarcity of such classes of silk as our manufacturers require, tended to prevent purchases to any great extent; but the continued steadiness of the London market has imparted more confidence to buyers, and late arrivals of re-reeled Chinas—to which classes transactions have chiefly been limited—have been eagerly taken. Usual Reel Tsatlee and Taysaam are in large stock and almost neglected, the manufacturers, desiring to take advantage of the briskness in trade, generally prefer supplying themselves with the re-reeled classes, which, on account of the more rapid winding, enables them to execute orders with greater despatch than by the use of the ordinary reel. Re-reeled Tsatlee and Haineen, as noted above, have sold freely and are still in great demand. Re-reeled Cantons, extra fine, continue slow of sale; for the inferior grades the demand has been quite active. Japans are still neglected.

The following are the ruling quotations (currency):—Tsatlee, No. 3, $9.7-8; Nos. 4 and 5, $8.7-8 to 9.1-8. Taysaam, No. 1, $8.25; No. 2, $7.50 to 8; Nos. 4 and 5, $6.75 to 7; Canton, re-reeled, good, $7 to to 7.25; fair, $6.5-8 to 6.75; medium, $6.3-8 to 6.50. Tsatlee, re-reeled, good, $10; fair to medium, $9.50 to 9.5-8. Haineen, best, $10.; fair, $9.25 to 9.50; common, $8.25 to 8.50. Canton, re-reeled, extra fine, $8.25. Japans: Maibash and Koshio, nominal; no demand. Sodai, good fair to medium, $9.25 to nominal.

Imports for the past month, 596 packages, value $355,266; corresponding month last year, 409 packages, value, $243,453. Total imports since Jan. 1 to Sept. 30, 3,581 packages, value, $1,824,111; corresponding period last year, 4,372 packages, value, $2,152,420.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 20½c. to 23c.; Java mats, 20½c. to 23c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. showing no change from those of our last report. The market for all kinds is very quiet and their are no transactions to report. The stock of Manila on the 1st Oct. was estimated at 400 bags, against 4.564 bags on Oct. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 670 bags, against 873 bags; of Java mats, 31,760, against 88,391 bags; of Ceylon, 9,426 bags, against 8,927 bags; of Singapore, nil, against nil.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 19c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2 to 2.10; Cassia, $1.20 to 1.25 gold (in bond).

GUNNY CLOTH.—There is no demand and prices are nominal.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—There has been no addition to the stock which, as we last reported, is all held by one firm who have reduced their quotations to 13½c. to 13¾c. gold; the sale has been effected of 1,900 bales, half the cargo per Aza Eldridge; the terms were not made public. The stock of Manila on the 1st October was estimated at 7,730 bales, against 10.178 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 10,436 bales in 1868.

INDIGO.—The market for Manila continues steady, and sales have been effected of about 30 cases at $1.10 to 1.30 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $10.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1.50 to 2 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—Increased supplies of the new crop Carolina have caused the attention of buyers to be directed chiefly thereto, and the demand has fallen off for other kinds. Rangoon has sustained a further slight decline, sales being made of 900 bags (duty paid), at $6.75 to 7 currency, and 530 bags in bond at $3.30 down to 3.25 gold.

SPICES.—The market for invoices remains quiet, and we have only to notice the sale of 1,000 piculs Singapore Pepper, to arrive, on private terms. There continues a fair trade demand, and prices of most descriptions are steady. Cassia is very firm. Sales have been made, in lots, of Nutmegs, at 95c. to 102½c.; Mace, $1.30; Cassia, 48c. to 49c.; Cloves, 25½c.; Pepper, 26c.; do., in bond, 11c.

SUGAR.—The market continues quiet, and there have been no transactions in East India.

TIN.—There is an entire absence of inquiry for foreign; the nominal quotations are—Straits, 33c.; Banca, 36½c. to 36½c. gold.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS.

We are unable to report any improvement in the freight market, quotations being rather lower; berth freights still continue very dull; in coal from the Northern outports there is but little doing; the demand for tonnage to Hong Kong, which was last month rather brisk, has entirely ceased.

Current rates of freight for vessels on the berth: To Tientsin and Chefoo; 50s. weight or meast. To Yokohama: 40s. weight, 35s. meast.; per steamer, via Suez Canal, 90s. meast. To Shanghai: 35s. weight or meast.; per steamer, via Suez Canal, 70s. meast. To Hong Kong: 30s weight, 27s. 6d. meast.; per steamer, via Suez Canal, 70s. meast. To Batavia: 25s. weight, 30s. meast. To Singapore: 30s. weight, 25s. meast.; per steamer, via Suez Canal, 70s. meast. To Ceylon: 20s. weight, 17s. 6d.; per steamer, via Suez Canal, 60s. meast. At New York to China: $12 to $15 per ton of 40 cubic feet.

The current quotations for coal, &c., are as follows: From Wear or Tyne per keel—To Yokohama: £42. To Singapore: £26. For Galle: £26. From Newport, Cardiff, or Swansea per ton—For Yokohama: £2. For Hong Kong: £1 16s. For Java: 17s. 6d. For Singapore: £1 5s. For Galle: £1 3s. 6d. For Colombo: £1 3s.

CASUALTIES.

The Prinses Amelie, Driest, from Amsterdam to Yokohama, which put into Simon's Bay July 28, in distress, had repaired all damages, Sept. 19, and would proceed in a few days; part of the cargo was sold, Sept. 9, and a further sale would take place on the 20th.

The Glenaroy, Freebody, from Ceylon to London, arrived in the Downs, Oct. 29, with loss of main and mizen topmasts.

The following telegram, dated Etaples, Oct. 27, 1870, has been received by the Salvage Association, concerning the Shakspere, London to Shanghai, wrecked:—"Shakspere, hogged, will become total loss. Cargo will be saved if weather is not worse, but damaged. Work organised progressing favourably. No assistance wanted from England for the present." The vessel's back is broken, and she is hogged four feet on starboard side, and the decks have been burst up by the sea; all necessary steps will be taken for the protection of the property. The cargo, as it is saved, is being sent to Boulogne, and arrangements will be made for its shipment to London. There are no hopes of saving the ship.

The Imperator Alexander II., Dahlberg, bound to Galle, which put back to Liverpool Oct. 21, had lost sails.

ART
An Illustrated Magazine.

THIS publication was commenced on the 1st of July, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high-class monthly Magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. "ART" is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains Four or more Full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to "ART" are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, Jun., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE STANDARD.

Art Pictorial and Industrial has reached its fourth number, which is a decided improvement upon its predecessors. The "Portrait by Vandyck" is a marvellous facsimile of the original painting, and the interior of the Picture Gallery at Strawberry-Hill is, apparently, a most delicate and successful photograph. We say apparently, for the illustrations in this very handsomely got-up "monthly" are not photographs as they appear, but engravings. They possess all the clearness and delicacy of photographs, with the permanency of engravings. This desideratum, which has been so long desired and so frequently attempted, is the result of a new invention. It is called Heliotypy, and the process, which is at once simple and scientific, is fully explained in the present number. The literary portion of the work is worthy of the illustration, and the new magazine is at once most valuable to art students and art lovers, and an ornament to a drawing-room table.

SOUTH LONDON PRESS, Oct. 22.

Had Walter Savage Landor lived to see this publication, as well as another which may fairly be credited with having suggested the title of this, it may be doubted whether he would have said of himself—

"'Nature' I loved, and next to 'Nature' ART."

The chances are that he, as a scholar and man of taste, would have ranked Art first. It is a marvellous production. The number before us contains half-a-dozen superb illustrations, executed in a new process, by which photography is applied to book-work, and any one of these is worth the price of the entire number. The process by which these results is attained is called Heliotypy, and we have among the abundant letter-press given a most valuable paper by Mr. G. Wharton Simpson, the editor of the Photographic News, on this new development of photography.

THE EXAMINER.

In every way a creditable production. The letter-press, on toned paper, is an excellent specimen of typography, and is written with the taste and judgment suitable for such a periodical, while the illustrations are marked by a more than usual degree of refinement and delicacy. . . . The reader will find plenty worth notice in both text and illustrations.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, Oct. 8.

The new illustrated monthly magazine, entitled Art, has attained its fourth number, and promises well. The articles of which it is composed are of varied interest and by competent writers. The subjects treated generally relate to fine art proper, and in a less degree to "applied art" or art manufactures. A novel feature is the employment of Heliotypy for producing illustrations. By this process, which has been brought to perfection by Mr. Ernest Edwards, the product of the camera is rendered available for ordinary printing as rapidly as from a metal plate or stone. The advantages thus afforded for supplying swiftly, and therefore cheaply, facsimile reprodnctions of works of art are too obvious to require comment. A lucid account of the process is furnished by Mr. Wharton Simpson, one of our best authorities on photographic manipulation. The present number also contains well informed "Art-Notes," and "Gossip" on current events at home and abroad.

NOTES AND QUERIES, Aug. 27.

All who see in art one of the great agents for the moral improvement of the people, must welcome every endeavour to spread abroad such a knowledge of it as is furnished by this periodical, which is distinguished by various new and attractive features. . . . . Evidence of the variety and interest of the present illustrations will be best afforded by an enumeration of them. . . . . If this catalogue is not sufficient to tempt art lovers to look at the journal, and judge its merits for themselves, no recommendation of ours, however emphatically we may express ourselves, could have that effect.

PUBLIC OPINION, Sept. 3.

The idea of the projectors of this really beautiful publication is to form a valuable guide and text-book for the supporters of Popular Art in England. . . . . In the dozen exquisite illustrations which appear in the numbers for July and August, it will be seen how thoroughly the Editor has carried out his promise to present to the reader the finest subjects within his reach. We wish Art every success, which it could not fail to secure if merit alone commanded it.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates received by the Pacific mail are to Sept. 23. The P. and O. mail of July 29 arrived Sept. 14, and the French mail of Aug. 5 arrived on 22nd Sept.

We learn from the Japan Mail that the Japanese Government intend sending an officer to Hong Kong to inspect the gaol. There can be no doubt that the Japanese Commissioners will be much struck by the European system, which is so admirably carried out in Hong Kong. It remains to be seen whether the Japanese will think themselves justified in adopting a similar mode in their own prisons.

From Nee-e-gata we hear that the rice crop of the province of Echigo promises extremely well this year, and that great hopes are formed of the benefit likely to accrue therefrom, both to the foreign and native interests of that port. The prosperity of Nee-e-gata must depend on its rice trade; and the plains of Echigo, of which it forms the outlet, are the richest and most extensive rice lands in Japan.

Seven persons have lately been executed at Nee e gata for making false kinsatz. We can understand from this example why the Yedo Government hesitate to adopt the recommendation to mercy presented by the consular corps in favour of a Chinese and two Japanese in the recent forgery case at Yokohama.

We have already drawn attention to the Japanese proclamation of neutrality. The full text of the proclamation is now to hand. It consists of thirteen clauses, and is very clearly worded. It commences by ordering "all Japanese subjects, in consequence of the neutral attitude of Japan, to abstain from discussing the question on which side the right or wrong lies, not only in written documents, but in conversation." The strictest rules are laid down to give impartial supplies to the vessels belonging to either of the contending parties, and to prevent their engaging in or near the Japanese harbours; and Japanese subjects are prohibited from embarking goods on board any vessel engaged in hostilities. In order to enforce the observance of the regulations relating to foreigners, Japanese men-of-war are stationed at the following ports—two at Yokohama, three at Hiogo, three at Nagasaki, one at Hakodadi, and two at Shinagawa.

It is stated that the P. and O. steamer Delhi will take direct for Europe, through the Suez Canal, the first of the season's export of silkworm cards.

HIOGO AND OSAKA TRADE RETURNS.

The statistics of trade for the six months ending the 30th June, compiled by the Hiogo and Osaka Chamber of Commerce, present so remarkable an increase, both in exports and imports, when compared with the returns of the corresponding period last year, that we cannot but regard them as highly encouraging, notwithstanding the unquestionable fact that exceptional circumstances have exercised a very material influence on the development of the trade in both branches. For the half-year just closed the total value of imports, exclusive of treasure, was Mexican $4,803,534, against a total of $2,032,395 for the first half of last year—an increase of $2,771,139, or considerably more than double. The returns of the exports during the same periods, however, reveal a still greater proportionate increase. Leaving treasure out of the question, we find a total value of $2,149,711 for the first six months of 1870, against $551,820 for the first half of last year, or an increase very nearly fourfold. Among exports—which as they are least likely to fluctuate with exceptional circumstances, we will deal with first—the chief articles which show an increase are: silk, $681,295; tea, $274,802; camphor, $46,042; and copper, $278,270. The Hiogo News justly observes that, if the deficient harvest of last year has forced the natives to hurry forward their produce in order to exchange it for rice and peas, the near approach of famine may eventually prove to have been a blessing in disguise, by stimulating the production of articles which will always find a market, and generally show a handsome return to the producer. We have no doubt that our contemporary's views on this subject will be shared by all who are interested in the development of the ports which he represents. There can be no doubt that the enormous increase of the imports was due to the deficient crops; but the fact that the exports could be quadrupled in a single year of exceptional industry, while the imports were only required to be doubled in a year of exceptional scarcity, is testimony so conclusive as to the resources and prospects of Hiogo and Osaka that no comment could add to its force. From the returns before us it is evident that sustained industry, at the present rate of supply, will make the exports pay for the imports in years of average harvest. And, with an inexhaustible fund of exports, the demand for which is increasing beyond calculation, what more encouraging prospect can be shown by any community than is revealed here?

PEKING AND TIENTSIN.

The following is a literal translation of the memorial addressed by the various representatives of Foreign Governments in Peking to Prince Kung, after the perpetration of the massacre at Tientsin. It would be impossible to give any adequate idea of the vague, weak, and purposeless style of this document if it were abridged. It bears strong internal evidence of having been largely seasoned with euphuistic phraseology by the same authority who has so often tried to "make things pleasant" to the Home Government by telegraph.

Peking, June 24, 1870.

Monseigneur,—It is with the deepest grief and indignation that the undersigned representatives of foreign Governments accredited to China have learned the news of the atrocious crime which has been committed at Tientsin, at one of the very gates of the capital of the empire. The Consul of France, the missionaries, and the Sisters of Charity, as well as the French subjects residing at Tientsin, have been massacred, and their establishments burned. And according to the information, somewhat indefinite, it is true, which has reached Peking, it is to be feared that the fanatical populace may have gone to other excesses against the foreign residents of Tientsin.

The undersigned do not doubt that the Government of the Emperor, in its high wisdom, shares the general indignation felt at the atrocities committed, and is conscious of the grave responsibility which rests upon it, as well as of its duty to take the indispensable steps to prevent a repetition of acts which could not fail to seriously compromise the position of the Imperial Government with the whole world.

The events at Tientsin prove that foreigners are not sufficiently protected by the local authorities in China. It is therefore the interest of the Imperial Government itself to demonstrate, by unmistakable acts, its firm determination to assure, through the whole extent of chinese territory, the safety of the residents who are confided to its loyalty. If such a catastrophe can occur eighty miles from the capital of the Empire the undersigned cannot refrain from apprehending that, unless the guilty are promptly punished, new crimes will be perpetrated at places more distant from the capital, where the action of the central authority is still less efficacious. It is therefore indispensable that the world, in learning the news of this crime, should be informed at the same time that justice has been done, and that it may be reassured as to the lot of its citizens confided to the protection of China.

REHFUES, Ministre Plenipotentiare de Prusse.
F. F. LOW, Ministre P. des Etats Unis.
KINT DE ROODENBECK, Ministre P. de Belgique.
ADOLPO PATXOT, Ministre P. d'Espagne.
COMTE DE ROCHECHOUART, Chargé d'Affaires de France.
BUTZOW, Chargé d'Affaires de Russie.
T. F. WADE, Chargé d'Affaires de la Grande Bretagne.

A correspondent of the Shanghai Courier, writing from Tientsin on the 17th September, gives another version of the Imperial edict issued on the 11th August. He says:—"The two magistrates, i.e., the ex-Fu and the ex-Hsien, have been arrested, and are to be sent to Peking to-morrow, along with such other of the murderers as have been arrested during the month. This has come through foreign official channels, and is confirmed by the natives to-day. One of the rioters has committed suicide in prison. It is rumoured that some strong representations of Mr. Wade had the effect of rousing the Chinese Government to this unexpected state of activity. A rumour equally probable is that the Mahommedan rebellion is gaining strength and exciting fears for the safety of the existing Government. Ting, it is said, continues his arrests, and is very wroth at the supineness of the local officials. Many of them he has sent to scour the country in all directions for several hundred li, and in the meantime retains their wives and children in the yamen until their return."

I am without special news from Peking, but I hear it reported that the Tsung-li-yamen professes its willingness to give up the Fu and Hsien if Rochechouart will promise that nothing and no one else will be demanded of them. Mr. Low, it is reported, has told the Tung-chow missionaries that, since they have left their station, they had better all go home. If this is true it is full time that Mr. Low went home too; for, so far as can be seen or heard, a more useless man as minister could hardly be. Send us Ross Browne back to Peking again.

SHANGHAI.

The dates by this mail are to the 22nd Sept. The French mail of Aug. 5 arrived out on the 17th with telegrams to 17th Aug. Via Kiachta telegrams extended to Sept. 1.

The following summary is from the North China Herald of Sept. 22:—

There has been no local news of interest; everything is perfectly quiet in Shanghai. Any number of rumours gain currency among the people in regard to the course of affairs, but they are more or less vague, and not worth repeating.

A general parade of the S. V. C. is to be held to-morrow, and seamen and marines from the U.S. Benicia are to join in the display. It is hoped that the commanders of the English, French, and Russian men-of-war in harbour will also land some men on the occasion.

A correspondent writes:—"The literary examinations at Hangchow closed on the 16th of the present Chinese month, and the 10,000 candidates are now rapidly dispersing in peace. During the confinement in the hall of examination six of the scholars died. It is said their bodies were thrust out through a hole in the wall, and left to be cared for by friends, if there were any present. While the examination was in progress, the city was thronged with visitors, scholars, and soldiers. In several street chapels there was daily preaching by native ministers or foreign missionaries. The audiences were good, and invariably behaved with decorum. In the midst of so many unpleasant rumours and events, it is pleasant to see that, at one point of foreign residence, the critical moment, when so large a body of the turbulent anti-foreign element was collected, has passed without any disturbance. The walls around the Tartar portion of the city, which were destroyed by the Taipings, are being rebuilt; and it is said the city is again to be garrisoned."

We regret to have to record another attack on missionaries, though this time, fortunately, no life has been lost. A Chinese mob pulled down a Catholic Church at Wooching, on the Poyang Lake, on the 10th inst., and fears are entertained that they may extend their violence to Kiukiang and other mission establishments in the neighbourhood. The rioters were perfectly organised, as they were at Tientsin; for when they were on the point of setting fire to the adjacent buildings they were ordered to refrain, and obeyed. The houses of some converts were pulled down, and themselves maltreated. The Taoutai was appealed to, but uselessly. The case may be suggestive to those who ridicule "warnings," for it may be remembered that threatening placards were posted at Kiukiang on the 7th instant; and, a commencement having been made in the neighbourhood, the priests much fear that this threat also may be realised.

We have no very definite news from Tientsin, though reports have been rather thick. The Chinese believe, amongst other things, that the demand for Chên-kwo-Jui's head has been foregone, but that the French Chargé d'Affairs has demanded a sum of Tls. 2,000,000 compensation, about which there is likely to be difficulty. The French say, on the other hand, that this sum has been offered by Prince Kung. We think it will be a pity if the belief first expressed by the Chinese, that money would enter largely into the question, be confirmed; as large monetary exactions do not tend to raise the foreign character in the eyes of the Chinese. The case is too serious for money consideration other than the making good of losses. Punishment was what was needed, and punishment so marked as to be a guarantee for the future; and this is the main object that should be kept in view.

Be this as it may, we are reliably informed that the question of peace is by no means decided; that Prince Kung is inclined to accede to the French demands, and is anxious to maintain peace at all hazards, that the two Empresses support him, and are strongly opposed to any further trouble; but that Prince Kung's brother, the seventh prince, known as the Chi Ye, is bent on war, and is confident of being able to repel any attempts that the French may make. As this last personage holds a post equivalent to commander-in-chief of the whole Chinese army, and is very intimate with Chen-kwo-Jui, he may have very important influence on the course of affairs with foreigners, and the settlement of the pending negotiations. Chen-kwo-Jui has just been distributing pen, ink, and paper to the 20,000 students locked up in the Examination Hall at Peking at last dates, thus bidding for popularity amongst the literati. The murder of Ma-Hsin is talked of among the Chinese at Peking as being the result of his pro-foreign proclamations. We very much regret to hear that the Chinese mission to Paris is so far arranged that its members are preparing to start. We look upon any transfer of the negotiation from Tientsin to Europe as a fatal error; and trust that European Powers will refuse to recognise any such proposal. The greatest hope of peace is that Prince Kung will abandon his vacillating policy and make a firm stand; and if he can so far abandon Chinese finesse as to insist on carrying out at once his own views he has the power to put an end to the matter by accepting the French demands or a compromise.

The Courier reports that 15,000 Koreans have made their way from their own country into Russian territory. The Russian Government have fed as many as possible of the people, who have thus been thrown on their hospitality; but the Korean Government are greatly enraged at the emigration, and have, through the medium of some Chinese officials, demanded of the Russians that the refugees should be returned. The Russians, on the other hand, being very willing to retain the Koreans, have made a counter claim on the Korean Government for reimbursement of the cost of the food, &c., supplied to the poor people, and as this will probably be assessed at such a sum as will be beyond the power of the Korean Government conveniently to meet, the probability is that Russia has gained an accession of 15,000 good settlers to the maritime region of Eastern Siberia, which is at the same time a gain to civilisation.

The sale by auction of the fine steamer Tapangnyo, advertised for the 20th, did not take place, there not being an attendance of such bidders as to make a sale probable. The auction was therefore adjourned sine die.

The new flag-staff at the British Consulate, consisting of an iron base with wooden prolongation, was inaugurated in the presence of a company of the officers and men of H. M. S. Zebra and others; so that the British flag after a lengthened period of invisibility again waves over the picturesque Consulate Compound.

HONG KONG.

The advices from this port extend to the 29th Sept.; the outward mail, with dates from London to the 12th August, arrived out on the 19th Sept.

THE TYPHOON.

The China Mail gives a full account of the late Typhoon. The barometer became unsteady on Saturday (September 22nd), and the clouds were portentiously low and threatening. Notwithstanding these appearances, and consequent prophecies, several of the colonial yachts went out on their usual Sunday cruise. It was not until six o'clock that the wind assumed a forcible aspect; and even then the decline shown by the barometer was so gradual that it was believed by many that it was a false alarm after all. On Sunday morning the glass gradually fell; the wind (very light) holding steadily at W.N.W.; during the day the barometer fell nearly four-tenths, the weather being pleasant though the sky was overcast, the thermometer ranging from 82 deg. to 86 deg. About six P.M. it commenced to rain, and the wind gradually rose, veering from W.N.W. to N.W. During the night the glass fell gradually but surely, and about three A.M. on Monday it blew heavily in gusts, with much rain; the glass marking 29.40. At about seven A.M. the barometer was steady at 29.20, and even rose a little, but soon fell again, and the squalls increased in weight and strength. At ten A.M. the glass at Messrs. Falconer's, which is considered the standard in the colony, stood at 29.23, being 12-100s lower than during the height of the typhoon of '67. The sea rose rapidly, and the wind veered to N.E., from which quarter it blew steadily and heavily for some hours. The Praya wall gave way in several places, and the wharf on the Praya belonging to Wohang went by the board. The vessels in the harbour commenced dragging, and the Annamite steamer Dong Wue, the Delaware (just arrived from Singapore) and the Yesso were in dangerous proximity to each other for some time. At eleven the glass was still falling and stood (the standard) at 29.14, the wind increasing and drawing slightly to the eastward. As this was the lowest point ever marked by this glass before, in Hong Kong, matters assumed a serious aspect, business was generally suspended, and residents generally shut their houses and prepared for a typhoon. The sea broke heavily over the Praya, flooding the Chinese houses at the westward and covering with spray the European buildings on the Praya Central. As the tide ebbed the reflux meeting the wind got up a short but heavy sea. The Dong Wue dragged foul of the Delaware, jamming her smoke stack under the latter's bows and carrying it away; her bulwarks were badly stove and the two vessels remained in contact for some time; the precise amount of damage we have not as yet been able to ascertain. At about 1.45 the gale was at its height, the standard marking 29.10, and the other barometers 28.90; the wind blew fearfully, and the sea made a clean breach over the Praya from east to west. Messrs. Hook and Son's cargo-boats, which had been anchored off Pedder's Wharf, were in great jeopardy, and after losing their masts two of them were driven ashore, and landed on the wharf opposite Messrs. Russell and Co.'s. Many Chinese boats shared the same fate, and the Praya along its entire length was strewed with fragments of wreck and general debris. The barque Jane drifted down on to the Sin Nansing, but the latter having steam up easily eluded her, and took up a position on the other side of t harbour.

We regret to learn that the yacht Fairy was lost near Lowkewan, and a French sailor drowned, a French gentleman who was on board being saved by the Chinese. A junk containing some thirty or forty Chinese, mostly women, capsized just opposite Kowloong Rock, near Kowlong City. Mr. Beart with great gallantry and promptitude brought his yacht Zephyr to an anchor, and, by the use of life-buoys and other means, succeeded in saving all hands. The flagstaff at the peak snapped like a walking-stick. The scene from the Praya front looking seaward was most fearfully magnificent, the various craft tossing like cockle-shells upon the seething waters of the bay, and the blinding squalls driving in through the Lyeemoon as if in hot haste to increase the terrible tumult already visible all over the harbour. The Praya wall formed a sort of irregular fringe to the boiling mass of water; the spray in many instances went up sheer forty or fifty feet on the houses fronting the Praya.

From the direction of the wind it is presumed that the typhoon sprung into existence somewhere on the coast of Japan. Being of enormous calibre, and travelling very slowly, it made its way southward to the eastward of Formosa and entered the China Sea through the Bashee Channel. The course it was taking would have brought the centre nearly directly over Hong Kong, but it it is supposed that, impinging on Formosa, it passed to the eastward.

About three o'clock the squalls appeared to lose in violence; but the barometer still continued to fall. The lull was only the usual precursor of a change of wind, and indicated that the centre of the storm was in our immediate vicinity. About 4.30 the gale recommenced, the wind coming heavily and steadily from E.S.E.; the glass has (as we go to press) evidently reached its lowest point—marking 29 on Falconer's standard glass—and shows symptoms of a rise. The height of the gale, therefore, had yet to come. The Praya Wall, from Lane, Crawford and Co.'s to the extreme west, was a mass of ruins; in some places cavities have been eaten out to the depth of from four to eight feet. To the westward of the Harbour Master's Office great damage was done both on shore and afloat. The streets were strewn with tiles, and a large number of Chinchew and coasting junks piled upon the rocky beach outside the Bund. Mr. Hook's cargo boats rode out the gale hopefully in the earlier part of the day; but as the gale rose to its greatest height, masts were cut away, and at last they got adrift on the Bund. The scene at this stage was a most exciting one. A crowd of residents, a number of soldiers, and a few policemen had assembled opposite Messrs. Smith Archer's building to assist in getting ashore the crews of these unwieldy craft. The soldiers, police, and residents worked at this stage with a right good will, and were amply rewarded for their heavy drenching by the salvage of a goodly number of native men and women.

The trees near the German Club were dismembered, and others torn up by the roots. The Public Gardens were slightly damaged. The damage to the foreign shipping was inconsiderable, but the native craft suffered severely. The greater part of the damage done was between the P. and O. Godowns and the Gasworks, where the sunken and disabled craft are numerous. The loss of life, though considerable, bears a small proportion to the number of lives in actual jeopardy. The wrecks of Chinchew junks and Macao and Canton passage boats, many of them laden with valuable cargo, strewed the shore at the westward. Messrs. Hook and Sons lost seven cargo boats (six on this side and one at Kowloon) valued at about $9,000. The yacht Nemesis was so badly damaged that she is not considered worth repairing. The large guano lighter belonging to Mr. Tejerina was driven on the rocks opposite Ordnance yard, and badly damaged. The schooner Gavioto, belonging to same owners, was only saved from wreck by sacrificing her masts. The American ship Naples drove from her anchorage athwart the bows of the colonial steamer Victoria, carrying away the bowsprit of the latter, and doing her some other slight damage. The gunboat Bouncer dragged some distance, but brought up without damage. The steamer Fizz was in great danger, but was saved without injury. The screw of the Delaware fouled with the chain of the Dong Wue. The steamer Fire Dart reports that it blew terrifically at Macao. No damage was done to the European shipping, though considerable among the native craft. Several houses were blown down, and considerable anxiety felt. The Praya wall was slightly damaged and some trees torn up by the roots, but the amount of injury sustained is reported inconsiderable. Barometer 28.95. Fears were entertained that the diving apparatus hitherto in use at the Dunmail wreck had been entirely lost; but nearly everything was recovered. Mr. Norton lost his lifeboat, gig, dingy, and two large diving boats; but as the diving apparatus is almost complete, the work will not be long delayed. Indeed, as about $140,000 worth of cargo was saved, there only remain about 250 tons of lead, 20 tons of nail rod iron, and a few cases of copper to bring above water.

Among the most lamentable incidents of the typhoon is the wreck of the Siamese barque Walter. She seems to have been subjected to the full force of the hurricane. Her two chains were seen to part, and she drifted. The captain hoisted sail, in the hope of clearing the harbour, but the barque struck the shore opposite Green Island. Most of the crew jumped on to land; The captain and mate (both Englishmen), with five native sailors, remained with the vessel. Their hope of saving her was destroyed, for she drifted away from the shore and sunk. The captain and the remnant of the crew were saved, but the mate, whose name is not mentioned, was drowned.

During the efforts made by residents, soldiers, and police, on the afternoon of the 26th, to save life, many acts of daring were doubtless performed, mention of which may never reach the public ear. We may observe, however, that a party of gentlemen, headed apparently by Mr. Craig (of the Chartered Mercantile Bank), did signal service at West Point in saving a large number of natives from the shattered and sinking junks. At the Praya Central, where the successful efforts were made to save the occupants of Messrs. Hooks cargo boats, Mr. A. L. Turner (of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank) nearly lost his life while foremost among the rescuers. A heavy sea swept him down amongst the drifting wreck at Russell's Jetty, and it was not without difficulty he was recovered from the swaying debris. Later on, in the evening, great interest was excited by an attempt, or rather a series of attempts, to save two women from a sampan off Sassoon's Jetty. The little craft was perhaps a hundred yards or more from the shore, and five or six rockets had been fired with lines attached, but had fallen short on account of the heavy gusts of wind. A party of gentlemen—consisting of Messrs. A. M'Leod, J. M'Leod, George Glasse, and Edward Norton, with Mr. C. Eichel (of the Hong Kong Hotel) and another—manned a boat and essayed to go forth to the rescue of the poor women. They were beaten back in their gallant attempt, but the women were ultimately saved.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

Dates are down to Sept. 30. The rainfall was continuous and abundant, and advices from the province of Petchaburi describe the rainfall there as very favourable. The anticipated drought and the fears of a meagre rice crop have been dissipated. The usual inundations at the City of Ayuthia were taking place, and the Ayuthians and their contiguous neighbours confident of a splendid rice crop. The rice crops of all quarters in Siam are of the most encouraging nature.

His Siamese Majesty's birthday was commemorated with great pomp on the 21st September. He is universally admired and beloved. His Highness the P'usamret Rajakan Pendin, popularly styled the Regent, is his main prop, and stands before the world as the responsible man for all the acts of the Government. This pre-eminently distinguished statesman is unquestionably loyal to his King, and his Grace is the prime mover of the recent national demonstrations of sacred devotion to his Majesty. At his Grace's suggestions sprang the three nights illuminations, the salute of guns on the 21st at noon, and the ball at which the Foreign Consuls and other Europeans were invited.

Another set of entertaining amusements awaited the pleasure-loving people of Siam. The Sat had passed. This occurs on the 14th and 15th of the waning of the tenth month and the 1st of the eleventh. The people usually make sweetmeats and present them to their friends. This is also done at k'rut.

The awkwasa was approaching, when those who wish can retire from the priesthood, and the priests are at liberty to travel, and be absent from their own temple at night. On the day before, the day of, and the day after the full moons of the eleventh and twelfth Siamese months, there was to be the usual annual display of fireworks on the river, in front of the palaces of their Majesties the First and Second Kings. These occur on the 8th, 9th, and 10th of October, and the 6th, 7th, and 8th of November.

In the midst of the intense excitement to make the joyful demonstrations of the nation a success, in commemoration of H.M. the Supreme King's birthday, one accident only is reported. There was a conflagration within the enclosure of the Royal palace. One of the houses of one of the late King's wives was burned, and another caught fire. The loss was comparatively small, and the flames were rapidly extinguished.

The Siam Weekly Advertiser says:—In the later part of August the North German barques Fortuna and Engelbere, chartered in Singapore, arrived in this port, consigned to Messrs. Pickenpack, Thies and Co. Shortly after their arrival these two vessels, we learn, were re-chartered to some native merchants, by their consignees, and rice, sufficient to load both vessels, was purchased by the re-charterers from the consignees. This transaction happened previous to the receipt of the news of the Franco-Prussian War.

When the news arrived that war had been declared by France against Prussia, by the mutual consent of the consignees and the captain of each of these vessels, the original charter parties were cancelled, and this was done, our informant says, without any reference to the interests of the re-charterers, who, as might have been expected, objected, but, as it appears, without avail, to being thus deprived of their acquired rights to the use of the vessels, and to the loss of the prospective profit which they anticipated on the cargoes which they had purchased from the consignees. These being neutral cargoes were not liable to capture by the French men-of-war.

The re-charterers having acquired the right to use these vessels, was it just to deprive them of their lawful rights without their consent? If, in consequence of the Franco-Prussian war, the original charter parties of these two vessels were cancelled, are the re-charterers, being neutrals, not entitled to compensation for the loss entailed upon them by the cancelling of these original charter parties?—[Perhaps our Hamburg friends will enlighten us on this subject.—Ed. L. & C. T.]

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 7th October. The English mail of Aug. 26 arrived on the 26th Sept., and the French mail, with London letters to Sept. 2, arrived on the 2nd October.

We learn from the Straits Times that at the meeting of the Council, on the 30th August, the unofficial members of the Committee on Government House took exception to a paper which had been appended to their report without their consent, and at the meeting on the 27th September this paper was withdrawn. The paper objected to was Appendix D, which was printed with the report. This document appeared to fix the blame of charging some $4,500 of the bills for Government House to Repairs to Civil Buildings; but the Committee, while declining to affix the blame on any one in particular, remarked that the irregularity was committed openly, and "with the knowledge of every officer in any way responsible for the control, payment, or audit of the expenditure of the Public Works Department;" and their objection to affix "Appendix D" to their Report may be regarded as evidence of their doubt of its sincerity.

At the meeting on the 3rd Oct. a vote of $7,415.51, to cover the excess of cost of the building, was introduced by the Hon. W. R. Scott and passed; and we suppose the matter has now ended. Another matter of considerable local interest is the passage of the Pensions Bill into law, and the joint protest of the unofficial members against the distinctions drawn in it. These documents, we believe, go home by the present mail. We regret being unable to speak positively upon the terms of the protest, no copy of it having been inserted in the official Minutes of the Council, and the shorthand reports not having yet been published. But we believe one of the principal points objected to is that it debars those officers who continued in office after the transfer from the increased advantages afforded to those who have been appointed under the Colonial rule. The committee appointed to inquire into the Civil Establishments of the colony have concluded their inquiry, but their report has not yet been made public. As the Colonial Secretary, who was one of the committee, intends going home on leave shortly, we suppose the report will be forthcoming soon.

According to previous notice, the Hon. W. R. Scott moved a resolution "that in the opinion of this Council it is expedient that the convict establishment should not be removed from the settlements, and that transportation of a limited number of convicts from India or Ceylon under the rules now prevailing would be advantageous to the colony." This resolution is not inopportune, as we believe in a very short time the number of transmarine convicts here available for the public works will be very materially reduced. Expiry of the term of imprisonment, age, and death, are the causes at work; and as convict is believed to be cheaper than free labour, unless the number of convicts is reinforced the cost of the public works will be very materially increased. At the same meeting the Hon. Thomas Scott asked for certain returns concerning the steam launch Mata Mata. This launch is nominally a police boat, though it may be questioned if she has ever performed any effective police duty; and the returns asked for by the hon. member would have been interesting to the public, who have never been favoured with any information whatever regarding her. His Excellency the Governor, however, does not appear to think either the hon. member or the public entitled to know anything about it, for he replies that "he regrets he does not feel at liberty to furnish the returns in question," but "the hon. member can, on application at the Government offices, obtain any information that is possessed there respecting the Mata Mata." We may remark that this is not the first time an unofficial member has been curtly refused information.

The quiet that has prevailed for a long time among the Chinese population has at last ceased, and the turbulence that has in time past characterised their secret organisations has again disturbed the peace of the town. Owing to the vigilance of the police and the system of enrolling the head-men as special constables to preserve order, no serious outbreak has occurred, but the utmost watchfulness is necessary to prevent a deplorable riot. There are four very strong Chinese secret societies here, two of the strongest having endeavoured to provoke each other to a conflict, but their differences have, it is said, been amicably settled. The town was not to enjoy peace, however, for in a few days two other Kongsees quarrelled, and turned out in force, armed for a pitched battle; but the speedy arrival of the police and the arrest of some of the principal men caused them to disperse—not, however, before one man had received a serious stab, and blows had been struck on both sides. The head men were enrolled as special constables, and, after doing some very arduous police duty, decided to settle the quarrel.

A number of the European community have organised themselves into a fire brigade. This is a step in the right direction. The Government, too, has been appealed to by the Municipal Commissioners with regard to some sort of legislation on the subject, and the result has been the passage of a law empowering the Governor to appoint certain Fire Commissioners to take the direction of the crowd at fires, and giving these Commissioners certain powers and defining their duties.

There is little other news to summarise. The criminal session opened on the 4th October, before his Honour the Chief Justice, the calendar being a very light one, and there being no cases of importance.

NEW TARIFF OF DUTIES FOR THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

The Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs a copy of a Spanish decree establishing a new tariff of import and export duties to be levied in the Philippine Islands. Any person wishing to inspect this Tariff can do so on application at the (Commercial Department) Board of Trade, Whitehall-gardens. The following are the export duties imposed by the new tariff, the quantity being in each case 100 kilos; Hemp, 1 persate; Indigo, 4.75 persates; do. for dyeing purposes, 1 persate; White Rice, 25 cents; Sugar, 85 cents; Coffee, 1.50 persate; Dyewoods, 20 cents; other Woods 2 per cent. ad val.

We are glad to find that the interest in the passages of the China clippers has not altogether passed away. The Thermopylæ and Sir Lancelot have again been pitted against each other in the passage from Foochow. The Thermopylæ left Foochow on the 30th July, passed Anjer on the 28th Aug., and arrived in the Downs on the morning of the 11th instant—104 days. The Sir Lancelot left on the 2nd Aug., passed Anjer on the 4th Sept., and arrived in the Downs on the 12th—102 days; the passage from Anjer being done in sixty-nine days. These vessels made the passage last year in eighty-nine and ninety days.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—Nothing of special interest had occurred during the week. The market advices from the Northern and Riverine ports continued cheerless, while small Auction sales of damaged and mildewed goods were nearly sufficient for local wants. Plain Cottons had, however, changed hands to some extent, but in several instances at a decline on last quotations. Grey Shirtings: The great scarcity of 8¼ lbs. had enabled holders to obtain higher rates for this class of goods. The steamship Eldon, from England, arrived in harbour on September 19, and by the 21st nearly all her complement of 8¼ lbs. Shirtings, not previously sold to arrive, had been placed at Tls. 2.22 to 2.24 per piece for common chops; and ex the steamers and sailing vessels supposed to be close at hand, sales of the same weight had been made; but the demand had been chiefly for immediate delivery, and hence lower rates were offered and accepted for goods afloat. Dewhurst Eagles were in less favour than ordinary and cheaper chops. Still they had also improved in value, Tls. 2.28 per piece having been offered and refused for a small parcel of the best brand. 7 lbs. had been in fair request, but there was little or no change to note in their value. Heavy makes continued unsaleable. White Shirtings: A further reduction of fully 5 cands. per piece in the price of the most favourite makes has to be noted. For common and "lie" qualities there was no inquiry, and it was almost impossible to place them on any terms. T-Cloths: The market was in a deplorable state. Extensive sales had been made, and the commoner kinds had fairly maintained their position, but a marked decline in the value of Mexican cloths had been established. Quotations were nominal. Drills: Few sales of American had transpired, the demands of holders not quite suiting the ideas of purchasers, who had directed their attention almost exclusively to English and Dutch makes, a sufficiency of which they had been able to procure at about last mail's quotations. A fair demand for these latter still existed at the close. Jeans were being sold at very low rates. There was a good inquiry for them; but stock was heavy, and holders were pressing sales. Fancy Cottons generally continued dull of sale, and former quotations had been barely maintained. Woollens were in no better position; nor was there very much prospect of speedy improvement in the face of the excessive and unreasonable shipments from home. There was no improvement in any article of Woollen manufacture, while Long Ells, Spanish Stripes and Crapes were decidedly worse. Metals.—Iron: There had been a good demand for Nail Rods at about former rates. Lead was saleable only at low rates, say at about Tls. 4.35 for L.B. Coal: The Coal market continued to improve, and a fair demand existed for all descriptions, and with few arrivals stocks were rapidly decreasing. Cardiff: With no supplies coming forward, rates had advanced, and were quoted at Tls. 9.5.0 per ton from godown. English: No arrivals. American: Rates had advanced, and the Chinese were offering Tls. 9.2.5 per ton from ship.

HANKOW.—A large quantity of goods had been disposed of during the fortnight, but the bulk of the business had been at very unsatisfactory rates, and the market closed dull, prices being weak for all descriptions of manufactures. Grey Shirtings had been bought to a considerable extent, but an advance advised from Shanghai had only been partially responded to, and with holders pressing sales, the improvement had been almost lost; the market closed dull, at Tls. 1.70 to 1.75 for 7¼lbs., Tls. 2.17 to 2.24 for 8¼ lbs., and Tls. 2.35 to 2.50 per piece for 9¾ to 10 lbs. White Shirtings quoted 5 candareens per piece lower, with very little inquiry. T-Cloths: Dealers fully supplied; moderate sales at a further decline of 5 candareens per piece; re-sales of fine Mexican 7 lbs. at Tls. 1.50 to 1.52; sales also of 8 lbs., which cannot be quoted better than Tls. 1.80 for good. Drills: Large sales, but with heavy arrivals, prices had given way, and quotations were—Dutch, Tls. 2.85 to 2.95; English, Tls. 3 to 3.10; American, Tls. 3.25 to 3.30 per piece. Woollens and Worsteds: At very low rates dealers had been induced to make large purchases. Camlets quoted 2 to 3 mace lower, requirements being satisfied. Long Ells: Large forced sales, at a decline of 4 to 5 mace per piece; market weak, with a heavy stock on offer. Lastings: Only small sales reported. Spanish Stripes: Sales of these also pressed, and prices had given way. Metals: Lead showed a decline of 1 mace per picul, and weak at Tls. 4.40 to 4.50 per picul. Quicksilver: No sales; value, Tls. 54 per picul.

FOOCHOW.—The following sales were reported:—3,450 pieces, 7 lbs., T-Cloths, at $2.25 to 2.27½; and 500 pieces, 6 lbs., at $1.90.

HONG KONG.—Business had been fairly active, considerable sales being reported of T-Cloths, Shirtings, Fancy Cotton Goods and Woollen. Prices showed but little or no variation from the quotations current a fortnight previously. Cotton Yarn: Steady demand for all counts at quotations. Grey Shirtings: No business in 7 lbs. Sales of 8.4 lbs. mostly for short arrival, and a good demand continued for this weight. Heavy goods in moderate request. White Shirtings: Market continued much depressed, and only small sales could be effected. T-Cloths: Large business in 6 and 7 lbs., considerable supplies of which had been received from the North. Common qualities rather weaker, but quotations for best goods maintained. 36 inch in fair demand at a slight advance. Spotted Shirtings: Inquired for at quotations. Turkey Red: Fair demand for good assortments. Damasks: A small sale at a considerable advance. Velvets: Neglected. Drills: American, sales pressed at a further decline; English, small demand at quotations. Woollens: Spanish Stripes, demand somewhat improved, favourite chops saleable at a slight advance. Long Ells: Active demand, especially for Scarlet, at a considerable advance. Camlets: Market continued depressed. Lastings: Some business at a decline. Orleans: Small demand; market weak. Blankets: A few sales of 10 lb. goods. The market closed weak. Very little goods. Metals:—Iron—Nail Rod: Very little inquiry. Square Bar lower and weak. Lead: No speculation, and market quiet. Coals: Arrivals comprise one cargo, 1,200 tons, Welsh for consumers. There was a demand for Cardiff "to arrive" at $9 to 9.25, but no sellers. English Coals not wanted. Quotations:—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $115 to 125 per bale; Nos. 28 to 32, $127.50 to 132.50; Nos. 38 to 42, $140 to 150. Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs., $2.22½ to 2.27½ per piece; 8.4 lbs., $2.77½ to 2.82½; 9.12 to 10 lbs., $3.30 to 3.60. White Shirtings, $2.20 to 2.90; fine, $3.25 to 5.50; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, $1.60 to 1.67½; Mexicans, $1.75 to 1.85; 7 lbs., ordinary, $1.85 to 1.90; Mexicans, $2 to 2.30; 8 to 8.4 lbs., $2.40 to 2.60. Spotted Shirtings: White, $2.50 to 2.55; Dyed, $3.50 to 3.60. Turkey Red Shirtings, 3 lbs., $2.30 to 2.65. EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: A large business has again to be reported. The better teas purchased had been taken at rather firmer prices; the next grades (those possessing a little shade of cleanness or flavour), representing what is considered at home "good Common Congou," have been bought at (quality considered) nearly Tl. 1 advance. Trashy Shuntaams had in some cases been taken in barter at prices Tls. 2 over their values, taken on their own merits. A few purchases had been made, showing a really fair value; but the average business must be considered a worse one than that of the previous fortnight, the advance having come, as it usually does, not in a higher tael price paid, but in an inferior quality being purchased, without an adequate concession in price. The reported settlements showed an amount of irregularity, to be accounted for only by the produce having been bartered against opium and goods. Settlements for the fortnight, 35,500 chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 5,700 chests; Stock, 276 chops, or 85,000 packages. Quotations, (duty paid, exchange for credits, six months' sight, at 6s. per tael, and freight at £2 per ton):—Hohow, low to fair, Tls. 13½ to 19¼, equal to 9½d. to 1s. 1d.; Oonam, common to fair, Tls. 16 to 19½, equal to 11d. to 1s. 1½d.; Ningchow, common to fair, Tls. 17 to 19¾, equal to 11¾d. to 1s. 1½d.; Oopack, common to fair, Tls. 17½ to 22, equal to 1s. to 1s. 2¾d. Green: The inquiry had been less active, and the market for the grades below fine and finest was decidedly easier, as holders were willing to accept prices which would show a decline of quite Tl. 1 on last quotations. The common and fair descriptions were entirely neglected, and as these were in large stock, much lower prices than were demanded may be looked for. Fine to choice Teas were still exceedingly high, and some of the Teenkais settled showed an advance on the high rates paid at the opening of the market. Quotations were: Medium to fine Moyunes, Tls. 37 to 45½; Teenkais, Tls. 40 to 47. Settlements for the fortnight, 25,105 half-chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, nil; Stock, 88 chops, or 44,800 packages, of Fychow, Moyune and Teenkai Teas; Stock, 26 chops, or 13,600 packages, of Pingsuey and Shanghai-packed Teas.

HANKOW.—The following is Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co.'s Report, dated 17th September: There is no alteration to report in the position of our market. The Russian buyers still have it almost entirely in their own hands, and are apparently able to pay higher prices than other foreigners are willing to do. Arrivals from the country continue much on the same scale, and we have again to advise large shipments to Shanghai on native account. At present there are no signs of any falling off in supplies, and though Shanghai rates are much lower than those of last year, they are still remunerative enough to induce Teamen to send fresh orders into the country. The total export shows an increase over last year of two and a-half million pounds, and of this a much larger proportion has been sent away by natives than was the case last year. The increase is more than forty-eight thousand chests. Prices the last few days, if anything, show a slight decline. At the beginning of the fortnight, up to Tls. 14¾ was paid for good common Tea, latterly there have been no settlements over 14½, although there is no appreciable difference in quality. Some Shuntam Teas have been settled as low as Tls. 11½ to 11¼. At corresponding date last year this kind was quoted Tls. 16 to 16½, and Common to Fair Oopacks were realising Tls. 18 to 19. Notwithstanding so large a difference, prices still rule over latest London quotations. Settlements since 3rd inst. are:—5,700 chests at Tls. 13½ to 14¾; 1,200 chests at Tls. 11¼ to 11½. Shipments to Shanghai for sale on native account 20,652 chests, making a total of 238,784 chests.

FOOCHOW.—The transactions during the week had been on a smaller scale, which may be attributed to unfavourable advices from England, and a rise in exchange. The settlements had been 18,882 chests Congou and Souchong; arrivals, 14,583 chests. Congou: Buyers had shown a disinclination to continue purchases at previous rates, while the teamen were unwilling to submit to any reduction. Strong Teas at Tls. 12½ to 13½ had been most in favour. Flavoury Teas were rather dearer; some purchases of Ching-wo Teas at Tls. 16 to 18, showing an advance of 5 mace to 1 tael. Common Congou and the lower grades remained unaltered in value. The following were the current quotations, the cost at which Teas lay down in London being calculated at exchange of 4s. 6¼d., freight, £2: Dust and siftings, 6d. to 8d.; broken leaf to ordinary, 8½d. to 10½d.; fair to good common, 10¾d. to 11¾d.; flavoury to good flavoury, 1s. to 1s. 4d.; medium to finest—none on the market. Souchongs: A good demand, and prices generally showed an advance. Quotations: Common, 11½d. to 1s. 1½d.; medium, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5¾d. Oolongs: No further settlements made for America. Arrivals from the country, 5,739 half-chests, cargo Teas. Quotations: Nominal. Scented Teas: A small business done at former rates. Quotations: Common to fair, 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2d.; medium, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 4d. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements, 429 chests at Tls. 27 to 65.

CANTON.—Although the settlements reported during the fortnight had been rather limited, there had been considerable activity in the market. Prices paid for the medium to fine grades were slightly higher, while the commoner descriptions were neglected and showed no change in value. For Country Congous, holders asked considerably more than the London quotations for good common to fair blackish leaf Tea, and the principal stock consisted of these descriptions. For Canton-made Teas holders had been very firm for the few desirable parcels remaining in stock, and this had tended to restrict business. Two more chops of Country Congous had come to hand during the fortnight. Canton settlements from 10th to 24th September: Country Congous, Nil; Canton District Congous, Nil; Scented Orange Pekoe, 4,500 boxes, at Tls. 21 to 30; Scented Caper, 16,000 boxes, at Tls. 11½ to 26; Canton Greens: Gunpowder, 500 boxes, at Tls. 19 to 22; Young Hyson, Nil; Country Greens, no stock. Stocks: Country Congous, 8 chops or 3,950 chests; Canton District Congous, 1,000 boxes; Scented Orange Pekoe, 18,000 boxes; Scented Caper, 20,000 boxes; Gunpowder, 15,000 boxes; Imperial, 2,000 boxes; Young Hyson, 3,000 boxes.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The following report is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—We have to report settlements of about 1,300 bales during the fortnight, more than half of which is being sent forward on native account or in joint account with natives. The following are a few of the actual "bona fide" prices paid by foreigners; at what prices shipments are going forward on native account has not transpired. Koo-fong-sing Chop 3rd, Tls. 570 to 575, equal to 29s. 6s. to 29s. 9d.; Donkey, Tls. 550, equal to 28s. 6d.; King John, Tls. 560, equal to 29s.; Blue Flag, Tls. 510 to 515, equal to 26s. 6d. to 26s. 9d.; Gold Lion, Tls. 530, equal to 27s. 6d.; Red Peacock, Tls. 495, equal to 25s. 9d.; "Uke-fong" Elephant Chop, Tls. 490 to 495, equal to 25s. 6d. to 25s. 9d.; Green Elephant, Tls. 455, equal to 23s. 8d.; "Ching-yuen-sing's" Ting-how Kahing, Tls. 490, equal to 25s. 6d.; Gnan-ling, Tls. 455, equal to 23s. 8d.; Common Tsatlee, Tls. 435, equal to 22s. 8d.; Chin Cum, 3½; Taysaam, Tls. 390, equal to 20s. 5d.; Throwns, Tls. 450 to 480, equal to 23s. 5d. to 24s. 11d. These prices show a decline of 1s. 6d. to 2s. on Tsatlee's, and 1s. to 1s. 6d. on Kahing, since the 11th August, when the first news of war was received here. A large native speculator is reported to have entered the market and bought up through foreigners all the Chops and Red Peacocks at prices fully 5 taels over the above quotations. We refrain from giving our full price list as the market has been very irregular.

CANTON.—The intelligence to hand respecting the home markets was not considered by any means encouraging, and this, in connection with the war news, did not point to any immediate improvement even in the event of an early peace in Europe. Up to the closing date there had been no purchases, the Silk by the present mail having been settled during the previous fortnight. Prices were nominally weaker, and in the absence of business must decline, as stocks were steadily accumulating. For America and Bombay no business is reported. Stocks may be estimated at 150 bales Loonkongs, 500 bales Tsatlee reels, 60 bales Kowkongs, 300 bales Cumchucks, Lacklows, &c., and 600 bales of inferior descriptions.

Tin: Billiton, an auction of 6,000 piculs advertised for October 10.

SINGAPORE.—There was not much alteration to report in the Produce Market and business had been on a limited scale. Gambier was bought to a small extent in the early part of the fortnight at $2.92½ to 2.90, and then declined to $2.85, at which rate the bulk of the business had been done; towards the close the price had hardened, but no transactions were reported; the total amount contracted for had been about 1,200 tons. Tin had been in good demand, the price had advanced and the market was cleared at $30 to 30¼ per picul, the rate was higher at the close, owing to a demand for China. Black Pepper in some request, small supplies coming forward readily taken at full rates. White Pepper procurable only in very trifling lots. Pearl Sago further declined in value, moderate business done. Sago flour weaker, demand slack, supplies small. Tapioca without improvement, business limited at low rates. Bontyne Coffee in fair demand, a moderate business had transpired, price firmer, supplies of Bally offering, but no sales reported. Rice declined in value, business limited.

PENANG.—The Produce Market had been rather weakly supported with the principal articles of export, with the exception of Tin, which had come forward pretty freely. At the beginning of the fortnight a small quantity was purchased at $28.50 per picul, but the price has since steadily advanced to $29 per picul, but the price has since steadily advanced to $29 per picul, which is the last figure reported to have been paid. Black Pepper, East Coast and Acheen, rather scarce. The price had risen to $8.85 per picul, the closing figure; very little offering. White: Only one purchase reported, at $12 per picul. Mace had not been brisk. Some parcels of No. 1 taken at $78 and $82 per picul. Nutmegs had offered freely, but only one purchase had been made of 80 nuts per lb., at $58½ per picul. In other numbers no transactions registered. Hides had come forward very moderately, and had been taken at $8.75 and 8.90 per picul for Buffalo, picked, and at $12.75 and 12.80 for Cow, picked. Very little left on the market. Horns scarce, and arrivals taken at $9 per picul. Gutta Percha also scarce and parcels taken at $38 to 60 per picul according to quality. India Rubber offering at $45 per picul; but purchasers holding back for a lower figure. Cloves: Zanzibar, sold at $7½ per picul, but only to a small extent, no Penang offering. Cutch had been bought, in boxes, at $4.80 per picul, and latterly at $4.30 per picul. Market nearly cleared. Sugar had come forward and sales had been made. In Chinese manufacture nothing doing. Tapioca: No transactions to report. Flour: A sale of inferior at $2.75 per picul.

CASUALTIES.

The Medea, Ankringa, from Batavia to Rotterdam, with coffee, sugar, tea, &c., which put into Table Bay September 21, for repairs, had encountered a severe West gale September 4, off Cape Recife, during which she had thirty stanchions and part of bulwarks carried away by a heavy sea. A sale of the damaged cargo would be held October 5.

Advices from Port Elizabeth, dated Sept. 30, state that the Ellenborough, Robb, from Hong Kong to London with troops, had put into Simon's Bay for repairs, having sprung a leak during the voyage. (A shipping list from Cape Town states that this vessel put into Simon's Bay, Sept. 21, and proceeded Oct. 3, but makes no mention of her having received any damage.)

The Noordgeenaal, Tjebbes, from Amsterdam to Java, put into Rio de Janeiro Oct. 10, with damage to rudder.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

The Admiralty has determined to award pensions to the mothers and sisters of those officers who were lost in Her Majesty's ships Captain and Slaney, and who did not leave widows, provided such mothers and sisters were dependent on the officers who perished. Gratuities will also be awarded to the relatives of the men who did not leave widows, under similar conditions. The widows and children of the officers will be awarded the usual pensions, and the widows of the men the gratuities that are usually granted when officers and men are "drowned on duty."

A report has been spread that Captain Sherard Osborn had signified his intention of retiring from the naval service. To this we are enabled to offer a direct contradiction; Captain Osborn has no intention of retiring, and if the contrary had been the case, no notice need have been given until next year.

As was noticed in our last issue, a small detachment of troops—175 officers and men—will shortly proceed to Colombo. The troops at present stationed there are two batteries of the 2nd brigade Royal Artillery, the 73rd Regiment of Foot, and eight companies of the Ceylon Rifles, the total number of troops being 2,000.

Commander Thornagh Gurdon, whose letters on the subject of the policy of the present Government with regard to China affairs have brought him into prominent notice, has been, to the surprise of many, appointed to H.M.S. Valiant.

Major Grain, of the Royal Engineers, has been appointed Commanding Royal Engineer at Hong Kong, and will proceed to that station in January next.

The Ellenborough made a long passage to the Cape, and will not be in, probably, for a week or two.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR CHINA AND JAPAN.

A draft of infantry, about three hundred strong, is being made up to reinforce the 1st battalion of the 10th Regiment, now stationed in Japan, and for this purpose volunteering without limit has been opened in the depots of the 1st Battalion, 1st Royals, 38th Regiment, 79th Cameron Highlanders, and 104th Bengal Fusiliers. A detachment of the 75th Stirlingshire Regiment, now quartered at Raglan barracks, Devonport, consisting of Captain R. Wadeson, V.C., Lieutenant L. Phipson, Drum-Major Gibbs, two sergeants, and 96 rank and file, is to be held in readiness to proceed to head-quarters to join the service companies of the troops stationed at Hong Kong and Singapore.

The following is a list of the officers of the corvette Juno, which sailed last week with the detachment of marines for the China station:—Captain: J. K. E. Baird. Lieutenants: C. Johnstone, M. W. Abbott, R. C. Gorst. Naval Lieutenant: W. H. Adlam. Chaplain: Rev. Richard H. Donovan. Surgeon: D. Wilson. Paymaster: S. Parker. Chief Engineer: W. Donnison. Sub-Lieutenant: Geo. Izat. Do., supers. for disposal: B. J. S. O. Carter, C. T. Benwicke, F. Hutchinson, C. E. Morison. Naval Sub-Lieutenant: R. Leah. Assistant-Surgeon: J. H. Pemberthy, M.D. Assistant Paymasters: E. D. Lewis, A. Woodward. Engineers: A. Long, D. Storrar, J. Redgrave. Gunner, 2nd class: J. L. Wilson. Boatswain, 1st class: J. Beams. Carpenter, 2nd class: W. J. Cass. Midshipman: E. M. Archdall. Midshipmen supers.: W. A. L. G. Heriques, R. Hoggan. Clerk: E. N. Richmond.

The death is recorded of Mr. William Phillips, late of Messrs. Phillips, Shaw, and Lowther, shipowners and brokers. Mr. Phillips was a man of the highest integrity, and very much esteemed. He was a munificent donor to the "Royal Alfred" Aged Merchant Seamen's Institution and other charities.

The death is also announced of Mr. Thomas Thornton, of Lloyd's, and late of Old Swan Wharf, Upper Thames-street, the nephew of the late Mr. Richard Thornton. Mr. Thomas Thornton inherited a large portion of the fortune of his uncle, and, it is believed, leaves upwards of £1,500,000.

LITERATURE, SCIENCE, AND ART.

Four Hundred Millions; Chapters on China and the Chinese. By the Rev. A. E. Moule, Missionary at Ningpo. London: Seeley, Jackson, and Halliday.—This work is apparently the result of much careful study of Chinese character. It treats of the religions and the different languages of China compared with other countries, and presents a sketch of Chinese character based upon the proverbs and superstitions of the people. The author has evidently devoted great energy to the prosecution of missionary labour in the country, and the aim of the book is to urge its extension. The arguments that are brought forward upon this point contain much that is at variance with our own opinions on the subject; but to this we need not further allude, as no impression which may be held with regard to the advisability of extending mission work in China will deteriorate the value of the book as an addition to our knowledge of Chinese character. The engravings with which the pages are embellished are fac-similes taken from a Chinese book intited Shing yù seáng Reaè; or, an Illustrated Commentary on the Sacred Edict. They are well executed, and present the usual peculiarities of perspective and figure drawing which characterise the work of Chinese compared with Western artists.

The September number of the Chinese Recorder contains a valuable paper—"The Ideal Man of Confucius," by the Rev. Mr. A-hmore—and articles on Chinese drinking habits and Chinese oaths, which contain a good deal of information. "The Entrance to the Yia Territory" is interestingly continued by the Rev. A. Crolczyk, and the Rev. Mr. Edkins's "Vocabulary of the Miau Language" promises to be one of the most useful contributions to the magazine. Dr. Dudgeon continues his "Chinese Arts of Healing" with his usual clearness of explanation, and the remainder of the contents make up a number of more than usual interest. We cannot but regret, however, that the editor should have admitted Mr. George Phillips's "Protest against Dr. Bretschneider's Acrimonious Criticism" (sic). The space of the Recorder is too valuable to be devoted to the mutual disparagement of two gentlemen, both of whom are entitled to the respect of its subscribers.

MR. J. WHITE, M.P., ON THE BRINDISI ROUTE.—The senior member for Brighton delivered a lecture at the Town Hall on "The Kingdom of Italy," on the commencement of the winter session of the Brighton Liberal Registration Association. The chair was taken by the President of the Association, Mr. Charles Carpenter, who was supported on the platform by many of the principal members. After an eloquent description of recent fulfilment of the most cherished aspirations of a patriotic people after fifty years of wars, insurrections, and unceasing agitation, Mr. White said it was but right to add that, despite such an obstructive Government, Italy, relieved from the incubus of divided and foreign rule, had made astonishing progress during the last four years. Roads and railways were being pushed on vigorously—piers being made—harbours deepened, and made safer—and the Brindisi route might be expected soon to defy all competition as the easiest, quickest, and best way to reach India, China, and the Far East. Then the Alps were being pierced. The tunnel at Mont Cenis, seven and a-half miles in length, was expected to be finished early in 1872. Mr. White resumed his seat amidst loud applause, and a vote of thanks was unanimously passed, to which Mr. White bowed his thanks.

The following advertisement appears in The Times. We trust the enterprise of Mr. Tootal will be successful. "To Gas Manufacturers and Gas Machinists.—In Shanghai, China, the price of gas is $3 50c. per 1,000 feet, or equal to 15s. 2d. The price of coal is $6, or 26s. per ton. Any one who can supply a good article at a reasonable rate send particulars to J. Broodhurst Tootal, office of the North China Herald, Shanghai."

LORD GRANVILLE AT GUILDHALL.

AT the LORD MAYOR'S banquet to Ministers last Wednesday, the Foreign Secretary had the gratification of announcing that he had just received a telegram from Mr. WADE, dated Peking, October 26, stating that the Chinese Commissioner was then about to start for France, and that there was then no danger in the North of China. This, so far as it goes, is good news, but it would have been more satisfactory if Earl GRANVILLE had made so important a communication at a time and place when he might have been asked to explain the grounds on which he could reconcile Mr. WADE'S statement, that there was "no danger," with the fact that the Chinese were arming, and also wha course he intended to adopt with reference to the Chinese Commissioner, now on his way to France. That distracted country is not likely to be in any condition to treat, as the importance of the case demands, with the representative of China on his arrival; and much time, and a most valuable opportunity may be lost, if the Commissioner should take advantage of French confusion, to return home without accomplishing the object of his mission.

Whatever reliance may be placed on Mr. WADE'S assurance that there is no danger in the North of China, it is certain that no such feeling can be indulged in the South. The burning of the new chapel at Fatshan, reported in our last, was evidently something more than a mere menace to foreigners. Although no foreigner was attacked, and no foreigners' property destroyed, it can hardly be doubted that the Rev. Mr. CHALMERS, the only foreigner present at the consecration, owes the preservation of his life to his retirement from the scene immediately after the conclusion of the ceremony, and only just before the work of destruction was commenced. We trust that the circumstances of this outrage will be brought prominently before the Foreign Office by the London Missionary Society, of which body we believe Mr. CHALMERS is a member. Unless our treaties are to be regarded as mere nullities, it is clear that the work of the missionaries must be respected as well as their lives. In officiating at the consecration of the chapel at Fatshan, at the invitation of the native converts who had built it, Mr. CHALMERS and the Missionary Society acquired an interest in the sacred edifice quite as real as if they had contributed money instead of their services. We are authorised by treaty to proselytise, and it is idle to argue that this does not cover protection to converts as well as to missionaries.

IN the report which appeared in the London and China Telegraph of the 7th of February last of the proceedings before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in the case of "RODGER versus the Comptoir d'Escompte and the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China," it was stated that a special day would be fixed for arguing the question of interest. We understand that the Committee will hear the arguments on the 26th inst.

LAW AND JUSTICE IN THE FAR EAST.

THE interests involved in the libel case, SMITH v. SMITH, in the Court of Summary Jurisdiction, Hong Kong, were so important as to cause Mr. Justice BALL'S judgment to be anticipated with more than common anxiety by all whose experience in the Far East had taught them how much that is little comprehended by the outer world depended on his decision. Mr. BALL'S judgment came to hand by the last mail, and was reported in our last issue. Its effect was to mulct the defendant in a penalty of $250, "with the usual consequences—that is to say, costs." The result of a very careful perusal of the judgment in question, as reported in the Hong Kong Daily Press, is to confirm the truth of the oft-repeated axiom, that it is not for the public advantage that damages in any libel case should be assessed without a jury. Actions of this kind essentially demand the experience and the discretion of mercantile and professional men, mixing in the same society and sharing the same responsibilities as the litigants. These, and these alone, can fairly estimate the amount of pecuniary recompense due to a damaged reputation, and to these, and these alone, should be referred the task of repairing it. It is too much to expect of any judge—be his acumen ever so great and his impartiality ever so undoubted—to fix a money value on the disparagement, real or alleged, of the fair fame of a brother official. It is for this reason mainly that we regret that the plaintiff should have laid his damages at the precise sum ($500) which would bring his action under "summary jurisdiction." It is hardly necessary to remind our readers that Mr. SMITH, the plaintiff, is the Registrar-General of Hong Kong, and that Mr. SMITH, the defendant, is the publisher of the local Daily Press. It is primâ facie evident that, if so important an official as the plaintiff sustained any appreciable injury from the misrepresentations of so established a journal as our Hong Kong contemporary, $500 would be a sum wholly inadequate to compensate him for such an injury; and also that it would have been much more satisfactory to his feelings, and have contributed more to the well-being of the community in which both parties move, if the apparently nominal damages claimed had been expanded by a jury instead of being halved by a Judge. As it appears now, the upshot of the whole trial is an anti-climax. That a Registrar-General should value any damage to his official reputation at such a sum as $500 is a phenomenon only to be accounted for on the principle enunciated in the line—

"His wound is great because it is so small;"

and that a judge should feel compelled, after an exhaustive exposition of the law, to give judgment for only a moiety of that petty amount irresistibly recals the line with which the critic capped the poet—

"Then 'twould be greater if 'twere none at all!"

We are far from thinking that Mr. SMITH's (the plaintiff's) claim was limited to $500 for the sake of removing it from the appraisement of his fellow-citizens; and we are not disposed to cavil at Mr. BALL's judgment, although we cannot perceive that Mr. SMITH (the defendant) was actuated in his writings by any but the best motives in the public interest. Some of the expressions in the comments in the Daily Press may have been, to a certain extent, ill-judged; but there can be no doubt that the occasion was one in which the editor, writing on the information he received, felt bound to write energetically; and a simple disclaimer, or explanation, from Mr. SMITH (the defendant) would have set all right, and saved an exhibition which cannot but exercise an injurious influence on the prestige of European official society in Hong Kong.

CHINA TRADE REPORTS FOR 1869.

SECOND ARTICLE.

We now proceed to give a short analysis of the Reports of the Commissioners of Customs at the eleven Treaty Ports, in the order in which they appear. The returns from Shanghai are not yet published, Mr. Dick, the Commissioner at that port, having supplied, instead, the suggestions for the revision of the Customs, Tariff, and Trade Regulations, which we noticed in our last.

1. NEWCHWANG.—The report of Mr. Leeson shows that, though the total value of the trade during 1869 fell short of that in 1868 by nearly Tls. 700,000, it was greater than in 1866 and 1867, while the value of the export trade in 1869 was greater than in the previous year, or in 1866, and was not much exceeded by that during 1867. The total value of goods imported was Tls. 3,579,810, and of exports Tls. 5,820,249. The number of vessels entering this port in 1869 was 359, against 211 in 1868 and 327 in 1867, and of these 29 were steamers, while only 29 steamers arrived here in 1868. The import of opium was of an average character. The result of inquiries among the natives as to the cause of the increased importation of Cotton Piece Goods during the past year was the information that these goods are more largely used by the natives of Manchuria, and that hopes are entertained that the prohibition to barter goods at the half-yearly fair at the Corean frontier station will be withdrawn, though this may be a work of time. Nankeens are said to be taking the place of foreign cotton fabrics as a material for the long gowns generally worn by the Coreans. The importation of iron has very largely increased, and the bartering of imports for exports appears to have been largely resorted to in consequence of the high price of silver. The revenue amounted to Tls. 260,981 in 1869, against Tls. 215,849 in 1868, and Tls. 231.972 in 1867. Reports on the Manchurian coal-mines state that it resembles Cardiff coal, and is well suited for steam purposes. Its price is concealed by the natives.

2. CHEFOO.—Mr. Wright reports an unprosperous year's trade, which he attributes to the unusually high rate of silver, and the determination of the native merchants to restrict credit in consequence of the inferior quality of the Sycee remitted in payment of their bills. The total imports, which amounted to 7,015,095 in 1868, fell to 6,320,285 in 1869. The shipping is characterised by an increase of fifty in number, 598 vessels having entered, of which 228 were British, 162 North German, and 136 American. The revenue shows the small increase of Tls. 3,493.

3. HANKOW.—Mr. Hobson says that the season 1869 will long be remembered on account of the disastrous flood with which this port was visited. For more than three months there was hardly a house that was not afloat in the lower story, and the only means of communication was by boat. That so large a trade should have been done under such adverse circumstances is remarkable, but the native town is built on higher ground, and much godown room remained dry. The total imports were Tls. 16,273,223 in 1869, against Tls. 14,988,614 in the previous year, and Tls. 18,130,664 in 1867. The exports were Tls. 14,840,037 in 1869, against Tls. 15,481,567 in 1868. The shipping increased in number from 325 to 349, of which no less than 198 were American.

4. CHINKIANG.—Mr. Kopsch reports vigorous signs of the recovery of this port from the injuries inflicted by the Taipings. Of the ten years that have elapsed since the recapture of the city from the Taipings, only the last two can be said to have been free from rebels. The restoration of tranquillity in the interior, combined with the extension of the transit system, caused a demand for all sorts of imports unparalleled since 1865. The total value of the import trade increased from Tls. 3,656,863 in 1868 to Tls. 5,269,212 in 1869; and the consumption of Manchester goods has increased to such an extent as to entitle this port to rank as the fifth largest importer, Chefoo being the fourth. The exports are disappointing; the mainstay of the export trade—silk piece goods—showing an unaccountable diminution, which reduced the total exports from Tls. 441,919 in 1868 to Tls. 372,285 in 1869. But this port, in its palmiest days, was never distinguished for its exports; its chief importance was as an entrepot on the highway to the great centre of trade, Hankow, and the capital, Peking. The revenue increased from Tls. 38,636 to Tls. 55,957 in the course of last year.

5. NINGPO.—Mr. Bowra reports the trade of this port during the past year as having been favourably influenced by the prosperous condition of the province. The returns show an increase in every item. The revenue in 1869 exceeds that of 1868 by 90,000 taels. The total value of the trade in 1869 exceeds that of 1868 by 245,000 taels; Chinese imports show an increase of 242,000 taels; and exports show an increase in value of nearly two millions of taels. Tonnage and transit dues alone show a falling off; the first as an obvious consequence of the decrease in shipping caused by the fair average rice harvest of the year; and the latter as a natural result of the adoption by the provincial authorities of a more liberal tariff of charges on native-owned foreign goods carried inland. The decrease of tonnage dues is only 1,100 taels, and in the transit dues 5,400 taels.

6. FOOCHOW.—M. de Méritens reports the decline of the total trade from $31,263,722 in 1867 to $29,876,783 in 1868, and $26,783,469 in 1869. The market opened a month later, and at rates 25 per cent. lower than in 1868, and everything seemed to promise well for exporters, but the enormous stocks on hand exercised a ruinous influence on prices. Nevertheless, the foreign imports show $5,261,763 in 1869, against $5,203,587 in the previous year, and the foreign exports $17,368,750 in 1869, against $19,752,470 in 1868, which, in view of better times, is not discouraging. Grey shirtings maintain their position, and T Cloths have steadily advanced in their proportion the imports, so have camlets. The revenue shows a falling off from 1,819,100 Haikuau taels in 1868 to 1,776,303 in 1869; this is, however, better than the return for 1867, which was 1,712,429, and is therefore encouraging for the future prosperity of the port.

7. SWATOW.—Mr. Kleinwachter reports a continuance of the decrease of the total trade, which amounted in 1867 to Tls. 11,826,941, in 1868 to Tls. 8,527,507, and in 1869 to Tls. 8,392,911. Foreign imports have fallen in somewhat similar proportion. It was hoped that by equalising, i.e. raising, the amounts to be collected in the south to the same levied here—a return of the opium trade to its legitimate course through this port would have been brought about; but this idea has been dissipated by the sale of unstamped opium within ten miles of Swatow, without any attempt at prohibition from the Viceroy. A satisfactory increase is noted in the coast trade, though it is still only five-eighths of what it was in 1867. The exports continue to fall off. In 1867 they were Tls. 2,934,798; in 1868, Tls. 2,793,663; and in 1869, Tls. 2,496,660. The dues and duties collected have also fallen from Tls. 381,025 in 1868 to Tls. 351,510 in 1869.

8. CANTON.—Mr. Glover reports the total trade of this port as not differing materially from that of the previous year; but there is a falling off in the value of the imports of $1,500,000, and an increase of the same amount in the value of the exports. The duties reached Tls. 3,700 in excess of 1868. But, in making an estimate of the trade of this port, the fact must not be lost sight of that a large amount of the carrying trade is done by junks; and, while the returns of this office may show a decreased import or export of merchandise, the shipment may be as large, or even larger, than before, because the manifests never get beyond the native office. Canton has ceased to be the distributing port of the province, the facilities with which goods can be taken from Hong Kong direct to the large inland cities inducing the purchasers to seek that market instead of this. The supply of Indian cotton continues to decrease. The tonnage of sailing vessels entering this port last year was 6,800 tons more than in 1868, and the number of vessels was only increased by one.

9. TIENTSIN.—Mr. Hannen reports the largest amount of total trade since this port was opened in 1861, with the single exception of 1866; and for imports alone it is the largest yet returned. The total value of the trade for 1869 was Tls. 18,090,575. During 1866 the exports rose to Tls. 2,687,262, a much larger amount than they have reached before or since, and which, as far as can fairly be presumed, it will require some special cause (such as the one then in operation—an excessive export of cotton) to restore. The total value of the imports is estimated at Tls. 17,127,610, being Tls. 544,153 in excess of 1866, the year next in importance, though, during that year there were seventeen hundred chests more opium imported, representing a total value of Tls. 1,000,000. This has been made up during the past year by larger imports of cotton and woollen manufactures, metals, &c. The return of shipping shows an increase in the number of vessels and tonnage. The revenue has increased about Tls. 4,000 beyond that collected during 1868, and nearly the whole is under the heading of tonnage dues.

The trade of the year has, therefore, been satisfactory, there being but one branch, that of opium, which shows a falling off. The extent of country drawing its supplies through Tientsin varies but little from year to year, but the trade is affected by the crops, the disturbed or peaceful condition of the country, and other similar causes. Though the actual result of the year's trade has not been remunerative, the figures show favourably when taken in connection with the general advancement of the port. Though one year may disappoint, the merchant will find his compensation in the next. Very noticeable in the imports of Cotton manufactures is the rapid increase, since the conclusion of the war in America, in the trade in T-Cloths; the quantity in 1867 being half as much more as that in 1866; that in 1868 being four times the amount of 1867; and finally that in 1869 doubling 1868. The imports of woollens are very satisfactory, English camlets, and lastings showing the greatest increase. Exports are a very limited part of the trade of this port, but they also show an amount of Tls. 72,359.85 in 1869, against Tls. 53,122.72 in the previous year. The export of coal may become very important if the Chinese Government should, as is reported, be about to work the coal in the hills east of Tientsin, employing foreign machinery for the purpose. There has been a further increase in shipping of 335 vessels and 120,410 tons in 1869, against 299 vessels and 109,077 tons in the previous year. The greatest increase has been in the North German tonnage, which has reached a total of 26,788 tons, against 16,528 tons in 1868, while the British flag has lost ground to the extent of some 6,000 tons—a state of affairs connected with the shipping trade on the coast of China by no means confined to this port, and one which certainly merits the serious consideration of those interested.

10. KUIKIANG.—Mr. Drew reports that, though not equal to 1868, the past year furnishes an encouraging return. The trade shows nearly a million and a half of taels less than 1868; but considerably more than a million of this loss is owing to the diminished exportation of black tea, consequent on the inundation of the surrounding country, and the misfortunes of 1869 have only reduced its figures below the year preceding, while they are still in advance of 1867 and preceding years. The total trade was Tls. 9,703,899. Exports represent Tls. 6,546,886, and imports Tls. 3,157,013, of which Tls. 2,655,606 are foreign. For the most part of the year four large steamers per week call here from Shanghai with cargo, and the same number take cargo away to Shanghai.

11. TAMSUI, FORMOSA.—Mr. Taintor reports the satisfactory character of the general trade of these two ports. The consumption of imports is necessarily limited by the local demand, and the returns at present issued are only made up to the end of 1868. They are, however, sufficiently encouraging to show the success that would be sure to attend a few more years' development if we retain our hold upon the ports. The foreign imports were Tls. 472,153 in 1865, upwards of Tls. 600,000 in each of the two following years, and 1868 they reached Tls. 551,511, while the exports, which were Tls. 252,814 in 1866, and fell to Tls. 156,683 in 1867, amounted to no less than Tls. 308,834 in 1868. The revenue rose from Tls. 49,037 in 1867 to Tls. 69,347 in 1868; and the shipping showed an increase, in the same period, of from 141 to 222 vessels. Mr. Taintor gives some very interesting particulars concerning the two most important exports—coal and camphor. In the former the increase has been unprecedented, the export for 1868 having been nearly double that of 1867. In 1865 only 7,162 tons were exported; in 1866, 17,887 tons; in 1867, 12,860 tons; and in 1868, 25,392 tons. The duty charged on this item is most burdensome, amounting, as it did in 1868, to Tls. 17,000, or about two-fifths of the sum collected on the whole export trade. The introduction of foreign skill and enterprise in working the mines would enable the Formosa coal to compete favourably with Australian and Japanese; for labour is cheap and abundant, and the proximity of the mines to water communication might easily be made to reduce the cost of carriage. Camphor is at present the most important export from Tamsui, and this trade has been quite revolutionised by the break-up of the so-called Camphor monopoly, the export having jumped up from 5,070.99 piculs in 1867 to 14,440.88 in 1868, while the price has fallen from $16 per picul to the lowest limit, $7.80. The duty on camphor represents about 10 per cent. of the value. Among the present unproductive natural resources of Formosa are the sulphur pits, in which a mine of wealth lies undeveloped, awaiting the time when the Government will allow them to be worked for its own benefit by private persons anxious to do so.*

THE SUEZ CANAL NOT SAFE OVER TWENTY-ONE FEET.

Captain Steele, of the Erl King, has published a valuable account of his passage through the Suez Canal, which proves what we have always urged upon our readers—that it is not wise for any vessel to attempt to pass through the Canal drawing more than twenty-one feet. When Captain Steel passed through in July last there was much less than twenty-two feet water in various parts of the Canal, and his ship grounded about ten miles from Port Said. Captain Steele says: "Our draught was 21 feet 4 inches aft, 21 feet 2 inches forward. We never had this depth of water under the entire ship after we entered the Lake, but the mud was soft. The ship, whose deep-load line is, say, 24 feet, if only drawing or be lightened to 21 feet, is likely to pass through the Canal without a stumble as the Canal now is; but place the ship whose deep-load line is 21 feet an inch beyond that draught and she will stagger at the smallest impediment, and become perfectly ungovernable when her keel smells the mud." Here is the account of the exertions necessary to get the grounded vessel afloat again:—

At ten P.M. the tide had risen a few inches higher than it had been in the morning. Our heavy tow-ropes had been passed on board the tugs, and a third rope (8-inch Manila) made fast to a mooring-post on the Canal bank, leading from our starboard quarter. This was hove well taut with a double tackle. At a given signal the tugs started, the ship's engines at the same time going full speed astern. She did not move. A second attempt was equally fruitless; but in the third, with all hands racing with heavy tread fore and aft the decks she started afloat, and was moored against the starboard bank till morning.

On the following day engines were turned ahead and way gathered upon the Erl King; but, feeling the mud caused much hesitation under her helm, it (the helm) was steadied for a moment before we reached the light-vessel. From this onward, say 250 yards, she refused all helm, but gradually made way through the soft mud while the engines were kept going. Starboard helm being required, and refused, the engines were stopped, and with the engines the ship's way stopped. Judging from the buoys, the ship was in mid-channel. Sounding, however, gave 20 feet 6 inches on both sides, with 24 feet about five yards to port of us. The ship had been about fifteen minutes stationary when the Harbourmaster of Ismailia brought the Edmond again to our assistance. He soon afterwards brought anchors and warps, and laid double anchors far out on our port quarter. On these anchors we hove with powerful purchase, the tug at the same time towing on our port bow, and our own engine at intervals going full speed astern. The ship was dragged across many holes showing 22, 23, and 24 feet water; but at seven P.M., after a day of unending effort and great toil, with much damage to ropes, mooring bitts, and two stanchions, the Erl King was left for the night close to the light-vessel, still hung in the mud, but sufficiently under command to enable the tug to tow her into the Canal next morning.

It is of course impossible that such violent strains can be applied to any vessel without causing great injury, even though it may not be immediately perceived. Captain Steele's conclusion deserves the attentive perusal of every shipowner likely to use the new route:—

Here lie the head and front of the Suez Canal Company's offending. They aim at too much. Their prospectus before the public, showing a depth of nearly 26 feet water in the Canal—which should mean all parts of the Canal—they know to be untrue, and if they allow conditions to be made in London they have no intention of fulfilling at Port Said, they are very reprehensible. That the company intend the Canal to contain a depth of 26 feet water throughout its entire length is evidenced by the immense progress they have lately made between Suez and the Small Lake. This length of the Canal, formerly the worst, with the exception of a very short distance near Suez (but soon to be equal with the rest), has a depth of 24 feet at low water tide, rises from 4 feet to 6 feet, and, better still, the sides of the Canal are nearly precipitous. I hope the Company may see it their interest to do away with the shelving bank when deepening other portions of the Canal. In the meantime, while the Canal remains with nearly twenty miles of its central part with, say, 21 feet water, it will be well if the company's agents at Port Said or Suez apply greater discrimination in the immersion of vessels passing through the Canal.

OUR DANGERS IN CHINA.

The Globe says:—Lord Granville announced on the evening of the 9th inst. at Guildhall that he had received a telegram from our Minister at Peking, in which it was stated that there is no danger in the north of China, and that an Ambassador is starting for Europe. This announcement will be received with general satisfaction, although it is difficult to understand how, in the short interval which has elapsed since the arrival of Mr. Wade's last telegram, the neighbourhood of brigands and destitution of the people at Newchwang, which he therein stated formed sources of danger to foreigners residing at that place, have been suppressed. The Ambassador spoken of is probably Chung-How, who was Governor of Tientsin at the time of the massacre, but who has by common agreement been acquitted of all complicity with the authors of the riot. It is not easy to see what good his arrival in Europe can possibly effect, especially at this juncture. The utter futility of the Burlinghame mission is not an encouraging precedent, and we only trust that the advent of Chung-How may not be accompanied by similar outrages on foreigners to those which formed such unfortunate commentaries on the grandiloquent pacific speeches of his American predecessor.

The Pall Mall Gazette says:—If there be really any truth in the reports which reach us from China that there is a combination of Chinese authorities and people hostile to foreigners, and an organisation extending all down the coast for purposes of aggression, then obviously it would be a fatal error to stand inactive till the mischief is done. This would be to provoke a war, not to avert it—to make conflict and disaster inevitable which might have been prevented. Those among our statesmen here who most dread such a calamity, are apt to forget that two very opposite conditions equally conduce to the same end. The first is rashness and an overbearing meddling policy, by which even a nation like the Chinese may be lashed into fury. The second is supineness under menace of aggression; or the inability of those who are in authority on the spot, and know the danger, to take any timely steps to avert attack or a massacre. Of the two, the second condition is the most perilous perhaps. We are far from thinking that it does not behove us to guard against the first, both as a wrong to the Chinese and a danger to ourselves. But this may be best effected by enforcing responsibility of the gravest kind upon all authorities—civil, naval, or military—who may fail in judgment or discretion on occasions of instant emergency. Any deviation from such general instructions and standing orders as the Home Government may issue should be justified only by the clearest evidence of overruling necessity. And any failure in this respect should be promptly followed by public rebuke and dismissal. We venture to say the danger under such conditions would not be on the side of rashness. But no official, civil or naval, under such circumstances—having the judgment and courage which we assume to be the average qualifications of those placed in authority—would feel constrained to stand aloof, or waste his time in unavailing appeals to the Chinese authorities for aid while danger and death could plainly be seen approaching a whole community, as certainly was the case at Tientsin.

* We are glad to be able to supplement these returns by the information, through a private source, that the export of sugar, white and brown, has very largely increased during the present year. The total quantity of sugar exported from Formosa amounted to no less than 526,374 piculs, or about 31,000 tons—employing, of course, a proportionally increased tonnage.

The Rev. John Chalmers, writing from Canton on Sept. 16 says:—"The China question seems hardly to receive a thought in Europe just now, but the longer it is delayed the more serious it will become. I dare say you sometimes feel a little uneasy about the safety of your friends in this barbarous place. We are not afraid, however, in the meantime. Canton is far removed from the centre of the present hostile movement, and has had enough of foreign fighting; but there is every appearance of a complete clearing out of all foreigners from the north of China before they are frozen in for another winter. Indeed, report says they have already got notice from the Government to leave because they cannot be protected; and it is known that the American missionaries at Tangchow have sent an urgent request to their consul to be safely removed from their station by gunboat or otherwise. My own impression is that the Chinese have in view the overthrow of the Tartar dynasty as well as the expulsion of Europeans, and that for the accomplishment of this double object they—i.e., the leaders of this project—are prepared to drive the whole country into a state of anarchy and utter misery. They know that China cannot do anything against a European Power; but if there is no recognised Government in the country at all, of course we must be driven away by the lawless mob, and kept at bay by any new Government that may arise, till new treaties are demanded and obtained with more or less of force. I fancy the patriotic literati of China would be prepared to sacrifice everything for the hope of restoring their country to its old state of isolation. This is what they want—neither more nor less. It is not the missionaries, but all foreigners, be they ministers, missionaries, or merchants, that they want to get rid of."

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

Previous to the arrival of the J. R. Worcester business was very restricted. A few parcels of old black leaf were got off at about 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. The new imports, per above-named ship, have been eagerly competed for, and as a result very fair prices have been obtained. The vessel compares for mediums very fairly, but for fine her prices are not quite so good as have been paid for previous arrivals. Many of her Teas, however, are second crops, and must have cost less than the first. It is a singular fact that ex Danube nothing sold under 1s. 6d., ex Priam nothing under 1s. 7d., and J. R. Worcester (so far) nothing under 1s. 8d. The Kaisows, ex Thermopylæ, came to a good market.

SILK.

Since the departure of the mail the failure of the peace negotiations, and the subsequent sinister rumours as regards Russia, have caused a decidedly quieter market. Red Peacocks are said to have been sold at 26s. 3d., and there has been some demand for medium Tsatlees at 25s. to 25s. 6d. Deliveries of China, 1st to 12th inclusive, 1,126 bales.

COFFEE.

Extensive supplies of Plantation Ceylon have again been placed upon offer, but a good demand has continued to prevail, and a further advance of 1s. per cwt. has been established. The business in Native Ceylon has been less extensive, but the late advance is steadily maintained. In other East India kinds no transactions are reported.

SUGAR.

The quiet condition of the market which prevailed at the close of our last report continued until the 11th inst., when a better demand appeared for refining descriptions, and sales of good extent were effected at firm prices, which has continued to-day, and last week's quotations are fully supported. Penang: 3,810 bags have been sold by auction at fully the valuations, common soft brown (duty 4s.) 22s. to 23s., middling to fine brown (duties 4s. and 4s. 9d.) 24s. 6d. to 27s. 6d., soft grey and yellow (duty 4s. 9d.) 28s. to 29s. Manila: There have been no public auctions, and by private contract the sales have been moderate, but there has been a fair demand privately, chiefly for export; about 23,000 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) have been sold at 22s. 6d. to 23s., chiefly the latter price, also 4,000 bags unclayed Taal at 18s. 6d.

Cocoa-nut Oil.—Transactions have been unimportant; of 154 casks Ceylon offered a moderate part sold, pipes at £37 10s. to £37 15s., and hogsheads at £38 5s.

Cinnamon.—Of offers amounting to 237 bales Ceylon about 100 bales found buyers, good middling to good first sort at 2s. 10s. to 3s. 2s.; good second, 3s.; third, 2s. 9d.; fourth, 2s. 2d.; low coarse, 6d. to 9d.; spurious, 2d.; the remainder chiefly spurious bought in at 4d. to 6d. Chips: A large quantity, amounting to 1,683 bags, offered met but little demand, and only 500 bags sold; middling chips, 4d.; mostly coarse bark, 2d. to 2½d.

Cutch.—In auction of 1,000 boxes fair Fish mark Pegue offered 540 boxes sold at 19s. 6d., 240 boxes fine being bought in at 20s. Privately about 1,000 boxes fine have been sold at 20s. to 20s. 6d.

Camphor.—At the public sales 281 tubs Japan were bought in 70s. to 75s., and 240 cases China at 70s. to 75s; 70 tubs Japan have since been sold at 72s.

Galls.—There have been no transactions in China or Japan.

Gambier.—In auction 398 bales block were bought in at 16s. 3d., and 436 bales pressed Cubes at 17s. 3d.; since the sale 200 bales of the former have been sold at 15s. 10½d., being cheaper; also 200 bales of the pressed Cubes at 17s. 3d. For arrival 150 tons distant shipment have been sold at 15s. 10½d. all faults.

Isinglass.—At public sale, of 28 cases Penang, 18 cases sold—fair tongue, 3s. 9d.; ordinary to middling, 3s. 3d. to 3s. 6d.; leaf, 3s. 5d. to 3s. 11d.; 2 cases (734 lbs.) Singapore were bought in at 3s. 2d. to 3s. 9d.

Japan Wax.—The sale is reported of 66 cases saucers—good yellowish at 72s. to 72s. 6d., middling at 64s. 6d.

Pepper.—Black: Increased firmness has prevailed, and prices of Singapore are ½d. higher. Penang is also slightly dearer. Public sales amounting to 3,824 bags have been brought forward, of which 2,000 bags sold; 2,885 bags Penang were chiefly bought in at 5½d. to 5½d., only about 1,100 bags being sold, common at 5⅜d.; 273 bags Siam sold at 5½d. to 5½d. Privately about 1,250 bags Singapore have sold at 5⅝d. to 5⅝d., closing at the latter price for cash, and 1,500 bags Penang at 5½d. to 5 3-16thd.; for arrival 500 bags Penang have been sold at 5½d., and 700 bags Singapore distant at 5 7-16thd. White: In auction 602 bags Singapore all sold at 6½d. to 6¼d., chiefly 6⅜d.; sea-damaged fourth to first class 6½d. to 6⅜d.; of 109 bags Penang, 22 bags sold at 6½d. to 6⅜d. After the Public sales there was an active demand, which has since continued, and considerable quantities, say about 3,000 bags Singapore, have changed hands at advancing prices, commencing at 6½d., and closing at 6⅝d. cash, but at the close there is less activity, although the advance is maintained.

Preserves.—An offer of 500 cases China Ginger was bought in at 8½d., and 50 cases Comquats at 1s. 1d., 100 cases Comquats and Chow Chow of old import were withdrawn.

Rice.—Except for a rather better inquiry for Rangoon the demand is without improvement and sales are limited. In auction 3,383 bags sea damaged Rangoon sold, first class 9s. to 9s. 4½d., second 8s. 6d. to 8s. 9d., third and re-packed 8s. to 8s. 6d. Privately two landed cargoes of Rangoon have been sold, 9,000 bags per Cilminar at 9s. 6d. full prompt, 1,550 tons recently arrived per Pleiades at 9s. 1½d. quay terms. Afloat 300 tons new Soolie Ballam sold at 8s. 6d. to 8s. 7½d. quay terms.

Rhubarb.—Of 237 cases offered at the sales, 72 cases sold, fair at 3s., a few lots 3s. 3d., ordinary rough 8d. to 9d., very ordinary 6d.; 3 boxes trimmed were bought in at 10s. 6d.

Rags.—An offer of 577 bags Japan sold at £13 to £13 10s., chiefly at £13 5s., two lots at £11 15s. per ton.

Tin.—The demand has been very limited, with only small sales effected, and the market is easier. Straits has changed hands at £127 to £126, Banca at £126, and Billiton at £126 10s. to £125 10s.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REPORT.

Coffee.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1:—Central American, 3,741,132 lbs.; Hawaiian, 94,421 lbs.; Rio, 647,254 lbs.; Mocha, 1,945 lbs.; Manila, 6,500 lbs. Imports thus far in 1870 are nearly 3,000,000 lbs. less than same time in 1869. The market exhibits firmness. Although small sales of Costa Rica and Guatemala continue to be made at 20c., yet some importers refuse to sell at this rate. 700 bags Manila, ex Andreas, sold at 19c.; 500 bags Java at 24c.; the latter is now held at 24½c.

Cordage.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1:—9,002 coils, 2,886 packages, 33 bales. The San Francisco Company adhere to their rates of 18½c. to 20c. We have no sales of Manila to record.

Matting.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1:—282 bales, 3,826 rolls. Importers complain of a dull market. The trade is, however, well stocked, selling Chinese White and Checked at low prices.

Rice.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1:—China, 15,296,269 lbs. The demand runs altogether upon China at 6¾c. to 7¾c. The imports for nine months in 1869 were 27,000,000 lbs., against 15,650,000 lbs. thus far during the current year.

Sugar.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1: China, 1,175,070 lbs.; Manila, 3,237,304 lbs.; Batavia, 4,414,462 lbs. Imports for the first nine months of the current year, in round numbers, are 31,000,000 lbs. as against 49,000,000 lbs. same period last. There is no business to report in East India description.

Teas.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1: China, 681,449 lbs.; Japan, 1,611,976. Imports during the first nine months of the current year, approximate 2,300,000 lbs. showing an increase of 600,000 lbs. as compared with the same period last year, and is exclusive of the large amount received here in bond for transmission East by rail and otherwise. The market presents no features of interest. Stocks of Japans are liberal and prices as heretofore, say 65c. to 75c.

DISORDERED STOMACH, TORPID LIVER.—Under every roof these terrors sometimes dwell; the peer and pauper are alike obnoxious to them. If every household possessed these Digestive Pills, how much annoyance would be spared, how much irritation averted, how many quarrels escaped! A "disordered stomach doth the mind inflame." These Pills operate equally on every disturbed function, and do not confine their power to any particular organ; the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood, brain, and muscles alike derive wholesome tone from this alterative preparation, which is entirely free from mercury and every other noxious ingredient. Any member of a family, without regard to sex or age, delicacy or vigour, may therefore use these Pills with the greatest safety and utmost confidence.

Summary of News from the Far East.

YOKOHAMA.

An account of the affray between some of the crew of the Hertha and a party of the sailors of the French mail steamer Godavery was shut out of our last issue. The "belligerents" fought with bamboos, stones, &c., &c., some of the Prussian sailors had swords, but no serious wounds were received by either side. After thrashing each other for about half an hour, they separated, the Frenchmen going on board their vessel; the Prussians then commenced to assault Japanese, and to break and damage their property. On a native policeman remonstrating with them, one of the soldiers struck him a violent blow, whereupon the policeman drew his sword, and cut the sailor across the forehead, inflicting a very dangerous wound. Several Prussian officers, hearing of the disturbance, went to the place, where, after some difficulty, they got the men into order, and took them on board. The other party amused themselves by going to the house of M. Letailleur, who had two friends dining with him named Clataud and Barba. The sailors entered the house, and commenced to break the glasses, furniture, &c., and use insulting language, when M. Letailleur jumped up, and ran into his bedroom to get his revolver, which he brought into the room where the sailors were, and ordered them to leave his house, which they refused to do, upon which he fired three shots amongst them, wounding three men, but not badly. The Prussians then left the house, and went to the Café du Japon, where they tried to effect an entrance, but were refused Dr. Hoffman was called in to see the wounded; there was much confusion and disturbance going on at the time. Whilst he was attending the injured a revolver was fired, the bullet from which struck him on the forehead, grazing his right eyebrow. The doctor bled profusely, and his eye had a narrow escape; it was not discovered who fired the shot. By this time a picket had arrived from the Medusa, and all the men, wounded and otherwise, were taken on board.

The Governor of Kanagawa, with the object of repressing further disturbances, called out a detachment of Japanese troops, which for several hours patrolled the native town and Bund, but nothing farther occurred.

NAGASAKI.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

OCT. 1, 1870.

My last, dated 16th ultimo, was sent via San Francisco. On the 18th idem the British barque Lightfoot arrived from Shanghai, bringing the English mails of 17th June and 1st, 15th, and 29th July—93, 79, 65, and 51 days respectively—and on the 28th the P. and O. steamer Aden arrived from Yokohama, &c., with the French mails of 22nd July and 5th August—68 and 54 days from London.

The meeting of Glover and Co.'s creditors took place at H. B. Majesty's consulate on the 16th ult., and was adjourned until the 19th. The liabilities were stated to be $797,000 and assets $550,000, which shows a deficiency of $247,000, and this amount would no doubt be increased if the property belonging to the estate was forced off during the present depressed state of things. Mr. W. C. Korthals, on behalf of the Netherlands Trading Society (whose debt amounts to $339,000, covered by a mortgage on the Takasima coal mine), proposed that the mine should be worked for the benefit of the creditors, and as this was agreed to by them Mr. F. P. Tombrink was appointed trustee, and Messrs. J. Adrian, Samuel H. Church, and W. Robertson as a committee of inspection. Interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum is to be paid to the creditors on the amount of their debts, but the Netherlands Trading Society are to have a preferential claim for theirs. Any money required to work the mine and sink another shaft is to be advanced by the society, and will bear interest like their debt.

The above arrangement is generally considered to be the best one for all concerned, as it avoids a bankruptcy, which benefits no one.

A public meeting took place at H.B.M. Consulate on the 23rd ult., when the church and cemetery fund accounts were presented to the public by the hon. treasurer. The total debt is now $518.81, viz., church $471.92, and cemetery $46.89. In the report the above gentleman says: "The church, from the first, was a building of only very slight construction, and, although very extensive repairs were required last year, the flooring already gives warning that further expense will soon have to be incurred." He then desired, on behalf of the community, to return their best thanks to the Rev. Mr. Eason for the gratuitous service he had so kindly rendered since his arrival here, and to the Rev. Mr. Burnside for so willingly taking a part in the same. In order to pay off the above debt, a subscription list is now being sent round to the community, but the amounts at present are chiefly subscribed towards the cemetery fund by American, Portuguese, &c., residents. By a later opportunity I hope to be able to report a well-filled list, but fear that the hard times will prevent the total from becoming anything like it did in the "good old times."

On Thursday morning last a review took place on the bund here, when 500 men and two guns were landed from H.B.M. Ocean, accompanied by their band. The bund being very narrow there was not much room for display; however, the desired end was satisfactorily arrived at—the natives were pleased with it, and the men had the opportunity of stretching their legs a little. It is a great pity there is no flat ground of sufficient size anywhere near this settlement, or we might often see men-of-war crews on shore.

The following movements of war vessels have to be recorded during the interval:—H.B.M.S. Grasshopper left for Hiogo on the 18th ult.; French frigate Venus and aviso Linois, both from Shanghai, arrived on the 22nd, and left again on the next day for Hiogo and Yokohama. Remaining in port—British, Ocean and Salamis; Russian, Almaz and Heydamack.

The natives intend indulging in a three days' holiday, commencing to-morrow. In these festivals the natives squander their money in most frivolous things, and, strange to say, that, although they profess to have none to purchase things from foreigners, yet they find plenty on such occasions as these; where they get it from is a mystery to most people.

Great excitement prevails here, especially among the Germans, who seem to have almost taken leave of their senses on the telegrams reaching here announcing the capitulation of the French army, capture of the Emperor Napoleon, France declared to be a republic All the German merchant vessels in this harbour were decorated with flags yesterday in honour of the occasion.

Freights to London nominal; no vessels loading. The Alida remains here until the war is over. Exchange on London nominal. Nebus are slightly easier, the quotation being 409-410.

SHANGHAI.

Owing to the change of monsoon, the mail now brings us twelve days later, up to Oct. 4. The French mail of Aug. 19 arrived on the 4th Oct., and telegrams via Kiachta, reached to the 13th Sept. The American mail also arrived on the 4th, among her passengers being Mr. G. F. Seward, who resumes his post as U.S. Consul-General.

EXAMINATION OF MR. HARGREAVES.

The papers contain the report of the committal of Mr. W. Hargreaves, of Shanghai, on an information laid by Mr. M. M. Walker, the agent of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China, for having converted certain merchandise entrusted to him by the bank, and forming the security for advances of money made to Mr. R. F. Thorburn, to his own use. Mr. Rennie, who appeared for the bank, charged the defendant with having committed very grievous frauds on them. They alleged that these frauds were numerous, and extended over a considerable time, but they only proposed to bring forward two of them. These were brought forward under two sections of the Act 24 and 25 Vic., c 96, and formed, in fact, a charge of embezzlement of the property of the bank. The defendant had been for about three years managing the business of Mr. R. F. Thorburn, and had been signing his name under a power of attorney. On the 7th of August, 1869, the defendant obtained, from the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China, a loan of sixteen thousand taels to Mr. R. F. Thorburn. To show how this loan was obtained, he must go further back. It appeared that earlier in the year certain drafts had been drawn on Mr. Thorburn, from England, and had been purchased by the bank, part of the security being twenty cases of worsted crape lastings. These drafts fell due on the 7th of August, and on the 5th of that month the defendant went to the bank, and informed the manager that he wanted to retire them, and gave a check against his own private account for that purpose. This was immediately before the departure of the mail, but he said he should require a loan on the same goods, and said he would still leave with the bank the godown orders for these goods. He subsequently applied for and obtained a loan of Tls. 16,000, and on the 17th of August he wrote a letter to the bank giving the terms on which he held the goods—as agent in trust for the bank—which letter would be handed in. On June 29, 1869, a correspondence had also passed between the defendant and the bank, defining the terms on which he should hold goods for them for advances. The twenty cases of goods were, amongst other securities, deposited with Mr. Hargreaves for safe keeping. On the 24th of June, however, the defendant had sold and given godown orders for the delivery of six of these cases; and on the 23rd July he sold the remaining fourteen cases. This was done without the authority or knowledge of the bank, and the proceeds never came into their hands. The second charge was one which related to a loan obtained by Mr. Hargreaves on the 29th of July, 1869. This loan was obtained by Mr. Hargreaves on behalf of Mr. Thorburn. It was for Tls. 5,877 or thereabouts, and was obtained upon the security of ninety bales of goods then on their way to Shanghai. Of this fifty bales were Shirtings and forty T-Cloths. When the ship arrived, which she did about the 30th of August, the bills of lading were given to the defendant to enable him to clear, land, and warehouse the goods. In a letter dated the 30th September, the defendant wrote to the bank that this had been done. The goods were subsequently sold without the knowledge, and in opposition to the directions, of the bank, and the proceeds were not accounted for.

Mr. Harwood, who appeared for Mr. Hargreaves, said that the defence would be reserved, and his Honour (Mr. Jamieson) committed him for trial, accepting bail in two securities of £200 each, and his own recognisances for £400.

The following summary is from the North China Herald of Oct. 4:—

The aspect of affairs at Peking has undergone no apparent change, and everything depends on the turn of events there. If tardy justice is inflicted on the instigators and actors in the massacre, our relations elsewhere may remain undisturbed. But it seems almost hopeless that this will be done, after so long a delay, and in face of the preparations for war which are being everywhere made.

In view of the prevailing uncertainty, it is at any rate wise to provide against accident. Nothing can be lost by elaborating measures for the defence of the settlement in case of trouble arising, while the existence of preparation may go far to avert the danger. We publish elsewhere a report by the Defence Committee informing us what steps have been taken towards supplementing the individual efforts of members of the community; but we must confess that the results achieved are less than we could have hoped for in the three months which have elapsed since the volunteer corps was organised. We have already thanked the Committee for the Sniders they have purchased; and are glad to learn that two twelve-pounder howitzers are expected from Hong Kong; but these are insufficient for the strong artillery corps which has been formed, and at least two more guns should be procured. No reference is made to other defensive measures, which we hope the committee will lose no further time in adopting. As we have said before, it may prove that there is no immediate need for them; but the fact of their existence will, in itself, go far to obviate this need. The Council pay a well-deserved tribute to the efforts of the Volunteer corps to perfect themselves in their portion of the undertaking; and the members will gladly recognise, in turn, the aid which has been afforded. They will endorse the hope which we express, that the Council will endeavour still further to supplement their exertions.

The season for fires was inaugurated by one which broke out in a block of China houses, immediately beyond Messrs. Textor and Co.'s, at the Soochow Creek end of the Szechuen Road. The engines of the different companies came up with creditable speed, but had to run out long lengths of hose to enable them to reach water. Part of the force was posted at the creek side of the burning block, but from the low state of the water could not get into play till the rising tide flowed in, when the French company first opened on the fire. In a few minutes after No. 1 followed, with a fuller strength; while on the other side, after a short essay with a well close at hand, Nos. 4, 2, and 3 were ordered to work from the pond in the Church compound, the steamer Deluge being engaged in forcing the stream from that point to connect with the others, and so cover the great distance necessary to be passed to the fire. Meanwhile the Mi-ho-loongs, who, next to the police, were the first on duty, together with a party of men-of-war's men from the Zebra, under the command of the Hon. Capt. Denison, and volunteers from among the earlier spectators, tackled the burning building with hooks, ladders, and hatchets, keeping the fire back upon itself, and half smothering it in heaps of bricks battered from the walls. A number went to the buildings in the rear and almost adjoining, from most of which they were successful in warding off the fire; but in the corner angle, to which it had crossed, considerable damage was done before the continuity of the flames could be again interrupted. The inmates of threatened dwellings removed their effects with more regard for speed than safety, assisted by a few of the philanthropic fraternity of thieves. These last, however, were speedily in the hands of the police. The Volunteers who had turned out formed guard at either end of the scene of operations, from which they rigidly excluded non-combatants. The fire was extinguished a few minutes past two. Altogether about twenty two-storey houses were burnt down, mostly covered by an insurrance of Tls. 2,000 with the Hong Kong Fire Insurance Company.

A general S. V. C. parade took place, in which the marines and seamen of the United States steamer Benicia took part. Admiral Rodgers inspected the Brigade, which afterwards marched past a saluting post marked by the S. V. C. and the Admiral's flags. The band of the United States vessel Colorado led the march. Admiral Rodgers expressed himself pleased with the appearance and manœuvres of the volunteers, and his warm approval of a movement which has for its motto "defence not defiance." The Admiral believes, with Lord Palmerston, that nothing is so likely to prevent trouble as the show of preparation to meet it. He has gained much popularity by his frank association with a movement which H.B.M. Chargé d'Affaires is believed to discountenance; and we hope that other naval officers will follow the example set. After the review the Admiral and his officers dined at Messrs Olyphant and Co.'s, and a series of most enthusiastic speeches followed.

A correspondent writes that everything is quiet at Hangchow. The Chen-tai has gone to Nanking, because, it is said, his brother occupied such a position there that he would probably be held blamable for the death of Viceroy Ma, and has avoided disgrace by committing suicide. We do not, however, hear anything confirmatory of this rumour.

A correspondent writes from Ku-chow-fu, in the Chekeang province:—"Rumours of the wane of foreign influence have reached even this remote city. It is reported that all the foreign hongs in Shanghai are closed. Straws indicate the direction of the current. Evidently the people think the time when the 'barbarians' shall leave the Middle Flowery Kingdom is hastening on."

The last number of the Peking Gazette mentions Tseng-kwo-Fan's objection to return to Nanking. He pleads old age and sickness, and asks to be allowed to retire into private life. There is room for much speculation in this. Was the reappointment to Nanking an effort by Prince Kung to remove an obstructive, and does Tseng refuse to be put aside? Or is he only going through a formula, intending to go after all?

HONG KONG.

Dates by this mail, owing to the change of monsoon, extend to Oct. 11. The outward mail of Aug. 26th arrived on the 4th Oct.

According to the China Mail, the destruction of the chapel at Fatshan appears to have resulted in a more satisfactory arrangement than might have been anticipated. The mission chapel is to be rebuilt, the destroyed furniture replaced, and compensation in some additional form also awarded. The good offices of Mr. Consul Robertson have been engaged in bringing about this desirable result, which was easily arrived at through the recognition of its importance by the Chinese authorities. Some members of the foreign community took the opportunity of addressing a letter to Mr. Consul Robertson, explaining their apprehensions of the growing animosity towards foreigners, and requesting information as to what steps were likely to be taken for their security until Her Majesty's Government shall have concluded such arrangements as will restore confidence. Referring to the reports of fresh disturbances, Mr. Robertson wrote in reply:—"My own view is, and always has been, that the less notice taken of these reports, and the less action taken with reference to them, the better, for if the Chinese think we are getting nervous, it will be an inducement to them, either in a spirit of mischief or perhaps worse, to rush into that state of turbulence which is to be avoided." Mr. Robertson at the same time expressed his conviction that no overt act of hostility was intended towards foreigners in Canton.

In contrast to the above, we learn that intelligence has been received by the Formosa to the effect that a French gunboat was entering the Min as the steamer left, sent for at the instance of Baron de Meritens, to protect the lives and property of French residents at Foochow. This may be a step to countercheck the hostile movements which have been preparing for so long a period by the Chinese authorities. Viewed in connection with the alleged dismissal of M. Giquel, the action of the Baron de Meritens is significant.

The steamer Great Northern, the second of the three vessels engaged for the laying of the Great Northern Telegraph Company's cable between this port and Shanghai, arrived in this harbour on the 2nd October, bringing 250 nautical miles of the cable, and is fitted up with every appliance necessary for the successful laying of the line.

The annual meeting of the Canton Insurance Office was held on the 7th Oct. The balance-sheet showed a net profit for 1868 of $593,100, which had been distributed in two dividends amounting to $1,977 per share, with 25 per cent. on contributions. The year 1868 was an exceptionally good year. Accounts for Office 1869, however, had not yet been closed, and the general agents recommended at present a dividend of $750 per share. The receipts amounted to $837,095.56, and the estimated profits to date were $355,051.36. There were no total losses to account for, but several cases of general average were still unadjusted, and interest was still to accrue. The statement of accounts for Office 1870 showed a satisfactory increase in receipts. Mr. Ryrie proposed, and Mr. Heard seconded, that the report and accounts laid on the table be approved and passed, and that a dividend of $750 per share be at once declared on account of Office 1869. This was carried unanimously, as was a motion to wind up the affairs of Office 1869 finally as soon as practicable without calling a special meeting. A resolution was also carried, bearing out the chairman's suggestion, to continue Captain Rickett's retiring pension of $1,200 per annum, and Messrs. Gibb, Pike, Ryrie, Sassoon, and Heard were elected as the consulting committee for the next year.

The fifth ordinary meeting of the Union Insurance Society of Canton was held on the 30th Sept. From the report it appeared that, exclusive of a reserve of $250,000, a balance stood at credit of the Society, on the 30th of June last, of $221,329.17. This balance was absorbed as follows:—Dividend of $500 per share on 250 shares, equal to $125,000; for apportionment among contributions, $62,000; balance carried to current account, $32,329.17. The report was adopted, and the proposed dividend declared unanimously.

The steamer Kwangtung on her passage up encountered a heavy gale of wind between Amoy and Foochow, and after battling with it for over twenty four hours was compelled to anchor under the lee of the White Dogs. The barque Alice Thompson also parted both chains and drifted to sea outside the Lammocks, until she brought up on the mainland nearly opposite, but further to the southward of Double Island, and broke in two as soon as she struck. The officers and crew got safely on shore, with the exception of the chief officer, who is supposed to have been drowned. The shipwrecked men were treated with great inhumanity by the natives, who stripped them of everything they possessed and were driving them into the interior when they were rescued by the Chief Commissioner of Customs at Swatow.

We learn from Manila that Mr. Frank Fagg has been appointed captain-surveyor of Lloyd's there, in place of Captain Mars, who has filled that post for many years, and is now returning to his own country. Orders have been issued to build seven gunboats in these islands, four of them to be of thirty, and three of twenty-horse power. Three of them are to be built at the arsenal of Cavite, and the four others by private persons by contract. They are each to cost $16,000.

It is stated that the Tordenskjold was to leave on 12th Oct. to lay her section of the cable, and that the Great Northern will follow and take it up from where the former vessel leaves it.

We hear that Mr. Thomsett, who has for some years efficiently filled the office of Harbourmaster, intends leaving Hong Kong in April or May next, it is understood probably for good. His successor has not yet been appointed.

It is stated that the Chinese have dismissed Mons. Giquel and his French colleagues from the direction of the Arsenal at Foochow.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 19th October; the French mail, with London advices to the 16th Sept., was received on the 16th Oct.

The Legislative Council met on the 10th October, but only for formal business, and the sole occurrence of interest was the celebration of the 18th October, the birthday of the Crown Prince of Prussia. This was observed as a holiday by the German residents, a considerable party of whom assembled on board the North German barque Oskar Mooyer, to witness a regatta in honour of the day among the boats of the North German vessels in the harbour, and to partake of a repast provided for the occasion. The North German Consul stated, through the press, that the decorations at the flagstaffs and on board the various North German vessels in the harbour had no connection whatever with the course of the present war, but were solely in honour of the birthday of the Crown Prince of Prussia.

PENANG.

The Penang Argus gives currency to the following reports, the accuracy of which is, however, not vouched for:—

Colonel Anson has been entrusted with the re-organisation of the police force of the Straits Settlements. On the retirement from office of Mr. Cuppage, which will take place shortly, the vacancy will be filled up by the appointment of a gentleman from home; one of the cadets will act, if the Postmaster does not arrive in time to relieve Mr. Cuppage. Sir Harry Ord has been appointed Governor of Mauritius. Colonel Anson will act as Governor of the Straits Settlements being succeeded in Penang by Captain Shaw, from Malacca. Mr. Birch goes on leave for three months, and will leave for England by the next mail. The office of Sheriff in the three Settlements is to be abolished, the Registrar of the Supreme Court will do the duties. The appointment of Surveyor General is not deemed necessary, and the department is to be amalgamated with the Public Works. Mr. Owen, the Chief Magistrate of the Straits Settlements, is to be appointed Puisne Judge, his own appointment will not be filled up. The Court of Requests is to be placed under Sir William Hackett. The Assistant Master Attendant of Singapore has applied for his pension; his place will be filled up by Captain Bradbery, but the office will ultimately be abolished. The changes and retrenchments, as proposed by the Committee of Enquiry, will, it is said, cause a saving of $25,000 per annum in the expenditure of the Straits. Three cadets are expected from England shortly.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—There had been but little change in the market for Piece Goods. The demand for the light and medium weights of Grey Shirtings continued, but although the advices from Tientsin were better, and stocks were almost nil, prices here had not advanced, in fact a forced sale of "Taeping" Dewhurst's Eagles, 8¼ lbs., at Tls. 2.25 per piece for cash, showed a slight decline. The sale referred to, however, was exceptional, and cannot be taken as a criterion of the true state of the market; the same goods being still worth former quotations for ordinary delivery. White Shirtings were without change; but for T-Cloths a rather better feeling existed, and there were again buyers of fair to good Mexican 7 lbs., at Tls. 1.40 to 1.53 per piece, and of Common Chops at from 1.29 to 1.35 per piece. Drills were in improved demand at last quotations, viz., Tls. 1.97 to 3.02 per piece for good 15 lbs. English makes; but for Jeans the inquiry was faint, with anxious sellers. Fancy Cottons of all kinds were dull of sale, and it is difficult to give true quotations, excepting for Dyed Brocades and Spotted Shirtings, which were wanted at hardening rates. For Woollens, Metals, and other articles of Import, the market was very quiet, and last mail's values were barely maintained.

FOOCHOW.—Sales were reported of 5 pieces 7 lbs. T-Cloths at $2.20 160 pieces Scarlet Long Ells at $8, and 600 piculs Lead at $7.

SAIGON.—The previously heavy stocks had been increased by new arrivals from Europe, and, although a few lots of Grey Shirtings 8¼ lbs. had changed hands at slightly advanced prices, the demand was still very limited, and a considerable improvement was not likely before the new rice came in. White Irishes were unsaleable at $2, and light weights T-Cloth were much neglected. Quotations:—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.85; 7 lbs., $2.42 to 2.44; Grey T-Cloths, 4 lbs., $1.32; 4½ lbs., $1.42; 5 lbs., $1.53 to 1.54; White Irishes, $1.95.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: There had been a moderate amount of business since the despatch of last mail. Operations had again been to a considerable extent in barter, and prices on the whole had been maintained. At the close a quieter feeling was manifested; but it was said that more inquiry would shortly be shown, and that we shall hear of very considerable additions to settlements. Settlements and shipments, 29,000 chests; stock, 65,500 chests. Green: Transactions had been on a more moderate scale, and rates had ruled generally rather easier, except for the few choice and finest chops, which were still well competed for and brought high prices. In lower kinds there was but little inquiry, and prices were likely to go lower.

FOOCHOW.—During the interval an active business had been done in all descriptions of Tea, purchases having been made for England, America, Australia, and the Continent. The settlements of Congou and Souchong had been 24,203 chests, and of Oolong 2,237 half-chests. The arrivals had been small, amounting to 9,391 chests of Congou and Souchong, and 4,739 half-chests of Oolong. The total arrivals of Congou and Souchong showed a decrease of 110,266 chests as compared with those to the same time last year. Most of this deficit was only apparent, being caused by the retention of the Tea up-country, the producers holding the leaf for prices above the equivalent of the present rates here. The ultimate supply for the season would greatly depend on the prices which rule in this market. The crop of Oolong was estimated at not less than 180,000 half-chests. Congou: There had been a brisk demand for all grades, which had been readily met by the Teamen; and settlements had been freely made at former rates for all Teas under Tls. 14. For those above this price proportionately high rates had been obtained, owing to the scarcity of Tea with any pretention to flavour. More than half the purchases had been of this description, and some of them showed an advance of a tael. The following were the current quotations, the cost at which Teas lay down in London calculated at an exchange of 4s. 6¼d., and freight £2 per ton:—Dust and siftings, 6d. to 8d.; broken leaf to ordinary, 8½d. to 10½d.; fair to good common, 10¾d. to 11¾d.; flavoury to good flavoury, 1s. to 1s. 4½d.; medium to finest—none on the market. Souchongs: There was no change in the price of medium kinds. Common teas had, in some instances, been bought at a decline. Quotations: Common, 11½d. to 1s. 1½d.; medium, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 7d. Oolongs: Business for the United States had been resumed in these by the purchase of a chop of 2,237 half-chests at Tls. 29½ proportion, which makes the prices of the various grades the same as those previously given. Quotations: Common cargo, Tls. 17 to 20; fair to good cargo, Tls. 21 to 25; good cargo to superior, Tls. 26 to 29; superior to fine, Tls. 30 to 34; fine to finest, Tls. 35 to 45; choice to choicest, Tls. 48 to 52. Scented Teas: No transactions had taken place, the prices offered being insufficient to pay the teamen for the cost of production. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements had been 627 chests at Tls. 22.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—A dragging business had been transacted since the departure of the English mail, and settlements were estimated at fully 500 bales; of these, about 200 bales had been reported on Chinese account, including purchases for account of a speculative mandarin, and who was said to have paid Tls. 500 for Red Peacock, showing an advance of Tls. 10 per picul. The market was bare of chop Tsatlee, and the nominal quotation for classic 3 was Tls. 575 to 580 per picul. The unsold stock was estimated at 4,500 bales, chiefly common classes of silk. The market closed very firm.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

Messrs. Behre report as follows upon the Rice market:—Up to the end of September our market ruled with much dullness, the only transactions consisting in a few cargoes forwarded to China and Japan, and in several shipments made for owners' account to Bourbon and for Europe. Only of late, but as anticipated in our last, supplies of this year's grain, consisting, it appears, chiefly still of round rice, were freely brought forward, indeed so freely, that facing the news from the North, where the coming crops seem to cover entirely the ordinary requirements of local consumption, our prices were sufficiently affected to allow new transactions. Some 100,000 piculs round grain lately changed hands at $1.52½ to $1.48 per picul, and a gradual further decline being confidently expected, we may depend on reasonable prices for the balance of this year's stock, and so with for the opening of our new season. The coming crop is to be considered now not only safe, but even a very plentiful and early one. Our market closes very weak, at $1.45 for round grain, while long rice is worth $1.40 per picul.

The following is from Messrs. Kaltenbach, Engler, and Co.'s Report:—

RICE: Notwithstanding the weaker reports received per French mail under date of our last Circular from China and Japan, where the prospects for the new crop offer a very promising aspect, our last quotations, as will be seen by the purchases of about 25,000 piculs Vinlong afterwards effected at $1.57, and 11,000 piculs Gocong at $1.68 (chiefly for Mauritius, Bourbon, and Europe), have undergone no material change up to the end of last month. Shipments to Hong Kong have been effected on a moderate scale—to Yokohama two vessels only were despatched; and as stocks in China town were somewhat increasing, together with the continued unfavourable news from the North, Chinese were these last weeks offering freely at lower rates. There is no great difference in the quality of round and long grain now coming to market, and with a few cents more buyers generally gave the preference to the former grain. Considering the time of the year, the business done during the last fortnight is rather important, and amounted to about 80,000 piculs Gocong, at from $1.52½-48, and 4,000 piculs Vinlong, at $1.45½, all for European account. Our to-day's quotations are $1.47 Gocong, and $1.40 Vinlong, with downward tendency. The new crop promises to be a good one, and we may expect to see a few vessels laden with new rice as early as last season, say towards the end of next month. The monthly exports amount to 207,590 piculs. Paddy is getting scarce; quotations are $0.90 to $1 per picul.

FISH.—The season is over, the past month closing with the last considerable export for some time to come. The few small lots still coming to market will be reserved for local consumption. The exports for the month amount to about 4,000 piculs.

HIDES.—The export to Europe being rather difficult now, sellers had to accept somewhat lower rates, $8.50 for Buffalo, and $11.75 for Cow Hides.

HORNS.—Remain unchanged at $8.50 per picul.

COCOA NUT OIL.—Is rather scarce this season, which accounts for the higher prices. We quote to-day at $8 per picul.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET REPORT.

COFFEE.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 16:—Manila, 6,500 lbs., sacks 704. Importers are not anxious to part with their stocks. Manila is held at 19c.; O. G. Java, 24½c. There is no Ceylon or Rio in the market.

CHINA MATTING.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 16:—282 bales, 3,826 rolls. Importers complain of a dull market. The trade is, however, well stocked, selling Chinese White and Checked at low prices.

RICE.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 16:—China, 15,296,269 lbs. mats 20,743. The steamship Great Republic brought from Hong Kong 3,238 bags. The market continues strong for China with sales in lots of 3,500 mats at 6¾c. to 7¼c.

SPICES.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 16: 1,315 cases 1,142 packages. The market is dull for all kinds. We quote Cassia 42½c. to 45c.; Cloves, 30c. to 32½c.; Pepper, 27½c.

SUGAR.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 16: China, 1,175,070 lbs.; Manila, 3,237,304 lbs., 17,233 sacks; Batavia, 4,414,462 lbs. There have been no sales of East India kinds.

TEAS.—Imports from Jan. 1 to Oct. 16: China, 681,449 lbs., 800 packages; Japan, 1,611,976 lbs. Stocks are rapidly accumulating. The Great Republic brought for this market 9,371 packages from Yokohama, 1,669 packages from Hong Kong, and 894 packages from Shanghai; for New York, from Shanghai, 4,523 packages, and from Japan, 1,308 packages, &c. The jobbing demand is active, and the trade expanding, otherwise the market presents no new features. We quote Japans at 65c. to 85c.

THE PROFITS ON TEA.

(PRODUCE MARKETS REVIEW.)

Instead of reports of fabulous losses, rumours of equally fabulous profits realised are now discussed in the market, and we have at last, for the first time for many years, to regard the tea trade as in a thoroughly sound state. Many may think that the adversity of the importers formed the opportunity of the dealers, and no doubt there was some truth in the idea; but it was forgotten, on the other hand, that the dealers must always hold very large stocks, and that they lost severely from the continuous fall in value, caused by the glutted state of the market and the pressure to sell. It is a question, indeed, whether, except the public, any one benefited by the extreme depression caused by the incomprehensible policy pursued of late years by buyers in China. But it could not be to the ultimate interest, even of the public, that teas should be supplied to it at a loss on prime cost. The present condition of things is much more satisfactory, and if any excessive profits have been obtained by importers this year, they required them to make up for old losses, and competition will soon reduce them to a fair and remunerative level. We only hope that present prices will not turn the heads of buyers in China, and cause them, at the last moment, to revert to the old suicidal policy. With regard to the immediate prospects of the market, there will be large arrivals from the present time up to Christmas, and, as the demand from the retail dealers has already begun to slacken, considerable stocks must be held either by merchants or dealers; but as both classes are averse to holding heavy supplies for any length of time, there is certain to be a good deal of pressure to sell, and it is probable that for the next six weeks tea will be generally cheaper than at the beginning of the year, when the largest demand takes place.

CAPTURE OF THE "MOBIL," FROM CHINA.

The North German barque Mobil, 319 tons, Captain Berg, which was despatched from Hong Kong for Hamburg on the 18th June by Messrs. Bourjau, Hubener, and Co., has been captured in the Atlantic by a French frigate, and towed into Toulon. She had on board the following cargo:—10,119 packages tea, 2,000 cases cassia, 10 cases cassia siftings, 264 cases porcelain ware, 52,000 cases fire crackers, 1,069 cases preserves, and 259 cases sundries. A telegram has been received reporting the loss of the Blue Jacket, from Japan to Holland; we believe that this vessel actually sailed from Java, and not from any port in Japan.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

It is a source of remark and comment in the Royal Arsenal that there has been a perceptibly marked activity since the date of Prince Gortchakoff's despatch to Baron Brunnow, as indicating that the War Department took action as soon as the Russian repudiation of the Treaty of 1856 was known to the English Government. A number of additional hands have been taken on in the gun factories, whilst relays of men are working day and night in the artificers' shops, boring mills, and old and new forges of the Royal Arsenal. It is stated that orders have been issued to complete the armament of Malta and Gibraltar, to warn the Indian Government, to increase the complement of sailors, and to hasten the supply of breech-loaders to the Militia and Volunteers. A portion of the Channel Fleet has been ordered to join the Mediterranean squadron, and many more ships are to be put into commission. With regard to the supply of seamen which may be required to form the complement of these ships it may be remarked that the authorities have at their immediate disposal 3,800 Coast-guard men, all picked sailors, and for the most part practised gunners, and in addition 4,000 pensioners not yet past the prime of life, who are all physically able to embark at once. The Royal Naval Reserve, in which there are enrolled more than 16,000 men, is also available. These, of course, are not all at home, but a few thousands are at hand, and each day, by fresh arrivals from abroad, would add to the number.

The Duke of Cambridge, with a portion of his staff, will for the future transact business under the roof of the War-office, instead of at the Horse Guards, and will thus be in immediate attendance upon the Secretary of State. Much trouble and unnecessary delay will thereby be saved. It was understood last session, when Mr. Cardwell announced that the Government had resolved to place the two establishments of the War-office and the Horse Guards under one roof, that the Chief Commissioner of Works would be able to find a site for the new edifice; but that expectation has not been fulfilled. As the transfer of the entire personnel of the War-office to the Horse Guards, or vice versa, is a sheer impossibility, for lack of space, the arrangement that we now announce is the best compromise which can be effected.

Rear-Admiral Beauchamp Seymour, C.B., will hoist his flag on board Her Majesty's ship Narcissus on the 1st of December, and on the same day will be commissioned the Immortalité and Dido, both of which will form part of the new flying squadron. Admiral Seymour's first trip will not be a lengthened one—probably to the West Indies and back. Captain Sullivan, C.B., now in command of the Volage, will hoist his pendant on board the Immortalité, and will be succeeded in the Volage by Captain Michael Seymour. The Dido will be commissioned by Capt. W. H. Whyte.

The Sultan, 12, iron ship, armour-plated, 5,234 tons, 1,200-horse power, now lying in the Medway, off Chatham Dockyard, is making rapid progress towards completion, and is expected to leave Chatham for Portsmouth during next month. She will be sent so complete from Chatham that all which it is expected will be required to be done to her at Portsmouth will be such alterations as the trial trips may show to be advisable.

Several of our contemporaries have stated that the Martini-Henry rifle had been finally adopted by the War-office. This is incorrect. A committee is sitting, and is about to examine witnesses on the mechanical principles involved.

The Thistle, 4, double screw gun-vessel, Commander Lee t, arrived in Plymouth Sound on the 19th inst., en route for the Persian Gulf.

The Juno, with the detachment of marines for the China station, left Gibraltar on the 15th inst.

HAMBURG, Nov. 15.

There have been two or three more alarms of the arrival of a French fleet off the coast, but like the boy in the fable, it has been cried now so often that the wolf is coming, that nobody believes it any more. The Governor-General of the coast district has done all that he could do for the safety of the country; the lighthouses are now left dark all night, the pilots no longer cruise before the mouths of the rivers, the beacons and buoys are removed, reinforcements have been sent down to the spots most exposed to hostile invasion, and the Coast Volunteers are again embodied and ordered out for duty. Notwithstanding all these precautions, German vessels pass in and out of the Elbe, mostly without molestation or seeing anything of the French squadron, though a few galliots and other small craft have fallen into the hands of the Philistines, and been set on fire or turned adrift as not valuable enough to man with a prize crew, and send to France for adjudication. The latest accounts state that six ships of war were seen yesterday cruising to the west of Heligoland. The middle of November is by no means the most favourable time of the year for a naval promenade in the North Sea, with its long dark nights, thick fogs, and frequent storms; and the ships are therefore exposed to greater dangers than they would have to encounter in more genial climes and at a more favourable season.

Though there are but few people in Germany who are not to a certain extent losers by the war, and consequently more or less interested in the termination of hostilities, the national feeling of indignation at being provoked into a war for which there was not only no cause, but not even an excuse on the part of France, is so intense that it would be extremely dangerous to bring it to a close without the satisfaction of dictating the terms of peace at Paris, and retaining possession of the originally German provinces of Alsace and Lorraine. This feeling is so general that, though there is no doubt that much distress prevails among the poorer classes at the absence of their bread-winners, no complaints are heard, and it is quite touching to see the equanimity and patience with which they bear their trials, and the Christian fortitude that still cheers up their spirits under their troubles and misfortunes, which they feel would be a hundred-fold worse if the tables had been turned and by the fortune of war Germany inundated by a French invasion. Another characteristic of the German idiosyncracy is the perfect confidence the soldiers repose in their officers and the spirit of discipline that makes them unhesitatingly obey orders though they cannot understand the object, which perhaps becomes only apparent after the lapse of a long period. This was forcibly illustrated to me in a conversation I had a day or two ago with a young Hamburg gentleman of good family—in fact a distant connection of mine by marriage—who had the misfortune to be severely wounded in one of the late sorties from Paris, and, as a special favour, has been allowed to be removed from the military hospital and live with his parents till cured and able to rejoin his regiment. In relating to me his adventures at Sedan, he stated that just as the battle commenced and they were hoping to be soon in the very thickest of the mêlee, an aide-de-camp came galloping up with an order to the colonel to march the regiment immediately away up to the north of Sedan for about three miles, and there await further instructions what to do. Of course they obeyed, but wondered not a little what was the object of the manœuvre; but it soon became apparent, when, shortly after their arrival at the spot indicated, they were brigaded with some other regiments they found there, and then all crossed the Meuse, doubling back on Sedan, and thus cut off the retreat of MacMahon and his army, should they have attempted to escape across the Belgian frontier.

When the intelligence arrived of negotiations for an armistice on the proposal of England, it cannot be denied that it made an unfavourable impression, which was still further increased when it transpired that Count Bismark had actually agreed to offer the French a truce of twenty-eight days, to give them time to hold their general elections for a National Constitutional Assembly. This feeling was particularly apparent at Berlin, where it was feared the army, after all the losses they have suffered and hardships and privations they have endured without a murmur, would after all be cheated out of that crowning satisfaction to which they had been looking forward for months as the one great object of the war,—their entry into Paris as conquerors, and witnessing the humiliation of their vanquished enemy, who had commenced the war on such frivolous pretexts. It required all the eloquence of the official and semi-official press to pour the needful quantity of oil on the troubled waters, calm public opinion, and silence the grumbling that had now become loud and general. Under these circumstances your readers will readily understand that it was a great relief when the telegram arrived announcing officially that the negotiations had been definitively broken off by the French authorities. It was as if a great incubus had been lifted off men's minds, there were even rejoicings on the occasion, and public expression was given to the hope that the neutral Powers would not feel inclined again to put their fingers in the pie, but having scalded them a little by their badly-timed and useless interference, they would now leave the belligerents to fight it out to the end and make their own arrangements about the terms of peace.

With regard to the reconstruction of Germany by the addition of the South German States to the North German Confederation, the negotiations have been carried on at the King of Prussia's headquarters at Versailles, plenipotentiaries having gone there to confer with Count Bismark on the subject. Wurtemberg, Baden, and Hesse-Darmstadt have made no difficulty about it, but immediately expressed their readiness to join unconditionally and be admitted to the Confederation on the same terms as the Northern States that now compose it. But there is a hitch in the completion of the work, as the youthful King of Bavaria objects to surrender his independence and sovereign rights of autonomy, though his Prime Minister, Count Bray, and Herr von Lutz, the Minister for Justice, have spent some time at Versailles, endeavouring to smoothe away the difficulties, and have returned to Munich without having achieved much success as yet. The King is averse to place his army under the unconditional orders and authority of the King of Prussia, to renounce his right of appointing his own diplomatic representatives at foreign Courts, to alter the laws now in force in Bavaria, and finally to pay anything towards the maintenance and extension of the German Navy and naval arsenals. As he is known to be rather stubborn and have a strong will of his own it will require the exertion of all the tact and diplomacy of Count Bismark to talk over the young King by arguments or cause him to alter his demands by the offer of an equivalent in some other shape.

COMMERCIAL.

Business, which since the raising of the blockade of the German rivers had become pretty animated, has now been thrown back again for fear of a visit from the French, and most articles of produce are dull and neglected, the prices exhibiting a downward tendency. Among the transactions recorded were, however, 7,000 kranjangs of brown Batavia sugar in loco. at 11 mks. bco., and 15,400 mats of clayed Manila at 14 3-16 to 15⅛ for delivery. The sales of tea consisted only of 119-4 chests congou and 279-4 do. Souchong at former prices. Cassia Lignea is scarce and rising. Pepper is again higher, 6⅛ sch. bco. having been paid for Singapore, and 5⅛ to 5 11-16 for Penang. Nothing has been done in rice or spelter.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 9.

My statements respecting the Ministerial crisis have been confirmed, Mr. van Bosse having made the following statement in the First and Second Chambers:—"The Government is of opinion that it must make use of the occasion to communicate to the Chamber the position of the Ministry. Some days ago the Minister for Foreign Affairs asked H.M. to release him from his duties; at the same time the Minister of the Colonial Department has, in obedience to the advice of his physician, addressed the same request to the King; a few days later the Ministers of the Departments of Justice and War were of opinion that they also ought to ask for their release. The three remaining Ministers have thought it their duty to draw the attention of H.M. to these facts, in order that he might consider what in the interests of the country ought to be done; consequently they also have placed their portfolios at the disposal of the Crown. Until the King pronounces his decision, the Ministers will continue to retain their posts, and to fulfil their obligations towards the Chamber, from which they cannot withdraw themselves." These resolutions of the Ministers create but very little regret; the general conviction is that they are quite worn out; even the Liberal papers speak of them in a contemptuous tone. The question, however, remains: who will be their successors? Both amongst the Conservatives and Liberals we have so very few able statesmen that it seems almost impossible to make a selection; consequently the greatest uncertainty prevails about the future Cabinet. Rumours say that Messrs. van Bosse and Fock will be charged with the task of reconstructing the Cabinet, but I do not think that this is true. They cannot find men who would care to accept a Ministerial fauteuil under them except men of half-measures; ergo the reconstructed Ministry would have but a very short life. An on-dit is spread that Mr. J. K. Baron van Goltstein, who has just been elected Member of the First Chamber, has been summoned by the King to give his advice on the subject. In the meanwhile Parliamentary business is going on. Both the First and Second Chambers have met, and the first named will open to morrow the discussions upon the East India Budget. The principal question, of course, will be in the sections, the decrees of the Governor General about the reorganisation of the Preanger system. According to the reply which was given by Mr. de Waal to the section-report, the Minister authorised Mr. Myer on June 29, under certain conditions, to prepare the measure, but with the most *positive order that it would not be decreed before being approved of by the States General.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 16.

A circumstance which no one thought possible has occurred; the First Chamber has rejected the East India Budget, so far as regards the receipts and expenditure in India. By a majority of one vote only (seventeen to sixteen) was this decision carried, which will create the greatest confusion in the India administration. If the Budget had been carried it would have been the first time that it arrived in India in proper time to set it in operation on the 1st of January. The strangest part of the event is the total absence of motive. The Lords were very content with the wavering Minister of the Colonial Department, and, with the exception of some stubborn Conservatives, they advocated his policy; but, and this is the true reason of the Minister having asked H.M. to be released from his duties, the Chamber having to decide in this Budget upon the reform of the Preanger system, the Lords were disinclined to name his successor before this had been made a fait accompli. This is incredible, but is, nevertheless, a fact. I need not say that the impression made in India will be as bad as possible, and, indeed, not without reason. The decrees respecting these reforms are already promulgated in India; they should come into force on the 1st January; and this is now impossible, because the Chamber has not approved of the reorganisation. I doubt very much if this act will tend to strengthen our authority in Java. Indeed, so much is claimed here of the clemency of our colony that it is more than time that a Radical reform should be effected. If the aspirations of the colony were better understood at home there would be less blundering in our Chambers. At all times, and on all subjects, little narrow schools of opinion are constantly developing themselves, the leading characteristic of which was, and still is, to squeeze the Javanese. Up to this moment low material views are paraded and men, who themselves confess that they are not able to appreciate matters are charged with the conduct of affairs. Indeed, even the Liberals still adopt a very small way of viewing this grand problem; and some change must now take place. If our Chambers, in which the Colonies are not represented at all, retain the absolute supremacy which they now enjoy, it is inconceivable that it will bear, sooner or later, bad fruit. I think a partnership, in which each section of Holland and its colonies should be proportionally represented, is the only conceivable alternative by which to arrive at a good result, and if the Colonies show themselves anxious for a union, on this the only sound basis, it would be weak and ungenerous for Holland to reject such a plan. Nevertheless the most advanced Liberals shrink from such an idea, and, indeed, I think it is quite necessary to state that it is a Dutchman who writes these lines and not an Englishman. That tendencies of this kind will not ripen in a day is obvious enough. Undoubtedly there are difficulties, but the plan is not at all impossible; nevertheless much must be done before the matter is decided. Not only are the Colonies not represented in Parliament, but even representative Dutchmen are excluded by our miserable election law. The bulk of the electors do not know anything about the wants of the colonies; they are only aware that we receive a good deal of money from the East, and they applaud the rule of the Conservatives, that the more the Javanese are squeezed the less they have to pay.

With the exception of the important fact of the outvoting of the East Indian Budget there is a scarcity of news. The Ministerial crisis has not advanced one step towards solution, and no names are given as the probable successors. We do not know whether we are to have a Liberal or a Conservative cabinet. If the last-named party should take the reigns of Government, then it will be necessary to dissolve Parliament, because the majority is quasi Liberal. Able statesmen, however, are very scarce on both sides. Perhaps the solution might come somewhat quicker but for the King, who is ill; and, on the other side, I hear that the question which caused our Ministers so abruptly to place their portfolios at the disposal of the King, causes other statesmen also to shrink back from accepting office. It is whispered in our diplomatic circles that the decision to resign was not only brought about by the increasing opposition in the Chamber, but also by the fact that the King wished to treat with Prussia about the sale of his sovereign rights in Luxemburg. This rumour, however, is most positively contradicted by the reply which was given by Prince Henry, as Stadholder, to the commission who handed his Royal Highness an address of adherence, voted by the Chamber.

The war still remains the topic of the day, and curiosity was highly excited to-day by the statement that Russia has commenced a diplomatic movement for a modification of some of the provisions of the Treaty of 1856. This news caused but little heaviness on the Bourse, and the common belief is that there is very small reason to think that things will go anything beyond a pacific discussion upon what Russia means to be mutual interests. Speculation, however, is checked, notwithstanding that money in the open market is very abundant, and can be obtained readily at three per cent., and my opinion is, that, now that the circular of Prince Gortschakoff is published, bonds will soon recover from their fall, provided there is no over-speculation. About the Oost Indische Maatschappy van Lyfrenten I hear that several shareholders decline to pay up their shares in toto. The newly-appointed direction makes as much haste as possible to arrive at a decision before a definitive verdict is given by the High Court with reference to the demand for surseance of payment. According to the Amsterdam Courant, Mr. Julius Vogel, formerly functionary at the Java Branch, is appointed inspector of the agricultural enterprises of this company, instead of Mr. Julius van Hemert. The same paper ascertains that the first-named gentleman will start by an early mail. This will also be the case with Dr. H. H. Middendorp, who is offered a position at the medical institution in Japan.

The Noach I. has been chartered by the Government to convey troops from here to Java. The vessel will sail this month.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

No change of note has occurred in the general features of our Produce Market, but business transactions have been circumscribed upon the whole within a limited compass. The failure of the armistice negotions and the Russian question have not been without influence upon buyers.

COFFEE.—Continues to be in fair request, both for home consumption and for export, at steady prices, but purchases are confined to requirements for actual wants, since the prospects for the restoration of peace have again become so very uncertain. The navigation on the Rhine being, moreover, seriously impeded by the unusual high-water level of that river, the difficulty thus raised of shipment to Germany also checks transactions. Sales have been closed by private contract of 3,220 b. Santos, ex Laura, at 26½c. to 31½c.; 1,000 b. Java, ex Lanercost; 1,100 b. do., ex Willem Kroonprins der Nederlanden.

SUGAR.—No change has occurred, but the market continues very firm. The reservedness of holders has caused transactions to remain unimportant. 9,905 mats Syrup Sugar, ex Zeenimph, changed hands at f.14¼.

TEA.—Only a trifling business is doing, but prices are well supported.

JAVA TOBACCO.—Sales have been closed by private tender of 333 bales Java, trade mark B. J. D. L.; 907 bales do., trade mark A. S/Malang; 1,314 bales do., trade mark Kawi; 572 bales do., trade mark Djambean; 266 bales do., trade mark Kotta; 753 bales do., trade mark Wachman/Blitar and Kedirie; 453 bales do., trade mark B.V.L. & R.; 1,283 bales do., trade mark Temayang, KVB, BB. A public sale of 7,583 b. Java, of sundry trade marks, will take place here in the beginning of next month; the date is not yet fixed.

SPICES.—There is scarcely anything doing, although prices are, in general, well supported. 36 casks nutmegs, 14 do. mace, and 25 do. cloves, of private importation, will be brought to market on the 19th inst. Sales have been closed of 41 casks nutmegs, 13 casks mace; prices did not transpire.

RICE.—Without any transactions worthy of notice. Prices are unaltered.

* This word is italicised because the only argument of Mr. Myer will be that the order was not positive.

RATTANS.—144 piculs, ex Catharina Maria, changedh ands on secret terms.

METALS.—Banca Tin continues to meet with but little demand, and only small lots have changed hands at f.73 to f.72½, whilst contracts for delivery, ex the coming spring sale, have been concluded at f.71¼. Billiton has sold ex ship at f.72.

HIDES.—I have only to report a sale of 126 Sourabaya Buffaloes, ex Hendrik ido Ambacht.

INDIGO.—A steady demand still prevails for this article. 75 chests Java, belonging partly to the recent arrivals, have found buyers at unaltered rates.

ARRACK.—A parcel of 25 casks Batavia, ex Francina Wilhelmina, found buyers at prices that did not transpire.

THE EASTERN DIFFICULTY AGAIN.

(London and China Express.)

LORD GRANVILLE'S reply to the Circular of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF on the Treaty of 1856, which we reproduce in another column, will be perused with no less anxiety than relief. It leaves no doubt of the determination of the British Cabinet to resist the sudden and unreasonable repudiation by Russia of the most essential conditions of a treaty which, as Lord GRANVILLE has ably pointed out, must stand or fall as a whole. In fact, it cannot be denied that, in this last document, the Foreign Secretary goes far to show that the sluggishness, apathy, or mistaken feeling, which induced him to neglect so unaccountably the responsibilities of his office in the Far East, ceased to have any influence with him the moment that the interests, which England has paid so dearly to protect, were threatened by a European Power. The Press is unanimous alike in condemning Prince GORTSCHAKOFF'S Jesuitical and imperious circular, and in applauding Lord GRANVILLE'S dignified, conciliatory, but resolute and prompt, reply. At the same time it must be admitted that it is hardly possible to overrate the gravity of the occasion which the House of ROMANOFF has seized for the prosecution of its hereditary policy. It is true that, according to the latest intelligence from Vienna, England, Turkey, Austria, and Italy have agreed to observe a common attitude towards Russia; but little reassurance can be derived from this report at the moment when it has been called into existence by the renunciation by Russia of the Treaty of Paris. France is all but prostrate at the foot of Prussia; Italy is preoccupied; Austria has, during the present war, shown nothing so clearly as her anxiety to avoid being involved in any of its consequences; and, as for Turkey, the "sick man" is not much better able to fight his own battles than he was fourteen years ago. We shall not speculate on the probabilities for or against a private understanding between Russia and Prussia; but we know that it has been notorious that an amicable understanding, in view of certain contingencies, has existed between the two great Northern Powers since 1867. And, at the moment when England feels called upon to declare her intention of standing firm to the Treaty engagements acquired by her arms in the Crimean War, her forces afloat and ashore have dwindled down under an elaborate series of economies, and her Cabinet comprises among its members the arch-opponent, not only of the Crimean War, but of all wars. Russia evidently regards the present juncture as her opportunity. In a nobler sense it is the opportunity of England also. It is an opportunity, which Lord GRANVILLE'S despatch assures us he will not let pass, of once more vindicating England's rank among the nations of the earth in the face of the Russian attempt at a piece of sharp practice, which Europe will not readily forget. We may note, however, that if Russia really intended to enforce this demand, she would hardly have chosen this time of the year, which practically gives us four months to prepare our resistance.

THE "ALABAMA" CLAIMS.

So much misapprehension has prevailed concerning the exact bearings of the Alabama controversy on both sides of the Atlantic that it is satisfactory to find the case so lucidly stated as it is by the Philadelphia correspondent of The Times, whose explanation of its latest phase, together with the editor's reflections upon it, we now condense. One of the chief claimants is the "Great Western Insurance Company" of New York, and a very important letter on the subject from Mr. John A. Parker, the president of that corporation, has just been made public. Mr. Parker wrote to Mr. Frelinghuysen, at the time when that gentleman was indicated as American Minister to London, and the letter is a complaint at the 'dog-in-the-manger' policy pursued by the American Government. Mr. Parker says that his insurance company represents a large amount of the claims, and that petitions complaining of the vexatious delays and stating the views of the claimants have been repeatedly presented to Congress, but that no action has been taken. It is four years since a majority of the claimants filed the evidence of their claims with the Secretary of State, and petitioned for the interference of the American Government to collect them from Great Britain. The action of the American Government seems to have come to an end in the rejection of the Clarendon-Johnson Treaty, and Mr. Parker therefore thinks it time that the claimants should re-assume their rights independently of the Government, and look to their own interests. The amount of the claims is over $13,000,000, and, if they ought ever to be paid, here is that much capital kept out of activity by the delay of settlement. As every dollar of capital is equal to four in the exchanges of trade, here are $52,000,000 of commercial transactions, with the attendant activity of labour and employment, annually suppressed in this country through the detention of the capital belonging to the claimants.

Mr. Reverdy Johnson is understood to have expressed no doubt that England would pay a portion of these claims, if properly represented, and if the American Government did not interfere to prevent it. When this statement reached Lord Clarendon only a month before his death, he received it so favourably that the representative of the claimants was induced to write to them, "If you can get a word of consent from the United States Government, so that England shall not fear a misconstruction of what she does, I can get your money at fast as you can count it." Following out this idea, Mr. Parker says that last June application was made by himself personally to the Government at Washington for their consent that the settlement of these claims, or of any portion of them, outside the negotiations by the Government should not prejudice the good understanding between the two countries, but this consent was unconditionally refused. Mr. Parker renewed his application to his Government that the claimants might have liberty to negotiate for themselves, but his letter to Mr. Fish met with no other reply than an official acknowledgment of its receipt at Washington. Mr. Parker asks what is the attitude of the Government in all this? Having made itself legally liable for the claims, it neither assumes the debt nor acknowledges the liability; it neglects to pursue the claims against the British Government, and refuses to allow the claimants to pursue them for themselves; it even intimates that if the claimants attempt to pursue them it will be construed as a misdemeanor, under the statute against attempting to interfere with the diplomatic relations of the Government. Mr. Parker says, if the Government desires to do justice to the Alabama claimants, who are its citizens, and still to maintain its hold upon England, this is easy of accomplishment. Let a mercantile commission be appointed—none other would be competent—to audit the claims and certify them. The amount of the claims being thus fairly determined, if the Government desires to hold them for any ulterior purpose let it assume and pay them at once. The claims will then belong to the Government, and it may do what it pleases with them, and under no other circumstances but these or such as these has the Government any shadow of right to withhold, from any claimant whatever against any foreign Government, either its countenance or its consent for such claimant, in his own name or by his proper representative, to prosecute his claim to recovery by all the lawful means in his power.

This appears to promise a new phase of the question, which we are not immediately interested in, except so far as the agitation of many claimants may affect the resolution of the American Government, and induce it to enter on new negotiations in a more temperate spirit. This, however, is hardly probable, for, having made the question political, and mixed it up with all sorts of extraneous considerations, the Government and people are likely to keep it so. But if a justification of England's conduct on the matter were needed by any impartial mind, it would be found in the fact that the principals in the litigation, those of whom the Washington Government is only the repesentative and trustee, are perfectly satisfied. The Clarendon-Johnson Treaty was as full a concession as any nation could demand. Its whole tenour was so much to the advantage of America that many Englishmen thought Lord Clarendon had yielded too much, and that Mr. Johnson, who, with all his geniality and exuberance, was a shrewd diplomatist, had got the better of his opponent. The rejection of that Treaty was inspired by political irritability, and if the event proves that it was detrimental to the true interests of the claimants, England stands absolved from all blame.

MR. KINGSMILL ON THE TREATIES WITH CHINA.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—I am sorry that my plain words as to the Treaties with China, quoted by you in your issue of August 8, should have been open to misrepresentation. Your remark of that date would seem either to imply that I was unaware of the fact of Commercial Treaties having been made by Great Britain with other Powers, or, knowing such to be the case, had put forward a misstatement of facts.

If you will kindly refer to your own quotation you will perceive that what was stated by me was simply that in no other country were Treaties "required for the conduct of truth."

Japan, it is true, at one time proved an exception, but has apparently retired from her isolated position. If, besides this, you can point out another country within the Celestial Empire which has persistently refused to permit foreign trade, except under pressure, you will have gone far to upset my arguments. As it, however, cannot be held that France, Austria, and the other countries with whom Great Britain has at various times concluded treaties of commerce, had previously shut the ports to foreign intercourse, I prefer leaving my words as they were uttered. The simple point is that what in other countries is arranged merely as a matter of convenience becomes in China work of necessity. It requires the whole diplomatic staff of the various European nations stationed at Peking to amend our solitary Customs regulation, how foolish soever.—Truly yours,

Shanghai, Oct. 4, 1870. THOS. W. KINGSMILL.

RAILWAY EXTENSION IN CEYLON.

An experiment appears to be on the eve of being tried in Ceylon, which is of great interest to the residents in all parts of the Far East. It is proposed to supplement the existing railway by a wire tramway between Kandy and Badulla, which will so far differ from the light lines so successfully introduced in India that it will run through a hilly instead of a flat country. The introduction of the system into Ceylon has, however, the advantage of taking place under exceptionally promising circumstances. The development of the profits of the present railway, now only in the third year of its existence, is literally astonishing; they far exceed the most sanguine anticipations expressed in these columns from time to time. 1870 shows an increase in traffic of forty per cent. over 1868, and there is good reason to expect that next year will add fifty per cent. to the present figures. The vast increase in the carriage of manures up the line—which cannot but involve a proportional increase in coffee downwards—is, of course, a good reason for the establishment of some middle kind of conveyance to new districts between the old-fashioned cart, with its careless and dishonest drivers, and the too expensive machinery of a complete railroad. The new wire tramway promises to supply this requirement. Whether we take the estimate of Mr. Tottenham, the surveyor of the proposed line, or of Mr. Molesworth, the Director-General of Public Works, we are satisfied that there is no insurmountable engineering difficulty in the way of the proposed line. The only important difference between these gentlemen seems to be in their estimate of the cost of erection, which varies no less than fifty per cent.—not by any means, however, an unprecedented discrepancy in the calculations way between Kandy and Happootalla Pass. The cost of work- of civil engineers. But, taking the highest estimate, which is of course Mr. Molesworth's, we find that a capital of £100,000 would about suffice for the construction of the sixty miles ing the line is from 6d. to 8d. per ton per mile; but, seeing that the Tramway Company could charge as much as double the minimum cost, and yet underbid the carts by at least one-half, besides feeding the main line with large quantities of traffic at present undeveloped, so much benefit, financial as well as commercial, seems likely to arise from the adoption of Mr. Tottenham's plan, that we cannot believe that the community of Ceylon will allow it to be long delayed; and we shall watch its operation with much interest, believing it to be the stepping-stone to the complete development of the agriculture of the island.

THE MINISTERS' PROTEST TO PRINCE KUNG.

By the mail from China (says the Daily News) a copy reached us of a collective note which was addressed by the Foreign Ministers to Prince Kung, on the receipt at Peking of the news of the Tientsin Massacre. In this document, after expressing their "grief and indignation" at the "atrocious crime" committed "at one of the very gates of the capital of the Empire," the Ministers proceed to point out the responsibility that rests on the Emperor's advisers to take steps "to prevent the repetition of acts which could not fail seriously to compromise the position of the Imperial Government with the whole world." And they further express their belief that if such a catastrophe could occur within eighty miles of the capital, "unless the guilty are promptly punished, new crimes will be perpetrated at places more distant from the capital, where the action of the central authority is still less efficacious. It is therefore indispensable that the world, in learning the news of the crime, should be informed at the same time that justice has been done, and that it may be reassured as to the lot of its citizens confided to the protection of China." How completely this friendly warning was disregarded by the Imperial Cabinet, and how accurate were the apprehensions expressed by the Ministers of the results which were likely to follow from any remissness in following up the guilty parties and bringing them to justice, a reference to dates and to recent events will show. The Massacre was committed on the 21st June, and it was not until the middle of October that the sentence on the criminals was promulgated, under the terms of which the chief offender was acquitted, the two next in the scale of bloodguiltiness were banished, and twenty of the mob were beheaded. Thus four months were allowed to pass before any step, and that a very insufficient one, was taken in the matter. As the Ministers predicted, the results of this procrastination has been that "new crimes" have been "perpetrated at places more distant from the capital, where the action of the central authority is even less efficacious" than at Tientsin. A few weeks since we heard of the destruction of the Roman Catholic Church at Newchwang. Last mail brought us the news of the enforced flight of the American Protestant missionaries from Tengchow, in the Province of Shantung. And two fresh outbreaks are reported by the present mail at places widely separated from each other, and in which the objects of attack were properties belonging to Protestant as well as Roman Catholic missionaries. At Wooching, on the Po-yang Lake, a well-organised mob broke into the Roman Catholic church and razed it to the ground. Fortunately, the absence of the missionaries prevented the commission of murder in this case, as in the other, where at Fat shan, near Canton, a newly-finished church, which had been built entirely by subscriptions raised among-t the national Protestant converts at that place, was on the day of its consecration wrecked and utterly destroyed by a band of rioters who had been frequently heard to express their determination to destroy the church as soon as it should reach completion. The peril of delay in punishing offences committed against foreigners in China has thus been proved, but a still greater danger has been incurred in the conduct of recent events by the very inadequate penalties which have been inflicted on the originators and perpetrators of the Tientsin Massacre.

THE CRISIS IN CHINA.

(NEW YORK HERALD.)

We are informed that a Chinese army is in motion, and that the forts in the neighbourhood of Taku have been armed and provisioned. The exercise of a blind and unreasoning intolerance will produce attempts at repression, and a war of race with a violent persecution for conscience sake may lead eventually to an armed foreign interference in the country.

It is an interesting and instructive history. It presents the great empire of Asia battling against the civilisation of Europe and America. Religious intolerance, the violence of caste creed, is openly arrayed, as it ever has been, against the light of Christianity. Political demoralisation fosters and encourages the barbarism. The placemen of the empire urge the millions of the aged and hoary land to resist the approach of the civilising agencies of the day merely on the ground that foreigners present the means of their utilisation. There is little doubt that the principle of the steam engine, the electric telegraph, as well as of the most modern of our printing presses, is fully understood in China. It is equally certain that a general industrial application of the principle, with the diffusion of knowledge which would ensue, would disturb existing lay class interests, break down the barriers which surround the native altars, agitate the priests of the idols in their close ecclesiastical corporations and revenues, and eventually cheapen the working of the executive system. The knowledge of these facts binds the nobles to the hierarchs, causes the placeman to cling to his manger as it is, and incites the really philosophic mind of the great Far East to attempt the impossible work of shutting out a new and dawning light from the people.

The grand crisis in the history of China has arrived notwithstanding. The knowledge of the murderous outrages which have been just perpetrated on the French Christians in Peking and Tientsin has set the outside world to thinking. Americans, French, Spanish, and English interests are alarmed. The great commercial Powers of the world cannot go back to the situation which prevailed at the period of the first Anglo-Chinese opium war. They must go forward; they must evangelise. The United States will play an important part, no doubt, in the work. We are happy to learn from our special letters that the war ship Colorado has been despatched from Hong Kong northward on a mission connected with the Christian investigation of the circumstances connected with the late murders. It is a duty worthy of our free flag. The foreigners who are still resident in China are deeply alarmed; in truth, they are in danger. The natives remain stubborn, fanatic, exclusive, and truculent. The Peking Government is equivocating. A general massacre of the Christians may ensue, and it behoves Christendom to prepare against such a terrible catastrophe at this hour of the world's enlightenment. It is, as we have said, the crisis of the history of China; it may become a glorious era in the annals of Christianity.

CHRISTIANITY IN CHINA AND JAPAN.

There is a marked contrast presented just now between the effect which Christian civilisation has produced in China and in Japan. While we behold the spectacle of the Chinese people engaged in what has evidently on the face of the movement the appearance of a conspiracy to murder all the Christian foreigners in the kingdom, the Japanese Government is sending delegations of its young men to Europe and America to study the operations and results of Christian civilisation in the different capitals and colleges. There are fourteen of these young Japanese now in New York. They are to be located at the expense of their Government at different points on the two continents. Some will remain here; others go to Berlin, St. Petersburg, London, Paris, Vienna, and Rome. The object, of course, is to employ these students as propagandists of Christian civilisation on their return home—to engraft, as far as their acquired experience will permit, the systems of various Christian nations upon the darkened civilisation of their own country. Ever since the American expedition of Commodore Perry the governing minds of the Japanese Empire have been awakened to an larged view of the outside world, and the thoughts of its statesmen have been fixed upon this country as the first example presented to them of a great foreign Power exercising its influence in friendship and peace in strange contrast to the violent domination of other nations. We have seen the results in the expanded views of the Japanese—in the distinguished Embassy which visited these shores a few years ago; and the influence of the United States remains to-day as firm as ever in Japan. The movements of that Empire are progressive.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DR. THIN ON THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.*

"The result of the last war was to create in the minds of the mandarins a belief that foreigners were powerful and ready to punish whoever attacked them and wherever they were attacked. Our prestige was a shield to us. When they ceased to be afraid of us our prestige was no protection, and for the last few years we have been imperilled by the machinations of a few of the more daring mandarins. It is instructive to know why the mandarins have ceased to fear foreigners; but the causes are not many or far to seek. They have been allowed to employ foreign drill instructors and build arsenals with foreign supervision. Li Hung Chang, at Foochow and Nanking, has, by the assistance of Dr. Macartney, laid up an almost incredible store of powder, cannon, and ammunitions of war. Chung How has been doing the same at Tientsin, with the assistance of Mr. Meadows. This gave confidence to others, and they began to think they were ready to fight. Then came the small beginnings of petty obstacles thrown in the way of carrying out the treaty in which the Chinese were allowed to gain their purpose. Hence more and larger complications, in which they were still victorious. Their old policy of lies and procrastinations was met by argument and expostulation instead of determination. Then came the loss of influence by the British Ambassador at Peking, for which either he or his Government are responsible. The measure of the Chinese was full when they were able to match foreign diplomacy by the quiet aid of Mr. Hart, who, to the office of Inspector-General of Customs, has lately added the functions (without the tails of Minister for Foreign Affairs), in which capacity he advised the appointment of the late Mr. Burlingame. Then came the fruits of the Burlingame policy on instructions from home that diplomatic action at Peking and London was to supersede measures of self-defence against the outrages of uncivilised savages, who cared as little for Peking as they did for London. And last, and most fatal of all, came the apology from the Government of Great Britain to the Chinese for the action of Mr. Gibson at Formosa, an apology which, to the Chinese, meant only one thing, that England was now afraid of them."

DR. THIN'S PAMPHLET.

The Pall Mall Gazette, in a review of Dr. Thin's pamphlet on the Tientsin Massacre, which was lately noticed in our columns, offers the following remarks:—"The great point for determination is whether we can bring our influence most effectually to bear upon the Chinese authorities by enforcing our claims, in the event of complication, on the Central Government at Peking, or by enforcing them on the local mandarins in the places where those complications shall happen to arise. The former is the line we have adopted since the conclusion of the treaty of Tientin, and the latter is the line we adhered to previously, and to which Dr. Thin and most of the unofficial foreigners in China argue that we ought to return. It may be doubted if a combination of the two would not be the best expedient of all. The direct approval of the Peking Government, either antecedently or subsequently accorded to our proceedings, would be a powerful auxiliary aid to the measures we might find it necessary to take with the provincial governors or their subordinates. At the same time those measures, either completed or in contemplation, would supply us with most valuable guarantees for the intention and honesty of the Emperor and his advisers. Except in name, the eighteen provinces of China are independent sovereignties. It requires weeks for intelligence to reach Peking from the more remote of them, and it is on this as well as other grounds impossible for their internal administration to be effectually controlled from the capital. If the Imperial Government had the will it has not the power of compelling its subjects, except in its own immediate vicinity, to observe the stipulations of the treaties into which it has entered. It has thus occurred that we have always failed when we have appealed to the justice of the Central Government, and have almost always succeeded when we have worked upon the apprehensions of the local mandarins. Dr. Thin illustrates this proposition with numerous examples, which our space will not allow of our citing. On the whole, his little book deserves to be read, and although we refrain from pronouncing a final judgment on the issues it raises, we feel confident that they will have to be very carefully inquired into by our Government if the thousands of British lives and the millions of British property engaged in Chinese commerce are to be adequately and permanently protected."

THE "MALOO MIXTURE."

It would be a comparatively small thing for the Chinese to sell us their old tea-leaves for new tea if they did nothing worse. But our valuable monthly contemporary, the Food Journal, has been investigating the quality of the cheaper kinds of English tea, and in doing so has thrown some very unwelcome light into our teapots. The celebrated "Maloo Mixture," which we helped to expose some time since, consisted not only of old tea leaves, but of old willow leaves and of other second-hand adulterations. In the wholesale market Dr. Muter, who has conducted these Food Journal inquiries, found some gunpowder tea, which ought to be the best green, to consist of common caper, faced with Prussian blue. Some "Moning Congou" he found to be almost entirely re-dried leaves, and a sample of Kaisow was greatly made up of rice husks and other matters. But this is nothing to the results obtained by examining thirty-one samples of cheap tea bought of various retailers in London, and four bought in Birmingham. Of these thirty-five samples, which were all tested by an experienced taster and valuer, not one was worth within eightpence a pound of its price, and many of them were worth but a few pence a pound. One sample, bought at the cheap price of sixteen pence a pound, is described as "very common dust, mixed with a small quantity of small reddish unknown seeds, and iron filings much burnt;" while in one of the Birmingham purchases there was rice faced with plumbago and lamp black, with some pieces of free plumbago scattered through the mixture. Another mixture, sold at eighteen pence a pound, consisted of "common fannings mixed with broken stalks, rice husks, fractured tea buds, and iron filings." Another sample contained pieces of decayed wood, fragments of reeds and stones, while another contained a considerable proportion of "exhausted leaves rendered astringent with catechu;" and in another there were actually found a few feathers, scattered among rice and pea husks, and leaves of the Chinese willow. The decoction produced by this last compound is described as "very mild and not unpleasant, but totally unlike tea." These rice husks and iron filings seem to be the commonest form of adulteration; and it is fortunate that it is so, for they are at least innocuous, and it is better to be cheated and not poisoned, than to be both cheated and poisoned, as the buyers of higher class tea sometimes are. A common black tea "faced" with Prussian blue, to make it sell as the finest green tea, is actually poisonous. Indeed, it seems likely that the real or supposed unwholesomeness of green tea is due more to its facing than to anything in the nature of the tea itself. There is, however, very little reason to believe that the better qualities of tea are at all seriously adulterated. Like other evils, this one of adulteration falls most heavily on those who can least protect themselves against it. Those who have least money to spend have least chance of spending it to advantage.

THE Athenæum remarks that the Silk Supply Association agitation is acting on Japanese literature. We had already obtained a translation of the Japanese works on silk culture, but now the Japanese are translating and circulating manuals and reports from the English in a very business-like way. Six hundred copies of the translation of Mr. Adams's report have been circulated among the Yokohama dealers alone. The Home Minister, Date Mimbukio, in transmitting the works, calls attention to the efforts of the English as a ground for circulation. The people must, he says, remember the saying, "Fear posterity," for it is impossible to affirm that the extreme limit of progress has been attained. He likewise calls attention to the "uji" silkworm disease, which must not be attributed to Providence solely because we have not yet ascertained its cause. He therefore invites the silk growers to send in essays, and he promises not only a suitable reward, but that "his treatise, with his name attached, shall be published throughout the Empire."

Sketches on the Wing. By G. De M. Soares. London: E. Stanford. This is a pleasant collection of light readable narratives in the life of a gentleman, who records his adventures and experiences in various parts of the world in a gay but not an entirely superficial spirit. Throughout the book, light as it appears to be, there is an undercurrent of shrewdness and perception, as well as a happy style of description, which will make it as useful to intending travellers as enjoyable to those home-keeping spirits who prefer to confine their travels within the bounds of the circulating library. Sketches on the Wing originally appeared in one of the Calcutta journals, and the appreciation which the author met with in the City of Palaces has very naturally led to the reproduction of his adventures in a more permanent form.

THE Mont Cenis Tunnel is advancing to completion. Next month is expected to witness the virtual consummation of this work, which was commenced in 1857, and has consequently been thirteen years in hand. At the close of October the whole distance remaining to be pierced did not exceed 880 feet, and the works have been advancing of late at the rate of from 400 feet to 500 feet per month. In anticipation of the completion of the tunnel the South Italian is endeavouring to secure the support of the Egyptian Government in aid of the establishment of a line of steamers between Brindisi and Egypt. The difficulty in the way is the competition of the Adriatico-Oriental Steamship Company.

ACCORDING to Trubner's Literary Record, Cornell University, in the United States, is providing itself with a Professorship of Chinese and Japanese. Such superfluous literary luxury may raise a smile here, and none the less because the University authorities will assuredly have to pay for their professors. The reason, however, is a simple one, and worthy of observation here; it is, that the Americans have, like ourselves, a growing intercourse with China and Japan. They are near to them; they find the languages pay well, and they mean to outstrip us. There is no such professorship in Liverpool.

BANK OF HINDUSTAN V. ALISON.—An action brought by the above bank to recover a balance of £598 for calls from a shareholder was tried yesterday at the Court of Common Pleas. Judgment was given for the defendant, on the ground that the amalgamation between the plaintiff company and the Imperial Bank of China, in which the defendant had shares, was informal, and, as the agreement to take the shares was founded on the assumed amalgamation, it fell to the ground.

THERE was launched at Garmouth on the 9th instant a barque of 391 tons register, named Clansman. This vessel is the property of parties in Garmouth, and is intended to be employed in the China trade. The Clansman is classed A 1 nine years, and has been built under special survey.

IN RE GEORGE MELBOURN, OF BATAVIA.—At a dividend meeting under the private estate of this bankrupt it was stated that a balance of £3,000 was in hand, and a resolution was passed for the division of £2,000 of that sum. The bankrupt has died in France since the last sitting.

MR. SYDNEY CRAVEN HIGGS, of the Oriental Bank, Galle, Ceylon, notifies his intention of assuming for the future the name of Sydney Craven Higgs-Craven.

The session of the Royal Geographical Society was opened on the 16th inst. The inaugural meeting of the Society of Arts was held on the 15th.

WE believe that Mr. Delane, editor of The Times, is now engaged in studying the Brindisi route.

THE TIENTSIN OUTRAGE SETTLED.

THE last telegram from Shanghai deserves more reflection than it seems at first sight to invite. If not entirely unsatisfactory, it is certainly a very significant document, especially when read by the light of the one from Hong Kong, four days later. From Hong Kong we learn that the chief instigator of the massacre at Tientsin has not been arrested, and from Shanghai that the outrage itself has been condoned by the French Minister. Sixteen coolies have been beheaded, and twenty-three exiled, for their share in the Tientsin Massacre, an indemnity of 500,000 taels (about £160,000) is to be paid to the French, and 10,000 taels to the Chinese Christians; and M. ROCHECHOUART has expressed himself satisfied with this arrangement. In the present distracted state of France it is not in our power to condemn the French Minister for accepting even this small measure of atonement. It helps us, indeed, rather to judge what would have been the extent of the demands of the French Government had their representative been in any condition to enforce them, or had they been properly backed up by our own Government. But, so far as we are concerned, not a single step further seems to have been taken; no single special demand has yet been made on account of the murder of our unfortunate countrywoman, Miss SULLIVAN, who fell amongst the French victims of Chinese savagery. Either no "compensation" whatever has been made for her assassination or it has been included in the sum paid to the French. In the former case how disgraceful, and, in the latter, how humiliating, must the position of the English Government appear at this moment to the Chinese! By all the rights of prior settlement the French in Tientsin were as much our guests as they were our allies; yet, so far from our insisting on the expiation due to them, we have left them, in the hour of their greatest weakness, to estimate and extort the compensation due to our share in the common injury. Can any thoughtful person believe for one moment that such would have been the conduct of the French Government if the blood of their English and Russian allies had been shed at Saigon? And this brings us to another point in this most significant despatch. The Russian Minister declares that he is not satisfied; the English Minister says, what he has said all along—nothing.

We need not here pause to remind our readers that the Russian declaration scatters to the winds the base and specious arguments of the Pall Mall correspondent, MENCIUS, who laboured to prove that our national honour did not require us to do more than Russia in this matter. MENCIUS measured England's honour by his own Russian standard, so long as Russia did not manifest her own better sense of it. It is impossible for him, and reasoners like him, to deny that it is the part of England now to make common cause with Russia in whatever reparation she demands. We need not now notice the possible complications in which we may find ourselves involved with the Russian Government in the Black Sea. They have nothing whatever to do with the present question; nor, even were they to lead to war, could they by any possibility be made part of it. But, in the meantime, what must be the impression made upon the Eastern mind by the determined attitude of Russia, who, at the very moment when she contemplates a possible struggle with the greatest Powers of Europe, yet shows courage and determination to vindicate her position in China? Russia's ulterior designs in the East, whatever they may be, are at least as well known to the Chinese as to any Court in Europe; and we cannot but feel the injurious effect that must be produced at this moment throughout our Indian Empire also, if the Power, of all others the most likely to invade it, is allowed to proceed in this matter unaided by the Power whose duty it is to protect it. It is the bounden duty of Lord GRANVILLE to lose not a day in instructing Mr. WADE to co-operate to the utmost with the Russian Minister; and England will not readily forgive him if, even in the midst of his present duties, he does not find time to catch the last opportunity of vindicating the British flag in the Far East, before the Tientsin Massacre shall have become matter of history, and an indelible disgrace to the GLADSTONE Cabinet.

TROOPS FOR THE FAR EAST.

THE circumstances under which the detachment of marines has been despatched for China is eminently illustrative of the policy pursued by the present Government with regard to the naval and military services. We believe it is now some six months since the receipt of a joint recommendation from Sir HARRY PARKES and Vice-Admiral KELLETT that the troops quartered in Japan should be replaced by a body of marines, whom they considered better qualified to perform the duties required at that settlement than any other branch of the service. The recommendation was complied with in so far that the detachment was selected, the officers appointed, and other preliminaries settled, when the breaking out of the war caused the suspension of all preparations. The delay would doubtless have been further extended but for the news of the Tientsin Massacre, on receipt of which orders were sent down to forward matters with all possible haste, the destination of the detachment being at the same time changed to the China station, its subsequent movements to be left to the discretion of the Admiral. Instead, however, of employing a troopship, the Admiralty decided on chartering and despatching the Juno, thereby getting rid of a vessel whose slow steaming powers and general uselessness had provoked much unpleasant criticism. This arrangement was concluded without regard for the troops, who are thus destined to undergo a long voyage in the tropics, including a passage down the Red Sea, huddled together on a dark and miserable deck below that used by the crew of the vessel. The condition of affairs will be thoroughly appreciated when we mention that the Juno is a corvette, of 1,462 tons, that her complement is 235 officers and men, and that the marines and supernumeraries will swell the total to 686 souls, or eighty-one more than the complement of an ironclad of 4,000 tons. It was discovered at the last moment that so full is the Juno packed with her living freight that no space could be found for baggage, which must follow the troops in another vessel. This blunder will doubtless entail a greater expenditure than the charter of a suitable ship in the first place.

THE statement in the Liverpool papers that the fleet of the P. and O. Company would be removed from Southampton to Liverpool is incorrect. Although the company have taken the power in the last contract, it is expected that the cost of carriage will be reduced, so as to retain their line at Southampton, which for passengers and mails is more convenient than Liverpool. We believe that the steamers now running to Marseilles will shortly be ordered to Brindisi. This movement was not intended until the completion of the tunnel through Mont Cenis, but the uncertainty of the war renders it undesirable and very unprofitable to run any longer to Marseilles. We understand that the Delhi, which leaves Hong Kong with the mails on the 15th Nov., will come direct to Southampton, via Suez Canal, and it is expected that she will bring a large batch of Japan silkworm eggs. The company's steamers from Southampton continue to fill, but many are for Mediterranean ports. The thirtieth annual report of the company will be issued next week, when a dividend will be declared.

"THE TIMES" ON MISSIONARIES.

In another column we reproduce, with very great regret, a leading article from The Times on the Tientsin Massacre. The spirit of this composition is so utterly unlike that which generally pervades the reasoning of the leading journal that we can only account for it on the supposition that it expresses the sentiments of a Government which owes The Times something more than its Chancellor of the Exchequer. It is too manifestly written under the shadow of Prince GORTSCHAKOFF's Circular. It commences with a weak sneer at the Russian Government, which, so far as concerns its conduct in China, will, we believe, be falsified; and it then enters on a trenchant diatribe against missionaries, which reminds us more than anything of late years of those "parlous times" when the Jupiter Tonans of Printing-house Square was supposed to be able to "write down" anything and anybody. That time has long since fled for ever, and the weapons which once did it such yeoman's service are now as weak and out of date as the artillery of the siege of Antwerp would be before Paris. It is not of the argument, for there is nothing new in it,—it is of the tone of the present article that we complain. It is not by describing the Chinese as "sons of Belial," and by sneering at missionaries as "irrepressible ecclesiastics" that The Times can remove the great question it has raised from the broad basis of right and wrong. Neither is it by reminding us that the early Christians were content to worship in holes and caverns, and that they forebore from consecrating chapels in heathen countries "because they had no foreign consuls to fly to for protection." The present question in China is not so much one of Religion as of Treaty; it is not a dispute between creed and creed, but an article of faith between nation and nation. As the case stands, our missionaries are entitled by Treaty, and should therefore be protected by Government. If The Times considers this privilege injurious, by all means let it advocate the repeal of those parts of our treaties which secure it; but this it shrinks from doing, although it permits itself to censure the missionaries for pursuing their legitimate vocation, and expresses the hope that "we have heard the last of the Tientsin Massacre," now that our Government have, to all intents and purposes, "begged the question" it gave rise to.

THE Sir Lancelot, whose passage we noticed in our last, is owned by McCUNN and Co., Glasgow, and was built by STEELE, of Greenock. The Thermopylæ is owned by GEO. THOMPSON and Co., and was built by HOOD, of Aberdeen. The Undine, Captain SCOTT, owned by Mr. KELSO, of Shields, and built by PILE and Co., Sunderland, has made a fine passage of 104 days from Shanghai, having left there on the 31st July, and arrived off Cape Clear Nov. 5, Downs 12th.

IT is now settled beyond any doubt that our Government do not intend to permit any reinforcements to China. The troops for Hong Kong, announced under our Naval and Military head, consist simply of about one hundred, who belong to the 75th Regiment, now quartered there. Enlistment for the 1st Battalion 10th Regiment has failed. Oddly enough, the volunteers for India are in excess of the requirements, but for the finest climate in the world, Japan, there are no applicants!

THE Telegraph Construction Company have received a telegram from Batavia, announcing the arrival of the Hibernia, and that the laying of the cable to Singapore commenced on the 7th inst. and was completed on the 18th. From Singapore the cable will be continued to Penang and Madras, and the Wm. Cory had arrived at Singapore with part of that cable.

THE negotiations regarding the surrender of Formosa are being carried on by Mr. MAGNIAC with the Board of Trade. A copy of the memorial of the Amoy merchants to our Minister at Peking has been received and utilised by Mr. MAGNIAC.

THE TIENTSIN AND FATSHAN OUTRAGES.

(THE TIMES.)

A telegram from Shanghai informs us that vengeance has overtaken some of the subordinates in the Tientsin Massacre. Sixteen Coolies have, it seems, been beheaded, and twenty-three others have been exiled. Besides these executions an indemnity of 500,000 taels is to be paid to the French and 10,000 taels to the Chinese Christians. M. Rochechouart, the French Minister, has expressed himself satisfied, and has left Peking. It will be remembered that some Russians who were mistaken by the fanatical populace for Frenchmen were murdered in the Massacre, and we are told that the Russian Legation at Peking is not satisfied with the recent arrangement. As the Russians just now are seeking compensation and rectifications in all quarters we suppose that the Chinese will have to pay handsomely for the mistake made by the Tientsin mob. When this has been accomplished all the demands of justice will seem to have been satisfied, and we hope we shall hear nothing more of this horrible Tientsin Massacre as a likely cause of quarrel between the Chinese Empire and foreign countries. We must, however, say that, if we are not soon involved in a war with China, it will not be the fault of the Missionary body in that Empire, French and English alike. The theory of these irrepressible ecclesiastics seems to be that the Chinese religion, being a form of idolatry, is no religion at all, and that they may invade the whole Empire in their zeal to make proselytes. Now, the fact is, that these benighted idolators do feel very strongly for their religion—so strongly, indeed, that the Missionary question has recently become a very serious one, and is, in fact, the sole cause of danger to the amicable relations which have sprung up between the Chinese Government and foreign nations. We believe that on looking back for several years, scarcely one mercantile difficulty has arisen to cause a collision between the Chinese people and the foreign commercial community; while, on the other hand, the disturbances at Yangchow, Shantung, Tientsin, and many other places, have sprung from the imprudent zeal of missionaries, whether Catholic or Protestant. The effect of these proceedings has been to give rise to a wide spread dislike to foreigners all over China, and this outburst of ill-feeling has become so bitter and undiscriminating that a short time ago the Chinese Empire might be said to stand on the very brink of war with France and England. It is only doing an act of simple justice to the Chinese authorities to say that in general they have behaved extremely well on these occasions. But here in England, at least, we ought to know, with an endless series of "No Popery" riots in our remembrance, how difficult it is for any Government, however strong, to repress at the moment a religious outbreak. In questions like these a Government may have the best intentions in the world, but if it has the whole population of a province or district against it it can do little more than sit with folded hands while churches are burnt and missionaries murdered. After the popular frenzy has cooled down justice comes limping up and demands her victims; but, being proverbially blind as well as halt, she often lays her hands on the innocent instead of the guilty, and the real authors of these atrocious outrages too commonly escape.

One would have thought, after the terrible scenes which the mistaken zeal of the Roman Catholic Missionaries had brought down on the French community at Tientsin, in the North of China, that Protestant Missionaries all over the Empire would have been careful to avoid offence to the irritated feelings of the Chinese, and that we should not have heard of any outrages provoked by Protestant zeal. We have, however, been mistaken, and the Missionaries at Canton seem resolved that they, at least, will be no parties to any idolatrous compact with the priests of Baal. There is a town, not far from Canton, called Fatshan. It is a place famed for the turbulence of its inhabitants, and in old times, when Canton was merely another name for the whole of China to English ears, hardly a year passed during which the "braves" of Fatshan did not distinguish themselves by some cowardly atrocity perpetrated on foreign seamen. Sometimes, indeed, retribution was exacted, but as in that part of China at least it was always possible to buy a substitute for any one sentenced to undergo capital punishment, vengeance only overtook the "braves" vicariously, and the real offenders pursued their turbulent existence as riotously as before. It is among these sons of Belial that the missionaries at Canton have lately been working with such success that a number of Chinese converts have been made at Fatshan. We do not, of course, complain of this, but we do complain of what follows. This Christian community at Fatshan had, it seems, grown so numerous that it required a chapel. The early Christians were for centuries content to worship God in catacombs, and holes, and caves; but then they had no foreign Consuls to fly to for protection when Nero and Diocletian persecuted, and impaled and burnt them. But the Chinese Christians at Fatshan must have a chapel, though, according to the Chinese paper from which we take these particulars, "Fatshan is noted for its opposition to the encroachments of the missionaries," so much so that "the representative of the Wesleyan mission at that place has for some time past found it expedient to dwell there more in spirit than in the flesh. It was in such a place that the missionaries resolved to fly in the face of the mob by building a chapel. This building, built altogether by the Chinese converts, was opened on the 21st of September with a great demonstration. "On the completion of the edifice," says the same paper, "it was determined to have an opening ceremony on a grand scale, and several Protestant missionaries and native converts were invited to attend. Fortunately, only one foreigner, the Rev. J. Chalmers, was able to be present, and to his early return to Canton he probably owes his life." It seems that as soon as the ceremony was over the rev. gentleman left Fatshan, refusing to remain for some festivities in the evening. At about six P.M. the mob of Fatshan, which had "often expressed its intention of destroying the building when it was finished," collected before the doors, declaring, very much after the manner of the persecutors of the early Christians, "that improprieties were being committed within the chapel." In spite of the denial of the "native assistant," the mob became infuriated, broke into the building, and sacked and burnt it. The converts made good their escape, and no lives were lost, though "several ugly wounds were received." So in half a day began and ended the Protestant chapel at Fatshan.

Of course, as compared with the revolting atrocities perpetrated at Tientsin, these unruly acts of the "braves" of Fatshan seem almost ludicrous. "Well it was no worse," all our readers will say. So we say too; but we must proceed to ask whose fault was it that it was not much worse? Certainly not that of the missionaries in general and of Mr. Chalmers in particular, who, knowing the notorious turbulence of the population of Fatshan, and aware of the avowed determination of the mob to destroy the chapel as soon as it was finished, nevertheless went to Fatshan for the express purpose of doing the very thing which he must have known would be most offensive to the susceptibilities of the Chinese fanatics. One would have thought that his own good feeling and common sense, or, if these failed him, the express warning, issued by the Legation at Peking, that at a period when the relations between China and foreign countries were on so precarious a footing, the missionary body should abstain as much as possible from irritating the religious feelings of the Chinese, would have prevented his taking a step which might have cost him his own life, and has certainly added another stone of offence to those hundreds of millions of the Chinese nation who are as yet unconverted to Christianity. It may be said that missionaries have no choice but to be zealous in season and out of season, but we suppose that even missionaries can understand that anything that tends to throw back for years the privileges which they now enjoy in China is a thing hurtful to that great Christian cause which they so worthily represent. A war between China and the nations of the West is almost the only event which can check conversion in China; and yet this mistaken zeal on the part of the missionaries is just what will bring about the hostilities which will be so fatal to Gospel teaching in the Chinese Empire.

(DAILY NEWS.)

The danger of another Chinese difficulty seems to have passed away. Although the details of the outrage at Fatshan have only just come to hand, there has come with them satisfactory evidence that the Chinese Government is able and willing to fulfil its treaty obligations and to punish those who are guilty of outrage and violence. The Fatshan affair seems to have had no connection with the massacre at Tientsin. It was a repetition in a Chinese town of a kind of riot with which our own towns were only too familiar a century ago. Fatshan is a very fanatical place, not far from Canton, but the missionaries have succeeded in establishing there a Christian congregation. The Fatshan Christians were, however, not content to court the obscurity with which our own Nonconformists shielded themselves from the Church and King mobs of George the Third's happy reign. They were numerous enough to build a chapel, and unwise enough to call very prominent attention to it. They had been threatened during the progress of the building that the mob would pull it down when it was finished, and instead of heeding this threat they were courageous enough to dare the populace to carry it out. Instead of opening the chapel quietly, and going on without observation, they resolved to have a grand ceremony, such as Western Christians have, and a Chinese imitation of a tea meeting in the evening to wind up the proceedings of the day. Only one foreigner took part in these doings, and he wisely resolved not to stay at Fatshan for the evening meeting. When the meeting assembled within the chapel the mob gathered outside; rumours were industriously circulated among them that offensive orgies were going on within; the native preachers endeavoured, in vain, to reassure the populace; the authorities made a mere show of protecting the congregation, and at length the mob broke in, dispersed the people, and destroyed the chapel. The whole affair was, of course, a purely domestic quarrel, with which other nations have no more to do than with the mobbing of a Protestant in La Vendée, or a quarrel between Irish Catholics and Protestants in the streets of Belfast.

THE SATISFACTION FOR THE TIENTSIN OUTRAGE.

(GLOBE.)

If the information contained in the telegram from Shanghai, which we published on Saturday, be correct, the political situation at Peking would appear to be less satisfactory than we had been led to hope. Mr. Wade lately telegraphed to Lord Granville that twenty of the ringleaders in the Tientsin riot were to be beheaded; we now learn that only sixteen have been executed, while the Government has given public proof of its unwillingness to punish at all, by indemnifying their families, or, in other words, by purchasing so many victims. This, with the payment of £166,600 to the French, and £3,300 to the Chinese Christians, is said to have satisfied M. Rochechouart. We can quite understand how, in the difficult position in which he is placed, he may have considered it wise to accept this very unsatisfactory compensation, as indeed he would have been obliged to accept any recompense which the Chinese chose to offer him.

(DAILY NEWS.)

The affair at Tientsin was of a formidable character, and it is satisfactory to find that some of the humbler agents of the tragedy have been punished, and compensation has been paid to the relatives of its victims. The last accounts left the French Minister, M. de Rochechouart, urging upon the Chinese Government the punishment of one of the high officials of the district. Three mandarins were responsible for the massacre. Two of them had been transported; but the third, a Chinese general, named Chen-kwo-Jui, who was accused of actually heading the rioters, had not been punished. Whether he has been punished, or sufficient doubt has been thrown upon his guilt to reconcile M. de Rochechouart to his escape, we are not informed, but the French Minister is satisfied, and we have therefore no reason to doubt that substantial justice has been done. Sixteen of the humbler agents in the tragedy have been executed, twenty-three persons have been transported, and an indemnity of half a million taels is to be paid to the French missionaries, and a hundred thousand taels to the native sufferers. M. de Rochechouart has consented to these terms, and so far as France is concerned the affair is at an end. Russia has still some unsettled claim arising out of it, but that is a matter with which the Western Powers are in no way concerned. The Tientsin massacre only interested us as an ally of France in the East. It was a purely French catastrophe, though it was one in which our habit and principle of common action in Chinese affairs necessitated our making common cause with France. France is satisfied with the reparation offered, and, therefore, England is content. It would be well if all the missionaries would learn the lesson these disasters teach. The Chinese Government found a thoroughly sensible adviser in its Viceroy, Tseng-kwo-Fan. This great official was commissioned to go to Tientsin and thoroughly investigate the affair, and report upon it. His report is remarkably clear and straightforward, and not only points out the origin of the massacre, but suggests means whereby such calamities may be avoided in future. It confirms the statements already made that the disturbances actually originated in the superstitious terrors of the people. These latest missionaries and martyrs of aggressive Christianity found themselves exposed to the same strange and hideous accusations which met the earliest efforts of the Church. As in the Roman Empire under Nero the Christians were popularly believed to eat children in the feasts of their God, so in the Chinese Empire the Roman Catholics and Sisters of Mercy were believed to make medicines out of the eyes and hearts of infants.

(DAILY TELEGRAPH.)

After a study of the telegram most persons will be tempted to exclaim—What an odd sort of commodity Chinese justice proves to be! Sixteen coolies have been beheaded, and the Imperial Government has indemnified the families of the selected culprits. "Jedburgh justice" used to consist in executing a person first, and afterwards investigating at leisure whether or not he was guilty. The article dispensed by the Chinese authorities might be called "circular" justice, for it is based upon a desire to satisfy everybody all round. Thus, to please the troublesome "foreign devils," who would go on demanding satisfaction for the insignificant nuns and missionaries murdered at the French convent, the Government of Peking had apparently resolved that it might be better to behead a batch of the Emperor's subjects. To gratify public opinion and the literati class, to which the instigators of the massacre are supposed to belong, they decide, however, not to touch the chief criminals. They decapitate sixteen coolies, and banish twenty-three more, politely offering this libation of blood, with Tls. 500,000, to the French representative. Other Tls. 10,000 are promised to the Chinese Christians who have been maltreated, and we make no doubt that Li, or whoever else concluded the arrangement, looks upon it as a masterpiece of conciliation and enlightenment. Finally, the families of the beheaded are consoled with a Government grant, which would remove the very last objection to the arrangement in the mind of all Chinese officials. We can well imagine Tseng-kwo, or whoever transacted the affair, reporting in triumph to head-quarters that he had at one coup saved the dignity of China, had coaxed the "outer barbarians" into content, and even calmed the sorrows of those who had had the distinguished honour to furnish kinsmen for this happy act of diplomacy. A pang may perchance arise in the Western conscience when it reflects that the coolies executed were probably as innocent of the massacre as a child unborn. That scruple, indeed, would probably create no difficulty for Chinese justice. If not guilty at Tientsin, the doomed men had perhaps been guilty somewhere else, of some other crimes; and, failing this explanation, it is well known that in China persons may be hired to die, either for the State or for a neighbour. In consideration of ready money down, and an addition for his funeral and family, the votary of Foh cheerfully sells his existence; why, indeed, should he not? He lives amid such a swarm of life that death is necessarily too common to create much impression; and Kwan-Yin, the "Great Compassionate Heart," will see him safe into some better stage of being. Whether these sixteen had had a hand in the Tientsin murders or not, a head is a head. French honour is vindicated, Chinese high society has been respected, the difficulty is arranged, the coolies are no more, their relatives are comforted, the taels to be paid over can soon be got back by taxing "the foreign devil," and all is well once more.

THE OUTRAGE AT FATSHAN.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—I beg you to find space for a few remarks on the statement in your last issue, that you hope the circumstances of the above outrage will be brought prominently before the Foreign-office by the London Missionary Society, of which Mr. Chalmers is a member. In a letter to Lord Clarendon, dated February 5, 1869, they asked to be informed "of the range within which, according to existing treaties, missionaries in general may move freely;" and then they say that "the directors are anxious that the operations of the missionaries of the London Missionary Society shall be so conducted as in no way to embarrass Her Majesty's Government, or even inadvertently to complicate the relations between the two Empires." This letter may be seen in Blue-book, China, No. 2, 1869. I confess I could hardly believe my eyes when I first saw it. That a Society founded upon the command to "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," and receiving funds from every quarter of the world to carry out that object, should go to a Government with such statements, seems as incredible as that such a letter should have passed a Board of Directors. It is well known that a missionary cannot pass the borders of China without "inadvertently" incurring considerable risk. How, then, can the Society promulgate such sentiments? The Rev. James Williamson, who was murdered last year near Tientsin, was one of their agents. Those who investigated the affair were convinced that the officials were cognisant of the whole matter; and Dr. Thin, in his book, which everyone should read, says that "it is more than probable that it was the policy pursued in regard to that outrage which emboldened the Tientsin people to murder the French this summer." The seriousness of the affair was represented to the Society, but they took no action whatever; and, as I have reason to believe, when inquiries were made of the secretary about the state of negotiations, he could give no information upon the subject. Mr. Williamson was merely a missionary—a spoke in the big machine—and they could easily get another. He had gone away on a missionary tour, and was about thirty miles from his home when he was murdered, but he had thus "inadvertently" risked a complication between the two Empires, and so here was an end of it. There is therefore little hope of this Society taking any steps in the Fatshan case.—Yours, 15th Nov., 1870. Y.

Monetary and Commercial.

The section of the shareholders in the late Commercial Bank of India who took over certain landed property at Shanghai, and subscribed £100,000 to complete the payment of creditors' claims at 15s. in the pound, in order to avert further calls, have, we understand, decided to hold the property, which is yielding fair rentals, until it can be realised to good advantage by their agents in Shanghai, Messrs. Sassoon and Co. A portion of the receipts from rentals has been devoted to paying off a loan of £15,000, raised on the property, but it has been proposed and decided to distribute to the subscribers five per cent. on their capital subscribed. Notwithstanding this effort on the part of a few shareholders to save a sacrifice, it is expected that a small call must be made by the liquidator, Mr. Holyland, before the final closing up of affairs. The amount already called up is £15 per share, in addition to the £25 paid before the stoppage.

The liquidation of the Asiatic Bank and Bank of Hindustan has not yet been completed, but it is expected that final accounts will soon be ready, showing the realisation of assets, calls, &c. The Asiatic has paid its creditors 8s 6d. in the pound, and a further 9d. will probably be ready next month. The whole liability of the shareholders, viz., £20 on each old share, and £30 on new, has been called up, but has been much reduced by the failure of shareholders. The Hindustan has paid in full.

The whole of the £20 per share on the China and Japan Steam and Labuan Coal Company has been called up, but the final accounts are also pending.

The Messageries Maritimes announces that it will reimburse at Marseilles on presentation its 6 per cent. bonds of the first series, and that interest of 6 per cent. on those not presented will be paid until communications in Paris can be re-established.

The silver market has been flat, at 60 9-16d. per oz. standard. The steamer Ismailia, now due at Liverpool, has on board 2,500,000 Mexican dollars, transhipped on the 5th Nov. at New York, ex City of Merida, from Vera Cruz. The nearest price of these coins may be quoted 58¾d. per oz.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta, £295,150; to Bombay, £100,000; and to Madras, £4,850. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10d. on all Presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 10¼d. will receive about 39 per cent.; on Bombay at that price about 30 per cent and above in full. These results show scarcely any alteration in the demand for means of remittance to the East.

A general meeting of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company (Limited) will be held on the 14th December next, when a dividend will be declared for the 3½ months ended September 30.

The British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited) will hold a general meeting on the 15th December next to declare a dividend.

At the meeting of the shareholders of the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, G. G. Nicol, Esq., in the chair, the directors' report was adopted. A resolution was also passed, authorising the directors to hold the meetings of the company in April and October, instead of May and November, so that the accounts of the bank will in future be made up one month earlier than hitherto in each half-year. It was also resolved that the dividends would in future be declared by the directors after the accounts were made up, and the practice of paying dividends on the 1st January and 1st July would be discontinued. The chairman stated that a most careful valuation of the old debts had been made, and it was considered that by taking £110,207 from the reserve fund this would fully cover all the losses under that head. These losses had been incurred chiefly through one firm in the India trade which was well known to the shareholders. Although the profits for the past half-year had been only £20,235, it was owing to a most unusual depression in the India and China exchanges, and it might be expected that the current half-year would show very different results.

In reply to a shareholder, the chairman stated that the most careful attention had been given to the question of expenses, and it was found that it would be unwise, indeed, unsafe, to attempt any further reduction in the staff or salaries; it was of the last importance that the bank should be well served in India and China. Attention had been given to the interest paid on deposits, and a reduction had been carried out, the benefit of which would be seen in the next accounts. The proceedings terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman. The following is the report of the directors:—

The directors now present to the shareholders the half-yearly statement of accounts to 30th June last, showing a net profit of £20,235 2s. 11d. An interim dividend of 4 per cent. for the above period has been already paid.

The profits for the period embraced in these accounts have fallen materially short of the reasonable anticipations of the directors, owing to the continuous decline in Eastern exchanges almost down to a bullion point; but whilst the profits have been so unexpectedly small, it will be satisfactory to the shareholders to learn that notwithstanding the numerous failures that have occurred, consequent upon the sudden depreciation in the value of all Eastern produce caused by the war, the bank will sustain thereby but trifling, if any, loss.

BULLION AND SPECIE.

GOLD.—Since the 10th inst. about £210,000 of the Overland Mails gold has been sent into the Bank, and a similar amount remains to be dealt with. As there is not the slightest demand for abroad, it is thought that the balance will be purchased by the Bank in the course of a week. Sovereigns continue to be drawn from the Bank for Egypt, the Bangalore having taken £62,500 to Alexandria. The Seine has taken £2,950 to the West Indies.

SILVER.—The Continent still absorbs all arrivals, but the demand is not quite so brisk. The Seine has taken £5,500 to the West Indies.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—About £20,000 has been received from the West Indies and New York. With the exception of £1,000 sent to China, this coin is only taken for refining purposes. The price is not quite so firm. Exchange on India for Banks Drafts at 60 days' sight is 1s. 10⅞d. to 1s. 10¾d. per rupee. India Government Loan Notes remain as quoted in our last, viz.: Four per Cents., 90½ to 91½; Five per Cents., 99½ to 100¼; and Five and a-Half per Cents., 106½ to 107½.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market has been quieter during the fortnight, chiefly owing to the want of further supplies of new season's Teas during the earlier part of it. The last few days, however, there have been numerous arrivals both from Foochow and Shanghai, the samples of which have as yet only been partially put on the market, but with a greater assortment on offer than for some time past, although a fair amount of business has been done, prices for Teas, ranging from 1s. 6d. to 1s. 10d., show 1d. per lb. decline. In old Tea business continues to be very moderate, while for all low descriptions the market is much depressed, even at the low rates current. The public sales of the 15th inst. comprised 11,203 packages. About half the quantity was printed with reserve prices and withdrawn; the remainder sold without reserve at about previous prices.

Red-leaf Congous: Common siftings have sold as low as 3¾d. to 4d. at public sale, showing ½d. to 1d. decline, good siftings from 6¼d. to 6½d., and broken-leaf from 7¼d. to 9d. per lb., are also rather easier. Fair to good common show no change in prices, but the demand is limited. Fair to good Kaisows, of old import, have sold readily from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d. In new season's the sales, ex Thermopylæ and Sir Lancelot, show 1d. per lb. reduction from those made ex Vine, for fair to good kinds; fine to finest, from their scarcity, have been well maintained. In Paklins there is no alteration to notice. Black-leaf kinds: Low kinds show no improvement. Fair to good common remain firm, with a moderate inquiry. In new kinds the good medium qualities, owing to more being on offer, have declined 1d. per lb.; fine have been less in request at about a similar reduction; finest have been in demand at full prices. Amoy kinds: A few sales have been made at 8¼d. to 9d. for common, and 10d. to 11d. for fair quality. Oolongs remain very firm, the quantity offering being small. Souchongs have been sold at fully former prices. Some further parcels of Flowery Pekoe have been taken at full prices. Scented Teas: Canton kinds, in the absence of further arrivals of new season, show no alteration, either in Caners or Orange Pekoes. Foochow Orange Pekoes have been taken at fully former prices. Capers show no change. Uncoloured Japans remain as before. Green Teas: There has not been much business during the fortnight; the few parcels to hand from recent arrivals have not yet been placed on the market; prices generally show little if any alteration. Canton kinds show no change. Arrivals: The J. R. Worcester, Ethiopian, Duke of Abercorn, Whinfell, Sir Lancelot, Undine, Argonaut, Ambassador, Normancourt, and Eliza Shaw.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular:—The transactions during the past fortnight have been contracted for want of suitable supplies, there being a great scarcity of medium Congous, and extreme rates have been paid; but the past few days free arrivals have taken place, and sales are being made in black leaf at a reduction of 1d. per lb. on prices ruling a week ago. The satisfactory market so far this season is owing to supplies having come forward on a scale near to the deliveries, the imports being only 33,000,000 lbs., against 52,000,000 lbs. within the same period last year. Demand has been on the better grades, the large quantity of re-dried spurious leaf sold the early part of the year having interfered with the consumption for common Teas. The export trade to all quarters has been limited.

SILK.

For a few days, after our last report, when armistice negotiations before Paris were progressing with some little prospect of success, a considerable business was done on this market, chiefly in the Shanghai and Canton Silks, and prices generally stiffened, 26s. being freely paid for Red Peacock, 24s. 6d. to 25s. 6d. for No. 4½ Tsatlee, and 17s. to 17s. 6d. for ordinary Tsatlee reel Canton. The failure of peace prospects, however, caused a sudden stop to operations, and the market has since been very quiet, but with great firmness shown by importers. The more recent anxiety respecting the step taken by Russia has not affected the market to any further extent, and we have to report Silk as being very quiet, at unchanged rates, but with no disposition just now to do business. The deliveries continue extremely good under all conditions of the European markets, being from 1st to 16th inst. nearly equal to those of same period last year, say 1,413 Chinas, 229 Japans, 376 Cantons, and 165 Bengal; total, 2,188 bales, against a total of 2,329 bales in same days of 1869.

COFFEE.

Up to the 14th inst. although extensive supplies of Plantation Ceylon were daily placed upon offer, a good demand continued to prevail, and a further advance of 1s. per cwt. was established. Since the 14th, although large purchases have still been made the offers have been taken off at irregular, and in many instances lower prices; the current rates are triage and ordinary 37s. to 53s. 6d., small grey 50s. to 52s., low middling grey 57s. to 59s., bold ditto 62s. to 66s., small colory 53s. 6d. to 59s., middling to good middling colory 61s. 6d. to 70s. 6d., fine middling to good bold 73s. to 80s., pea-berry 70s. to 77s. 6d. The business in Native Ceylon has been less extensive than during the interval preceding the departure of last mail, but the late advance is steadily maintained. In other East India the business has been confined to the sale of 98 bags Singapore at 48s. 6d. per cwt., and 237 bags good Manila sort from Singapore at 51s. to 52s. 6d.

The weekly landings, consisting almost wholly of Ceylon, amount to nearly 2,000 tons, being 1,700 tons larger than in 1869; the deliveries are again important, and 700 tons in excess of last year, and the surplus in the stock is increased to 3,700 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 70,992 cwt., against 73,380 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 4,159 cwt., against 20,304 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 2,402 cwt. Plantation, against cwt., and 3,136 cwt. Native, against cwt. SUGAR.

The quiet condition of the market which prevailed at the close of our last report continued until the 11th inst., when a better demand appeared for refining descriptions, and sales of good extent were effected at firm prices; the market has since assumed a somewhat quieter tone, but prices are well maintained. Manila: At auction 3,423 bags clayed (duty 4s.) were offered and bought in at 23s. 6d., but the parcel was subsequently sold at 23s. 3d.; by private contract the sales have been moderate, but there has been a fair demand, chiefly for export; about 23,000 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) have been sold at 22s. 6d. to 23s., chiefly the latter price, also 4,000 bags unclayed Tual at 18s. 6d. Penang: 3,810 bags have been sold by auction at fully the valuations, common soft brown (duty 4s.) 22s. to 23s., middling to fine brown (duties 4s. and 4s. 9d.) 24s. 6d. to 27s. 6d., soft grey and yellow (duty 4s. 9d.) 28s. to 29s.; by private contract 500 baskets low quality have been sold at 17s. 6d. Siam: A parcel, consisting of 1,645 mats low and common brown was offered in public sale and bought in at 19s. to 20s. per cwt. Java: No transactions.

The deliveries for home consumption are again large, being in excess of last year's by 1,000 tons, whilst exports are 200 tons more, and the landings being 500 tons less than in the corresponding week last year, the stock now shows a deficiency of nearly 3,000 tons. Stock, Nov. 5, 84,753 tons, against 85,924 tons; Nov. 12, 81,818 tons, against 84,725 tons. NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

There is a fairly active demand, the inquiry being principally for Oolong, which are relatively cheaper than other descriptions. The demand is chiefly to supply the current wants of the trade, although the prospective reduction of the duty has induced a little speculative inquiry, buying parcels to hold in bond having become a favourite mode of investment, inasmuch as it is thought the decline in market values after the 1st January will probably be to a less extent than the amount taken off in the duty.

The current quotations are as follows:—Hyson, common to fair, 55c. to 65c.; superior to fine, 70c. to 85c.; extra fine to finest, 95c. to $1.25. Young Hyson, Canton made, nominal; common to fair, 55c. to 60c.; superior to fine, 65c. to $1; extra fine to finest, $1.15 to 1.40. Gunpowder and Imperial, Canton made, nominal; common to fair, 70c. to 85c.; superior to fine, 95c. to $1.10; extra fine to finest, $1.25 to 1.60. Hyson Skin and Twankay, Canton made, nominal; common to fair, 48c. to 55c.; superior to fine, 58c. to 63c.; extra fine to finest, 65c. to 70c.; Uncoloured Japan, common to fair, 70c. to 75c.; superior to fine, 80c. to 85c.; extra fine to finest, 90c. to $1.15. Oolong, common to fair, 60c. to 70c.; superior to fine, 75c. to 95c.; extra fine to finest, $1.05 to 1.40. Souchong and Congou, common to fair, 60c. to 70c.; superior to fine, 75c. to 90c.; extra fine to finest, $1 to 1.30; Orange Pekoe, common to fine, 70c. to $1.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are, Java Government bags, 21c. to 23c.; Java mats, 21c. to 23c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c. There is a good demand for Brazil, prices of which exhibit a tendency towards advance. The market for Java has been greatly influenced by the result of the sale at Padang on Sept. 28, at which 20,000 piculs were taken for America. This is considered a favourable feature, the general anticipation being that the quantity would be much larger, and prices are one-half cent. higher, the quotations ruling at 21c. to 23c., with none to be had below 21c.—fine Brown bringing even more than 23c. from jobbers' hands. The stock is much reduced, and is nearly all in second hands; the sales have been 4,000 to 5,000 mats at the current rates. The market for all kinds is very quiet, and there are no transactions to report. The stock of Manila on the 1st Oct. was estimated at 400 bags, against 3,775 bags on Oct. 1, 1869; of Java (Government), at 12,558 mats, against 943 bags; of Java pockets, nil, against 43,391 bags; of Ceylon, 8,539 bags, against nil.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 15c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.25; Cassia, $1.25 gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—The stock is very moderate, and holders generally demand $4 for Extra No. 1; 2,500 boxes sold on private terms.

GUNNY CLOTH.—There is no demand and prices are nominal.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—Manila is still inactive the business done having been extremely limited; the current rates are 13c. to 13½c. gold; the sale is reported from Boston of 500 bales, ex Peruvian, at 13c. 60 days prompt. The Daniel Marcy has arrived with 4,767 bales, all of which had been sold previous to arrival.

INDIGO.—The market for Manila continues steady but quiet; sales have been effected of about 50 cases at $1.10 to 1.30 currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $10.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1.18 to 1.80 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The market is very dull, there being scarcely any enquiry, although Carolina is being freely offered and sellers are willing to afford some concession upon previously ruling prices. Rangoon maintains its former value, but the business has been limited; the sales amount to about 200 bags in lots for home consumption at $6.75 to 7 currency, and 1,000 bags for export at $3.25 gold (in bond).

SUGAR.—The market has been inactive but prices have been maintained with firmness; at the close there are signs of an improvement. The only sale to report is of 3,682 bags Manila on private terms.

SPICES.—The market is quiet for invoices, there being but few goods now in the hands of Importers; the trade demand is also rather slack, buyers limiting their orders to small lots that they are sure of working off by the close of the year so as to stock again under the lower duty-paid prices that will then be current. Spices in bond, of nearly all descriptions, are very firm, the tendency generally being in sellers' favour; but those out of bond, though nominally unchanged, are irregular in price, holders being willing to meet buyers at a fair offer; the business has been very moderate, chiefly at rates last quoted.

TIN.—There is still an entire absence of enquiry for, or business in, foreign descriptions; the nominal quotations are Straits 31¼c. to 32c.; Banca 35½c. gold.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—Reliable Remedies. In wounds, burns, sprains, glandular swellings, enlarged veins, neuralgic pains, and rheumatic tortures, the application of this soothing Ointment to the affected part not only gives the greatest ease, but likewise cures the complaint. The Pills generally promote the curative action of the Ointment. Both remedies may be used by the most inexperienced nurse; they should find a place on every toilet, and in every nursery. They successfully supersede the use of all dangerous cosmetics, and render the skin soft and silky. It is unnecessary to expatiate further on the excellence of Holloway's Ointment and Pills, whose merits have kept them so long before the public, and secured for them universal approbation.

ART

An Illustrated Magazine.

No. 6, for December, will contain the following Heliotype Illustrations:—

1. PORTRAIT OF A LADY. By Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise. (Reproduced, by special permission, from the original Drawing.)
2. "DRESSING FOR THE MASQUERADE." (Morland.)
3. PORTRAIT OF BERGHEM. (Rembrandt.) From the original Picture in the Marquis of Westminster's Collection.
4. THE CRUCIFIXION. Fac-simile of an early Italian Print.

THIS publication was commenced on the 1st of July, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high-class monthly Magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. "ART" is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains Four or more Full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to "ART" are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID, HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, Jun., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE STANDARD.

Art Pictorial and Industrial has reached its fourth number, which is a decided improvement upon its predecessors. The "Portrait by Vandyck" is a marvellous fac-simile of the original painting, and the interior of the Picture Gallery at Strawberry-Hill is, apparently, a most delicate and successful photograph. We say apparently, for the illustrations in this very handsomely got-up "monthly" are not photographs as they appear, but engravings. They possess all the clearness and delicacy of photographs, with the permanency of engravings. This desideratum, which has been so long desired and so frequently attempted, is the result of a new invention. It is called Heliotypy, and the process, which is at once simple and scientific, is fully explained in the present number. The literary portion of the work is worthy of the illustration, and the new magazine is at once most valuable to art students and art lovers, and an ornament to a drawing-room table.

PUBLIC OPINION, Sept. 3.

The idea of the projectors of this really beautiful publication is to form a valuable guide and text-book for the supporters of Popular Art in England. . . . . In the dozen exquisite illustrations which appear in the numbers for July and August, it will be seen how thoroughly the Editor has carried out his promise to present to the reader the finest subjects within his reach. We wish Art every success, which it could not fail to secure if merit alone commanded it.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, Oct. 8.

The new illustrated monthly magazine, entitled Art, has attained its fourth number, and promises well. The articles of which it is composed are of varied interest and by competent writers. The subjects treated generally relate to fine art proper, and in a less degree to "applied art" or art manufactures. A novel feature is the employment of Heliotypy for producing illustrations. By this process, which has been brought to perfection by Mr. Ernest Edwards, the product of the camera is rendered available for ordinary printing as rapidly as from a metal plate or stone. The advantages thus afforded for supplying swiftly, and therefore cheaply facsimile reproductions of works of art are too obvious to require comment. A lucid account of the process is furnished by Mr. Wharton Simpson, one of our best authorities on photographic manipulation. The present number also contains well informed "Art-Notes," and "Gossip" on current events at home and abroad.

THE EXAMINER.

In every way a creditable production. The letter-press, on toned paper, is an excellent specimen of typography, and is written with the taste and judgment suitable for such a periodical, while the illustrations are marked by a more than usual degree of refinement and delicacy. . . . The reader will find plenty worth notice in both text and illustrations.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

The dates extend to the 8th Oct. The outward P. and O. mail of Aug. 12 arrived on the 27th Sept.

The following summary is from the Japan Herald:—

The Japanese Government, having determined to appoint an Ambassador to the principal European Courts, have accredited Sameshima Goi as their Envoy. He is to be accompanied by Shiwoda Sabura, who is to officiate in the double capacity of secretary and interpreter. Sameshima Goi formerly held a position at Osaka immediately after the commencement of the late revolution, to which position he was appointed by the Mikado's Government.

A state review of the Imperial troops at Yedo was held in presence of the Mikado, who was attended by the two chief Ministers, the Princes Satsuma, Toza, Hizen, and Chosiu. Three Europeans witnessed the evolutions.

The telegraph at Osaka is being extended up the river to the Mint. The Osaka Mint is rapidly approaching completion, but will not be ready to work for some months.

A projected synagogue has enlisted the warmest sympathies of the Hebrew community. The praiseworthy offer of Messrs. A. Marks and Co. of a site has been backed up by liberal contributions from their co-religionists in the settlement, and, with the assistance of Dr. Adler and wealthy Israelites in Europe, we may hope soon to see an edifice arise worthy the reception of the ark containing the scrolls of the law.

Some light is thrown upon the resolve of the Government to limit the railway works to the portions mentioned in a former paragraph, by the fact of their present determination being not to avail themselves of the funds occurring from the Lay Loan; the two short lines at present contemplated being capable of being constructed out of their own resources. In this view—rather than incur new obligations, and possibly new complications,—the financial overtures made by the agent of a banking corporation in this behalf have not been responded to satisfactorily. The whole matter is for the present in abeyance, and is likely to remain so until Uweno and Baron Von Siebold shall have had time to reach England, to institute inquiries, and advise the Government accordingly.

In Prince Kuroda's yashiki at Yedo a very large amount of forged kinsats has been discovered. In consequence of this the daishongi and shosangi, with other important officers, have been arrested, and are now awaiting their trial.

H.M.S. Adventure left for Hiogo, Nagasaki, Shanghai, and Hong Kong on the morning of the 2nd Oct. At the latter place she will be paid off and re-commissioned with a reduced complement of officers and men. The present Navigating Officer, Lieutenant Corbet, will be the future captain. After being thoroughly refitted, and having new boilers put in she will return to Yokohama with the marines that are expected out here in the Tamar. They will live on board, to save the expense of keeping up barracks on shore. This is resorted to as a measure of economy on the part of the present Government. The 10th Regiment will be withdrawn, and the barracks disused and probably dismantled. If so the ground will be resumed by the Government, divided into allotments and sold.

On the 24th September one of the most impudent robberies hitherto perpetrated in Yokohama was attempted at the military store. The following account has been compiled from various unofficial sources, Senior Controller Buchanan "not being prepared to give any information on the subject." The foreman of the store, named Lyne, was entrusted each morning with the keys of the stores to use during the morning, and return them when done with to the proper officer. This he did as usual on the 23rd; but on the assistant foreman taking down the keys next morning he found the shutters unfastened, the doors unlocked, and a number of bales of clothing gone from the racks. Prompt investigation led to the discovery that the delinquent foreman had been employing coolies and carts during the previous afternoon to take away bales of clothing, and other articles from the store, for shipment in the American mail steamer for disposal elsewhere. Notice of the robbery was sent to Mr. Consul Robertson and the Saibansho, and subsequently fifty-seven bales and packages were found at the Hatoba ready for shipment. Lyne appears to have gone off in the steamer, leaving his wife and family behind him. A warrant has been issued for his apprehension, should he not have escaped, and stock is now being taken at the store, with the view of ascertaining the extent of his booty.

A few days since an occurrence took place in a quarter of Osaka called Nambu and Nagamatch, being as follows:—Two gamblers, one named Nambu, and the other Fukumatz, were on terms of intimacy and in the habit of frequenting each other's house. Fukumatz was a married man and had one child; Nambu was a single man. It appears that one day while Fukumatz and his wife were out, that Nambu made a visit to their house, and finding nobody at home, was tempted to steal some wearing apparel and money. Upon the return of Fukumatz the robbery was discovered. Search was instantly made for the stolen goods, but it was not until two days after that the things were found, and Nambu was traced out to be the thief, whereupon Fukumatz determined to have revenge upon Nambu by taking his life. Accordingly, he informed his wife of his determination, and stated that he supposed when caught he would be beheaded. He then ordered his wife to take the child and wait for him at a certain bridge, after which he took a sword, and, meeting his wife and child upon the bridge, instantly murdered them and threw their bodies into the river. He then rushed frantically to Nambu's house, and, meeting him on the threshold, took off his head with one sweep of his sword. He was instantly arrested and tried, but, having before been considered a quiet and inoffensive man, the sentence of death, which he fully expected, was commuted, and he now lies in prison under sentence to serve in the docks, but for what time it is not yet decided.

TYPHOON AT YOKOHAMA AND YEDO.

On Oct. 2 the annual typhoon made its appearance, heralded in the morning by a copper coloured sky, a rapidly falling barometer, a hot angry wind from the south, and a high sea. A strong gale blew at about eight o'clock, and increased in intensity, accompanied by torrents of rain, till nearly two o'clock, when it abated. Shattered tiles, broken plaster, flooded rooms throughout the foreign settlement, three ruined huts at the camp, and a blown-away "tooth-pick" erection on the hill, attest its force; but providentially only one instance of loss of life has to be recorded—a Japanese crushed beneath the ruins of his house. The gale, besides death, brought healing in its breath, as was exemplified at the hospital, where a first-class rheumatic cripple, with affected knees, was so excited at the loss of his first-class dinner through the blowing down of the kitchen chimney, that he rose up in wrath, seemingly recovered, and hurried down to the settlement in quest of a first-class "feed." The U.S. Consul's flagstaff came crashing down during the gale, and the Dutch Minister's followed suit, luckily without injury to life or limb. The exceptionally high waves which washed the wall of the Bund toppled over stone after stone of the coping, and the damage done to the French Hatoba in the storm of Aug. 20, and never repaired, was so intensified as to render it almost useless.

At the English Hatoba many large boulders were carried sheer over from one side to the other. Fortunately the shipping in the harbour escaped with comparatively little damage.—The captain of the No. 9 lighter states that coming across the Pacific he sighted the typhoon miles ahead of him, and came in behind it. The Costa Rica would probably be exposed to the full force of the blast. The Atalante and the Gaucho collided, the latter being but little damaged; the former lost foremast, bowsprit, jibboom, damaged her funnel and seriously injured her upper works. The powder hulk Emilie was driven ashore about eleven o'clock broadside on, between Kanagawa and Kawasaki, and now lies high and dry there. Between the squalls the seas could be descried sweeping her fore and aft. The Japanese steamer Bahama also got ashore on the beach about eight miles distant on the other side of Kawasaki. The Arabie drove down on the English mail boat, even although every link of chain on board the latter was payed out to avoid the collision; no serious damage was however done to either. The Stag commenced dragging in the early part of the day, and came down athwart the Otago's bows, losing her maintopmast, fore topgallant mast-head, and works and stanchions on the starboard quarter. The Otago lost bowsprit, figure-head, and about ten feet of covering planking on the port side of the forecastle. The Fabius dragged down on the hulk Acorn, doing little injury; the Abbey Bacon lost bowsprit and jibboom in a collision with the Andreas. Along the Creek the damage done was great.

The damage caused by the typhoon at Yedo has been very great, and over thirty people have been drowned, and others crushed beneath the houses that were blown down. Six junks of the largest size, together with thirteen smaller ones, and a steamer owned by a Japanese company at Yedo, which were anchored in the river near to the Yeitai Bridge, parted their cables and drove on to the bridge, and are all now completely wrecked. The bridge is broken in half, and it will take a long time to repair it, it being one of the largest in Yedo. At a place named Nerima Mura, about two and a-half ri from Yedo, a large meteorite fell. It is computed to be 300 to 400 lbs. in weight; it fell on Saturday night. A small island, called Itsushima, about half a mile in circumference, near to the coast at Yedo, has been swept away and submerged beneath the sea.

The storm raged also at Meyanoshta and Hakone, imprisoning the visitors at the tea house, and rendering the roads impassable. There are are twenty-two foreigners there just now, as well as numbers of well-to-do Japanese. Unfortunately numerous lives were lost upon the coast, several junks, with their crews, it is said, foundering in the gale.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN,

A correspondent, writing under date Oct. 4th, says:—Fresh feelings of joy and renewed hopes that the foreigner is speedily to be annihilated have been awakened in the minds of the natives here by the arrival of the news from Kiu-kiang. They believe that not only has a great deal of property been destroyed, but that the special objects of their hatred have been put to death at Wu-ching in like manner as they were by themselves here. The more boisterous and bloodthirsty among the people are impatient with the high officials. Ting, Tseng-kwo-Fan, and Chung-How are ridiculed in a variety of forms; short songs are placarded on the walls, and opprobrious epithets are bandied about in unlimited numbers. They are called Sun-tsz—grandsons, meaning that they are as much afraid of the English and French, and stand as much in awe of them, as a grandson does of his grandfather. Accordingly, the English and French are called "Ying-tsu-tsung" and "Fa-tsu-tsug," our English and French ancestors. Prince Kung—who, as you know, is the sixth Prince, is also dignified with the name of Kuei-tsz-Liu'rh, which being freely rendered is, Mr. Six (the friend of the) foreign devils.

We hear that like preparations for war are being made in Peking to those we mentioned in our last as being in progress here. Nothing but war is talked of in the capital; even the apathy of the foreign Ministerial mind has given place to serious apprehension and the gravest fears, that nothing can save the country from such a calamity. Similar proclamations to the one sent last week have been issued in most of the towns between the Imperial city and Tientsin, ordering the crops to be cut down and harvested within ten days. The ground is being laid out for a huge encampment at Pali-Chau, near Tung-Chau. A gentleman passing through Yang-tsun found it full of Paou-ting-foo soldiers, and upon inquiry he learned that they were under the leadership of Chung-kwo-Shwai. The streets of Peking itself are full of soldiers, and drill is daily gone through outside the walls. It is exquisitely amusing to read the account of the way in which some of these exercises are performed. The old wooden guns have been taken out of their store rooms and carefully washed; being thus ready for practice or for fight they are used in daily drill. In working they require two men after the weapon is loaded; one of whom crawls to the front and places himself in extenso as a rest for the gun, the second man keeps puffing at the match till he gets the "deadly" piece to send its fatal missile towards a target, which it never hits. The men hold on by straps, as the recoil is fearful; these straps serving the double purpose of keeping the instrument within their reach, and aiding them to pick themselves up from their horizontal position. A squad of fifteen, managing seven of these guns, have five men extra attached with "fowling pieces," forming a most dangerous and invincible force.

NEWCHWANG.

A correspondent, writing under date Oct. 4th, says:—The English residents at this port had asked our Consul to represent to our Minister at Peking the unprotected state we would be in during the approaching winter if no naval or military force was sent here. In answer to a despatch of our Consul, forwarding the request of the English community, Mr. Wade states that he has written to the Admiral, and asked him to send a gun-boat and ten marines for our protection during the winter. This will give us a force of some fifty men. It will be a great source of comfort to those who must remain here for the four and a-half months that we are shut out from the world by ice. There are, however, a considerable number going south for the winter, in spite of the promised protection. Mr. Wade also authorises Mr. Acting Consul King to issue arms to those members of the community on whose discretion he can rely, and recommends that the community should as speedily as possible acquire proficiency in the use of the rifle, and practice shooting at a mark.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are down to Oct. 11. The English mail of Aug. 26 arrived on the 10th Oct. Telegrams, vis Kiachta, to the 20th Sept. were received Oct. 10.

The Evening Courier, commenting on certain extracts from The Times, says:—"We are much disappointed at the tone of the very first letter which its correspondent had the opportunity of writing, on the occasion of the Tientsin Massacre. The official complicity in the massacre was not known at first, and the correspondent may not, therefore, be greatly to blame for making no allusion to that constant element in all popular demonstrations against foreigners. The impression which both The Times and Pall Mall would wish to give to the English people is, that the murdered persons were guilty of grave indiscretions, if not of positive criminality, and thereby brought their fate on themselves. It is sad to find any intelligent member of this community catering for such an unjust as well as ungenerous bygone conclusion."

The Courier learns with much satisfaction the movement of the London merchants for the public meeting of Sept. 14 on the subject of the Tientsin massacre; and observes that the note struck by The Times has no doubt given the alarm, and it wishes the merchants as much success on the present occasion as attended their efforts in the battle of the Convention.

The same paper says, the arrival of Admiral Rodgers is likely to inaugurate a more vigorous policy in China on the part of the United States. It is said when Mr. W. H. Seward comes over from Japan he and his nephew, Mr. G. F. Seward, U.S. Consul-General, will go north in the Colorado, and there is good reason to believe that the result of a conference between the Minister, the Admiral, the veteran statesman, and the Consul-General, will be to put an end to all necessity for American citizens at least surrendering, during the winter, the footholds they have obtained in the north of China.

We learn that the ship Her Majesty, in entering the river at Woosung, on Oct. 8, took the ground on the Pootung shore, just inside the bar. This occurred just at high water, but it is expected that she will float off without damage.

A new company has been formed under the name of the Foochow and North China Steam Navigation Company, to take over the steamboats running under the management of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson, and Co., between Foochow, Shanghai, and the Northern Ports. The boats proposed to be taken over are the Appin, Lismore, Dragon, Kiushu, and Nanzing, all in efficient working order, and it is intended that the company shall commence its operations on the 1st of January, 1871. The capital proposed to be raised in the first instance is Tls. 300,000. The first call of Tls. 50 per share will be paid on allotment, and the second call of Tls. 50 per share on the 31st of March, 1871, further calls to be made should the conditions of traffic warrant an augmentation of the fleet.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

Oct. 15, 1870.

On the 7th Oct., after four days' exposure in the long boat, the crew of the British vessel Escape, of Liverpool, Captain Lloyd, arrived safely at Amoy. It appears that the said vessel had been wrecked at Sandy Hill, thirty miles south of Tamsuy, Formosa, on her voyage from Newchwang to Hong Kong, cargo beancake. On the following day, the 8th, they were sent to Foochow to find the means of reaching the United Kingdom.

Very little doing here in shipping; there are sixteen North German vessels lying up, unable to put to sea, owing to the war. I give a list of their names below:—Anna, Bransi, Christine, Diamant, Fritz and Anton, Hector, Isis, Juno, J. H. Jessen, Mary, Marie and Helene, Otto, Peiho, Roska, Wanja, Xaca.

Everything, politically speaking, is quiet here, although there was a report last week that an attack on the Presbyterian Mission Chapel at Chinchew had been threatened. Nothing, however, has occurred.

HONG KONG.

Dates are down to the 18th October. The London mails of the 19th and 26th August and 2nd Sept. were received on the 30th Sept. and the 3rd and 11th Oct. respectively.

Most of the intelligence by this mail has been anticipated by the French mail, and appeared in our last issue, on the 24th inst.

The Legislative Council met on the 14th October. H. E. the Lieut.-Governor submitted the estimates for 1871 for a first reading, remarking as he did so that they were based on those of preceding years, and as the Colonial Secretary would make every explanation required, that it was unnecessary to give any details at present. The ordinance authorising the expenditure was then read a first time.

H. E. the Lieut.-Governor then laid upon the table three Bills. One of these was supplemental to order No. 7 of 1870, the Bill bearing upon Chinese criminals who returned from deportation. The last Ordinance, however (7 of 1870), only applied to Chinese, and it was desirable to provide for those nationals other than Chinese who might at any time be deported and return. The next was an ordinance giving power to the Governor to regulate the amount of fees chargeable under any ordinance for licensing purposes. A representation had been made some time since by an influential body of Chinese to the effect that the fees charged for coolie lodging-houses were so high that they amounted to a sort of poll tax upon the existence of every coolie in the place; but, as the Act gave no power to reduce it, an ordinance was required to be passed, granting such authority. The third Bill was an ordinance relative to attornies, proctors, and articled clerks. The Attorney-General explained that he had had the advantage of a meeting of the profession, which was presided over by the Chief Justice, and the measure was then gone over clause by clause. They had not had the advantage of Mr. Ball's presence, but there was plenty of time between this and the second reading for any suggestions which might be made.

A further sum of $1,800 was voted for the telegraph, it being explained that, if the contract now pending with the Great Northern Telegraph Company was carried out, the above amount would be reduced by about $900. The Colonial Secretary said he only wished to obtain the authority. If the whole of the $1,800 were not spent, then it would stand to the credit of the Treasurer. On the same ground he would ask for a vote of $800 for damage done to Government property by the late typhoon.

Mr. McLeavy Brown and the Chinese Commissioners had arrived by the French mail, and proceeded on to Peking.

The Daily Press has the following on the trade at Chaou-chow-Foo:—It is to be regretted that the opening of the port of Chaou-chow-Foo, which was accomplished by Mr. Alabaster last year, after a great deal of troublesome negotiation with the authorities, subsequently to the action which took place consequent upon a man-of-war's boat being fired upon, has not, up to the present, been productive of any satisfactory results. The commercial advantages which were confidently looked for appear to have been almost nothing beyond the fact that a small part of the trade in piece goods and opium, before done at Chaou-chow-Foo, has fallen into the hands of the foreign merchants at Swatow; but it seems that the only terms on which they have been able to do business at all have been by paying themselves Tls. 10 lekin, duties demanded by the authorities.

The last act in the great Yokohama Post-office embroglio (says the China Mail) consists of the appointment of Mr. Machado as H.M.'s Postmaster at Yokohama. This fact is officially announced in the last Gazette Mr. Machado learned his business under the eye of our energetic Postmaster-General, and is reported well up in his profession. It is to be hoped he will now be able to find a nationality.

Henry Charles Wright, a person who defrauded Messrs. Bright Brothers and Co., of Melbourne, is sent back in custody by the present mail.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

Dates from this port extend to the 16th Oct.

The news of the reverses of their armies in Europe had created a profound sensation among the French in Saigon, but they had not lost confidence in the power of their country to retrieve her losses, and they congratulated themselves on their friendly relations with the Annamite Government and the native population of Cochin China.

The third list of the subscriptions for the wounded, amounting to f.11,430, raises the sum already collected in Saigon to f.40,000.

In our last number we published a telegram stating that all Germans had been expelled from Saigon.

Heavy rains had fallen at Rach-gid, and the forests were completely inundated, the floods having formed into natural canals diverging in all directions. This being the season for wood-cutting and the gum harvest, the natives were actively availing themselves of these new channels, navigating their frail canoes through the forests, and towing back trees twenty or thirty feet long. The mean depth of the floods in the forests is two feet.

SIAM.

—o—

BANGKOK.

Dates by this mail are to Oct. 18.

The weather had been rather unsettled, but the breezes were veering to the North. The Siam Advertiser says:—In Bangkok, this and next month, the river banks will be inundated by the high tides in the vicinity of each new and full moon. After the subsiding of the inundations, the paddy will ripen rapidly, and the people will be fully occupied with harvesting their new rice crop. Next will follow the brisk rice trade for the season, from which the cultivators, who have planted so plentifully this year, anticipate a proportionately rich reward.

From Petchaburee, under date October 3, we have the following items, viz.:—The rice here now is in a flourishing condition, and is getting quite tall. This is high land, however. I hear that where the land is low there is too much water, and consequently the crop is being injured. The river has become quite moderate again in size and rapidity, and its banks all along are visible. It has fallen five feet from what it was during the rains.

There was little other news of interest. The subscription raised among the German residents of Bangkok for the relief of the wounded amounted to $3,361.

The Bangkok Summary learns from good authority that Luang

Sri Siam Kitch, better known as Nai Nate, the son of the late Governor of Paknam, has been appointed by the Siamese Government to fill the post of Governor of that city. Nai Nate was educated in the school at Singapore, where he studied the English language for upwards of six years, and subsequently he was appointed Vice Consul for Siam at that port. He was recalled from Singapore to fill the post of secretary to his Majesty the Wang Hluang, during the absence of Phya Rachanakit in the priesthood, and has since then been constantly in the Government service. In his department Nai Nate is much of a gentleman; he speaks the English language fluently; in fact, we have not met with a Siamese who speaks it so well. From the experience he has had as Vice-Consul in Singapore, and his intercourse with foreigners there and in this port, it may reasonably be expected that the new Governor of Paknam, in his dealings with foreigners, will perform his duties with honour to himself and to the satisfaction of all with whom he comes in contact.

The crews of the state barges are now at exercise on the river daily, morning and evening, making the air resound with their cries of "Hai low, hie low." The object of this exercise is to have the men trained to paddle together, so that they will be the better able to propel the state barges in the Royal cortege when the Kings of Siam visit the Wats in and around the city of Bangkok. Last year the Wat visiting was conducted in a semi-royal state, but doubtless it will be done right royally this year, and the Kings may be expected to appear in their best style before the thousands of their subjects who will be assembled to witness the processions.

A son and a daughter of the Rev. D. B. Bradley, M.D., united on the 2nd Oct. with the Congregational Church of this city. This church is under the auspices of the Am. Missionary Association, which established its mission in Bangkok, July, 1848. Dr. Bradley, however, has been an active missionary, labouring for the Siamese in this field ever since 1835.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 25th Oct. The English mail of the 9th Sept. arrived on the 11th Oct., and the French mail with London letters to the 16th Sept. arrived on the 16th Oct. The following items are from the Straits Times:—

The extortion and ill-treatment to which Mahomedan pilgrims are subjected in Singapore have been again exposed by Mr. W. H. Read, the Netherlands Consul, who has for many years endeavoured to draw the attention of the Netherlands Government to the subject. Mr. Read states that the Hadjees are constantly robbed and beaten; but the abject dread these poor ignorant people stand in of the people who impose themselves upon them as "Kazees" or priests prevents them carrying their complaints to the proper tribunals. The sums supposed to be derived from these victims of rapacity have been estimated at $8,000 to $10,000 a-year—one man alone having cleared, two years consecutively, from $4,000 to $6,000. The Straits Times considers these statements exaggerated, but no doubt much good might be effected by a proper regulation and supervision of the pilgrims' lodging-houses,—even to the extent of taking charge of the pilgrims' money, and merely paying their board out of it until they obtain passage away from the port.

The arrivals from England, via the Suez Canal, since the last overland were the Cella, with a portion of the cable to be laid between Hong Kong and Shanghai; the Elgin, the Diomed, the Lord of the Isles, and P. & O. steamer Australia. The only departure for home by this route had been the Albatross, for London.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—In spite of a moderate business in most staples, the tone of the market during the fortnight had been dull. The further concessions made by holders of Cotton Yarn had induced a considerable business, chiefly in Nos. 28 to 32, the market reaching its lowest point six days before the departure of the mail, since then an improvement had taken place, and prices closed as quoted below. Grey Shirtings had met with but limited inquiry, and rates were slightly weaker. Black Velvets had been neglected; a small business had been done in Turkey Reds, T-Cloths, and Taffachelass. A few descriptions of Woollens had found buyers. Quotations:—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., per piece, $2.37½ to 2.42½; 8 lbs., $2.87½ to 2.92½; 9 lbs., $3.40 to 3.45; G.E. SHANGHAI.—Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs. of ordinary quality had continued in fair request at about previous prices; best goods had not been so much in favour. Contracts for early arrival per steamers are reported. Stocks of this weight were limited at the moment, but supplies were close at hand; 7 lbs., for these there had been no great inquiry; 9 lbs. and 9 10-12 lbs., about 60,000 to 100,000 pieces of the latter had changed hands at Tls. 2.3.0 to 2.4.0. T-Cloths, for 7 lbs. there was a good demand at former prices; 6 lbs. and 8 lbs. had sold to a moderate extent; 7 lbs. Mexican Cloths were again rather lower. There was a slightly better feeling in the market for 6 lbs. and 7 lbs. of T quality. Drills: English and Dutch had commanded the attention of buyers, and some quantity of both makes had been sold at about former rates; American Drills were not in demand. Jeans: A large business was reported, but no improvement in value was noticeable. White Shirtings: A few sales at irregular prices; inquiry principally for best 64 reed. Fancy Goods: Dyed Brocades asked for, and a few sold at quotations. Chintzes in heavy stock and difficult of sale. Turkey Reds: A few contracts made at prices showing a slight decline. Velvets and Velveteens in small inquiry at current low rates. Woollens and Worsteds: Stocks excessive, and no improvement in prices was looked for, while supplies from home continued. There had been a demand for Scarlet Long Ells for Hong Kong; sales of these goods had been made at extremely low rates, principally by holders who took them in barter for produce. Spanish Stripes had been realised at better prices, but still showed a heavy loss on laid down cost. The following were the current quotations:—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $1.7.2 to 1.7.7; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., $2.2.4 to 2.2.6; 9 to 9 10-12 lbs., $2.2.5 to 2.5.0. G.E. White Shirtings, $1.5.0 to 2.3.0. American Drills, $3.3.0 to 3.4.5; American Jeans, 2.4.0 to 2.4.5; English Drills, $2.9.0 to 3.0.2; English Jeans, $2 to 2.1.0; English Sheetings, $3.1.0 to 3.6.0; Dutch Drills, 2.7.0 to 2.9.5; Dutch Jeans, $2 to 2.2.5; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, $1.1.3 to 1.1.8; 7 lbs. do., $1.2.8 to 1.3.8; 6 lbs. Mexican, $1.3.0 to 1.4.0; 7 lbs. do., $1.4 to 1.5.5.; 8 to 8½ lbs., $1.7.0 to 1.8.2; Spanish Stripes, 0.4 to 0.53 per yard; Medium and Habit Cloths, $0.8.5 to 1.4; Camlets, English, SS, $10 to 10.9 per piece; Long Ells, Scarlet, 24 yds. 31 in. 12 lbs., $5 to 5.4; Assorted, $4.4 to 5.2; Lastings, 30 yds. 31 in., $8 to 9.6; Crape Lastings, 30 yds. 31 in., $4.2 to 5.5; Lustres, $2.8 to 3.4; Orleans, Figured, $3 to 3.6; Plain, $3.3 to 3.6; Coals—English, $7.2.5 per ton, nominal; Cardiff, $9.5; American, $10, nominal.

HANKOW.—Cotton Goods:—Grey Shirtings: The bulk of the purchases had been made at last mail's quotations, but arrivals having been small, holders were firmer in their demands, and an advance of 3 candareens per piece on 7 lbs. and 8¼ lbs. weights had been established; they were quoted Tls. 1.73 to 1.78, and Tls. 2.20 to 2.27 respectively; little doing in 9¾ lbs., at Tls. 2.40 to 2.45 per piece for best makes. White Shirtings: Small sales at unchanged rates. T-Cloths:—A considerable business in both 7 and 8 lbs.; Best Makes commanded most attention, and a slight advance noticeable in the value of Mexican 7 lbs.; Common had been sold as low as Tls. 1.30 to 1.50 per piece; operations said to be chiefly speculative. Drills: Moderate sales, but prices had further given way, and closed weak, at Tls. 2.80 to 2.92 per piece for Dutch, Tls. 2.90 to 3.05 for English, and Tls. 3.15 to 3.20 per piece for American. Fancy Cottons: Nothing done in White Spots or Brocades. Small sales of the various descriptions of Dyed fabrics. Chintzes and Gentian Shirtings lower. Woollens and Worsteds: Dealers' requirements fully supplied by large re-sales, and no recovery could be quoted in the value of either Camlets, Lastings, Long Ells, or Spanish Stripes, the market closing very quiet. Figured Orleans: Only best assortments found buyers; sales unimportant, at weak rates. Metals—Lead: Very little inquiry, at Tls. 4.40 per picul. Quicksilver sold at Tls. 61, and at the close was held for an advance on that figure.

FOOCHOW.—Sales were reported of 100 pieces Scarlet Long Ells at $7.55, 1,250 pieces 7lbs. T-Cloths at $2.20 to 2.28, and 600 piculs Lead at $6.50 short credit and $7 to teamen.

HONG KONG.—Cotton Yarn: Considerable sales of all kinds have been made, and closing prices show a decline of $2 to 3 in the lower counts and nearly $5 for Nos. 38 to 42. Grey Shirtings: Only a small business in 7 lbs.; 8.4 lbs. continued in steady demand at quotations, but for arrival, lower prices had been accepted. Heavy goods very quiet. White Shirtings: No improvement in the demand only small sales could be effected. T-Cloths: 6 lbs. in less demand; in 7 lbs. a very large business had been done at quotations. Large quantities of goods had been received from Shanghai and were readily placed, but the demand was fully supplied, and prices close with a downward tendency. 36-inch goods in fair demand at a further slight advance. Spotted Shirtings inquired for. Brocades: Market firm. Damasks: Out of stock and wanted. Chintzes: Demand subsided; sales difficult to effect. Velvets: Very dull of sale. Drills, Dutch: Continued sales at current law rates. English: Some demand at quotations. Spanish Stripes: A large business done in both Scarlet and Assorted, at an advance of about 4 cents per yard. The market closes quiet. Long Ells: The market had been active, but owing to large supplies received from the north, prices showed no improvement. Camlets: Good demand, especially for Scarlet, at an advance of 30 to 50 cents; supplies, however, continued large, and at close a decided weaker tendency was apparent. Lastings: A fair business at quotations. Crape Lastings: Much depressed. Orleans: Sales pressed, and prices showed a further decline. Blankets: Good demand for best qualities; inferior neglected. Camphor: Only a small sale of 150 piculs was reported, and there was but little inquiry for the article. Stocks were small, however, and current quotation was $14.50 to 15 per picul packed. Boustead's report:—The arrivals with cargoes since our last are the steamers Elgin and Diomed from Liverpool, and steamer Lord of the Isles and the Petchelee from London. Though we have to report a little more business doing in some descriptions of staples, still our market generally is dull, and prices for nearly all goods show a decline upon last quotations. 39-inch Grey Shirtings: Good demand for 8¼ lb., freely met at declining prices. Quotations are $2.65 to 2.67½; 7 lbs., limited enquiry at $2.20 to 2.25; 6 lb. neglected at $1.90 to 1.95. 36-inch White Shirtings: Heavy stocks and only moderate demand, holders obliged to accept lower prices to effect sales, which have been made at $2.82½ for 17 x 15 and $3.12½ for 19 x 17. 45-inch White Shirtings: 64 reed out of stock, but not in much request; quotation, $3.65. 36-inch White Spots: In limited request at $2.70 to 2.72½. 36-inch White Brocades: No inquiry, quoted nominally $2.90 to $3. 32-inch Grey T-Cloths: 5 lbs. in good demand, fair sales at $2.40 to 2.42½; 6 lb. and 7 lbs. in limited inquiry at $1.60 to $1.62½, and $1.85 to 1.87½ respectively. 32 inch Grey Maddapollams very dull at 18½ for 2¾ lb. and $19½ to $19½ for 3 lb. 30-inch Grey Drills: Stocks heavy, and quite unsaleable. 45-inch White Cambrics: Low qualities neglected: for 15/16's there is less demand, at $28 to 28½. 32-inch Turkey Red Cambrics in large supply, and little inquiry; 2¼ lb., $1.95 to 2; 2½ lb., $2.15; 3 lb., $2.30 to 2.35. 40-inch Turkey Red Mulls: Only small transactions reported at $32 to 33 for 1¾ lb. 30-inch White Maddapollams: Limited sales at $19½. 33-inch Imitation Irish Linens unsaleable. Grey Yarn: 40's in good demand, but prices show a decline, last sales at $128 to 128½; 30's and 18/24's in no request, quoted nominally $118 to 119 and $90 respectively. Coloured Yarns. Dark Green scarce, and firm at $87 to 88; Orange quiet, at $74 to 75. Yellow more inquired for at $72 to 73. Turkey Red: moderate demand for 10 lb.; Glasgow dye at $135 to 137½; 12 lb. very little doing, quoted $142½ to 145. Woollens without improvement. Metals: Yellow Metal and Copper Sheathing in limited demand, sales at $20 and 24 respectively. Round Iron in some request at previous currencies; Nail Rods found buyers at $2.35 to 2.40. Pig Lead nominally firm, although little or nothing doing.

PENANG.—Arrivals had been the steamers Elgin, Lord of the Isles, and Diomed, the first two named bringing forward a fair supply of staples. Before their arrival a considerable quantity of goods had been sold to arrive at prices as before reported, but since the amount cleared, almost all sales had been at lower prices. The rates closed weak. Sales of 6 lbs. Grey Shirtings reported at $39 per corge; of 7 lbs., at $45½ and 45 per corge, with a very weak demand. Fair clearances of 8¼ lbs. goods at $54, and of 9 lbs. at $60 per corge. Grey Long Cloths dull; no sales reported. Grey Madapollams still in considerable stock; inquiries for 2½ lbs. at $18 to 18¾ per corge, according to quality. Grey T-Cloths in moderate demand; sales reported of 6 lbs. between $33 and $35 per corge, and of 7 lbs. at $38 and 39 per corge. In the other weights nothing done. White Shirtings: Fine qualities very dull; transactions reported between $41 and 86 per corge, the bulk of the business done in the lower qualities. In 45-inch sales made to a small amount at $74 to 75 per corge. White Cambrics: Only unimportant sales effected for Low to Middling, between $18½ and 25½ per corge, and of Nos 15/16 at $29½ to 29 per corge, the rates closing weak. Grey Sheetings and Drills: No business reported, quotations nominal. In Yarns there had not been much business. Market for almost all qualities very quiet. Sales of Grey Twist reported of No. 30 at from $123 to 116 per bale. Sales of Turkey Red Nos. 20/22 at $127½ per bale of 200 lbs. of favourite marks. In No. 40 nothing done, quotations nominal. Imperial Red, No. 40, in enquiry, but almost no stocks.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—The receipt of very unfavourable advices from New York per steamer China on the 25th Sept. had caused almost a stagnation in this market, and settlements did not exceed 500 piculs; in the absence of any business of importance, quotations were unchanged, but must be considered quite nominal. Native dealers were disinclined to make sufficient concessions to induce buyers to operate, and business therefore may be said to be at a standstill. Arrivals had been fully on the average, and stocks were considerably increased. The export had been heavy, viz., per Comet, to San Francisco, 62,527 lbs.; per Great Republic, to San Francisco, 282,832 lbs., to New York, 49,130 lbs.; per Laju and Black Prince, to New York, 667,543 lbs. and 711,036 lbs. respectively, bringing the export to date up to 4,293,741 lbs. The Min was loading for New York. Quotations: Common, $23 to 26 per picul; good common, $28 to 32; medium, $34 to 36; good medium, $38 to 40; fine, $41 to 45; finest, $46 to 49; choice, $50 per picul and upwards.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Purchases showed no falling off, and their aggregate, since the departure of the last mail, was again large. Flavoury Teas had been settled at fully previous prices, and commonest descriptions at perhaps a shade lower rates. There had again been many barter transactions. The stock was somewhat lessened. Settlements for the fortnight, 37,000 chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 7,100 chests; Stock, 195 chops, or 61,298 packages. Quotations (duty paid, exchange for credits, six months' sight, at 5s. 11¾d. per tael, and freight at £2 per ton):—Hohow, low to medium to good, Tls. 13 to 20¾, equal to 9¼d. to 1s. 2¼d.; Oonam, common to fair, Tls. 16 to 19, equal to 11d. to 1s. 1d.; Ningchow, common to fair, Tls. 17 to 20¾, equal to 11¾d. to 1s. 2¼d.; Oopack, common to fair, Tls. 17½ to 21, equal to 1s. to 1s. 2¼d. Green: Settlements since the departure of the mail of Sept. 22 had amounted to 42,000 half-chests, chiefly for the American market. Prices had declined 1 to 2 taels for fair to good medium chops, of which the supply on offer had principally consisted, and at this reduction the Chinese were willing sellers. Fine and finest Teas on the other hand continued scarce, and maintained their previous value. Settlements for the fortnight, 42,400 half-chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 2,600 half-chests; Stock, 131 chops, or 64,400 packages, of Fychow, Moyune, and Teenkai Teas; Stock, 22 chops, or 10,600 packages, of Pingsuey and Shanghai-packed Teas.

HANKOW.—We take the following from Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer and Co.'s Tea Report: The bulk of the purchases made during the period under review is again upon Russian account. Settlements are most of common Oopack kinds at Tls. 13½ to 14½, and show little or no change in values. There has been a falling off in supplies the last few days, and the quantity shipped from this shows a considerable decrease as compared with the corresponding period last year. The total export no longer shows the increase noticed in our two last Circulars, and is now about 45 millions, or the same as last year. Teamen seem unable to give any reliable information as to the quantity still to come forward, some say there is not much more and others that the supply will exceed that of last year, when fifty millions were shipped. There is no doubt there is a good deal more Tea up country, and if Shanghai rates show any chance of a profit it will be sent down. There is no change in quotations. Good, clean, leafy Teas are worth from Tls. 13½ to 14½. Some very common Oanfas have sold at Tls. 12½ to 12¾, and a few Shuntam packed Teas at Tls. 11.40 to 11¾.

FOOCHOW.—A large business had again been done in Congou and Souchong for England and Australia. Purchases for America had been confined to a few Souchongs, no further operations having taken place in Oolongs. The settlements for the week of Congou and Souchong were 19,077 chests. The arrivals from the country had been unusually heavy, viz., 23,120 chests, and 7,741 half-chests of Oolong. Congou: In consequence of the heavy settlements for the last mail, an attempt was made by the teamen to obtain a slight advance in price. This was partially successful, but business being curtailed, they soon gave way, and the later purchases had been made at the rates last quoted. Since the receipt of the London mail the market had been dull, and business on a smaller scale. Souchong: Without change in prices, but teamen showed more inclination to sell. Oolong: No further transactions had taken place. Much lower rates would be necessary to induce general business, but the teamen appeared firm in demanding previous prices. Scented Teas had been bought to a small extent at—common to fair, Tls. 16 to 17; medium, Tls. 18 to 20. The season for the scenting flowers drawing to a close, and the consequent rise in their cost, caused the teamen to be firm in asking higher prices than buyers were willing to give. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements had been 315 chests at Tls. 20 to 44.

AMOY.—Congou: Settlements had been on a limited scale, and during the fortnight only 1,100 half-chests found buyers at $13 to 19. Oolong: A brisk demand for America had resulted in the settlement of 18,500 packages. Prices may be quoted about $1 higher all round—viz.: Common to fair, $17 to 24; good, $25 to 27; superior to fine, $28 to 32; and finest, $33 to 37.

CANTON.—A fair amount of business had been transacted in Scented Teas, at prices which showed no alteration on last quotations. Offers about equal to latest London quotations were reported to have been made for some of the Country Congous in stock, but holders seemed disinclined to commence business except at much higher prices. Canton settlements from September 24th to October 13th: Country Congous, Nil; Scented Orange Pekoe, 3,500 boxes, at Tls. 18 to 30; Scented Caper, 11,000 boxes, at Tls. 11½ to 26; Canton Greens: Gunpowder, 1,500 boxes, at Tls. 12 to 22; Young Hyson, Nil; Country Greens, no stock. Stocks were estimated at 11 chops or 5,284 chests Country Congous; 1,000 boxes Canton District Congous; 16,000 boxes Scented Orange Pekoe; 18,000 boxes Scented Caper; 15,000 boxes Gunpowder; 2,000 boxes Imperial; 3,000 boxes Young Hyson.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been nothing done since our last report. Dealers were still firm; holders showed no willingness to meet buyers. Arrivals continued to be very small, and the unsold stock was only about 2,200 bales. Silkworm Eggs: Total arrivals to date were about 1,403,000 cards, of which about 400,000 had been settled; prices were quoted slightly easier.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—In spite of the very unsatisfactory advices of the home market, buying commenced immediately after the departure of the las English mail, when some 700 to 800 bales were settled at our last quotations, or, say fully 1s. under what they can now be bought at. The arrival of the French mail with later telegrams on the 4th inst. seems to have given a fresh impetus to buyers, who have since paid this advance on about 1,300 bales, making total settlements for fortnight, 2,100 bales; dealers report prices advancing in the interior, so that supplies come forward very moderately; this, combined with their now reduced stock, has made holders very firm, and we quote prices fully Tls. 20 higher. The following are a few of the purchases:—Dragon chop, Tls. 580, equal to 30s.; Koo-fong-sings and Choopings, Tls. 585 to 590, equal to 30s. 3d. to 30s. 7d.; Blue Flag and Gold Lion, Tls. 520, equal to 27s.; Euke Fong, Elephant chop, Tls. 510, equal to 26s. 6d.; Red Peacocks, Tls. 500 to 510, equal to 26s. to 26s. 6d.; Common Tsatlee, Tls. 440 to 460, equal to 22s. 11d. to 23s. 11d.; Re-reeled Hainin, Tls. 540 to 570, equal to 28s. to 29s. 6d.; Common Kahing, Tls. 370 to 400, equal to 19s. 4d. to 20s. 11d.; Long Reels, Tls. 375, equal to 19s. 6d. A large portion of the settlements consists of common Tsatlee and Kahing, the quality of chop Silk and Red Peacocks is much deteriorated, in some instances being fully one number worse than at the commencement of the season. The French mail left on the 4th October without any silk.

CANTON.—Since the last report was issued, holders of silk in this market had shown considerable anxiety to dispose of their stocks, and during the early part of the period under review from 300 to 400 bales Tsatlee reels were sold to Indian buyers. For Europe purchases were subsequently made at $440 for market Tsatlee, and at $450 to 470 for better qualities. Under these circumstances, prices had advanced, as will be seen from the quotations. A good business had been doing for America. Stocks were estimated at 100 bales Loongkongs, 600 bales Tsatlee reels, 70 bales Kowkongs, 450 bales Chumchucks, Lacklows, &c., and 500 bales inferior descriptions. At 4s. 6d. exchange, the following were the laying down costs in London per overland route:—Tsatlee-reel, best selected, 18s. 18d. to 18s. 10d. per lb.; No. 1, 17s. 11d. to 18s. 1d.; No. 2, 17s. 7d. to 17s. 5d.; Loongkong, best selected, 19s. 7d. to 20s. 2d.; No. 1, 18s. 1d.; No. 2, 17s. 3d.; Cumchuck and Lacklow, No. 1, 17s. 5d. to 17s. 7d.; Re-reeled, No. 1, 20s. to 20s. 2d.

THE FATSHAN DIFFICULTY SETTLED.

IN these days when the acts of Her MAJESTY'S representatives in China have not been uniformly such as to inspire our countrymen with the highest sense of the security to which they are entitled, or of the zeal with which their interests are watched, it is most gratifying to observe the success which has attended the efforts of Mr. Consul ROBERTSON to obtain compensation for the wanton destruction of the chapel at Fatshan. As the building was the exclusive property of the native converts, the task which Mr. ROBERTSON undertook was one requiring more than ordinary delicacy and tact. It was one, indeed, in which grave doubts might well arise, as to whether he would have been justified in dealing with it at all in his purely official capacity. Yet, notwithstanding the difficulties with which it was surrounded, and the prejudice excited against foreigners and missionaries by the apparent apathy of our Government in the affair at Tientsin, Mr. ROBERTSON has succeeded in quietly obtaining a tangible reparation for an injury which was only done to us by implication. The chapel is to be rebuilt, the destroyed furniture to be replaced, and some additional compensation has also been awarded. Such a result, due entirely to Mr. ROBERTSON'S earnestness and tact, cannot but inspire the highest respect for that gentleman's opinion of our present relations with the Chinese in his province. It is, therefore, reassuring to learn that he believes no overt act of hostility against foreigners is contemplated in Canton. It is impossible to doubt the wisdom of his advice to our countrymen to beware of tempting further outbreaks by any unreasonable show of apprehension. Mr. ROBERSTON'S active association with all classes of the community stamps his judgment with all the value of experience and authority; and the happy issue of what might have proved a serious complication shows how well he understands the nature of the people with whom he has to deal.

AMONG the subjects brought before the Associated Chambers of Commerce, at a meeting held in Bradford last week, was the completion of the survey of the short route from Rangoon to Kiang Hung, on the border of Western China. At the general meeting of the Associated Chambers, held in London in February last, it was decided to memorialise the Indian Government for the completion of the survey, and the course suggested was subsequently followed, but up to the present time no reply has been received from the Duke of ARGYLL, to whom the memorial was presented.

WE are glad to hear that the Japanese Government are likely to open the island of Yesso to foreign trade. This is land—like Saghalien—is already considered half-Russian, and it must be remembered that, in 1868, Sir HARRY PARKES, our Minister in Japan, sent H.M.S. Rattler on a visit there, with Mr. ADAMS, the Secretary of Legation, on board. In the attempt the ship was lost. It is a wily move on the part of the Japanese to keep the Russians from entirely monopolising the place.

THE EXPULSION OF THE GERMANS FROM SAIGON.

THE French Governor's order compelling all Germans to quit Saigon is something more than a proof of the widespread ramifications of cruelty and suffering inseparable from war, and the base and petty passions it calls forth even in the most civilised communities; it is a forcible illustration of the slenderness of the line that separates an appeal to arms from the infliction of unscrupulous and gratuitous injury. There is something grimly ludicrous in the meanness of this proceeding; it is the very anti-climax of the "pride, pomp and circumstance" of the rout at Sedan and the capitulation at Metz. That a country whose vast armies so lately surrendered en masse before their victorious opponents in Europe should stoop to revenge or console itself, it matters not which, by the extrusion of a handful of peaceable citizens from a little dependency in Cochin China is a satire on modern civilisation, which would be inconceivable if it were not proved by the telegram published in our last. There cannot be the slightest cause for such a proceeding other than the gratification of impotent spite. There is not the faintest shadow of suspicion that the German merchants of Saigon contemplated any action to the prejudice of the security of their temporary home, which, only nine years ago, the French wrested from the Annamites. It is impossible to disguise the fact that the expulsion of these few unoffending and valuable citizens is the consequence, not of the war of France against Germany, but of the defeats of the French at home; if it had been otherwise, the order to quit French territory would have been simultaneous with the French declaration of war. Deferred as it has been till the present moment, such an order appears as suicidal as it is unworthy. It amounts to a positive invitation to the Germans to include in their scheme of French annexation a remote and valuable little colony which they would in all probability have otherwise overlooked. It even supplies an excuse, which we sincerely hope the Germans will not avail themselves of, for the reduction of Saigon itself. Situated, as it is, but thirty miles from the sea, the city is by no means inaccessible to attack; the French fleet has far other work in hand—possibly even a far different destiny—than the defence of the one dependency of France in the Far East; and it is scarcely likely that the natives, however they may have become reconciled to the loss of their territory, would be greatly concerned at its recapture from a Power which shows them that it does not know how to make war with forbearance. While, however, we cannot but deprecate the present order of the Governor of Saigon, it would be unreasonable to suppose, without further evidence, that he is in any way responsible for it. There was nothing in Admiral DE CORNULIER-LUCINIERE'S conduct on the breaking out of the war to warrant any such supposition; on the contrary, his proclamation on that occasion was marked by a high-minded and even generous sense of the protection demanded of him by all classes of the community alike, which could not fail of being appreciated. It is, no doubt, to his frenzied and fanatic Government at home that his present action is due; and, sincerely as we deplore its occurrence, we hope that, when the time of peace arrives, the Germans who are now suffering from it will consent to bury the recollection of its hardship in the catalogue of acts of oppression which not even war can xcuse, and which calm reflection will be sure to condemn. It is already announced that a memorial to Count BISMARK, calling his attention to Saigon, is in progress of signature by the merchants of Hamburg and Bremen. The object is not to obtain a colony, but a permanent naval station, the want of which in those waters is much felt.

WE learn by this mail that Mr. MCLEAVY BROWN, who, it will be remembered, accompanied the Chinese Commissioners, first as interpreter, and afterwards as Mr. BULINGAME'S successor, has arrived at Hong Kong, the Mission having at length come to an end. Mr. BROWN, we understand, resumes his post in the Embassy at Peking.

DR. THIN'S PAMPHLET.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—In your issue of the 4th instant you furnished a review of Dr. Thin's pamphlet, intituled The Tientsin Massacre; its Causes, and How to Secure Permanent Peace." While I agree with the reviewer, that Dr. Thin proves beyond doubt that the mandarins are directly guilty of encouraging the lower natives to commit attacks on foreigners, I can by no means assent to a recommendation of the author's measures for securing permanent peace. Why may I not assent to it? Simply because his scheme is impracticable, and opposed to circumstances. "The responsibility" (of keeping foreigners safe in China) "must not be to the Emperor at Peking," says Dr. Thin, "but to the nearest foreign Consul;" that official in his turn having to hold the mandarin of the district in which the trouble occurs responsible for what has occurred. The language of this passage, as I have quoted it, is somewhat ambiguous, but this I take to be the author's meaning. In other words, the case stands thus. The late Sir Frederick Bruce suggested, and the representatives of all the foreign Powers in China fell in with the suggestion, that we should do our utmost to centralise the Government and make offending Viceroys directly amenable to the Court at Peking. As matters now stand in China this scheme has its drawbacks; it involves time, and it requires at the head of affairs a Minister ready to act promptly on information obtained. Still, these drawbacks are not calculated to prove insurmountable impediments to the carrying out of the scheme, this having been shown at Nanking, when the Yangchow-Taylor affair occurred, and we obtained after a little delay nearly all we sought. As to this Tientsin matter, delay was no impediment, our Minister being on the spot. To carry out his idea, however, Dr. Thin would ignore the Emperor, would ignore even our Minister, and would leave to a Consul the sole right of making war on a Viceroy whenever he may think it necessary. A Harry Parkes, a Chaloner, Alabaster, or a John Markham (true sons of Britain, with a strong and constant desire to resent a saucy word with a blow) is in future to be the arbiter of peace or war! and his weapons, what? Hybrids. Boats built in China, manned with Chinese, paid by the Chinese Government, and commanded by Europeans—facsimiles, in short, of the Chento, Undine, and others of the little squadron at present under the inspection of Mr. Consul Robertson at Canton, though paid for and supposed to be "the Viceroy's own." Why, to meet even such boats as these we should require a huge number at each port, where they are to be solely under the orders of the several Consuls—not British alone, but the Consuls of all nations having treaties with China! The thing is absurd on its face—it is as a man paying a policeman to look after him. Why the Lay-Osborne vampires, while repudiating the Viceroys, were at all events willing to take orders from the Tsen-le-Yamen—not so the "Thin" peace-keepers—they are to know none but foreign Consuls! No, Sir, Dr. Thin is a little out of his depth in the political part of his pamphlet, and if we would secure permanent peace we must not attempt to alter the plan proposed by Sir Frederick Bruce, viz., of making provincial officials responsible at head-quarters.

No doubt but Dr. Thin is right in saying that, in some cases, the Emperor is not powerful enough to enforce his wishes; but this admitted, what follows? Why, that in cases where he is not powerful enough we must lend him a hand; in brief, let us show the native aristocracy that we are aware of their intriguing desire to oust the present dynasty, but as we have always found the Manchus far more honourable in their dealings than we have the native officials, we intend to support them, and to punish even such men as Tseng-kwo-Fan when they would thwart their Imperial Master and injure foreigners. At present (as we learnt from Peh and Muh when our prisoners at Canton, in 1857), Tartar officers do not know how to act—they would deal reasonably with Westerns if they could, but the native officials—the mushrooms, who often spring from the cowherds of the land, and are utterly wanting in generous attributes—will not permit them.

To revert to the present crisis. Nothing could be better than the suggestion of The Times correspondent in August last. I quote it:—"The occupation of Tientsin would be a wise preliminary, and then the dictation of such terms—humane, but stern—as shall convince the Chinese that foreign life and property must be respected. Even if the Central Government be willing to yield all demands, it is doubtful whether it would have power to enforce them, in face of Tseng-kwo-Fan's disapproval. The populace and soldiery, who have been thoroughly excited against foreigners, and are identified in the outbreak, will not submit unless under pressure of foreign force. It may be that the force which the French Admiral has already at hand will suffice; but he could hardly land sufficient men to make sure of his ground; and the immediate effect of any reverse might be disastrous at other Treaty Ports." If Tientsin were in our hands, the fact would soon be known throughout those sections of the Empire in which foreigners reside and have interests, and would have far more effect in restraining the sauciness of the populace than any such demonstration as Dr. Thin would make with hybrid gunboats. From all appearances, however, the French are not likely to take possession of Tientsin before next month, if, indeed, they take it at all; and should that be the case there should be no two thoughts in regard to what is England's mission. At once we should send 4,000 marines (the number given to Admiral Seymour to take and hold Canton) by way of the Suez Canal, so that they might arrive in the Peiho early in February, just as the river gets clear of ice, and entry on the Taku Forts would be a work of no great difficulty. Arrived at that point, Mr. Wade should be instructed to enter on negotiations for a quiet rendition of the city of Tientsin, and permission to hold it under a species of mixed Government for a period to be measured by future circumstances. Short, sharp, and decisive should be the action; and, if need be, fight first and negotiate afterwards. When China made her last treaty with us she undertook to protect our countrymen. This she has not done, and now we must take care of ourselves. As to what the French may do, that is another affair. We ought not to identify ourselves with them, it being quite an open question with me and many other old residents whether the amity of the French in China is not more injurious than the opposition of the native magnates. What France has reaped and is reaping in China is only the result of what she has sown, and I cannot do better in closing this letter than beg of you to print as a rider the following passage from the Rev. Arthur Moule's recent publication, Four Hundred Millions:—

"Neither are we left in doubt as to the nature of some, at least of these 800,000 Roman Catholic Christians. Under the title 'Missionary Mistakes in China,' the Pall Mall Gazette exposes and condemns, in the most unequivocal manner, some of the recent proceedings of the Jesuits. Speaking of the accounts received from Thibet, Corea, Japan, and China, of persecutions and martyrdoms, the writer asks whether the uniformity of the phenomenon may not indicate a corresponding uniformity of the cause. He then describes the proceedings of Monsignor Faurie, Vicar-Apostolic of Kwei-Scheou, in Hupeh, which strikingly corroborate the opinion of the Supreme Court Gazette respecting Jesuit missions. Their agents are men of exemplary piety and devotion; their influence is deservedly great! How, then, does Monsignor Faurie, a servant of the meek and lowly Jesus, comport himself? He describes himself as exercising the power of life and death, of imprisoning and setting free, of making peace and declaring war. He moves about the country with the ceremony of a viceroy. Besides cannon announcing the mighty guard, each time he left his house or re-entered three rounds of cannon announced the fact. 'I always eat alone,' he says; 'the principal chiefs, in full dress, stand round the table to serve me, while musicians at the door commence their harmony.' Now, what do we learn from such proceedings? We learn, first, the cause of Governmental and official persecution; for what can the officials surmise from such arrogance but that Christianity is a foreign political agency? and secondly, we learn the cause of large numbers of the natives becoming Roman Catholics; for, surely, such potent foreigners can protect from extortion, and succour in lawsuits. Accordingly we find that thousands of villagers, noticing Monsignor Faurie's pomp and power, seeing also a comet in the sky predicting the downfall of the dynasty, concluding that the Empire was passing into the hands of the Christians, offered themselves as candidates for baptism: whole villages, whose only pretension was the fact of their having learnt to make the sign of the cross, came forward to entreat the bishop's blessing."

Nothing would be so calculated to make provincial authorities feel our power on an emergency as the seizure of their Custom-houses, their gunboats, and their arsenals, and we have always a sufficiency of naval power on the spot for this at any particular port.—I am, &c.,

TAU.

Great Malvern, Nov. 21, 1870.

THE KOREA.*

Nothing is wanting for the advancement of the country but the stimulus and guidance of Western religion and civilisation. It ought to be opened to European intercourse; it is the only country of any importance which remains closed against us. One party says we have no right to force ourselves upon an unwilling people, another that the Koreans are happy as they are, while a third looks partly at the evils and partly at the expenses of war. It strikes me that mankind have common interests in each other, and duties towards one another, and that it is the duty of the strong to help the weak, the intelligent the ignorant, and the civilised those who are lower in the scale of advancement. Hence, I believe it is at once the duty and privilege of such countries as Great Britain and America to lead the van and use the power God has given them to open up countries which are stupidly and ignorantly closed against them like Korea. War is a terrible evil in every aspect, but it seems a condition of progress in this fallen world, and in view of the advantages, moral, intellectual, and spiritual, which would accrue to a people brought into full contact with the blaze of true civilisation, the cost would be immeasurably counterbalanced. But the opening up of this country might be effected without war. Representations of such a character might be made through the Chinese Government as would, perhaps, accomplish the object; or negotiations might be entered into directly with the annual Korean embassy at Peking; or if diplomacy failed a resource still remains which might obviate any great loss of life, if not bloodshed altogether. Let a large force, naval and military, which clearly, in the eyes of the Koreans themselves, would be irresistible, appear at their capital, explain our motives, and demand such concessions as are consistent with natural justice. Let it be seen that we are in earnest, and let such arrangements be made as would secure peace until the natives had discerned our true motives and the advantages of dealing with us, and then intercourse would go on of its own accord. This, of course, would entail some expense, though not so much as appears at first sight; for it is just about as cheap to keep our ships on duty as laid up in idleness or stationed in unimportant quarters; and then the profit would soon appear in the shape of increased demands for our manufactures. A little additional outlay is a poor excuse for neglecting such an undertaking, and sad will it be for Great Britain if the day comes when charges of this kind will weigh against deeds of enterprise and philanthropy. If Prussia wishes territory in the East, Korea is infinitely preferable to Formosa.

LITERATURE.

A Voyage Round the World. By the Marquis De Beauvoir. London: John Murray.

The work, of which the above is the title, is in two volumes, the first being devoted entirely to Australia, while the second treats of travels in Java, Siam, and Canton. Passing to the second volume, we find the party who accompanied the author landing at Batavia, favourably impressed with their first sight of the Dutch dependency. After a description, both amusing and instructive, of the numerous races which combine to make up the population of the capital, the reader is treated to a trip into the interior of the country and to graphic accounts of the daily life of the petty potentates who govern the various districts, with episodes descriptive of Javanese domestic ceremonies, such as weddings and funerals. During his progress through the country the Marquis has not failed to perceive the miserable results which have arisen from the mistaken policy hitherto pursued by the Dutch Government with reference to commerce and native labour, and he is unsparing in denunciations of the course of action that has interposed so great a check in the way of progress and competition with other countries. A belief is expressed that the completion of the railway will effect a great change for the better, not only by opening up districts now comparatively inaccessible, but by releasing for more useful employment the large number of the inhabitants now engaged solely in the work of transporting produce. The author sums up his remarks in the following passage:—

It is a melancholy fact that no particle of the revenues has been appropriated to the moral improvement of the people. The excellence of the cultivation, the bustle of an active population, even the instinctive lightheartedness of an indigenous race born in slavery and having no hatred for it—all would have given me the idea of an earthly paradise, if the respect shown to white men had not, by its abject servility, recalled to mind the ignoble dependence of the conquered race, a humility and an indifference which have been grafted upon a people that was formerly proud, and is still intelligent and industrious. The result of three centuries of European influence seems to have been to lower—and to lower greatly—the Javanese people in the scale of civilisation. I should like to see in the beautiful fields of Java these strong men working for themselves and their families, not for the treasury of the Home Government.

Leaving Java the party continue their journey to Singapore. The most interesting feature of the visit to this place is an account of the Chinese quarter, and the many peculiarities of Celestial manners and customs displayed therein. Siam is next reached, where the arrival of an Orleanist prince—who was a member of the party—was the occasion of much trouble to the prime minister, who, desirous of doing honour to the strangers, was at the same time tormented with apprehensions lest the fact of so doing might call forth the displeasure of the French Government. In the end, however, Siamese politeness carried the day, and a most hospitable reception was accorded to the travellers. For this the author has not been ungrateful, and has little but praise to bestow upon the manner in which the public affairs of the country are conducted. The only obstacles in the path of prosperity appear to be the Government monopoly of the mineral and agricultural wealth, and the fear of European influence. The Marquis appears to have been considerably scandalised by the behaviour of his countrymen settled in Bangkok, of whom he says,

You must come to this end of the world to find anything like it; with some few exceptions, a crowd of adventurers and bankrupts, who dispute for the melancholy honour of cheating the King. One will sell false jewels from Paris, another escapes here from his creditors at Manila or Shanghai, another, while lodged here at the King's expense, will none the less charge his Government with lodging expenses at the rate of £480 a-year.

The remainder of the volume is occupied with experiences of Hong Kong, Canton, and Macao, and the author uses all his powers of rhetoric and forcible argument—and they are not small—against the coolie trade carried on in the Portugese settlement. The results of what must have been a very careful study of Chinese character may be summed up in the following extract from the concluding pages of the work:—

When the lowest coolie can, by devoting himself to literary work, obtain the mandarin's button, how is it that the officials chosen by free competition become such merciless despots, venal and unjust—ill-treating the people from whom they sprang only yesterday? The Chinese has no religion; he worships only his own interests, and is consequently the victim of blind superstition and adoration for the spirits who are supposed to preside over wealth. All extremes meet; coffins are adorned and venerated, and the new-born infant is killed without scruple. Merit is sought in caligraphy, not in ideas. How can there be any growth of thought in a country where a clever man's whole life is spent in learning the alphabet? The result is that ninety-nine hundredths of the population are unacquainted with half the signs which express ideas, and that they cannot understand the language of those who study for themselves and not for the sake of imparting knowledge. The great scholars pass their lives brush in hand, endeavouring to trace with elegance on a porous brick pious sentences which will be unintelligible to the common people, and which, dazzling in gold on their pagodas, have no meaning in the minds of their worshippers. Their literature is nothing but a stroke of the brush, and the Chinaman far advanced in material progress remains fatally backward in the field of thought.

In conclusion, we can heartily recommend a thorough perusal of the book, which has merits peculiarly its own, and far beyond the usual run of works upon travel. The author must be congratulated, among other things, upon his perfect mastery of the English language; scarcely a trace of foreign idiom, and not a single error in grammatic construction have we been able to detect. It is to be hoped that the present volumes will be followed by further records from the same pen of the habits and manners of foreign nations.

At the last meeting of the Asiatic Society a paper was read by Mr. A. Wylie, "On an Ancient Buddhist Inscription at Keu-yung-kwan, in North China," found about five miles north of the entrance of the Nankow Pass, on a limestone archway, covered with mythological and symbolic sculptures of obviously Indian origin, and supposed to have been the basement story of a pagoda. It covers the greater part of the inner facing of the structure on both sides, from the basement to the spring of the arch. Two of the parts are inscribed in horizontal lines at the top in antique Devanagari and Tibetan characters respectively; below these are four compartments, inscribed respectively in Mongol (that form known as the Bashpah alphabet), Ouigour, Neuchih and Chinese characters, all in vertical lines. A comparison of the parts showed that they were transcripts of a Sanskrit original, restored by means of a close comparison with the Chinese portion. A firm ground was thus gained from which to determine the exact equivalents of the Sanskrit sounds in the other languages. The most important transcript is that in the Neuchih character. Although the name of this writing is not unknown to Orientalists, yet beyond the name few facts have been gathered; and Mr. Wylie's inscription is the only piece yet discovered in which there is any clue to the powers of the characters; but there are hardly any of them in this transcript the sounds of which he thinks he has not ascertained. The number of signs given by him are eighty-one, probably but a small portion of the Neuchih syllabary, as the simple sounds of the Sanksrit alphabet would hardly exhaust the vocables of the Neuchih language. At the end of each of the transcripts of the Sanskrit original there are some lines in a smaller sized character; and, as in the Chinese, Tibetan, and Mongol portions, they contain pieces of compositions in those languages, not mere transcripts of foreign signs, Mr. Wylie concludes that the small-sized Neuchih is a real specimen of the Neuchih language, by which the philological value of the Inscription would of course be enhanced.

The November number of The Phœnix fully maintains the reputation of its predecessors. Mr. Carroll contributes another of his interesting tales of Chinese life; the Literature and Religion of the Buddhists is the first of a valuable series of papers by Mr. Brian H. Hodgson; and Mr. H. H. Howarth furnishes a capital description of the Calmucks. Mr. McPherson's Note on the Manufacture of Brick Tea is evidently the production of a practical man, and affords the editor a good opportunity of requesting similar contributions from readers in the interior of China, so that he may be enabled to collect the materials for an extended account of the whole subject of tea cultivation and preparation. The Chinese Theory of Medicine is full of information, and is perhaps the most suggestive paper in the number.

THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—I presume from internal evidences that the writer of a letter signed "Y." in your last issue is one of the Missionary body, and I do not wonder after reading it that some of that body are occasionally accused of indiscretion and misplaced zeal. The letter from the London Missionary Society to Her Majesty's Government—on which "Y." comments, would appear to most persons conversant with missions and missionaries in China singularly judicious and well-timed—though, of course, it must be distasteful to zealots who wish to force the Gospel on the heathen without due consideration for their ancient habits of thought and long-cherished beliefs. It is perhaps hardly necessary to remind "Y." that He who gave the command to "go into all the world and preach the Gospel" took care to select places for His evangelistic work—even avoiding His own home "because of their unbelief"—or that on one occasion when disturbances were imminent "He withdrew Himself from them."—Yours truly,

London, Nov. 26, 1870. G.

Monetary and Commercial.

In reference to the notice in our last issue as to the affairs of the Commercial Bank of India, the amount paid to creditors was, 17s., not 15s.; the amount called up £10, not £15; and the amount paid off the loan of £15,000 on the property at Shanghai £11,000, leaving £4,000 unpaid. As our statement that a further call would be made has created some alarm amongst the shareholders, we may mention that it will not be made for some months, as it greatly depends on the yield of the call of £10, which is not finally exhausted.

The large parcel of Mexican Dollars referred to in our last as having been shipped on board the steamer Ismailia at New York, was received in London on Friday last. Since the time when the heavy amount paid by the Chinese in Sycee silver, as indemnity for the war, was received, no train as heavily loaded with precious metal has reached London as that which brought the parcel referred to. It consisted of a special train of thirteen covered goods waggons with chests containing seventy-four tons of Mexican dollars, value nearly half a million sterling. The chests were duly checked off by the bill of lading, and the specie was cleared out of the station within three hours of its arrival. The procession to the Bank of England consisted of three detachments of goods vans of six each. Consigments of from six to twelve tons of silver are not unusual on this line, but one of seventy-four is unprecedented, excepting the China payments.

There have been a good many transactions in war risks on account of the possible danger of a Russian war. The premiums are from 5s. upwards, 10s. being taken on sailing ships from India, China and Japan, and Russian ships are hardly insurable against war contingencies at all. The contingency of a war is thus estimated very highly, but the estimated risk on English ships is not considered very great. As to any apprehension of Russo-American Alabamas, the notion is that there will be no immediate danger of their appearance at the outbreak of a war, as they must take some time to prepare; and that if they do appear, the danger of their depredations cannot be so formidable to our mercantile navy as it was to the American.

The Crown Agents have sold bills on Ceylon for last mail to the extent of £40,000.

The following on India and China Exchange Banks is from the Economist:—"The India Banks, in their dealings in Exchange, of course, make their profit out of the difference between the price or rate at which they buy Bills on Europe (chiefly Great Britain) and the price or rate at which they sell their own Drafts on their own head offices or correspondents. If, for example, good Document or Credit Bills can be bought at (say) 23½d., the Bank ought to be able to sell its own Drafts at a profit of between 3 and 4 per cent.—that is to say at 23d. to 22¼d. In other words, the Bank ought to sell its own rupees for (say) 23½d., and buy them back again for 23d. or 22¼d."

Hong Kong is an entrepot almost entirely of British Trade, and if we combine Hong Kong and Great Britain, we find, as above, a growth of the imports into China from 8¾ millions in 1864-6 to 12¼ milions in 1867-9—or equal to 50 per cent.—the exports from China to these places remaining stationary at 13½ millions. The imports from the United States into China are under half-a-million, but the direct exports to the United States from China were 2½ millions, and hence that profitable triangular trade by which New York and Philadelphia adjust their China indebtedness through the medium of English credits; paying for the tea and silk received in Ameria by cotton and grain consigned to England.

The submersion of the Anglo-Mediterranean Telegraph Company's duplicate cable between Malta and Egypt has been completed. In view of the political events now transpiring, the importance of such a multiplication of the facilities for submarine telegraphic intercourse between England and India can hardly be overrated. Of the alternative lines it must be borne in mind that one—that of Siemens—takes an overland route through Prussia, Russia, and Persia, while the other—the old Indo-European—passes through Turkey in Europe and Asia Minor. Both of them would, in the event of war, be exposed to danger at many points; and, as respects the first of the two, the inviolability of private messages which has been guaranteed by its convention rests on no more secure basis than the faith of a Government which, on a much more momentous question, has just shown its utter contempt for the most solemn engagements when their execution happens, in its opinion, to be inconvenient.

We take the following from the Moscow Gazette:—

In consequence of a direct steamboat communication having been established between India, China, and Russia, via the Suez Canal, we hear that in the coming year a commission-house is to be organised at Odessa by Messrs. Cazalet, a St. Petersburg firm. The Odessa steamers will load at Bombay (cotton, &c.) in January, and at Hankow (tea) in May, 1871. It is supposed that as the railway tariff will be decreased, the through rate of cotton from Odessa to Moscow will be 60 to 70 copecks per Russian pood. Although the South of Russia, rich in wool, has actually no cloth factories, it is expected, should cotton be landed cheap at Odessa, that cotton mills will be founded in that town. Besides standing in direct relations with the leading houses in India and China, it is reported to be the intention of the firm to introduce manufactured articles of Northern and Central Russia into more general use in Southern, or so called New Russia, in lieu of foreign goods.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Poonah, from Southampton on the 26th inst., was in gold, to Alexandria, £10,350; to Madras, £100; total in gold, £10,450.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

Since our report of the 18th instant the market has been quiet, and merchants have shown more disposition to realise, even at a slight decline. This remark must only be applied, however, to the common and medium grades; better descriptions, being in short supply, are held firmly. About 3,000, chiefly boxes, sold by auction slightly over private contract prices.

SILK.

The market has been very dull since the "Russian question" has arisen to disquiet mercantile affairs, and although, owing to the firmness of importers, who do not offer their Silks, prices are nominally unchanged, still the tendency of the market is to easier rates, and any considerable business would have to be done at a slight reduction. Deliveries continue good, viz., from 1st to 23rd inst., 1,807 bales China, 323 Japan, 493 Canton, and 241 Bengal; total, 2,864 bales.

COFFEE.

A considerable quantity of Plantation Ceylon has been placed upon offer at the public sales, for which no active enquiry was manifested, and the business done has been for the most part at prices which show a decline of 1s. per cwt. upon our last quotations. Native Ceylon has been in limited request, but no great quantity having been brought forward prices are maintained. The last rates paid were Plantation triage and ordinary, 38s. to 52s. 6d.; small dull to colouny, 52s. 6d. to 59s., low middling grey to middling dull 57s. 6d. to 60s., bold ditto 61s. to 68s. 6d., middling coloury 60s. 6d. to 65s. 6d., good to fine middling 66s. to 70s. 6d., bold 74s. to 76s., peaberry 70s. to 76s. Native Ceylon, small 44s., fine ordinary 50s. 6d. to 51s., bold 53s. 6d., peaberry 54s. 6d.

In other East India kinds we note sales of 537 bags brownish Manila at 51s. to 51s. 6d., and 69 bags Singapore at 48s. mixed, at 42s. per cwt.

The landings continue large, and are nearly 400 tons larger than last year, but as the deliveries are 580 tons more, the surplus in the stock is slightly reduced. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 70,992 cwt., against 73,380 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 4,159 cwt., against 20,304 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is 2,402 cwt. Plantation, against cwt., and 3,136 cwt. Native, against cwt. The quantity of Coffee landed in the forty-six weeks ended Nov. 19, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 38,877 tons, against 37,422 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 67,013 tons, against 66,013 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 9,231 tons, against 9,781 tons; of all descriptions, 16,830 tons, against 17,127 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 27,519 tons, against 24,822 tons; of all descriptions, 45,534 tons, against 42,829 tons. The stock on Nov. 19 was, of Ceylon, 15,991 tons, against 13,814 tons; of all descriptions, 28,868 tons, against 25,377 tons.

SUGAR.

The market exhibits a further improvement, there being a good demand for all descriptions; prices exhibit an advance of 6d. per cwt. upon our last quotations, and at the close evince a tendency towards further rise. There are no public sales of East India descriptions to report, but by private contract 13,000 tons clayed Manila have been sold at 23s. 6d.; 5,000 bags fine clayed (duty 4s. 9d.) at 26s. 6d.; 100 tons unclayed Taal, at 19s. 6d.; 6,000 bags soft brown China, at 20s.; a landed cargo of 4,500 baskets (1,000 tons) good strong Java (duties 5s. 3d. and 5s. 8d.), per Scindian, at 34s. 6d.; 900 baskets Yellow

Java, on the spot (duty 5s. 3d.), at 29s. to 33s., chiefly 31s.; and 200 tons Java syrups at 18s. 6d.

The landings for the week are larger than for several weeks past, consisting chiefly of 2,000 tons Manila and 800 tons Beetroot, and are 2,400 tons in excess of last year. The deliveries for home use show some falling off, but as a similar decrease took place last year, they are still 1,000 tons in excess of 1869; the exports are 200 tons larger, and the deficiency in the stock is now only 1,800 tons. Stock, Nov. 12, 81,818 tons, against 84,725 tons; Nov. 19, 80,208 tons, against 82,039 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the forty-six weeks ended Nov. 19, 1870, was, of Penang, 3,028 tons, against 3,908 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 19,189 tons, against 32,625 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,118 tons, against 2,474 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 23,702 tons, against 18,944 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 103 tons, against 193 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 3,477 tons, against 1,429 tons. The stock on Nov. 19 was, of Penang, 3,137 tons, against 1,620 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 27,800 tons, against 40,516 tons.

Coir Goods.—At the last sales the supply of yarn offered was of good amount, consisting chiefly of small parcels; there was a much better competition for all qualities, and the whole was taken off at dearer prices. Rope also found a readier sale at a slight advance; 1,490 bales Cochin Yarn all sold, low and common £18 to £20 10s., good common to medium £21 to £26 5s., good medium to good £27 5s. to £31 5s., fine to very fine £32 to £39, superior thin £40 5s. to £54; 95 tons ditto in dholls sold, very low and low coarse £14 5s. to £18 10s., common to good common £19 to £21; 26 tons in dholls of Ceylon, common £19 10s., good common to medium £21 5s. to £26, good £29 5s., fine £33 5s. to £36; 4,538 ballots (17 tons) Ceylon Fibre sold, chiefly common mattress at £13 15s. to £15, one lot £11 15s., 200 ballots bristle at £32, and 11 bales Cochin at £25 10s.

China Matting.—Of 650 rolls offered, 600 sold—3/4 red at 25s., 4/4 white, 33s. 6d., one lot 33s.; 3/4 white, 37s. to 38s. 6d.; 3/4 and 4/4 check, 35s. 6d. to 36s.

Cocoa-nut Oil.—At public sale 113 pipes and 60 hogsheads Ceylon sold at rather firmer rates, the former, of good quality, at £37 10s. to £38, and the latter, fine, at £38 15s., one lot £39. Afloat the sale is reported of 100 tons Ceylon at £38.

Cutch.—The market is quiet, but steady; 500 boxes medium Pegu have been sold at 19s. per cwt., and 100 boxes fine quality at 20s.

Galls.—An offer of 390 cases China was sold at 42s. to 42s. 6d., showing no change in price.

Hemp.—Owing to the present position of political affairs sellers of Russian have retired from the market, and their example has been followed by those of Manila; there is consequently no business to report.

Orchella.—An offer of 20 bales Ceylon was bought in at 57s.

Pepper.—The enquiry continues, and a considerable business has again been done; prices are firmly maintained, and in some instances show an advance. Black: 1,512 bags offered by auction went off as follows: 300 bags Singapore bought in at 6d.; 521 bags Penang sold, sound, 5½d., chiefly damaged at 5½d. to 5¼d.: 470 bags fair Tellicherry sold at 5⅔d.; also 221 bags Aleppy, fair, 5¼d., grey, 5¼d. Privately, about 1,800 bags have been taken off, Penang at 5⅛d. to 5¼d., Singapore at 5⅞d. to 5 13-16d. White: In auction, 579 bags were chiefly held for higher prices and bought in, 400 bags Singapore at 6⅛d.; of 179 bags Penang, 100 bags sold at 6¼d. to 6⅜d.

Plumbago.—The market for Ceylon is dull; at auction 193 barrels were offered and bought in, superior bold, at 30s.; fine, 22s. to 23s. 6d.; chips, 13s. to 13s. 6d.—except 9 barrels chips which sold at 11s. Privately 15 barrels common dust are reported sold at 4s. 3d.

Rice.—There is a better demand for all kinds, and firmer prices are obtainable especially for floating cargoes. On the spot 2,500 bags fine Bassein have been sold at 10s. 6d., a landed cargo of 11,000 bags old Necransie at 8s. 9d., and 16,000 bags Rangoon at 9s. 3d. to 9s. 9d. For arrival 200 tons Casla Bengal, October-November shipment, have been sold at 7s. 10½d. quay terms, also the following cargoes of soft grain:—The George Avery, 650 tons Necransie, at 9s. 10½d., for the Continent; the Belmont, 1,370 tons Rangoon, at 9s. 9d., landed for London; the City of Bangor, 850 tons Rangoon, at 9s. 3d. for the Continent; the Arabia, 1,300 tons Rangoon, arrived in dock, at 9s. 1½d. quay terms; and the Verdandi, 500 tons Rangoon, at 9s. 6d., Continental terms.

Spices.—Cassia Lignea: 298 cases unworked were bought in at 105s. to 107s. 6d. Nutmegs: 30 cases Penang were bought in, chiefly average 71 nuts to the lb. at 3s. 3d., 118's at 2s., except a few of the former, which sold at 3s. 2d.; 4 casks Java limed 108's sold at 1s. 10d. to 1s. 11d., and 2 boxes Tuticorin 104's at 2s. 1d., 190's at 1s. 1d. Mace: 6 cases middling Penang sold at 3s. 1d., and 1 box Tuticorin at 2s. 9d.

Shells.—The periodical sales were held on the 22nd inst., with the following results:—Mother-o'-Pearl: Moderate quantities offered were partly sold at previous rates; 41 cases good Manila partly sold at £9, and 15 cases Singapore, chiefly bold, sold at £8 15s. Tortoise: A large supply, amounting to 9,300 lbs., offered met less demand, and barely one-third was sold at about previous quotations; 3 cases (371 lbs.) Manila were bought in at 13s. 6d. to 14s., and 15 cases (1,380 lbs) Singapore at 15s. to 16s., except one lot ordinary, which was sold at 10s. Green Snail: 159 cases 136 baskets and 5,000 loose partly sold—large, 4d. to 4¼d.; medium, 3d. to 3¼d.; small, 1½d. to 2½d. each. Ear: 188 packages 3½ tons Japan and 3,740 China withdrawn.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular, dated 4th inst.:—

Our market for Tea has shown increased firmness, with considerable business in the various descriptions, on rather more favourable terms for importers than were available at the date of our last. In Greens the transactions are limited somewhat by the absence of desirable grades of old crop, and the small supply of new now to hand. Sales are reported from first hands of 8,400 packages, chiefly new crop, part to arrive ex steamer Magdala. About 15,900 half-chests Japans have also found buyers, nearly all of old crop, leaving very few unsold of this description in first hands. For Oolongs the demand noted in our last still continues, with sales and resales, to the extent of 20,300 packages during the fortnight. Of these about 8,000 are to arrive, and include the Tamsui kinds, ex Kelso, with some additional parcels Amoy goods, ex Devana. Further sales of New Blacks to arrive have probably been made, particulars of which do not transpire. The market closes very firm for this class of tea, at prices fully sustaining the advance previously noted.

The following are the current quotations:—Greens (Moyune, Twanki and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 82c. to 125c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 53c to 108c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 47c. to 115c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 50c. to 90c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow, Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 53c. to 58c.; superior and fine, 60c. to 68c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 52c. to 57c.; superior and fine, 59c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou (old crop), common and good, 40c. to 52c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 90c.; Japans (new crop), common, nominal; medium, 70c. to 73c.; fine and finest, 80c. to 87c.; choice, 88c. to 92c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Nov. 2, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 20,089,475 lbs.; Japans, 9,990,210 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,919,696 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,549,796 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 41,703,641 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 51,569,808 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Nov. 2, 5,197,554 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 31,568,508 lbs., there remains a total of 14,803,746 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Oct. 19 to Nov. 2 amounted to 158,189 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 816,876 lbs.; and the exports to 108,737 lbs.

Coffee.—The current quotations for East India kinds are Java Government bags 21c. to 23c.; Java mats, 21c. to 23c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c., showing no change from those last given. There are no new features to note in the market for Brazil. The trade are buying to a fair extent, their enquiry being, as before chiefly directed to the low and better grades, and for the latter an advance of one-quarter of a cent per lb. has been realised. Medium grades are in comparatively good supply, but less inquired for, though even for these the market closes firmly. Java has been very firm, and at the close shows a tendency towards a further advance; the sales since our last report amount to about 2,500 mats at the current rates. In other East India kinds there has been no business.

Coir Yarn.—We note the sale of 300 bales Ceylon on private terms.

Camphor.—China is quoted 15c. gold (in bond).

Essential Oils.—Aniseed is quoted $2.25; Cassia, $1.25 gold (in bond).

Gunny Cloth.—There is no demand, and prices are nominal.

Gambier.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

Hemp.—The market for Manila continues inactive; sales are reported of 2,200 bales superior quality at 13½c. gold, and of 500 bales at Boston at 12¾c. gold. The Horatio Harris has arrived with 6,101 bales, and the Sooloo (at Boston) with 5,000 bales. The stock of Manila on Nov. 1 was estimated at 13,731 bales, against 5,357 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 10,936 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1870, were 122,147 bales, against 123,987 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on Oct. 31 was 32,867 bales, against 13,728 bales at the same date last year.

Indigo.—There is no change in the tone of the market for Manila; the sales have been 42 cases, at the last quoted rates.

Preserved Ginger.—China is quoted $10.50 currency (duty paid).

Rhubarb.—The quotation for China is $1.18 to 1.80 currency (duty paid).

Rice.—The market for Carolina continues inactive, and prices have declined 50c. per 100 lbs.; this decline having done away with the former relative cheapness of Rangoon, there is but little demand for the latter kind, the sales being in small lots, and exclusively for exportation. To induce business holders would have to reduce quotations, and no movement of this kind has yet taken place.

Sugar.—The business in Raw Sugar is still on a very restricted scale, refiners buying merely to supply their daily necessities, the trade scarcely being on the market at all. There is very little to report in the way of actual operations, yet holders as a rule retain their firmness, insisting upon full values, and affecting indifference whether they sell at present or not, professing great confidence in the future value of the article, even after the close of the year, notwithstanding the prospective reduction of duty Jan. 1 next. The only sale to report in East India kinds is of 38,108 bags Manila, ex Asa Eldridge, at 8⅛c.

Spices.—The market for most descriptions remains firm, especially for goods in bond. In whole parcels there has not been much business, and we have only to notice the sale of 230 cases Batavia Nutmegs, ex ship, on private terms, and 200 bales Cloves, in Boston, at 7⅞c. gold, in bond. Cloves are rather higher, and have sold freely. Pepper and Cassia are also in good demand at former rates. The other kinds are quiet, dealers buying only to meet their immediate wants. Sales have been made, in lots, of Nutmegs at $1.02½; Mace, 90c. in bond; Cassia, 48c., in bond 28c.; Pepper, 25¾c. to 26c., mostly 26c., in bond 11c.; and Cloves, 26c. gold.

Tin.—There is still an entire absence of inquiry for or business in foreign descriptions; the nominal quotations are—Straits, 31½c. to 31¾c.; Banca, 36c. gold.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

NOTHING BETTER.—With the shortening days and foggy atmospheres the human system will certainly be more or less deranged, and notably these invaluable Pills exert a greater and more beneficial influence over loss of appetite, dyspepsia, bilious errors, irregularity of the bowels, and nervous disorders than any other medicine. Their mode of action is thoroughly consonant with reason; they completely purify the blood, relieve both head and stomach from all faulty functions, and expel all oppressive accumulations from the bowels. With the blood purified, and all poisons purged from the system, regularity must prevail throughout the body, aches and pains must cease, healthful energy must supplant weariness, and the shaky nerves must regain their wholesome tone.

Summary of News from the Far East.

YOKOHAMA.

The only news by this mail is of a state review of the Imperial troops at Yedo, which was held in the presence of the Mikado and his two chief Ministers, the Prince Satsuma, Toza, Hizen, and Chosiu. Three Europeans witnessed the evolutions. Intelligence has been received that the missing steamer Albion has arrived at Brisbane, in ballast. The late typhoon had been severely felt.

RUPTURE BETWEEN THE FRENCH AND PRUSSIAN MINISTERS.

(Japan Herald, Oct. 15).

It is rumoured that yesterday the existing difference between the Prussian and French Ministers respecting the provisions of the Japanese proclamation of neutrality culminated in the former formally demanding the surrender of the barracks, arms, and material now in Yokohama to the Prussian forces. In the event of refusal the German war ships would cease the inaction agreed upon formerly.

The demand was rejected, and the letter shown to the Japanese Governor, who declared his intention of enforcing the Mikado's proclamation of neutrality, having first consulted the Ministers of England and America. The latter united in remonstrance against the demands of the North German Charge d'Affaires, who, it is said, assured the Japanese that France no longer existed as a Power, and that Treaty obligations no longer bound them, nor need they fear reprisals. He also threatened to fight the ships in harbour. The ships of war, three French and two German, were kept under steam during the day.

A conference of Ministers was held yesterday, and another is to be held to-day. The English and American Ministers have requested the senior naval commanding officer in honour to hold themselves in readiness to repress any attempted hostilities in violation of neutrality. It is said that the Japanese authorities are vacillating, and would probably not dare to interfere.

LATER VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

We have received dates through San Francisco to Oct. 22. The news from Japan is unimportant; the country appears to be in profound peace. The birthday of the Mikado was celebrated at Yedo and Yokohama, and, so far as is known, throughout the whole country. The shipping in the harbours was gaily dressed, and at noon the imperial flag was saluted by the various men-of-war.

Ex-Secretary Seward had arrived at Yokohama, and had an interview with the Mikado, being the first audience ever given to a private individual. The only persons present besides Mr. Seward were Minister De Long and the Secretary of Legation, Shepard. Mr. Seward's visit ro Japan was the event of the month. He was the guest of Minister De Long, at Yokohama, and Consul Shepherd at Yeddo.

Mr. T. Scott Stewart, United States Consul at Hiogo, who is on leave of absence, arrived at San Francisco by the steamship China, accompanied by twelve young Japanese students. The China brought 12,000 packages of tea; 330 packages have been sold for New York.

The French war ships had left Yokohama. Their destination is unknown.

The Danish Envoy has succeeded in negotiating with the Government of Japan for the completion of telegraphic communication between Japan and Europe. The Japanese merchants have arranged to ship 200,000 cards of silkworms to Europe. A typhoon at Yokohama and Yedo had caused great damage.

The British barque Aikendo was lost in Adawairna Bay, and the barques Mary Miller and Royal Minstrel, the schooner Iantipole, and several other vessels were damaged by a typhoon.

PEKING AND TIENTSIN.

TIENTSIN, Oct. 12, 1870.

Although it was reported here some days ago, on apparently good authority, that M. de Rochechouart, the French Chargé, had accepted the Chinese offers of so-called reparation for the massacre of June 21, this statement is now proved to have been erroneous. The Chinese offers have been rejected by M. de Rochechouart with the concurrence of the other members of the diplomatic body at Peking, and the embassy of Chung How to France is after all to be despatched. Chung How will leave Peking on the 20th inst., with the intention of taking the mail of Nov. 5 from Shanghai. He will be accompanied by the interpreter of the French Legation, M. Deveria, and by two young Frenchmen of the Customs' Service, Messrs. Novion and Imbert, and will have besides in his suite Mr. H. O. Brown, also of the Customs' Service, formerly aide-de-camp to Colonel Gordon during the Taiping Campaign. It will be observed that the mission of apology is flavoured with a strong Customs' element, but this latter is of a different character from that which took part in the impostures of the Burlingame promenade, and Mr. Brown, who accompanies Chung How unofficially (having served in his employ for some years as drill instructor at Tientsin) is of a character totally different from that which distinguishes his Irish namesake in the British Consular service. There is no reason to fear that any of the European gentlemen who accompany Chung How will sell the interests of their respective countries for filthy lucre, or for the prospect of ulterior advancement; nor is it probable if, on the Ambassador's arrival in France, a serious Government be found in possession of power, that the honied suavity of which Chung How is a well-known master will suffice to obliterate the just indignation which must be felt for outrages committed with deliberation and left deliberately unpunished. If by delaying a settlement of the question until the spring the mission of Chung How enables France to gain time for forming a resolution how to act for the vindication of her dignity and influence in China, a great advantage will have been gained, and we in China earnestly hope that events in Europe may by the end of the year have become sufficiently pacific to enable the Governments to give consideration to the advice which is said to have been urged by a majority of the foreign representatives at Peking—viz., a joint intervention on the part of the leading Powers to compel the adoption of a new line of conduct on the part of the Chinese.

The correspondent of the Shanghai Courier, under date 10th Oct., writes:—

I have just seen a gentleman who has read the last Peking Gazette. Attached to the Gazette, but not incorporated with it, is an Imperial edict, banishing the late Fu and Hsien for not presenting themselves for punishment with sufficient promptness. Twenty of the common herd are also to be banished, and fifteen executed on account of their connection with the massacre. No mention is made of Europeans in connection with the punishments inflicted.

There can be no doubt that the popular talk is based upon an Imperial edict, nor can there be any doubt that, in the main, the terms are in perfect accordance with those which have emanated from his Majesty. They need no comment. They stand out clearly and boldly as Imperial trifling with grave political events, and additional insult to the nation already so foully wronged. They further reveal the state of feeling which pervades the several legations in the capital. It is true we are in ignorance of what any one of the foreign Ministers may have said or done (the Belgian Minister excepted), or what they may have done in concert; but we may safely affirm that, had they done what justice and right demanded, such terms as the above could never have been proposed by the Emperor of China.

The report of Chung How's Embassy to France is confirmed from every quarter. Probably this also forms part of the Imperial will and pleasure! I expect to find it in the edict referred to. It makes one's blood tingle to hear of the audacity and insolence with which the ruler or the rulers of his Empire seek to bring about a settlement of affairs—sending thus a man with unclean hands to sign a document of amity and peace, if the French can be so blinded as to frame it.

All is being done that can be done to fit the troops for active service. The foreigner who drills a considerable force stated this evening that he never saw such activity on the part of soldiers or officers before; nor is attention to foreign drill confined to the troops here. Those who are best acquainted with it have been despatched to Peking and elsewhere to initiate the common herd.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are to the 18th Oct.; the outward mail of 2nd Sept. arrived on that day.

TRIAL AND SENTENCE OF MR. HARGREAVES.

The trial of Mr. Hargreaves (whose committal we reported in our issue of the 24th ult.) took place on the 14th Oct., before Mr. C. W. Goodwin, deputy chief judge. The indictment charged the prisoner, first, with converting to his own use ninety bales of goods which were entrusted to him for safe custody by the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China; secondly, with having sold and delivered certain other bales entrusted to him for storage in his godowns, and converted the proceeds to his own use; and, thirdly, with having falsely represented to Mr. Walker, manager of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China at Shanghai, that he had in his possession certain goods, by which false representation he obtained the advance of Tls. 16,000 to Mr. R. F. Thorburn.

Mr. Bird, for the prisoner, made two objections to the second and third counts of the indictment. The first objection was in the omission in the second count of the words "without authority to sell," which were expressly given in the statute; and he urged that this objection was no mere technical one, and the force of this would be seen when he pointed out that, while the allegation contained in these words, if omitted, need not be proved, it became necessary that it should be, as part of the count, if the words were inserted. The objection he took to the third count was under the Act to Prevent Vexatious Indictments for certain Misdemeanours. By the 1st section of that Act it was enacted that no charge could be introduced in the indictment that had not also been contained in the charge on which a committal was granted," unless, inter alia, a Judge's order for the insertion of the count has been previously obtained." After hearing Mr. Rennie in reply, his Lordship accepted the defendant's demurrer to the second count. As to the third he felt it to be his duty to quash it. No doubt the machinery of the Court was somewhat confused and defective, but that was not sufficient to warrant a departure from form. The following jury was then empaneled—Messrs. A. T. Duval, E. C. Smith, D. L. Hunter, W. M. Warwick, and A. MacIvor.

Mr. Rennie, as public prosecutor, in summing up the evidence against the defendant, described the charge as the simplest and clearest possible. It had been proved, and the admission had likewise been made, that the defendant had the goods entrusted to him by the Chartered Bank, that he had delivered them from his godowns contrary to the directions given him, and that he had not accounted for the proceeds of their sale. The manager of the bank had deponed to the fact, and was confirmed by Mr. Price, that when moneys were paid into the bank for account of loans the particular loan was specified. Then as to the manner in which the defendant had discharged his trust. The bills of lading for the goods, placed by him with the bank as security, were handed to him on the 31st August. On the 30th of September he gives an acknowledgment of his having taken the goods into his keeping, while there was the most direct evidence that on the 28th, he had sold nineteen bales of them, and not one particle of evidence to show that any portion of the proceeds of those nineteen bales was appropriated to the loan for which they were under lien. On subsequent dates the defendant sold and delivered the remainder of those ninety bales, received the whole of the proceeds, and not one farthing is paid towards them at the Bank. It was also admitted by the defendant that goods were entrusted to him for safe custody, and on the express understanding that they were not to be delivered from his godowns without an order from the Bank; but here they found that without any order the goods were sold, delivery given, and the proceeds wholly appropriated to the use of some person other than the Bank. If his friend on the other side made any point of the power to sell, he would there be met by the simple explanation that the power to sell rested with Mr. Thorburn or with his attorney, the power to give delivery rested only with the Bank, as shown by letters of the 29th June.

Mr. Bird then addressed the jury for the defence, contending that, if the prosecution could not show that the goods were entrusted only for safe custody, and if he, on the other hand, could show that they were entrusted for some other purpose than for safe custody, it became the duty of the jury to find that no offence had been committed under the seventy sixth section. It was admitted by Mr. Walker that the transactions with the bank went on for over two years, that during this time large sums were advanced upon goods, and large sums were also paid into the bank by the defendant, which was one link in the chain of proof that the bank at any rate allowed the defendant to sell goods. Mr. Walker had admitted having had conversations with the defendant, in the course of which he had consulted with him on the advisability of the sale of goods. Further he (Mr. Bird) had elicited in cross-examination that, while large quantities of goods had been sold, and large sums of money realised, not one stiver of this money—as also the cashbook and other books would show—had ever gone into the pocket of the defendant. It had all been swallowed up by charges on the goods, which the bank, as owner, would sooner or later have been called on to pay. The defendant's explanation of how he came to be put in such a position, with regard to his business, was that, receiving large consignments of goods from England, with no market, and with interest and heavy charges on the goods to be met, he was compelled to force them into the market at a sacrifice. In this way a capital of £20,000, with which he had started, was swallowed up, together with the sums which are in default in the business, and he would remind them that the defendant had come all the way from England to submit himself to the very trial he was now undergoing. Would he have done so if he had thought himself to have been criminally guilty? His simple presence there was strong presumptive proof that nothing of the sort had entered into his dealings.

In addressing the jury at the conclusion of the trial, his Lordship said that a person might bona fide do things which prima facie would be wrong; but if he did them all above board and openly, however he might blunder in his business, it was not fraud. But if he attempted to conceal his action, supposing it to have been an unlawful one, there was prima facie evidence of fraud. In the case before them, the defendant agreed most clearly not to do certain things without reference to the Bank, which things he afterwards did, and of which he gave no account. The jury, after retiring for ten minutes, returned a verdict of Guilty, and his lordship sentenced the defendant to one year's imprisonment.

The following summary of news is from the North China Herald of Oct. 18.

The P. M. S. S. New York, arrived from Japan yesterday, brings among her passengers the Hon. W. H. Seward, the distinguished American statesman, who is to stay some time in Shanghai, and will also shortly visit the North.

Mr. George F. Seward, the American Consul-General, was entertained at the Club, by a number of his friends, on Monday of last week. In the course of the proceedings Mr. Seward made some very satisfactory explanations regarding his success at Washington in the direction of reorganising the United States Consular service. He also adverted to the present condition of foreign relations with China, and both he and Admiral Rodgers expressed sentiments as to the duty of foreign Governments which met with the hearty approval of those present.

On Thursday a new flag was presented to the volunteers, on behalf of the ladies of Shanghai, by Mrs. G. F. Seward.

A "Volunteer of 1854 and 1870" sends the following on the subject of the old volunteer flag:—

"The flag that was carried in the battle of Muddyfoot, in 1854, and struck terror into the hearts of more than 10,000 Chinese Imperialists, was presented by a lady of Shanghai. It should therefore be preserved carefully alongside the banner of 1870. Under this old flag the volunteers of 1860-62 did good service. Why has this fact been forgotten? For it was owing to the services of the volunteers during the severe winter of 1861-62, that the ladies then were allowed to remain in their homes with safety and the settlement was saved from destruction."

We hear that opposition is shown by the Chinese to the "Taxe Commerciale Chinoise," which was introduced into the last budget of the French Municipal Council. The object of this tax was to reach large hongs which now contribute hardly anything towards the Municipal expenses; and in reliance on it, some taxes bearing on the very poor have been mitigated and abolished. The leading Chinese were consulted beforehand, and appeared to acquiesce; but they have since been demurring. The Swatow men have had an interview with the Consul, when they refused to acknowledge the tax, and threw up the debit notes with which they had been served.

The fourth gunboat built at the Kiagnan Arsenal has been launched. She has been built from the design of Mr. G. A Lambert, and was originally intended for a despatch boat, but converted into a man-of-war. Her armament will consist of eight 24-pounders and two pivot guns. She is 208 feet long, with a thirty-two feet beam, and will, it is expected, have a speed of nine knots. The launch was very successful, but one or two men were hurt by the trigger being knocked away before the preliminary work of removing the shores had been quite completed.

The North China branch of the Asiatic Society held a meeting, when T. W. Kingsmill. Esq., read a paper on the Tertiary deposit of Northern China. According to Baron Richthofen, this extensive formation is subaereal. Mr. Kingsmill combats this view, and maintains that it is a submarine deposit. Dr. Macgowan read a note on Bull-fighting in China. It appears that in some places this is becoming a favourite amusement; but Chinamen do not fight the animal, they merely pit bull against bull.

A concert lately given for the benefit of the German and French soldiers wounded during the war has realised a sum of $1,923, of which $1,728.83 has been paid over equally to the Consul for France and for the North German Confederation.

The following items are from the Courier, Oct. 18:—

We observe among the passengers per New York to-day, Oct. 17, Hon. W. H. Seward, with his nieces, the Misses Risley, and the Hon. A. N Randall and wife. The steamer Tsatlee was gaily decorated, and conveyed the illustrious visitors to Kee Chung Jetty. We believe they are to be the guests of Messrs. Russell and Co.

We learn that outside of Woosung the gale, the mere skirts of which have swept over us, has been so severe that the Manchu, which left on Sunday morning (9th) for Tientsin, and has twice attempted to go out to sea, has on both occasions been driven back, and was still inside the lightship yesterday. The Kiangse, which came from the north yesterday (12th), supplied the Manchu with some extra provisions, rendered necessary by her detention. The Chihli, which left yesterday morning, went right out to sea

Ting Futai, we are told, has returned to Nanking from his murderer-hunting at Tientsin, and will shortly proceed to Soochow, and resume his duties as Governor of Kiangsu.

We have been told that Ting Futai took with him to Tientsin a Chinese gentleman named Yung Wing, who had travelled and studied in America, and is, in fact, a graduate of Yale College, and another Chinese, who was recently interpreter at the French Consulate at Shanghai, and who travelled and studied in Europe. Ting naturally considered that their knowledge of foreign character and ideas would be useful in dealing with such a crisis as that of Tientsin. And soon after their arrival they were summoned into the presence of Tseng-kwo-Fan, who questioned them long and earnestly as to the military resources and wealth of western nations. He asked the interpreter more especially about France. Finally he asked him which of all western nations was, in his opinion, the most powerful. The unwary linguist answered, France. "Why?" thundered the Viceroy. "Because it has a very large army and the people are very fierce." This answer so exasperated Tseng-kwo-Fan that he ordered the unfortunate interpreter to immediate execution, and the lictors at once prepared to do their stern office. It was only at the urgent entreaty of Ting and many other high mandarins, who fell on their knees before him, that he commuted the punishment into official degradation.

In Bankruptcy.

Before G. JAMIESON, Esq. (Registrar.)—OCT. 3.

RE W. HARGREAVES.

A first meeting of creditors was held to-day, when there were present—M. M. Walker, Esq., for the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, and R. Fergusson, Esq., for the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London and China. Claims on the estate had been proved by these Banks, respectively, of Tls. 20,698.83 and Tls. 14,253.00.

There not being a sufficient number of creditors present to form a quorum, the meeting was adjourned.

SECOND MEETING, OCTOBER 12.

The adjourned first meeting of creditors on the estate of W. Hargreaves was held to-day. There were present—Messrs. M. M. Walker, Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China; David McLean, Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank; R. Fergusson, Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London and China; H. W. Hardy, of Birley, Worthington and Co., and R. F. Thorburn.

Resolutions in conformity with the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act were passed appointing Mr. M. M. Walker trustee, with Mr. Baker, of the Chartered Mercantile Bank, and Mr. McLean, of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, the committee of inspection. A statement of the bankrupt's affairs was handed in by his agent, Mr. Harwood. No questions were put.

The meeting for public examination of the bankrupt was fixed for Wednesday, October 26.

HONG KONG.

The dates extend to Oct. 25. The London mail of Sept. 16 (French) arrived out on the 25th. We take the following items from the Daily Press:—

Sir Edmund Hornby, Chief Judge of Her Britannic Majesty's Supreme Court for China and Japan, and Lady Hornby, arrived yesterday by the steamer Godavery from Yokohama.

The Danish corvette Tordenskjold returned last evening from laying the shore end of the Hong Kong and Shanghai cable. About forty miles have been laid and buoyed, ten miles of the heaviest part, and thirty miles of the middle size. The buoy lies in lat. 22.16 N, and long. 114.50 E. Fine weather prevailed during the operation, which occupied from ten to eleven hours, the cable being paid out at about four miles per hour.

The following account of the average amount of bank notes in circulation in Hong Kong during the month ending Sept. 30, 1870, is published in the Gazette:—

Oriental Bank Corporation...	$429,232
Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London and China	641,395
Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China	225,950
Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation	1,603,464

The Daily Press has the following letter in regard to the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank:—As a very large amount of money is invested by persons in China and the East generally in the shares of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, I desire to say a few words on the fluctuations that have taken place in that stock. The principal cause of the fluctuations in the shares of the Bank during the last few years has undobtedly been the limited number of people from whom the shareholders are drawn, and the very small amount of unemployed capital existing in the East. For steadiness in the price of shares it is necessary that there should be a considerable number of investors, whose capital is not liable to be suddenly and frequently withdrawn for purposes of business, and such investors are rather scarce in the East. The consequence is that a moderate amount of fluctuation is inevitable in the price of shares here. On the other hand, the fluctuations of the last two years have been altogether excessive, and are only to be explained by the combinations of speculators.

As I have already remarked, people who threw away their Hong Kong Bank shares lately at such absurdly low prices may justify themselves by the example that has been set by the course of the London market. Yet, after all, the quotations in London only go to show what an enormous amount of money has lately been foolishly sacrificed by persons allowing themselves to be carried away by the panic in the stocks of foreign Governments.

In the case of the late enormous fall in prices here, there is at least the justification to be offered that people here were not more foolish than they were in London. Yet, all experience of wars in which there was little or no prospect of Great Britain being involved goes to show that there are no reasonable grounds for the sacrifice of shares in banks whose business is but little affected by war, because there are some grounds for alarm as to the position of stocks that are affected by war. Taking as an example the case of the Oriental Bank shares during the Italian

War in 1859, war having been declared about the 1st May, when Consols fell in one week from 95¼ to 88½, and peace having been concluded about 7th July, the quotations of Oriental Bank Corporation, £25 shares, were in London as follows:—

April 9,	£40¾	—prem. 63 per cent.
„ 30,	39½
May 7,	36½
„ 26,	36	—prem. 44 per cent.
June 4,	36¾
July 23,	39¼
Aug. 20,	39¾
Sept. 17,	40½

thus showing a fall at the lowest point of 19 per cent., without any expectation of diminution or loss in the Bank's business, and a sudden rise when the excitement of the panic was allayed by the termination of hostilities.

In the Supreme Court, on the 21st Oct., arguments were heard in the case of Melchers and Co. v. Kam, on the motion of Mr. Hayllar, counsel for the defendant, to set aside writ of foreign attachment issued in the suit, and to obtain the release of the ship Maria Diederika, detained thereunder. The facts of the case would appear to be as follows:—Certain tubs of steel were shipped on board the Maria Diederika at Rotterdam, consigned to Messrs. Melchers and Co. Just as the vessel was about to sail a document was handed to the captain purporting to be a notice from the unpaid vendors, who were not the immediate shippers of the steel, of stoppage in transitu. The steel was under all the cargo at the bottom of the ship, and was brought on here in the vessel. On her arrival Messrs. Melchers and Co. claimed delivery of the goods on their bill of lading. Delivery was refused by the captain, unless an indemnity was given him against all possibility of loss at the suit of the persons giving the notice in Rotterdam. Thi indemnity was refused, and the present action brought against the owner of the ship, under the Foreign Attachment Ordinance. Mr. Hayllar, for the captain and owner of the ship, argued that no cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the Court, the contract on the bill of lading being overruled, so far as the carrier was concerned, by the notice served on the captain in Rotterdam, and that the person to be sued was the vendor in Rotterdam. Mr. Hayllar dwelt very much on the hardship to the shipowner of his being made liable to such an action as this, he being bound to take notice of the document given him, which he believes to be bona fide. The decision of the Court has not been given.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

We have received the first number of L'Independant de Saigon, a French newspaper, which it is proposed to publish on the 1st and 15th of each month. Our new contemporary advocates strong Republican opinions, and in his opening article congratulates himself on possessing an editorial staff composed of gentlemen holding absolutely the same ideas on political subjects. Notwithstanding this unanimity of sentiment it, is, however, the intention of all the members of the Editorial Committee to limit their responsibility to their own articles, all which consequently appear with signatures attached to them. There is only one item of local news. The new Procureur-General, M. Charles Dain, had arrived in the steamship Japan, and met with an enthusiastic reception; and, from an allusion in the notices to correspondents, we gather that the Germans in Saigon had been prohibited from receiving any letters, except open ones, before their expulsion was resolved upon.

SINGAPORE.

Dates from this port are to Nov. 1; the French mail, with London dates to Sept. 30, due on Oct. 31, had not arrived.

There is no news of public interest. The Legislative Council met on Oct. 29, but the business was merely formal. The Municipal commissioners also met, but did little more than pass a number of accounts for payment. Among these are the commissioners' establishment, $678.45; registrar of hackney carriages, $40.00; registrar of hackney carriages contingent, $50.60; town clock, $10.00; lighting, $26.54; police, $4,295 00; interest on loan of 1864, $1,120.00; cleansing town, $655.00; gas company, $95.04; commissioners' establishment contingent, $68 73; conservancy establishment, $440 30; conservancy establishment contingent, $71.08; roads, $2,085.44; bridges, $116 15; town drainage survey' $60.00; burying town sweepings, $25.00; repairing public well, $13.39; tools for use on roads, $20.35; watering streets, $3.53.

The Sarawak steamer Royalist had returned from Banca Straits, where she had gone to assist the North German barque G. F. Vorwerk. When the Royalist reached there she found that a Dutch Government steamer had already succeeded in getting the vessel off. Lighters had been taken to the vessel by the Dutch steamer, and, after discharging a portion of the cargo, she was floated off and towed into Mintoh. Divers were sent down to examine the ship's bottom, and it was found that she had sustained no damage whatever, having been ashore on a mud bank; she has proceeded on her voyage to Shanghai. Great praise is due to the officers of the Dutch steamer, who worked untiringly to get the vessel off, and their services, being gratuitous, are deserving of some recognition. The master of the vessel speaks in high terms of the valuable assistance these officers have given him.

The 31st of October being the birth-day of his Majesty the King of Portugal a solemn Te Deum was sung in honour of the occasion at the Portuguese Church of San Joze. The service was attended by the Portuguese, French, Spanish, American, and Belgian Consuls, and a large number of the members of the Catholic community.

The Legislative Council had met on the 17th and 21st. The only measures passed by the Council are the Money Order and the Census ordinances, but it has been engaged upon matters of much greater importance. The new English Bankruptcy Act, and the law to abolish imprisonment for debt, amended and adapted to this colony, have passed their second reading, and will probably become law before the close of the session. The Council has also under consideration a Bill for the suppression of Wah Whay lotteries and gaming houses,—a measure that has been found necessary, owing to the opportunities afforded for evading the present law, and the extreme difficulty of checking these evils, which are productive of much mischief among the classes who patronise them. A Contagious Diseases Bill is also under way, and is much needed. At the meeting on the 21st instant the Estimates for 1871 were laid before the Council, and a Bill introduced to apply the sum of $1,280,676.68 to the public seruice for the ensuing year. The revenue is estimated at $1,365,592, thus showing a surplus of $84,915 22. We observe, however, that only $20,000 is set down as expected to be realised by the sale of the Government steamers; and if the other items of revenue are estimated as moderately, the figures will not, we think, be found far wrong, and there will even be a possibility of the actual revenue considerably exceeding the Estimates.

The report of the Committee to inquire into the Public Offices had not yet been made public, and it was looked forward to with much curiosity. The disturbances that appeared to be brewing between the various Chinese secret societies have been amicably adjusted, at least for the time, and there are no longer signs of turbulence—the activity and watchfulness of the police having effectually prevented any serious breach of the peace; enrolling the headmen of two clans anxious for a quarrel as special constables, and giving them a fatiguing march on "police duty," had the effect of deterring them from any further disposition to fight.

The Dutch steamer from Batavia, which arrived on Oct. 23, reported the North German ship G. F. Vonverk, from Hamburg for Shanghai, ashore near the second point in Banka Straits. The captain of the Dutch steamer worked ten hours endeavouring to get the vessel off, but after having parted three hawsers gave up the attempt, and brought the chief officer of the ship to this port to obtain assistance. The Sarawak steamer Royalist, the only available steamer in port, was to go down to endeavour to get her off.

IMPORTS.

HANKOW.—There had been continued large sales of Piece Goods. Grey Shirtings, owing to their scarcity, had advanced 5c.; 9.10 lbs. and 7.10 lbs. had slightly declined in value.

SHANGHAI.—With the exception of an improved demand for Jeans and common 7 lbs. T-Cloths, there had been little variation in the Piece Goods market since last mail. An advance in the value of these had been established, and a good inquiry still existed for them. The latter were light in stock, and holders were asking higher rates. Considerable sales of Mexican 7 lb. T-Cloths were reported, at former low rates; and 8 lbs. goods were in rather better favour. Business in 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings was still impeded by the absence of supplies. Prices were unchanged. In 7 lbs. little had been done. Some large operations in the heavy makes, at very low figures, were reported as last mail was leaving, but had since been contradicted. There was no change in the market for White Shirtings or Fancy Cottons. English and Dutch Drills were wanted at former quotations; but American Cloth had received no attention during the week. The Woollen Goods market continued in the same unsatisfactory state as lately reported. The demand for Long Ells had somewhat subsided. Camlets were saleable only at a concession to buyers. Spanish Stripes and Figured Orleans had been moved off in small lots at about last quotations. In Lastings and Crapes the transactions had been few and trifling, and prices were weak. Metals.—Iron: Settlements during the week had been on a fair scale, amounting to some 14,000 bundles Nail Rods at Tls. 1.9.0 to 2.0.0 per picul. Quotations were generally about one mace per picul lower. Lead: Shipments had been made to Canton and Foochow. Sales of L.B. were reported at Tls. 4.45 to 4.50. Coals continued firm and in good demand. Quotations (duty paid):—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $1.7.1 to 1.7.5 per piece; 8¼ to 8½ lbs., $2.2.2 to 2.2.7; 9 lbs., $2.2.5 to 2.3.0. G.E. White Shirtings, $1.5.0 to 2.4.0. American Drills, $3.3.5 to 3.4.5; American Jeans, 2.4.0 to 2.4.5; English Drills, $2.9.0 to 3.0.2; English Jeans, 8 lbs., $2.1.0 to 2.0.0; English Sheetings, $3.0.0 to 3.6.0; Dutch Drills, 2.7.5 to 2.9.5; Dutch Jeans, $2.1.5 to 2.2.5; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., $1.1.5; 7 lbs., $1.3.2 to 1.3.9; 6 lbs. Mexican, $1.3.0 to 1.3.5; 7 lbs., $1.4.5 to 5.5.0; 8 to 8¼ lbs., $1.7 0 to 1.8.5; X X $2.2.5. to 2.3.0. Camlets, English, S, 56 yds, $11.0.0 to 11.2.5 per piece; SS, $10.0.0 to 10.8.0; SSS, $9.0.0 to 9.5.0; GG, $10.8.0; SSG, $10.7.0.

FOOCHOW.—The only transaction during the week had been the sale of 800 piculs Lead, at $7 (to teamen).

HONG KONG.—Since last mail transactions in all articles of import had been of the most limited nature, and little disposition was being shown by native dealers to operate. The demand for Piece Goods had been very light, and no change was noted in quotations for any article. Grey Shirtings and T-Cloths found buyers in small parcels, but Drills were neglected. Woollens were quiet, and no business had been done in them. Quicksilver had advanced $10 per picul. Lead and Tin were unchanged in value.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Business continued on an extremely small scale, and quotations were still nominal.

HANKOW.—Messrs. Gordon Bros.' Circular says:—"A considerable falling-off in supplies is the main feature of interest noticeable since last mail, the excess in arrivals to date as compared with last year being now only 234,000 lbs. There is no doubt that a large quantity of leaf is still left in the Seangtam district; and it remains to be seen whether prices paid in Shanghai for this class of Tea are such as to induce Teamen to bring down further supplies, or whether (as we are informed is most probable) they will retain the leaf in the country, to mix with new Tea next season."

SHANGHAI.—Black: In the early part of the week the market was quiet, and had a lower tendency; but subsequently, owing propably to the receipt of more favourable telegrams, an active demand had existed, and an extensive business had taken place. Settlements and re-shipments reported during the week amount to 21,741 chests, and we hear of further purchases of some 10,000 chests. The stock, including the unreported settlements was reduced to 47,656 chests. Green: The inquiry for fine Teas remained good, and settlements continued at about the same extent as previously reported. The supply of finest and choice grades did not increase, and prices for these ruled very firm; but the grades immediately below, and medium kinds—of which latter qualities the bulk of the arrivals consisted—were weaker. Settlements since 11th October had been 16,632 half-chests, re-shipments 1,440 half-chests; and the stock had increased to 97,447 half-chests of all descriptions.

FOOCHOW.—The following is from Messrs. Westall, Galton and Co.'s Report:—A fair amount of business has been done during the week, and prices have a tendency to ease. Supplies of all kinds more than keep pace with the demand. Receipts of Congou showing a decrease of 122,800 chests. For the week arrivals have been:—Congou, 19,040 chests; Souchong, 400 chests; Oolong, 7,310 half-chests; Scented Teas, 2,000 boxes. While settlements comprise:—Congou, 17,590 chests; Souchong, 2,370 chests; Oolong, 1,080 half-chests; Pekoe, 100 chests; Scented Teas, 1,360 boxes. In Congous purchases have been made for all quarters; an easier feeling has tempted fresh buyers for England, but no alteration can be made in quotations. Souchongs have been bought to some extent for the Continent; prices show a slight reduction. Oolongs: Settlements consist of one lot cargo teas at former rates. Settlements of Pekoes and Scented Teas call for no remarks. Quotations are:—Congou: Finest, none; Good Medium to Fine, none; Flavoury to Medium, Tls. 16 to 24; Ordinary to Common, Tls. 13 to 15½; Dust and Broken Leaf, Tls. 8 to 12. Souchong: Finest, none; Medium Tls. 20 to 28; Common to Fair, Tls. 16 to 19. Oolong: Settlements comprise: 1,000 half-chests Cargo at Tls. 23. Quotations unaltered. Pekoe: nom. Scented Teas: Fair, Tls. 19 to 20, equal to 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2½d. The Export to Great Britain, the Continent, and Cape of Good Hope, amounts to 27,337,713 lbs., against to same date last year, 34,652,965 lbs.; to the United States, 1,795,781 lbs., against 1,115,168 lbs.; and to the Colonies, 6,875,414 lbs, against 9,682,509 lbs.

AMOY.—No change of importance had occurred in the market. Oolongs had continued to be taken off upon a moderate scale at last quoted rates, which were firmly maintained.

CANTON.—A moderate demand had been exhibited for Scented Teas; prices were unaltered. Of Country Congous six chops had been taken off at fair rates.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been an entire suspension of business, and no settlements are reported.

SHANGHAI.—Business had been quiet since the departure of the English mail, and barely 200 bales had found buyers. Prices were decidedly higher, and the market was firm, owing to advices from the interior reporting enhanced rates there, and a good business doing. The nominal quotation for best Chop 3 Tsatlee was about Tls. 590 to 595. The unsold stock was 3,000 to 3,500 bales. There were very few buyers in the market, and the feeling amongst foreigners was that a good decline must be established before silk could be considered to be approaching a safe investment.

CANTON.—The business during the week had been limited, but prices showed an advancing tendency.

THE TRIAL OF MR. HARGREAVES.

OUR readers have for some time been prepared for the sentence which has visited Mr. HARGREAVES, of Shanghai, with a year's imprisonment for fraudulent breach of trust on the prosecution of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China, reported in another column. Severe loss had been sustained by the Bank in consequence of the fraudulent transactions of the defendant, and in the interests of commercial morality it was necessary that an example should be made. While concurring, however, in the general result of the trial, there are some points in it which we think deserve more than passing attention. It appears beyond doubt that, if the goods on which the Bank made the advances to Mr. HARGREAVES had been deposited in the godowns of some independent person, he could not have had access to them, or have yielded to the temptation to dispose of them as he did when they were left in his own control. The advisability of securing the deposit of all hypothecated goods in disinterested hands cannot be too strongly urged on the attention of bank managers and others who are often called upon to make advances to mercantile men under circumstances of great risk. In the present case, it is clear that the affairs of Mr. HARGREAVES were so mixed up with Mr. THORBURN'S business that it was inconsistent to expect him to act conscientiously as the representative of both separately. It is also worthy of remark that all the money obtained by Mr. HARGREAVES was immediately devoted to propping up the tottering credit of his house. It all went in the way of speculation, and none of it was applied to the personal expenses or gratification of the prisoner. This, of course, is no excuse for breach of trust, but few will fail to see in it an extenuating circumstance which, no doubt, exercised an influence on the sentence, and which might therefore have been alluded to with advantage by the Judge when pronouncing it. His Lordship's speech in passing sentence was, however, so laconic as to be a little surprising from its brevity to those accustomed to the practice in English Courts. All that his Lordship said was—"William Hargreaves, the Jury have found a verdict of "guilty against you; and the only thing that remains for "me to do is to pass sentence upon you. I will do so very "briefly; it is that you be imprisoned for one year." It would be impossible to put the result in fewer words; but we think that a few sensible remarks would not have been thrown away on the occasion, if they had served to point out how easily commercial frauds like the present might be prevented by the strict observance of the ordinary precautions of business men.

IN anticipation of the return to Peking of Mr. MCLEAVY BROWN as Chinese Secretary (acting), Mr. ADKINS, who has filled the post during Mr. BROWN'S absence with the Burlingame Mission, has been sent to Newchwang. Mr. KING, Acting Consul at this port, comes home on leave.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ROMAN CATHOLICS IN CHINA.

The Pall Mall Gazette reminds us that the Tientsin correspondent of the Shanghai Daily News recently drew down upon his head the wrath of the foreign communities in China by expressing a hint in the columns of that paper that the Roman Catholic victims of the Tientsin massacre brought that catastrophe upon themselves. Nevertheless, the Pall Mall feels bound to say that in no civilised country in the world would such conduct be endured as that habitually practised by the Roman Catholic missionaries in China; conduct, moreover, which is faithfully upheld by the French authorities. There Ultramontanism assumes its extreme and most uninviting form. Every effort is made by the priests to withdraw proselytes as far as possible from the jurisdiction of the native authorities, and to defend them against their mandarins in all cases of dispute. It is no uncommon thing for a Chinaman desirous of gaining some particular cause in the native courts to announce himself as a convert, and then by representing to the priest that the wrong under which he alleges himself to be suffering is an act of religious persecution, to enlist his support and influence with the mandarins on his behalf. In the province in which Tientsin is situated, the Roman Catholic missionaries, rightly or wrongly, have for years been very generally accused of attempting to create an "imperium in imperio," by exempting their converts from the necessity of paying the Imperial taxes. The craving after property, and especially after pagodas, which are everywhere the objects of the people's supreme veneration, as being the dwelling places of the local tutelary deities, is one of the gravest and most universal mistakes made by the missionaries. The pagodas are the religious property of the whole district, and for the priests to occupy them, therefore, on a mandate exacted from the mandarin, or at the invitation of the Christian part of the population, cannot fail to outrage the feelings and superstitions of a large section of the people. It must be assumed that, before adopting their line of policy, the missionaries counted the cost, and looked the possible consequences of pursuing it fairly in the face. They have doubtless also been encouraged to continue it by the support they have invariably received from their Consuls and their Minister at Peking, to the prestige derived from which most of the ostensible successes of the modern race of Roman Catholic missionaries are due. If we examine into their system, the fact becomes apparent that it lacks self-sustaining power, and depends for its continued existence on a constant access of influence. Hence we find the priests compelled to assume the character rather of political partisans than of simple preachers of the Word.

ROMANISM VERSUS PROTESTANTISM.*

The Protestant missions cannot vie with the Catholic. It appears probable that the more free spirit of Protestantism will prove itself to be after the lapse of a few years better adapted than the Latin form of Christianity for extension among the Chinese. It encourages independence and free inquiry, and checks servility and reliance on a sacerdotal order. This the educated Chinese appreciates very highly, and when the alternative is before him he will never choose the abnegation of liberty. It has been thought that the pomp of an external ritual—beautiful pictures illustrating the evangelical history, flower-decked altars, devotional processions, ravishing music, and rich priestly robes—would dazzle the senses of the Chinese and outrival the attractions of Buddhism. The conclusion to be drawn from this is very doubtful. The Pekingese have their own street processions, their long pilgrimages to noted shrines, their own masses for the dead. Their pen tents travel for many miles, measuring their length on the ground as they go, or with iron chains fastened on their hands and feet. They make vows when sick to devote themselves to a life of celibacy and prayer. They expend large sums in building temples in order to accumulate merit and ensure the forgiveness of sins. The multiplied repetition, by the believing votary, of the name of Amitabha Buddha, will, he is assured, bring him as much happiness and exemption from as many evils as that of Ave Maria could do should he change his creed. If the Catholic priest rely on his power to outrival the Buddhist and Taoist priests of the heathen monasteries he will find the competition a sharp one and the victory difficult to secure. In an educated country like China the prospect of success remains rather with those who appeal to reason and to Divine command.

TROOPS FOR THE FAR EAST.

The following are the details of the troops now under orders to proceed to stations in the Far East:—For Ceylon: 73rd Regt.—2 officers, 165 men, 6 women, and 6 children; Staff—2 medical officers, 1 lady, 1 child, and 1 female servant; Ceylon Rifles—1 officer; Royal Artillery—1 staff sergeant, and 1 wife; Royal Engineers—1 staff sergeant, 1 wife, and 1 child. For Singapore: 75th Regt—5 officers, 100 men, 6 women, and 6 children; Staff—1 medical officer. For Japan: 1st Batt. 10th Regt.—4 officers, 283 men, 6 women, and seven children. The orders lately given for a detachment of the 75th Regiment to proceed to Hong Kong have been withdrawn. The wings of the 75th, now stationed at Hong Kong and Singapore respectively, will probably relieve each other. The steamer Parana, which sailed from London this day, will call at Plymouth to embark the detachment ordered to Singapore. The Parana will proceed via the Suez Canal.

With reference to the troops which are to be despatched from India as reliefs for China we learn that the steamers Mauritius and Bellona, which have been taken up by Government, are to leave Bombay at once for Cannanore, and there receive on board the 13th Madras N.I., for Hong Kong. The headquarters consist of four officers and 450 men, with 110 followers, and the second wing comprises the same number of officers and 400 men, with 100 followers. The Mauritius and Bellona, it is expected, will bring from Hong Kong the 29th Madras N.I.

Tenders have been invited for the conveyance to Yokohama of a detachment comprising 5 officers, 284 non-commissioned officers and privates, and 13 women and children.

The Ferdinand de Lesseps, with the detachment of troops for Colombo, 175 officers and men, will sail about the 6th inst.

The Nimble, 5, screw gun-vessel, Commander Lee, which had been detained at Plymouth by heavy weather, left the Sound on the 27th ult. for the East Indies, via the Suez Canal. The United States screw war sloop Plymouth, Lieut.-Commander Breese, which had also been detained at Plymouth by the recent severe weather, has sailed for Lisbon. The Wolverene, 17, screw corvette, Capt. H. R. Wratislaw, sailed from Plymouth on the 29th ult. for the East Indies, via the Suez Canal.

The Ringdove (three), double-screw gun-vessel, which has lately been attached to Rear-Admiral Arthur Farquhar's squadron in the Pacific, has been ordered to join the squadron in China, under Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, K.C.B., and proceeded from Honolulu on the 10th Oct. for that purpose.

The Pearl, unarmoured screw corvette, Captain John F. Ross, has been paid out of commission at Portsmouth.

CHINA GRASS MACHINE.—In the beginning of the year, the India Council published the conditions of competition for a prize of £5,000, for the best machine or machines for preparing rheea or China grass. It is required that the machinery should produce a ton of fibre, of a value of not less than £50 per ton in the English market, at a working expense of not more than £15 per ton. Rewards of lesser amounts are offered for inventions of merit, even if unsuccessful, and specimens of the bark and fibre are placed at the disposal of the applicants to the home India-office. The time at first allotted, which would have expired on the 10th of next February, has been prolonged for another year. There are already not less than 100 competitors. At the India Museum there are now to be seen some specimens of fabrics woven from the fibre of China grass, manufactured by Messrs. Wade and Sons, of Bradford. These stuffs, says the Engineer, "have the appearance of very fine alpaca, with, however, a more silky gloss. They are, apparently, not so elastic as either silk or alpaca, as they more easily take and more permanently keep a crease. This objection is being overcome by working up a little wool into the fabric. Taking the possibility of making such beautiful fabrics, together with the authoritatively-stated fact that 'there is a practically unlimited extent of country in India where the plant could be grown,' it must be seen that the subject is one of vast importance, and that the material offers a wide field for work to our machinists."

INSURRECTION IN MONGOLIA.—Grant's telegram from Kiachta, Nov. 28, to be found in another column, reports a rising in Mongolia. Ourga is a city of Mongolia, lat. 47·55 North, and long 10.6 East. The population is estimated at seven thousand, of whom a fifth are priests. Its buildings are mostly of wood, and many of its inhabitants dwell in tents. It is shut in on the south by the lofty mountain Khanools, which tends to render its climate cold and damp. It has a college of Mongolian priests, and is the seat of the deified lama of the Mongols. Mongolia is comprised in the Chinese Empire, and its population is estimated at from five to fifteen million. The chiefs of the people pay tribute to the Chinese Emperor, but, in return, they receive presents to a much greater amount.

A PARTY, consisting of seventeen Japanese, one of whom was understood to be a prince of the Royal house, visited the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, last week, by special order from the War-office, and inspected some of the works of interest and instruction in the various manufacturing departments of that establishment. The naval Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth has received a notification that a Japanese naval officer is to be borne on the books of the Duke of Wellington, with the rank of sub-lieutenant.

MR. GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN, who lately arrived in France from a tour in the Far East, and was subsequently imprisoned for some offence against the French Government, has escaped, and arrived in London on Saturday last. His first act on arrival, as we are informed, was to call at the Reform Club and inquire for Mr. Gladstone, Earl Granville, Mr. Foster, and Mr. George Odger.

The Juno, screw steam corvette, arrived at Malta on the 21st Nov., from Plymouth and Gibraltar, having on board the detachment of Royal Marines, under orders for China, via the Suez Canal, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Richards.

LEGAL.

VICE CHANCELLORS' COURT.

NICKALLS V. EATON.

Mr. Dickinson, Q.C., and Mr. J. N. Higgins moved, on behalf of the plaintiff, Mr. Tom Nickalls, a dealer on the Stock Exchange, for an injunction to restrain an action brought against him by a Mr. William Dent to recover a sum of £1,300, which had been paid by Mr. Dent for calls on 100 shares in the Bank of Hindustan, China, and Japan, now in course of liquidation. The question of liability turned upon the rules and customs of the Stock Exchange, according to which, when a dealer or jobber passes the name of buyer and transferee to the ultimate or immediate vendor, as the case may be, ten days are allowed to elapse after settling day before the transfer is completed, within which any objections are to be taken, and the plaintiff's case was that these days having been allowed to elapse he, as dealer, was relieved of all responsibility. It appeared that Mr. Dent had sold the shares on the Stock Exchange in the usual manner through his brokers to Mr. Nickalls, as dealer, and that Mr. Nickalls had on the settling day passed the name of George Eaton, an infant, into whose name the transfer was completed. On the winding up the infant's name was removed from the list of contributories and Mr. Dent's name substituted. Mr. Dent then paid calls to the amount of £1,300 and brought an action last January against the dealer. The action stood for trial at the sittings in London after last Trinity Term, when it was made a remanet, and was now about to be tried at the sittings in the present month. The Bill was filed on the 13th September by Mr. Nickalls against Mr. Edward Eaton, the father of the infant, to obtain a declaration that Mr. Edward Eaton was the true owner of the shares and bound to indemnify him, and against Mr. Dent to restrain the action, and notice of motion for an injunction served on the 29th of last month.

Mr. Karslake, Q.C., and Mr. A. G. Marten, who appeared for Mr. Dent, contended that the question was a purely legal one, which had only been brought into equity at the last moment by Mr. Nickalls for purposes of delay, and that even if Mr. Nickalls had any remedy in equity, he had, by his laches, disentitled himself to relief.

The Vice-Chancellor, without calling for a reply, said that if complete justice could be done at law there would be no grounds for the application. But that was not the case, for there could be no doubt that the real purchaser of the shares was Edward Eaton, the father, who was not a party to the action; and it was obvious that complete justice could not be done in his absence. As to the argument of dilatoriness, no diligence appeared to have been shown by any one, nor did any one's rights appear to have been prejudiced by the delay. The injunction must, therefore, be granted in terms of the notice of motion.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.

IN RE WILLIAM HARBORD.

This was a sitting for public examination. The bankrupt was a merchant trading in Gracechurch-street as Harbord, Wilkinson, and Co., and at Bombay as Harbord and Co., but the firms consisted of the same persons, the bankrupt and Mr. Wilkinson. The case first came before the Court under the liquidation clauses, and the creditors ultimately resolved upon a bankruptcy, and this was obtained without resistance. The case, it seemed, involves large interests. Under the bankruptcy no accounts had yet been filed, but in the liquidation proceedings the liabilities were stated at about half a million sterling, and the deficiency at £105,000. An estimated loss of £86,791 had been incurred on shipments to India, China, and Japan, and by bad debts, but the exact amount could not be ascertained; indeed, the whole of the present statements were based upon estimate, and until further information was obtained from Bombay the bankrupt could not file the regular accounts. The trustees applied for a long adjournment.

The Court adjourned the further hearing until the 20th of March, the bankrupt expressing his readiness to file certain explanatory accounts required by the trustees.

IN RE GEORGE MELBOURN.

The bankrupt was a merchant in Leadenhall-street, also trading at Batavia, in partnership with Messrs. Tolson and Lichtenberg. The liabilities under the joint estate were very large, amounting to £126,000, with available assets of small amount. The bankrupt has died since the proceedings. A sitting for dividend under Mr. Melbourn's private estate was now held. It appeared that a balance of £3,000 was in hand, and it was resolved that £2,000 of the amount should be divided amongst the separate creditors. Order accordingly. Subsequently there was a sitting for public examination; but it appearing that the bankrupt was dead a memorandum of that fact was ordered to be entered on the proceedings, and the sitting was adjourned sine die.

IN RE H. H. SEVERS.

The bankrupt, H. H. Severs, carried on business as a merchant in Gracechurch-street. It appeared that he had made certain consignments to China and the proceeds had been remitted to him on joint account of himself and another. Those proceeds, amounting to about £1,000, were claimed by the Manchester and Salford Bank as being specifically applicable to the payment of bills discounted by them. The claims were resisted by the assignees, mainly on the grounds that the proceeds were not specifically applicable as alleged, and that the same were in the bankrupt's order and disposition at the period of the adjudication.

After reviewing the circumstances and the authorities upon the subject at considerable length, the Registrar decided that the bank was entitled to the proceeds of the consignments. He was also of opinion that certain proceeds which had not yet arrived on account of some further consignments ought also to be paid over to the bank, and there would be a declaration accordingly.

LITERATURE, SCIENCE, AND ART.

The History of England. By Sir Edward L. Cressy. London: James Walton.—Two volumes of this work are before us; it is to be completed in three more; and if it maintains the character of its commencement to the end, it may perhaps take its place among those historical works of no distinct speciality, for the necessity or object of which it is difficult to imagine any very good reason. That Sir Edward Creasy is a conscientious student there can be no doubt; indeed, in his preface he admits that he has altered his views on many historical questions since he began his work, and also that his present history is not strengthened by full references to the authorities which caused him either to form or alter his opinions. After a perusal of the volumes, we must confess that, whether we have regard to the value or style of argument, we find it difficult to find any good reason for its publication while Macaulay's History holds it present place in the public mind.

The Commercial Annual for China, Japan, the Philippines, and the Far East Generally: London, F. Algar.—This publication forms a valuable work of reference to all who have commercial relations with the Far East. In addition to the tariffs, tide tables, and tables of moneys, weights and measures, an amount of information is given with reference to the various treaties that regulate trade. It is well printed in clear and readable type, and is embellished with a map of China and Japan. We understand that a supply of the work will go out by the present mail.

The new monthly journal Art, the establishment of which we noticed some time since, seems to improve with each successive issue. The illustrations in the present number (for December) include a reproduction of an original drawing by Princess Louise, inscribed as a Portrait of a Canadian Lady. This is followed by a copy of Morland's picture, "Dressing for the Masquerade," and one of a Rembrandt in the Marquis of Westminster's collection, entitled "A Portrait of Berghem," and concluding with a fac-simile of an early Italian print on the subject of the Crucifixion. The execution of all these subjects is extremely good; in fact, as specimens of photographic art, they have seldom been surpassed.

At the last meeting of the Geographical Society, which was presided over by Sir Henry Rawlinson, in the absence from illness of Sir Roderick Murchison, a paper was read by Captain Sherard Osborn on the geography of the bed of the Atlantic and Indian Oceans and the Mediterranean Sea. Captain Osborn, referring to diagrams, showed the outline of the bed of the ocean between the Orkney Islands and Labrador, Ireland and Newfoundland, France and the United States, England and the Cape of Good Hope, Gibraltar and Egypt, and Suez and Bombay. In these, as in many other soundings, there was a remarkable absence of abrupt depths and great outlines, the contour being soft and round. He was convinced that the bed of the ocean is saved from those forces which affect the earth proper. He doubted whether ocean currents ran very deep, and, although a healthy circulation was maintained, yet there was an absence of those mighty streams which would score up the bottom of the ocean in the same way as rivers wear away the land. The bed of the sea was, in fact, more like the Desert of Sahara or the prairies of North America, both of which were probably once the bottom of the ocean. No greater depth than 3,000 fathoms, or 18,000 feet, had yet been reached in the Atlantic. In ascertaining these and further data geographers were greatly indebted to telegraphy, whose agents had up to this time laid 19,000 miles of cable, of the value of £9,000,000. Uniform climate exists in the bed of the ocean, and he had no doubt that through all those regions organic life is in some degree to be found. After some discussion, in which Professor Huxley and Mr. Gwyn Jeffreys took part, the meeting gave a vote of thanks to Captain Sherard Osborn. Previously to the reading of the paper, Sir H. Rawlinson expressed the deep sorrow with which the Fellows of the Society had received the intelligence of the serious illness of Sir Roderick Murchison. A resolution expressive of their sympathy and regret was proposed by the Council, and agreed to by acclamation.

We (the Athenæum) are glad to learn that the efforts of the Ceylon Government for Sanskrit, Pali, and Singhalese literature are assuming more importance. As we have mentioned, a local authority, Mr. James de Alwis, was employed in searching out and cataloguing MSS. His three most important discoveries are a fine Sanskrit poem by a Singhalese king of the sixth century, and two Singhalese religious MSS. His Catalogue, of which the first portion may be ready by the new year, will comprise three volumes of 800 pages each, and to it will be appended a classified index of the subjects, an essential portion of such a work. A library of MSS. of Buddhist work has now been formed by Government, for which the important contribution of the Tripitaka, in forty volumes, from the King of Burmah, is on its way. The Government has also applied to the King of Siam for the Burmese version. The Ceylon Observer justly remarks that all these copies should be closely examined, in order to see if the priests have made them conform to their own notions. One of the finest Buddhist collections is that of our India Library in London, but no sufficient effort is made to turn it to account. With the French, the study of Buddhism is a speculative exercise; for us it is of political value.

A valuable assemblage of old English porcelain, Japanese enamels, and other works of art, the property of an amateur in the country, has been disposed of at the rooms of Messrs. Christie, Manson, and Woods. Among the more important articles were the following Japanese enamels:—A pair of cylindrical match-pots, and four pairs of large two-handled vases, with fish, birds, and ornaments—£55 5s. A pair of very large dishes, with poultry, dragons, and ornaments, of unusual size and beauty, and two pairs smaller do., with birds and flowers—£63 5s. A pair of fine Satsuma vases, with birds and flowers in colours and gold, with gilt mask handles, on lacquered stands—£40. A pair of gilt panels elaborately carved with Chinese figures and landscapes brought 20 gs. A handsome Oriental dinner service, richly enamelled with peacocks and flowers, consisting of 230 pieces—£41 10s. A Chinese coffee-pot of silver, richly chased with figures and landscapes, weighing 52 oz.—£16 10s. A pair of two-handled vases, of Chinese enamel, with flowers, insects, and characters in colours on blue and crimson ground—£40.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, Nov. 29.

I have much pleasure in being enabled to communicate to-day to your Teutonic readers in the Far East the pleasing intelligence that the unification of Germany has become a great and acknowledged fact. The accomplishment of this much desired end is indirectly but mainly due to the ex-Emperor Napoleon, who, though he did all in his power to prevent it by his intrigues and selfish policy for the last four years, succeeded, no doubt much against his will, in bringing it about in one single day by means of his insane declaration of war on July 15 last, which caused all Germany to rise as one man, to resent the indignity and insult offered them, and we have already seen with what results. The Treaties which bind all Germany into one homogenous mass have been already signed, and there can be no doubt that they will be approved and ratified by the Legislative Chambers of the South German States, whilst the Reichstag, or North German Federal Parliament, has been convened for the same purpose, and was opened a few days ago by the Vice-Chancellor Delbruck, in the absence of the Chancellor, Count Bismark, who is still at the head-quarters of the King of Prussia at Versailles. In my last letter I stated that the King of Bavaria made some difficulties about the conditions of his joining the Confederation, and required some special stipulations as an equivalent. Some of these he has withdrawn, and one or two Count Bismark has conceded, as he thought it of much more consequence to secure the adherence of Bavaria than to risk it at the present moment, when the armies of the North and South are fighting side by side against France. Without going into details I may say that the constitution of the North German Confederation remains intact, with the exception of the few alterations indispensably required by the new state of things. Thus the Confederation is of course no longer the North German but the German, the Federal Council is to be augumented by four votes for Wurtemberg, three for Baden, and three for Hesse Darmstadt; whilst those three States will be represented in the Reichstag by a number of members elected in proportion to the population, as in the rest of Germany, viz., Wurtemberg will send seventeen members, Baden fourteen, and Hesse six new representatives for that part of the Grand Duchy south of the Maine, in addition to the six she now sends, elected in the district to the north of that river, and which already forms an integral part of the Confederation. The figures for Bavaria have not yet been published, but they will be in much the same proportion. Among the alterations in the Constitution is the addition of a new article providing for the further extension of the Confederation which has hitherto escaped public comment, at least in the press, but which is of rather an ominous nature. The new Article 79 says:—"The entrance of a German State, not already being a member of the Confederation can be effected on the proposal of the President (the King of Prussia) by a simple act of legislation." This may apply to the German provinces of Livonia, Esthonia, and Courland, situated in the Baltic, and for the last hundred and fifty-five years under the sceptre of Russia; or it may mean the Tyrol and Trieste in the south, and perhaps Moravia and Upper Austria; or else it may simply have reference to Alsace and Lorraine, which it is expected will be claimed from France and reincorporated with Germany; or, lastly, it may be intended to facilitate the entrance of that unlucky Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, hovering on the frontiers between France and Germany, owning the King of the Netherlands, from whom it is separated by Belgium, as its lawful sovereign, at one period forming a part of Germany, and even now admitted to be a member of the Zollverein, but without any veto or vote in the Council, renounced by the Dutch as aliens and foreigners, and in the undignified position of living on sufferance and under the somewhat doubtful guarantee of certain great Powers of Europe, one of which being France, who is at present certainly not in a condition to redeem her pledge of guarantee against any violation of territory or infraction of recognised neutrality. Thus, it will be seen, this new Article in the German Constitution opens the door very widely for further adhesions to the Confederation.

We have had here lately a large importation of French officers, prisoners of war, mostly belonging to Marshal Bazaine's army that capitulated at Metz, and among them is General Coffiniere, late commandant of that fortress. Having nothing else to do they are perambulating the streets at all hours of the day with their hands in their trousers' pockets, in that slovenly way the French have, and perhaps to keep their hands warm, as they are innocent of gloves. There are already about a thousand of them here, and a similar number is expected next week. Being on parole they are allowed free action, and have to make their own arrangements for their board and lodging, either at hotels or in private houses. The former are of course preferred, as most of the German waiters have at least a smattering of the French language, enough to understand what is wanted. They are under no control, except that once a week they must attend the general muster and answer to their names. They get their pay at regular periods, subalterns at the rate of twelve Prussian dollars per month, and officers of higher rank $25. In trusting implicitly to their word of honour, given in writing by those who can write—for experience has shown that a very considerable proportion of them are quite without education and unable even to sign their names—the French officers have been distributed over the whole of Germany, in the open towns and large villages, where it is impossible to keep a rigid control over their movements. But I regret to state that this generosity of the Germans towards their prisoners has in many cases been greatly abused, and their number has been materially diminished by breaking their parole and finding means to effect their escape. It is sad to contemplate this state of demoralisation in the French army, which lately boasted of marching at the head of European civilisation, but it is an undeniable fact. Every day the German papers teem with the details of such flagrant cases. The Hamburgher Nachrichten of to-day contains the following three items:—1. "During the last week eleven French officers confined on parole at Hirschberg in Silesia have disappeared, and are known to have crossed the Austrian frontier, whence they will be able to return to their native country, as Austria is not bound to deliver them up. It is to be hoped that some of them will be re-captured in France and sent back under a safe escort to Germany."—2. "A few days days ago three officers who were paroled in writing at Sedan, and recaptured at Orleans, with arms in their hands, and fighting against the Germans, passed through Darmstadt on their way to Ingolstadt, accompanied by a strong detachment of Dragoons."—3. "Last Saturday a French officer of rank—report says a colonel of Hussars—passed through Frankfort under an escort of Bavarian Jagers, en route for Spandau, where he is to be tried by a court-martial for having deliberately broken his parole and returned to France, where he was recaptured fighting against Germany." Here at Hamburg similar abuses are of frequent occurrence; at last week's muster fifteen were missing, and at Potsdam and other places even more have made their escape. The Dresden Journal of yesterday contains a steckbrief, or official notice, of the escape of a French officer on parole there, giving a signalement, or the particular description of his name, age, rank, and personal appearance, and calling upon all civil and military authorities, should they find him, to arrest and send him back under safe escort to the commandant at Dresden. It is melancholy to be obliged to chronicle such dishonourable cases, but when General Officers—General Ducrot, now second in command under General Trochu at Paris, is in a similar predicament, and special orders have been given to secure his person alive or dead when the capitulation takes place—I say, when Generals are not ashamed to set such an example, it is not to be wondered at that other officers should consider themselves justified in a similar course of action.

The King of Prussia has conferred the Order of the Royal Crown on Captain Koldewey and Captain Begemann, the respective commanders of the two ships lately returned from the German North Pole Expedition.

In the sitting of the Reichstag on the 30th a petition praying for the acquisition of the French naval station at Saigon, at the conclusion of peace, was laid on one side, and the House passed to the order of the day. The committee which had reported on the petition had expressed a desire that it should be referred to the Chancellor of the Confederation.

A letter from St. Petersburg states that an expedition sent by the mercantile firm of Butin Brothers, to discover a direct route between Wertschinsk and Tientsin, had returned to the former place, and been very successful, having found a short and practicable road. The Mongol inhabitants were very friendly, and expressed themselves pleased at being brought into intercourse with the Russians.

There are still French ships of war cruising in the North Sea and capturing harmless German merchant vessels, the crews of which are sent to France and detained as prisoners of war, against all international law and usage.

COMMERCIAL.

The Tea market is calm, and but little business has been done, as the stocks in the hands of importers are nearly exhausted, and no offers have been made for delivery. Cassia Lignea and Pepper continue in good demand, and the prices of both are again higher. Rice commands an easy sale, as the consumption in the interior of Germany, since the reduction of the duty, as well as from the failure of the potato crop in some districts, is decidedly on the increase. Nothing to report about Spelter, prices nominally without alteration.

HOLLAND.

Rotterdam, Nov. 30.

We are still without a Ministry. Messrs. Fock and Brocx are entrusted by his Majesty—who, notwithstanding the political difficulties which prevail, remains at het Loo with the task of reconstructing the Cabinet. Day after day we are assured by the papers that the seven wise men will be named within a very short time, but up to this moment these prophesies are not fulfilled. It has even been asserted that Mr. Fransen van de Putte had accepted the portfolio of the Colonial department, and at the same time it was stated by the Arnhemsche Courant that Mr. Myer would be recalled at once and replaced by Mr. Geertsema. All these rumours are canards. In the meantime the crisis has lasted many weeks, and this fact proves either that we have only very few capable men, or that but very few are inclined to accept under actual circumstances a seat in the Ministry. There is, indeed, something "rotten in the State;" the Liberal party gives signs of lameness,—there is no vigour, and with the Conservatives it is still work, and they cannot at all take the reins of Government in hand. It is impossible to predict the results of the endeavours of both our reconstructing ministers; but I think it will be a wonder if they succeeded in finding five persons who will be able to exercise the several opinions of our speechmaking M.P.s. It seems certain that the whole Parliamentary session may be regarded as lost. The Budgets cannot, of course, be carried before the 1st of January. Credit-laws must be passed, and the ordinary time devoted to discussing Bills it will be necessary to spend in the Budgets debates. Again next year half the Chamber must resign, to be re-elected or replaced. What we want is a man, an eminent man. Thorbecke—once the personification of liberalism, is old—so old that he has advised the King to appoint a Conservative Cabinet, notwithstanding that the majority of the Chamber votes with the Liberals. This advice was a mistake, and a proof that an eminent man can live too long to maintain his reputation. Indeed our future is all but certain; our political horizon is clouded; people are fearful of annexation, but they do not understand the enormous difficulties and divergences in our home organisation, and they are unable to perceive that there is not the least connection between disorganisation and annexation. If our nationality is endangered the first thing shown will be that we are able to rule both ourselves and our colonies wisely and well.

The reports with reference to commercial affairs are more satisfactory. The greatest activity prevails in all branches of trade. Enormous quantities of merchandise are shipped to the Rhine, so that shipping is scarce. On the Bourse, however, a sort of inactivity prevails, and in all stocks there have been large fluctuations, owing chiefly to the continued agitation of the Russian difficulty and rumours of the most unauthentic character. There have been fresh reports of armistice negotiations; it was said that the Powers would meet in a conference to settle as well the Russian difficulties as the war between France and Germany. But all these reports proved untrue. Money continues to accumulate, but the Bank rate of discount remains unaltered.

Some weeks ago I mentioned that Messrs. Kern and van Gennep had opened a public subscription on behalf of Mr. Douwes Dekker (Multatuli), the author of the "Max Havelaar." According to the Zaanlandsche Courant he will thankfully accept the gifts of the public, about whom he once wrote: "I despise you with sincerity." I do not know whether any large sums have been contributed to this fund, but the commission declares that the money is not sufficient to permit "Multatuli" to live in inactivity. In the first place the money will be devoted to his wife and children, who reside, I hear, in Italy.

It was stated some days ago that the mining engineer, Aquasie Boachi, of the residency Madisen, Java, had addressed to the King a proposal to sacrifice six months of his salary, at f.500 a month, on behalf of the Dutch Treasury, in consequence of the bad political state of Europe. The King was touched by this proposal, but replied that the state of the Fatherland did not necessitate his accepting it. This fact has been passed over by the press without any comment.

I hear that in a few days a pamphlet will be published by Mr. G. C. Daum, wherein the project is developed for the establishment of a steam line between Holland and America. I have reason to believe that this plan will be successful. In my next letter I will give full particulars of this book, of which I have just seen the proof-sheets. You will remember that Mr. Daum was some years ago manager of the steam-line company of Mr. Cozes de Vries, at Batavia.

On the 5th of next month a general meeting will be held at Amsterdam of creditors, shareholders, and holders of bills in the Oost Indische Maatschappy van Administratie en Lyfrenten. According to some letters published in the papers there prevails anything but a good understanding between the creditors and shareholders and the new managers. The meeting promises to be very noisy.

I hear with much regret that Princess Frederic is dangerously ill, and has most probably but a few days to live. Her daughter, the Queen of Sweden, has arrived in the Hague. I have to report the death of Baron Dujardin, formerly our Ambassador at the Court of Brussels.

The Vaderland spread a false report that the Empress Eugenie had passed a few days at the Hague, and had bought a villa in the neighbourhood of the residency.

Mr. W. A. van Rees has published a biography of Lieutenant-Colonel V. Fermeulen Krieger, who is well known in Java.

Mr. J. A. Philipse has resigned his post as president of the Provincial Court of South Holland.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

There is again but little alteration to report in the general feature of our produce markets, which continue to exhibit a firm appearance for most of the leading articles. The late favourable position of Sugar is fully consolidated by the result of the Trading Company's auction, held at Amsterdam. The coffee sale promises to go off satisfactorily. A material improvement is to be noticed in Tin, for which a rapid advance has developed itself since my last letter. Prices of most other articles remain unchanged, but Cotton has improved in value.

Coffee.—In the face of the Trading Company's last public sale for this season, taking place to-day, the article has continued firm, which has permitted the brokers' valuations of the quantity to be put up to be based on the full market value of 33½c. for good ordinary pale greenish Java, and of 32c. to 32½c. for good ordinary Malang and Tenger. Several small shipments of private importation have changed hands within the past few days at steady prices, viz.: 785 b. Java ex Nederland, 295 do. ex Batavia, 339 do. ex Nieuwe Waterweg II., 500 do. ex Agra, 900 do. ex Maria Louise Antoinette, 210 do. ex Fop Smit, 500 do. ex Lanercost, 3,081 b. Padang ex Tulie en Delft, at 36½c. to 39c. Stock on warrants on the 30th, 284,169 bags. Total Stock, 590,100 bags. Floating, 238,000 bags.

Sugar.—The Trading Company's public sale of 40,465 baskets Java, held at Amsterdam yesterday, went off at prices based on which the following value of the Dutch standard has been fixed by the brokers, to which I add, for the sake of comparison, the prices of the previous sales this year:—

About 700 chests Java, Residency Bagelen and Waspada, will be put up for sale by secret tender at Amsterdam on the 12th prox.

SPICES.—Prices of the different articles under this head continue to be well supported. Sales have been closed on secret terms here of 15 casks Mace, ex Catharina Maria, and of 5 casks ex Louise. Stock on warrants in the Trading Company's stores: Nutmegs, 3,408 casks; Mace, 245 casks; Cloves, 2,882 casks; Cinnamon, 29 packages.

RICE is dull, but prices are nominally supported. 1,068 b. Sourabaya sold by public auction, on account of damage, at f.5⅞ to f.6⅛, according to condition.

RATTANS.—The business done in this article since my last has been confined to the sale, by secret tender, of 100 piculs, ex Nederland, at a high price, but which remained secret.

METALS.—The reservedness of holders of Tin in the early part of last week has since been responded to by more disposition on the part of buyers to operate, and this revival in the demand soon resulted in a rapid advance of prices, sales having been made of Banca on public sales prompt at f.71½ up to f.73½, whilst f.73½ is now demanded, and for delivery ex the next spring sale at f.71⅛ and f.72, and f.73 would now have to be paid. Billiton on the spot has sold at f.71 to f.71½, and is now held for f.72⅜.

HIDES.—Beyond a public sale of about 80,000 West India, no transactions have transpired.

INDIGO.—About 100 chests have changed hands at steady prices.

DRUGS remain upon the whole neglected. I have only to report a sale of 298 p. Cassia Vera ex St. Jan, on secret terms.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular, dated 18th ult.:—Since our report of the 4th inst. a fair amount of business has been done in Oolongs and Greens, part of which are to arrive. Of the former, sales to the extent of 20,000 half-chests are reported at prices indicating a further advance of one to two cents in common to good cargo kinds. Sales of the latter reach 8,600 half-chests, with some irregularity as to prices, but on the whole without quotable change in values. 3,200 half-chests Japan have also found buyers, leaving very few of this class of goods in first hands. The market for Tea generally closes rather inactive, but with a decidedly firm tone.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty paid):—Greens (Moyune, Twanki, and Fychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 82c. to 125c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 53c. to 108c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 47c. to 115c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 50c. to 90c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foochow, Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 53c. to 58c.; superior and fine, 60c. to 68c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 52c. to 57c.; superior and fine, 59c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou (old crop), common and good, 40c. to 52c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 90c.; Japans (new crop), common, nominal; medium, 70c. to 73c.; good medium, 75c. to 77c.; fine and finest, 80c. to 87c.; choice, 88c. to 92c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Nov. 16, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 20,483,696 lbs.; Japans, 10,047,008 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,919,696 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,551,511 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 42,156,373 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 52,022,542 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Nov. 16, 5,339,890 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 32,283,623 lbs., there remains a total of 14,399,029 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Nov. 2 to Nov. 16 amounted to 452,734 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 715,115 lbs.; and the exports to 142,336 lbs.

COFFEE.—The current quotations for East India kinds are Java Government bags 21c. to 23c.; Java mats, 21c. to 23c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c., showing no change from those last given. The market for all kinds is dull, and the business done has been limited. Of Java, small sales have been effected at the current rates, and 3,500 mats ex Haus have been sold on private terms. In other East India there are no transactions to report.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 15c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $2.25; Cassia, $1.25 gold (in bond).

FIRE CRACKERS.—The sale is reported of 2,000 boxes extra No. 1 on private terms; the current rate is $4.

GUNNY CLOTH.—The market is very quiet, but there have been small sales of Borneo at 28c.

GAMBIER.—The current quotation is 3¾c. gold (duty paid).

HEMP.—The market for Manila is extremely dull, and no transactions have taken place since our last report; the nominal quotation is 13c. gold. The stock of Manila on Nov. 1 was estimated at 13,731 bales, against 5,357 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 10,936 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1870, were 122,147 bales, against 123,987 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on Oct. 31 was 32,867 bales, against 13,728 bales at the same date last year.

INDIGO.—There has been a slightly increased inquiry; sales of Manila to the extent of 37 cases are reported at $1.20 to $1.27½ currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $10 50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is $1.18 to 1.80 currency (duty paid).

RICE.—The supply of Carolina having become limited, and the attention of buyers having been exclusively directed to that description, prices have advanced. The relative low quotations for East India have not yet had the effect of inducing business, and no transactions have been effected; holders maintain former prices.

SUGAR.—There are no new features to notice in the market, which, with a very moderate inquiry for home use, remains dull but firm at previous rates. The business of the port is now reduced to a very small compass, goods out of bond, in view of the reduction in duties on the 1st January next, being taken only as immediate necessities require, and then only in the smallest possible quantities. The only sales of East India have been 12,309 bags Manila ex Horatio Harris at 9c., and 315 bags vessel not named on private terms.

SPICES.—The market for Pepper has been somewhat excited by the receipt of telegrams from Padang advising a considerable advance there, and there has been a large business at about the prices previously current. Quotations are unchanged, but the tendency is in sellers' favour. The transactions embrace an invoice of 3,000 piculs, one of 500 bags to arrive, one of 1,000 bags ex ship, and resales of 1,500 do. on private terms; 560 do., 10¼c. to 11c., in bond; and 500 do., in lots, 25⅞c. to 26c, duty paid, all sold. The demand for other descriptions has been light, the trade pursuing the hand-to-mouth policy pending the change in the scale of duties. We notice sales of 50 to 60 cases Nutmegs, $1.02½; 10 do. Mace, $1.80, casks $1.25 to $1.28; 2,000 mats Cassia, 48c.; 100 bags Pimento, 18c. to 18½c.; 75 bales Cloves, 26c.; and 250 do. in bond, 7½c.—all gold. Nutmegs are held firmly; 52½c. gold, in bond, was refused for an invoice of 250 cases Penang, per Mercur, at Boston. 53 piculs Nutmegs and 24 do. Mace, per Cyclone, at Boston, sold on private terms.

TIN.—Prices for all kinds, except Banca, continue to yield, and at the reduced rates there seems to be a little more disposition to operate, though the actual business has not been large; sales have been made of 100 slabs Straits, to arrive, and 1,000 do., in Boston, from store, on private terms: we quote Straits 30½c. to 30⅝c., and Banca 35½c. gold.

A NEW REBELLION IN CHINA.

THE position of the Chinese Government at the present moment is by no means an enviable one; and the reflection that it has only its own duplicity and weakness to blame for the difficulties that are accumulating round it would be a salutary lesson on the necessity of adopting a more consistent and enlightened policy towards both friends and foes, if there were any hope that it would profit by its experiences. The rebellion which has so long been chronic in China has again burst forth with renewed vigour. The Tartars in Mongolia have risen once more; a rebel army of 20,000 men is reported by telegram to be under march against the Imperial Government, which is endeavouring to oppose it with a force immeasurably inferior in numbers, though no doubt far better equipped with the weapons in which the Chinese have been instructed by their European allies; and, at the very time when the Imperial arms are thus required to defend the Government against a foe which should never be unexpected, its relations with the friendly Powers of the West have been disturbed by the consequences of its own perfidy and blindness. A heavy money penalty has been paid in partial expiation of the late outrages; an envoy has been compelled to be commissioned to Europe to settle finally the consequences of the Tientsin massacre; and Tientsin itself is to be occupied during the winter by British, American, French, and perhaps Russian gunboats. So far as we are concerned, these announcements are not unsatisfactory. M. ROCHECHOUART considers public confidence completely restored at Tientsin, and expresses himself satisfied with the new Governor-General. The safety of foreigners in China does not seem more likely to be compromised now than in the long series of insurrectionary movements which we traced to their origin in our issue of the 13th June last. We then pointed out that there was a fanatical feeling at the bottom of the rebellion, which the Chinese, if they were wise, would not undervalue. This feeling is the cause of the deep-seated hatred with which the Mussulman regards the Chinese Government, and the ruthless severity with which recent Mahommedan insurrections have been repressed. "The feud between the Mahom-"medan and the Chinaman proper has deepened from gene-"ration to generation until now, when the Crescent is no "longer formidable in the West, it is constantly menacing "the integrity of the most ancient and extensive Empire of "the Far East." Thus we wrote in June; yet since that time fanaticism of another kind, but the same in spirit and intensity, has been connived at, if it has not been fostered, by the Chinese Government against the Christian Powers to which, if it had treated them with tolerance and candour, it might not unnaturally look for assistance in the protection of the integrity of the Empire. The Chinese Government will never be permanently secure until it learns to regard its treaties with ourselves as something more than mere permission to trade in its ports. The force of this argument should never be lost sight of in the dealings of our representatives with the astute Chinese officials. It may be slowly and reluctantly admitted, but it is certain to prevail in the long run; and it would save their vanity without aggravating their hatred, if they were taught to appreciate the strength of their European allies by seeing their arms turned against their rebels instead of being directed against their rulers.

THE SHANGHAI MEMORIAL TO LORD GRANVILLE.

WE have received a copy of the memorial from the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce to Earl GRANVILLE on the subject of the defence of the settlement. It draws attention to the fact that, ever since the opening of the ports by the Treaty of Nanking, the security of foreign life and property has been guaranteed by Her MAJESTY'S vessels of war; but that, of late years, attacks on Europeans have been suffered to go unpunished, till they have weakened confidence in their powers of protection or resistance. All the Consular ports in China are thus placed in a critical position, and the great value of the property owned by foreigners in Shanghai alone is a temptation to lawless bands, encouraged by the comparative impunity with which recent attacks on foreigners have been received. The value of the property of foreigners in Shanghai, exclusive of shipping, is estimated at £12,825,000, of which three-quarters is British. In addition, however, to the loss of actual property, incalculable damage would be sustained by any stoppage of the trade. One ship of war would be enough to protect the settlement, if the regulations which govern the commanders were not so stringent as practically to debar them from taking active measures until the lives and property of the resident foreigners might be destroyed. Mr. MEDHURST, H.M.'s Consul at Shanghai, states that the interference of a naval force in any emergency is not authorised, except in cases where the lives and property of British subjects would in all probability be sacrificed without it; and, even in such cases, the Government will expect to be satisfied that the alternative of saving foreigners by taking them on board was not available. "Precautionary measures," adds Mr. MEDHURST, "do not seem to be contemplated by the instruc-"tions, as now constituted, but merely the affording of such "assistance as may be necessary, in the event of an actual "attack, to the preservation of life or the protection of pro-"perty from destruction." On the principle that it is always well to know the worst, this explanation may, perhaps, be regarded as satisfactory; but it is certainly not reassuring as regards the safety of the life and property it is supposed to protect.

THE FUTURE OF THE DUTCH EAST INDIES.

WHEN it became known in Holland that a Royal decree had been promulgated in Java by which the Agrarian Bill was put in force, our Dutch correspondent protested most energetically against such an illiberal proceeding. It is not necessary to recall the enormous difficulties which the Liberal party in the Dutch Parliament had to overcome before this Bill became law; it is sufficient to state that both in Holland and in her colonies abroad general satisfaction prevailed at the fact that at last a measure had been carried which tended to annihilate the principal of the grievances imposed by the Dutch colonial policy, and that at length the tide of European capital would flow towards Java. This prospect has, however, been overturned; the Agrarian law is practically a dead letter. It is certainly a very strange system upon which to enact laws. Parliament passes a Bill, it is confirmed by Royal assent, and then wholly annulled by a Royal decree stipulating the conditions under which it is to be set in force. We have not far to seek for the origin of this proceeding. For several years past a Ministerial anarchy has prevailed in Holland—Ministers coming in and going out of power at very short intervals. This was solely caused by a division in the Liberal ranks, the Conservatives being really in the minority. These changes have exercised a bad influence. The Dutch Parliament has taken very little account of the grievances of Java, and nothing has been done to promote the welfare of that country. Samarang asks for a better harbour, the Javanese for an improved system of education, trade interests urge the adoption of a truly free trade policy, a steam communication with Australia is wished for, the penal code needs revision, railway communication advances very slowly, and last, but not least, the Dutch policy with regard to the natives remains what it has always been—to "squeeze." It is very strange that Dutch statesmen are unable to comprehend that a policy thoroughly Liberal would be the best guarantee for the future existence of that small kingdom and its colonies. A forcible argument in support of this is contained in the news brought by last mail, by which we hear not only a good deal about failures amongst the Chinese merchants, but also of respectable Dutch houses having stopped payment—amongst them Messrs. OVERZEE and Co., at Padang, with liabilities amounting to 1,500,000 guilders—and it was generally feared that further suspensions would ensue. We learn from the Java papers that the bad time which now seems to have set in was foreseen years ago, and it is even asserted that everyone is astonished that the crisis has been so long postponed. The Government policy has reduced the natives to the most wretched state; all the branches of revenue are monopolised by the Government, the first-class trading firms are unable to guard against the tricks of the Chinamen, who are permitted to keep their books in a language and in a manner which no one is able to decipher, and which, of course, opens the way for the greatest abuses. Indeed it is time, more than time, that a truly liberal Dutch Government should take the reins in hand and fulfil its legitimate task with energy. The present political and social condition of Java is absolutely intolerable, and it is impossible to calculate the evil effects that will ensue from a postponement of a radical change in the system of conducting affairs.

THE P. AND O. COMPANY'S NEW SERVICE.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made between the P. and O. Company and the POSTMASTER-GENERAL for running the company's steamers between Alexandria and Brindisi instead of Marseilles, and the first steamer will leave Brindisi for Alexandria on the 20th inst., corresponding with the mails leaving London on the 16th. The homeward service will commence with the Bombay mails leaving Alexandria on the 25th inst. The mails and passengers will continue to be forwarded through Egypt by rail. The rates of passage between Brindisi and Alexandria have been fixed at £12 first class, £9 second class. Mr. O. K. LEVICK has been appointed agent for Brindisi.

The report of the company, to be presented to the shareholders on the 6th, recommends a dividend of 2 per cent. for the half-year, and a bonus from the insurance fund of 2 per cent. The report states that the Bengal and Cadiz have been sold, and the Salsette brought on to the home line. The Delhi is expected home from Japan, via Canal, and the Tanjore is being refitted, and will be despatched to Bombay on the 24th, and the Malta is to return home. The five new vessels detailed by us last month are given, and the alteration from Marseilles to Brindisi, and the payment by Government of a fixed sum of £450,000 annually.

On the Suez Canal the report says :—

"The proprietors were informed in the last half-yearly report that as regarded the mail service the Canal could only be substituted for the Egyptian railway at a sacrifice of time, and nothing has occurred since to modify that statement. The directors must not, however, be understood to mean by this that the use of the Canal may always be confined as at present to the transfer of the company's steamers from the home to the Eastern stations, and vice versa, or to special trips such as that referred to above, but they feel that until the Canal may be in such a condition as to make the safe transit of the company's large steamers from end to end in from twenty to twenty-four hours a matter to be relied upon, they are not in a position to apply to Her Majesty's Government for permission to adopt it as the mail route.

"Impressed with the uncertainty of the Company's prospects in this matter, the directors have entered into a new and satisfactory convention with the Egyptian Government for the conveyance of passengers, goods, coals, &c., between Alexandria and Suez by the railway, under which the charge for first-class passengers has been reduced from £4 10s. to £3. The Company's steamers also now go alongside a quay at the Suez terminus of the railway, and the inconvenience and expense of embarking and landing passengers and cargo by small steamers has consequently ceased."

Referring to the earnings of the Company :—

"The outbreak of the war had an immediate and prejudicial effect on the receipts, inasmuch as Marseilles became almost a closed port as regarded the movement of passengers and cargo to and from the East, and this without producing a proportionate increase of receipts on the Southampton line. The magnitude and complex nature of this company's operations, and the obligations of the mail contract, render it impossible for the directors to adopt the courses that are open to the private shipowner, namely, to discontinue running ships or to place them on other lines, whenever, from any unexpected cause, their ordinary operations may become unremunerative. The line between Marseilles and Alexandria formed an important link in the great chain of the Postal Service to and from the East, but when, owing to circumstances entirely beyond the control of the directors, that link became useless and unprofitable, time and the consent of the Government were required to bring about the new arrangements necessary to meet the altered circumstances of the case. While the receipts for the year show a considerable falling off under the heads of passage-money and freight, the directors have the satisfaction of reporting a diminution in expenditure, attributable to an abatement in the price and consumption of coals, a reduction in the cost of victualling the passengers and crews of the steamers, the completion of works at Bombay and other foreign stations, and also to the unceasing efforts of the directors to effect economy without impairing the efficiency of the service. While they trust that the falling off of receipts may be temporary only, they are able to state that the diminution of expenses under some of the heads referred to will be permanent.'

TELEGRAMS have been received from Hong Kong that the telegraph ships of the Great Northern Company, under the escort of the Danish frigate Tordenskold, which left Hong Kong to lay the cable on to Shanghai, had put back, owing to the strength of the north-east monsoon. It is expected that the vessels will proceed to Shanghai and lay the cable from thence to Hong Kong. The shore end had been successfully laid down. The laying of the second section of this Company's line, viz., from Shanghai to Wladiwastok, in Possiette Bay, will probably commence in May, via Nagasaki, permission having been obtained from the Japanese Government for that purpose, as also the landing of a cable at Yokohama when required. The Russian land lines for the entire length of 5,500 miles down the Amoor to Possiette Bay are completed, and in working order. We may, therefore, conclude that in June this line will be available between London and Shanghai.

IN reference to our announcement of the proposed shipment of rails, sleepers, and material for the railways in Japan, we have to note that the Burmah has left Glasgow for Yokohama, with about 1,200 tons of sleepers, to be followed by the Dunedin and two more vessels with similar cargoes. In addition to the vessels already named, the Allumina is now loading in London with 300 tons of rails and 50 tons of material. The Prince Alfred, from Liverpool, will take 250 tons material, and the Bertha Marion will take the lot shipped per Grenadier, which vessel put back. The rails have been manufactured by the Darlington Company, and the sleepers by the Anderston Foundry Company.

THE Telegraph Construction Company have nearly completed the cable necessary for the line from Singapore to Hong Kong. A total of 1,600 miles will be despatched in January by four screw steamers, named the Agnes, Belgian, Kangaroo, and Minia, via the Suez Canal, and it is expected that the laying will be proceeded with in April. Should the war be concluded, and arrangements be made in time, the cable will be laid first to Saigon, thence on to Hong Kong; otherwise direct up the China Sea in one line.

THE dispute between Bishop ALFORD and the Church Missionary Society, with reference to the appointment of a missionary or North China Bishop, has been settled. Dr. ALFORD has withdrawn his opposition to the proposed scheme, at the request, it is stated, of the Archbishop of CANTERBURY. No action will, however, be taken in the matter until the arrival of Mr. RUSSELL from China, who, it is understood, has been nominated to the new post, and Bishop ALFORD'S departure for Hong Kong is consequently postponed.

WITH the commencement of the postal service by the P. and O. steamers via Brindisi the rates of postage upon letters to China, Japan, Straits Settlements, Philippines, and Java will be 1s. 3d. the half-ounce, being a reduction of one penny upon the rates formerly charged via Marseilles. Newspapers will continue to be charged threepence each, as heretofore.

NEGLECTED ESTATES IN CEYLON,

A QUESTION of great importance, one that is surrounded with considerable difficulty, and, probably on that account, has remained too long without a practical solution, has been revived by a correspondent of the Ceylon Observer, who inquires if there is any law in Ceylon, analogous to the Thistle Law in Australia, for preventing proprietors of neglected estates from permitting them to be overrun with weeds, the seeds of which wash and blow on to their neighbours' properties under cultivation, and, by taking root there, cause great injury and expense. Our contemporary says that there is no special local law on the subject, and that there is no remedy for the evil except by proceedings at common law. At the present time, when new districts are continually being brought under cultivation, in consequence of the increasing demand for land and the crops it is capable of producing, it is certainly unreasonable that old estates, lying in the midst of or adjacent to well-cultivated plantations, should be permitted to run waste and become mere forcing-beds for the growth of infectious weeds. We learn that some of the best properties in Ceylon, so far as soil is concerned, are overrun with the pernicious goat-weed, which, either from want of capital or enterprise, has been permitted to grow "as high as the coffee bushes." Divided from an estate of this kind by a river, even across the stream the wind carries the seeds of this weed into neighbouring properties newly brought under cultivation, where it strangles the young plants, and causes endless trouble and loss to the owners. It is clear that such a state of things should not be permitted to continue, that the remedy at common law is tedious and unsatisfactory, and that the Government could not long refuse to pass a law on this subject, founded upon a well-considered scheme agreed upon by the Planters' Association. We cordially endorse our contemporary's suggestion, and hope that it will not be allowed to slumber. We cannot, however, go quite so far as our contemporary in thinking that a special law should also be passed to enable proprietors to recover advances made on account of grant-in-aid roads from neighbouring owners who fail to pay their assessments. The road question differs from the weed nuisance in this important particular; the making of roads is an indefeasible responsibility of Government, and it would be bad policy on the part of the planters to disturb it. It should not, under any circumstances, be permitted to involve neighbours in litigation among themselves. The dissemination of weeds, on the other hand, is a practical injury between man and man, and as such should be put down by a peremptory statute. A Government inspectorship might be founded, by which neglected estates might be periodically visited upon due information, and prevented from destroying the fruits of the industry expended on adjacent lands, the cost of the process of exterminating noxious weeds being levied upon the defaulting proprietor. Some useful hints towards such an arrangement might probably be found in our own Contagious Diseases Act (as applied to cattle); but the subject is one so peculiarly within the province of the Planters' Association that we would rather wait to hear the course they may decide upon than offer any more definite suggestions of our own. The evil is too crying to be permitted to remain unremedied, and the proper remedy could not be applied by better hands than the Planters' Association.

ROMAN CATHOLICS IN CHINA.

(PALL MALL GAZETTE.)

Recent events in China having directed a considerable share of public attention to the Roman Catholic missions in that country, a few notes as to their present condition may be interesting. From the most trustworthy information attainable, it would appear that there are at the present time in China and its dependencies, including Mongolia, Manchuria, Corea, and Thibet, 34 bishops, 348 foreign priests, 453 native priests; 17 colleges, with 681 pupils; 1,000 day schools, attended by 15,491 scholars; 41 orphanages, in which 4,235 inmates are housed and fed; and 10 establishments of the Sisters of Mercy, including the one destroyed by the mob at Tientsin. The number of professing Christians is reckoned to be about 450,000, or one in every fifty of the entire population of the countries named. This number is probably an exaggeration, but still there can be no doubt that the Christians are to be counted by hundreds of thousands. Of these a large proportion are hereditary Christians, being the descendants of those who were brought to the faith by the early missionaries, and the priests of the present day point with pride to entire communities who from father to son for upwards of a century have held no other faith than that of Christ. That the number of conversions of late years falls infinitely short of those due to the exertions of the first missionaries is not for an instant denied. Indeed the reported success of the latter seems almost fabulous. We learn from "The Annals of the Propagation of the Faith" that on the arrival of John de Montcorvin at Peking in 1300 he found there no fewer than 6,000 Catholics, the fruit of the labours of two Italian missionaries who made their way to the capital in 1247. To John de Montcorvin succeeded Xavier, Ricci, and Adam Schaal, all of whom achieved great successes and obtained immense influence. The number of the converts made by Xavier and Ricci is not stated, but Schaal is said to have baptized—between the years 1650 and 1664, when he was thrown into prison, where he died—100,000 Chinese with his own hands. Verbiest, who died in 1668, and over whose body the reigning Emperor pronounced a panegyric, was the last of the great founders of Roman Catholicism in China. The reputation enjoyed by these devoted men was well earned. With unwearying assiduity they laboured for the general as well as the spiritual welfare of the Chinese, and produced, besides religious works, a number of books on scientific subjects, which from the information they contain and the idiomatic purity of the texts have so recommended themselves even to the fastidious taste of native scholars as to be regarded by them as classic. For the last two hundred years there has been a decided falling off in the literary achievements of the missionaries. At several of the missions there are now printing-offices directed by the missionaries; but the books which issue from them, besides reprints of the writings of the early missionaries, are of a comparatively unimportant character. At the colleges, Latin, philosophy, and theology are taught, as well as drawing, painting, Chinese literature, and various trades; but beyond turning out skilful craftsmen these establishments have proved themselves destitute of any special results.

THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Sir,—I presume from internal evidence that the writer of a letter signed "G." in your last issue, is not one of the Missionary body, and I do not wonder after reading it that some who do not belong to that body are not unfrequently accused of the lack of discretion and zeal. The letter from "Y." on the Fatshan case, on which "G." comments, would appear to most persons conversant with missions and missionaries in China singularly judicious and well timed—though of course it must be distasteful to trimmers who seek to commend themselves to the Government of the day, and who do not wish to force the Gospel on the heathen without due consideration for their ancient habits of thought and long-cherished beliefs. It appears absolutely necessary to remind "G." that He who gave the command to "go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature," encouraged his servants to face difficulties of all kinds, and to preach in all places, with the only precaution that if they persecuted them in one city they were to flee to another. But the London Missionary Society are wiser in their generation; they do not give their missionaries the chance of persecution, but enjoin them to confine themselves to "select places," viz., the "sinks of iniquity" on the coast, where they may, under the muzzles of the guns of Her Majesty's men-of-war, conduct their evangelistic operations without even "inadvertently" complicating the relations between the two countries. Seriously, the letter on which "Y." commented is a blot upon the fame of that society, and the country directors ought to pull them up for it—more especially since it appears that the board are really acting upon it.—Yours truly,

P. T.

Monetary and Commercial.

It is officially announced that electrical communication is interrupted on the section of the cable belonging to the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company between Lisbon and Gibraltar. The fault, it is anticipated, is in shallow water, near Lisbon. The electricians are at present testing. The company's maintenance steamer Hawk is on its way to Lisbon from Malta.

The shipbrokers in the China and Japan trade have issued a circular, announcing that, from the 1st inst., freights will be payable immediately on the delivery of the bills of lading, and that the two months' credit hitherto in practice will be abolished That on freights payable on delivery an extra 5s. per ton will be charged, and an extra 5 per cent. primage, being 10 per cent. To these propositions the shippers of course object, as it withdraws an old-established custom of the port of London. The only result of this attempt will be that shippers must make a special agreement as to the terms on which they will give their cargo. The measure itself is a reasonable one, as we do not see on what grounds shipowners are compelled to give two months' credit. Freights should either be paid on the sailing of the vessel or on delivery, and of course a lower rate on the former.

The Board of Trade Returns show that the German shipping trade has been nearly stopped by French cruisers. It has had the effect, however, of increasing the business of British shipowners, for the tonnage of British vessels entered last month was 1,076,527 as compared with 809 499 last year. The foreign shipping entries on the whole are slightly in excess of last year's; but in both British and foreign vessels which cleared our ports there is a small diminution. There appears to have been 162 Prussian vessels leaving British ports with cargoes last month as compared with 304 last year. Schleswig-Holstein, Hanoverian, and Mecklenburg vessels were proportionately hindered in their trade. The effect of the war upon German shipping was more clearly demonstrated in the smaller number of vessels which entered our ports. Upon the whole, however, it seems that the captains of German merchant vessels manage to evade their lynx-eyed pursuers with characteristic alacrity. In the first ten months of 1870 gold and silver of the value of £24,939,580 were imported into the United Kingdom. This amount is £2,600,000 more than in the corresponding period of 1868, and seven millions more than in 1869. The ten months' export of gold and silver from this country is stated at £14,481,951 in the ten months; this amount differs little from that of 1869 but is nearly two millions less than that of 1868. From the United States we have received this year (after deducting the exports of gold and silver thither) £8,800,000 in bullion and specie and from Australia about £5,250,000.

A report that the French Suez Canal Company would be turned into an English joint-stock enterprise, with the Duke of Sutherland as chairman, is positively contradicted.

Subjoined is an account of the quantities of the principal articles of imported merchandise (subject to Customs duties) remaining in the bonded warehouses of the United Kingdom on the 31st of October, 1870, compared with the quantities in warehouses on the 31st of October, 1868 and 1869 :—

	Quantities remaining in the Warehouses under Bond. 1868.	1869.	1870.
Coffee (lbs.)	54,109,437 ..	65,009,237 ..	73,688,755
Sugar, refined (cwts.) ..	64,715 ..	37,994 ..	95,977
Ditto, unrefined (cwts.) ..	2,966.156 ..	2,635,857 ..	3,020,105
Molasses (cwts.)	148,657 ..	323,917 ..	327,458
Tea (lbs.)	69,016,986 ..	72,095,915 ..	73,219,235
Tobacco (lbs.)	62,288,677 ..	59,499,453 ..	55,279,452

These figures give further evidence of the increased extent to which foreign and colonial produce has been directed to this country owing to the disturbance of trade in the ports of Germany and France. The stocks held in our warehouses of the above enumerated goods show in every case an augmentation over those held at the corresponding date of last year, and in most instances the augmentation is very large.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade Returns for the past month again show an increase in the exportations of British goods and produce. Compared with the corresponding month of last year they present an excess of £1,095,903, or 6½ per cent., and on the corresponding month of 1868 an excess of 4 per cent., although, for the first time for a long period, there has been a considerable falling off in the shipments of iron. In those of cotton yarn there has been an increase of 22 per cent. in value, and 32 per cent. in quantity, and in those of cotton manufactures an increase of 10 per cent. in value and 23 per cent in quantity. There has also been an increase of 4 per cent. in the value of our shipments of haberdashery, 11 per cent. in linen manufactures, 84 per cent. in silk manufactures, owing to the interruption of the French trade; 1 per cent. in woollen manufactures, and 17 per cent. in the large class of articles comprised under the head of "Miscellaneous." On the other hand, there has been a decrease of 4 per cent. in the value of our shipments of coal, 11 per cent. in earthenware, 2 per cent. in hardwares, 5 per cent. in machinery, and 11 per cent. in iron. Of arms and ammunition our total consignments amounted to £336,251, against £102,776 in the corresponding month of 1869. The importations of the month comprise 3,060,794 cwts. of wheat, being about 33 per cent. less than in the same month last year; and 1,005,638 cwts. of cotton, being more than 10 per cent. in excess of October, 1869. Of our importations of wheat about 40 per cent. was from Russia. The total value of our exportations during the first ten months of the present year has been £166,184,990, being 4½ per cent. in excess of the corresponding ten months of 1869, and 10¾ per cent. on 1868.

The following is an extract from these Returns of those figures which relate to our Export trade with China and other countries in the Far East :—

BULLION AND SPECIE.

GOLD.—The arrivals have been small: they comprise a total of £92,640. The Bank has not purchased anything during the week, and the exports comprise only sovereigns, to a very small amount, withdrawn for Egypt, and sent per Poonah to Alexandria. The P. and O. steamer, now due, is bringing £601,250 from Australia and India.

SILVER remains at our last quotation of 60½d. per oz. standard, the demand being principally for Holland. The arrivals during the week consisted of, £43 000, per Palmyra, from New York; 32,330, per City of London, from New York; £80,000 per Magellan, from Valparaiso; £95,000, per Shannon, from the West Indies; total, £250,330. The Overland Mail, due to-day, is bringing £110,500 from China.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—The Shannon brought about £90,000 from the West Indies; these, together with the large amount per Ismaila have been sold at 58⅜d. per oz. for the old coinage. There being no demand for China, the coin is taken for refining purposes.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market has been quiet, and prices in most instances have ruled in favour of buyers. The quantity offering of good medium Teas has been larger than for some time, and as importers showed some disposition to realise a further decline of ¼d. to 1d. per lb. has been established, but at this a fair quantity has been sold. Old Teas have been neglected, but at the auctions now in progress there has been a reduction of about ¼d. per lb. in the price of fair to good common Congou, both red and black-leaf kinds. The public sales of the 29th November comprise 20,442 packages, of which 18,018 packages are printed without reserve. They are going heavily at lower prices for all common kinds. The Stock in the United Kingdom on the 30th October was estimated at 76,408,200 lbs., against 78,894,000 lbs. last year, and the quantity afloat at 37,013,790 lbs., against 47.645,170 lbs.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings show no alteration, but the demand is very limited; broken-leaf kinds remain as before. Fair to good common have been sold from 10⅝d to 11¼d. per lb., being ¼d. per lb. lower. New season's Kaisows, of fair to good quality, have been difficult of sale at a decline of ¼d. to 1d. per lb.; fine to finest show no change. Paklin kinds: Boxes of fair to good quality have sold 1d. per lb. lower. Black-leaf kinds: The low qualities remain much depressed, and have sold ½d. per lb. lower; good common remains scarce, and prices firmly maintained. Good medium kinds, from recent arrivals, have sold to some extent, but at a decline of ½d. to 1d. per lb.; fine have been rather more in request at former prices; finest continue scarce. Amoy kinds remain heavy of sale, even at the low rates current. Ooolongs have not been quite so much in demand, and fine qualities are only saleable at 1d. to 2d. per lb. decline. Souchongs remain firm at previous quotations. Flowery Pekoes show no alteration. Scented Teas: old seasons have sold at a slight improvement in prices for good common Capers. There have been no further arrivals of new season's, which remain steady at previous prices, both for Capers and Orange Pekoes of Foochow and Canton make. Uncoloured Japans: the stock is chiefly of common kinds, for which there is little, if any demand. Green Teas: There have been some invoices of fine Ping Suey kinds placed on the market, ex Doune Castle. The fine qualities of Gunpowder, Young Hyson, and Imperial have sold readily at extreme rates, but the common to medium kinds have been less saleable at irregular prices. An invoice of common greens sold at public auction on the 29th ult. at very low prices. Canton make show no alteration.

The following is from Messrs. Sheperd, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular:—Considerable supplies have been on offer the past fortnight, and a good business has resulted in good to medium Congous at a further decline of ½d. to 1d. per lb., and at a public sale, which commenced yesterday, of 21,000 packages (18,500 without reserve), chiefly common red-leafs, which sold at a decline of ½d. per lb., making to-day's quotation for good common 11½d. to 1s. per lb. Latest advices from China tend to the belief in a full supply of common Tea, and, judging from late imports, we have received nearly all the supply of fine and finest Congou, which during the past three months has gone largely into consumption, and the current nominal decline will doubtless be recovered for the small quantity held by importers as the season advances. The export trade to all quarters shows no improvement. The new season's siftings and broken leaf, good liquoring Teas, have sold at 7d. to 10d. per lb.; old leaf has been difficult of sale, except at very low prices; inferior to good flavoury kinds have sold at 11d. to 1s. 0½d. per lb. New Amoy leaf, faint low quality, has sold at 8d. to 9d, brisk burnt kinds at 11d. to 1s. 1d. per lb., and Sayune and brisk Kaisow kinds at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d. per lb., showing a decline of 1d. per lb. Medium to fine Kaisow is scarce at 1s. 8d. to 2s. per lb. In finest and choice quality they have been no further supplies offered. Pakling and Tayshan leaf continue without change. Black leaf: In Old Season's the tendency has been to lower prices. New has been freely dealt in at easier rates, say 1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d. for fair to good, 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d. for medium Pekoe flavoured kinds, and for fine and finest, quotations are nominal at 1s. 9d. to 2s. 3d. per lb. Souchong and Oolong, with increased supplies, have sold lower, still the range ruling must be remunerative to importers. Scented Teas: Canton kinds, business has been limited, at prices favouring the buyer. Foochow Orange Pekoe has been saleable at the quotations named in ours of 16th inst. Green: The market has been liberally supplied, chiefly of Ping Suey kinds, and the best grades have continued in good demand, a small invoice, of choice quality, realising extreme rates of 4s. and 3s. 7d. per lb. for the Nos. 1 and 2 Gunpowder, but ordinary invoices have sold at 3s. 7d. to 3s. 8d. per lb., while the medium and lower grades have not sold at the proportionate value. Japan leaf: No sales.

SILK.

The market has continued dull, and there is little business to report; the recent European anxiety touching the Eastern Question has naturally checked buying operations, and the month has closed with a flat market, generally at nominally unchanged prices, importers showing great fimness; what little business is doing, shows about 6d. to 1s. decline from the rates current a month ago; deliveries continue very good, being in November, 2.365 China; 440 Japan; 624 Canton; and 308 Bengal. Total 3,737 bales.

COFFEE.

Without any great amount of business doing, the market for Plantation Ceylon exhibits a steadier tone, chiefly owing to the supplies on offer being smaller than of late; prices show little or no alteration from those ruling at the date of our last report, the quotations being—triage, 40s. to 53s. 6d.; small, 50s. 6d. to 57s. 6d; low middling grey, 57s. to 59s.; bold ditto, 63s. 6d. to 67s. 6d.; middling, 60s. to 65s. 6d.; bold 70s. 6d to 71s. 6d.; peaberry 71s. to 76s. In Native Ceylon but little business has been done, at about former prices, viz., 51s 6d. to 54s. 6d. In other East India the only sale reported is of 112 bags pale Manila at 55s. per cwt.

The Dutch Trading Company's November sale was held on the 30th at Amsterdam, when 109,500 bags Java and 5,200 bags Padang were offered; a good demand was manifested for all qualities, and prices ruled 1c. to 1½c. above the valuations, in some instances 2c. above; good ordinary sold at about 34c.

As the deliveries for the week are fully 500 tons larger than last year, and the landings only 100 tons more, the surplus in the stock is reduced to 3,000 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 56,115 cwt., against 75,239 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 2,466 cwt., against 19,284 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is nil. The quantity of Coffee landed in the forty-seven weeks ended Nov. 26, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 39,575 tons, against 38,344 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 68,165 tons, against 67,069 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 9,446 tons, against 10,032 tons; of all descriptions, 17,201 tons, against 17,493 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 28,237 tons, against 25,201 tons; of all descriptions, 46,711 tons, against 43,465 tons. The stock on Nov. 26 was, of Ceylon, 15,758 tons, against 14,106 tons; of all descriptions, 28,472 tons, against 25,431 tons.

CINNAMON.

The November series of sales took place on the 28th ult.; the following report is from Messrs. Brookes and Faith's Circular:—The sales comprised a total quantity of 2,660 bales, sundry parcels and boxes, and 2,630 packages of chips. Low and bastard kinds almost unsaleable, the small portion quitted showing a decline. Broken cinnamon dearer: Jungle very much dearer, and good sold at 2s. 2d. to 2s. 3d. per lb. SUGAR.

There has been a steady but not active enquiry manifested for all descriptions except Manila, and prices have ruled steady at the last quoted range; in Manila there has been considerable activity, and extensive sales have been effected at a slight advance in prices; the sales reported are in public sale 20,000 bags (600 tons), and 15,000 bags clayed (duty 4s.) at 24s. to 24s. 6d., and 4,500 bags Ilo Ilo at 22s. 3d.; by private contract 6,400 bags clayed (duty 4s) import 1866, have been sold:—5,000 bags fair at 24s. 6d., and 1,400 bags superior at 25s. 6d., also 4,640 superior Ilo Ilo at 22s. The only parcel of East India sold since our last report has been 1,000 bags soft yellow Penang at 29s. to 29s. 6d. per cwt.

For home use a smaller quantity has been delivered, the falling off being chiefly in Manila, but exports are again larger, but hardly equal to last year's, and the total deliveries are 600 tons in excess of last year, the landings are 300 tons more, and the position of the stock is but slightly varied. Stock, Nov. 19. 80,208 tons, against 82,089 tons; Nov. 26, 77,740 tons, against 79,994 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the forty seven weeks ended Nov. 26, 1870, was, of Penang, 3,028 tons, against 4,220 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 19,212 tons, against 32,625 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,161 tons, against 2,542 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 23,794 tons, against 19,707 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 120 tons, against 193 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 3,732 tons, against 1,810 tons. The stock on Nov. 26 was, of Penang, 3,077 tons, against 1,864 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 27,476 tons, against 39,372 tons.

Camphor.—The announcement of the loss of the Blue Jacket in the Gaspar Straits caused some slight speculative feeling, and small scales were effected at 70s. per cwt., which for Japan is the present nominal quotation. At the last Drug Sales the article was strongly nursed, and 249 cases China, per Priam, were held for 90s., 67s. being the highest bid. None of the Hopewell cargo has as yet been publicly offered.

The following is from Messrs. Speculation has failed to give much life, but the low prices now ruling of some metals, coupled with a growing disposition to view political complications in a more favourable light, are begining to attract the attention of operators. Iron: Welsh and Staffordshire has continued quiet, but with little change in price. Scotch Pigs are attracting more attention. Copper: Values have been maintaine throughout the month, with fair enquiry for speculation and consumption; but business has been difficult, owing to the pretensions of holders. Chili Bars have changed hands at £62 to £63, closing at the best, and for 3 months prompt £64 has been paid. The Smelters have supplied themselves with Regulus at 12s. 3d. to 12s. 6d. per unit, while for tough there has been good demand from Birmingham, at something under current rates. Tin Plates are still quiet. The shipments during November were 107,000 boxes, against 90 000 in November, 1869. Lead is rather improving. MANCHESTER GOODS.

The tone of the market has considerably improved during the past few days, and there is in all departments more disposition to do business, wherever transactions can be arranged a shade under so-called current rates. The engagements of sellers, however, compel them to ask full values, and consequently business is kept within moderate compass.

Very little actual change can be noted in the position of any description of Yarns; fractionally higher rates are quoted in some cases, especially for India Mule, but so little business has been offered for any quality that any advance required is quite nominal; the dearer tendency of American cotton in Liverpool compels spinners, who have to buy there, to remain firm. Water Twist remains steady, and in some cases rather more money is required, but all buyers have been very quiet. There has been some demand for China Shirtings, but the offers have been mostly 1½d. per piece under the requirements of producers; still modifications by both parties resulted in business being concluded. Indian qualities are neglected, but producers are generally firm at fully 1½d. per piece over last week's quotations. Madapollams remain quiet but firm. Jacconetts and Mulls neglected but steady in price. T-Cloths meet with only a comparatively retail demand, but prices remain very firm.

Advices from Mauritius, dated Oct. 20, state that the Belle Marguerite, Dussausay, from Cardiff to Galle, which put in there July 9, with damage, had been condemned, and sold at public auction for f.3,600. A letter from Lloyd's agents at Mauritius, dated Oct. 21, announces the sale of this vessel, but does not state that she had been condemned.

The Clymene, Morgan, from London to Kong Kong, put into Plymouth Nov. 24, with loss of fore and aft stays, having been struck by lightning, but sailed 28th, after repairing, for her destination.

Advices from Batavia, dated Oct. 13, state that according to intelligence from Anjer, the Gladstone (ship), from Samarang to Rotterdam, had got aground on the Brocuver Sand, Oct. 2, but was subsequently floated off.

The Kingdom of Italy, Shearer, which arrived at Falmouth Nov. 22 from Penang, reported that during heavy weather, Nov. 17, 46 N., 19 W., she had deck-house smashed in, strained, and made water. She has since arrived at Liverpool.

The G. F. Vorwerk (German barque), from Hamburg to Shanghai, was announced as having got ashore in the south part of Banka Straits. (The above vessel had been reported from Singapore, under date Nov. 8, as having been captured by the French and taken to Saigon.)

NEW STEAMERS FOR THE CHINA AND JAPAN TRADE.

A fine screw steamer has been built and launched by Messrs. W. Simons and Co., Renfrew, on the Clyde, for the China and Japan trade, named the Magoto, commanded by Captain Grange, late of the Coila, running in Japan waters, who has a share in her. On her trial trip she attained a speed of twelve knots. She will proceed out by the Suez Canal in a few days.

Messrs. Hall, Russell, and Co., Aberdeen, have launched the Emerald, screw, 560 tons, 75-horse power, to consume 6 tons of coal per day, with a speed of 10 knots. She has a spar deck and fine lower deck.

A screw-steamship of 1,500 tons burthen has been launched from the shipbuilding yard of Messrs. Stephen and Sons, Linthouse, Govan. The Glendarroch is the first vessel which has been launched from Messrs. Stephen's new building yard. She is owned by Mr. Ross, Aberdeen, and is intended to ply between London and China.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—A frequent cause of gout and rheumatism is the inflammatory state of the blood, attended with bad digestion and general debility. A few doses of these Pills, taken in time, are an effectual preventive against gout and rheumatism. Any one who has an attack of either should use Holloway's Ointment also, the powerful properties of which, combined with the effects of the Pills, must infallibly effect a cure. These Pills act directly on the blood which they purify and improve. Having subdued the severity of these diseases, perseverance with the Ointment, after fomenting the affected parts with warm brine, will speedily relax all stiffness, and prevent any permanent contraction.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates by this mail (P. and O.) are to the 23rd Oct., and via San Francisco we have dates to the 22nd October by the steamer China, which brings 1,700 tons cargo.

The English mail, with dates to 26th August, arrived on the 12th October. The following items are from the Japan Mail.

A misunderstanding of a serious nature has arisen between the French and Prussian Ministers, on the subject of the Japanese proclamation of neutrality, and caused very unusual excitement here during the whole fortnight. A North German steamer called the Rhein, belonging to Messrs. Textor and Co., of this port, and which had been hired to haul a stranded vessel off the spit on which she was lying, got up steam and proceeded on her errand. No sooner had she left her anchorage than the French war steamer Linois steamed out to the entrance of the bay, betraying — if one may infer anything — the general object of her departure, by firing a gun across the bows of a British ship which was entering the bay without showing her colours. M. Von Brandt upon this immediately represented to M. Outrey that such acts were inconsistent with his views of the neutrality which should be preserved in Japanese waters, and out of harmony both with his interpretation of international law and the terms on which they had mutually agreed to stand. M. Outrey, however, concluded that the action of the Linois was justified both by the Japanese proclamation of neutrality and the acknowledged rights of belligerents, and on his refusal to concede the required point to M. von Brandt, the latter went to Yedo, and, by representing the matter to the Japanese Foreign Minister, and adducing the authority of writers of unquestioned eminence on international law in support of his position, he persuaded him to insert two clauses which would give to German shipping the required protection. The French Minister seems to have been much irritated at this, but most of the rumours to which it has given rise are either wholly untrue or grossly exaggerated. We have heard of challenges, beating to quarters, running out guns, &c., among the vessels of the respective fleets in the harbour, all which reports are absurd, though the existence of great excitement among the crews on both sides cannot be denied. It may be hoped that the friendly offices of one or all of the neutral Ministers will be urged so as to bring the matter to a satisfactory termination.

A notification has been issued by the Japanese Government to the Chinese residents, informing them that they must not smoke opium under pain of banishment.

The British barque Mary Miller, from Newchwang, met with very severe weather. During the gale on the 12th she lost all three of her masts, and the water rose several feet in her hold. Eventually the barque was towed into port by the French war steamer Dupleix. The British barque Minstrel has also been dismasted, and the British schooner Rantipole has stranded in Odawarra Bay, and it is feared that the whole or part of the crew has been lost. The Akindo, from Hakodadi, was also totally wrecked in the same place.

The Japanese steamer Bahama, which went ashore during the recent typhoon at Kawasaki point, has been got off, apparently without serious injury to her hull, since she was towed into port on the 14th. She has evidently lost a great deal of her upper works, and both the main and mizen topmasts are gone.

The mail brought two assistant engineers and fourteen mechanics, consisting of platelayers, stonemasons, &c., for the service of the railway. Much of the plant is under way. The rails will be 68 lbs. to the yard, the chairs of cast iron, with timber sleepers. It is to be regretted that the platelayers should have arrived before the material, but in all probability some employment will be found for them in the meantime. The arrival of the assistant engineers will enable the surveying party under Mr. England to start at once on the overland survey to Osaka.

The departure of Messrs. Bryant and Lane, two assistant engineers, who arrived out by the American mail, has been made the subject of much conjecture, in some instances hostile to the Government railway undertaking. It will, however, have no bearing whatever on the progress of the work, and was owing to circumstances which could only be explained by a knowledge, not now in our possession, of questions which have arisen between the Government and their Commissioner—questions which by this time have probably been settled in England.

The Japanese steamer C. J. Textor has been sold to Messrs. Walsh, Hall, and Co., and now flies the American flag. Her name has been changed to the Morotau.

HIOGO.

Dates are to the 19th October.

We take the following from the Hiogo News.

The seventeenth birthday of his Most Gracious Majesty the Mikado was celebrated in Kobe in a most suitable manner. The Japanese man-of-war the Fujiyama, fired salutes at sunrise, noon and sunset, and a salute was also fired from the forts at Temposan. The majority of the foreign ships in port were gaily dressed, several of them firing salutes at noon. In the evening the principal thoroughfares were illuminated in the usual Japanese fashion, and a continuous beating of drums testified in the loudest manner the loyalty of the inhabitants. A tiffin was given by the native authorities in celebration and honour of the occasion, to which the consular body were invited. The Vice-Governor presided, the Consuls sitting at his right and left according to seniority, Japanese officials and interpreters sitting at the lower end of the table. The toast of the day—"The Mikado's health"—was proposed by Colonel Stewart (all the guests standing), who expressed his good wishes towards the Japanese Government. After tiffin, photographs of different groups of hosts and guests were taken, and a number of the well-known cars were taken inside the gates of the Saibansho, when the attendants paid their respects to the Government officials.

One of the latest "signs of the times" is the decision of the Pacific Mail Steam Ship Company to run four steamers per month between Yokohama and Shanghai, via the inland sea. The progress of this line of steamers has been truly astonishing. Starting originally with one steamer—the Costa Rica—the company quickly found profitable employment for a second and third, and now a fourth is to be added to the line. The Costa Rica, New York, Golden Age, and Oregonian are fine steamers, and all who travel by them are loud in their praises of the accommodation afforded, and the obliging disposition of the officers. We hear that up to the present the best paying part of the line has been to and from Kobe. Doubtless the steamers would be much more patronised by foreigners were the somewhat high rates of passage-money reduced, and we think this is a question well worthy the consideration of the company. They would certainly find a lower rate more profitable in the long run.

It is rather strange that while Kobe has progressed, Osaka has literally become a deserted city, and this equally to the surprise of natives and foreigners. Buildings originally erected there have been pulled down, brought to, and re-erected at Kobe. Only three or four buildings are now on the Concession, and some land-renters are asking to be released for the present from paying taxes, considering their land as valueless. "How have the mighty fallen!"

The Hiogo (late Foh-kien), to which the accident happened in Osaka some time ago, has now again come to grief. During the night she filled and sunk at her moorings opposite the workshops on the west side of the bay, where she had been moved for repairs.

The final trial of the dredgers has been held, when, everything working satisfactorily, they were handed over to the Japanese. It is not yet decided whether Europeans will be employed, but it is believed their present owners will engage one skilled workman for each, at any rate for the present.

The telegraph between this and Osaka appears to be pretty well patronised, both by foreigners and natives. The operators appear to work with a system far from perfect, however, in despite of the active superintendence of the foreign director. We have seen two telegrams this week which no Japanese could be found to translate in a manner that they could be understood. The receivers had consequently to remain satisfied with guesses as to the meaning of the messages.

NAGASAKI.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT, VIA SAN FRANCISCO.)

OCT. 15, 1870.

The English mail of August 12 arrived here on the 5th inst. by the steamer Sunshine, from Hong Kong, fifty-four days; that of the 26th arrived on the 13th inst. by H.M.S. Salamis, from Shanghai, forty-eight days; arrived from Cardiff on the 9th inst., with coals for H.B.M. fleet, Monte Rosa.

The following movements have taken place here in the war vessels:—Russian: Sept. 28, Boyarin, from Hobart Town; Oct. 4, from Shanghai, Vsadnick; Oct. 4, H.M.S. Elk, from Hiogo, and left on 15th idem for Tientsin via Chefoo; Oct. 13, H.M.S. Salamis, from Shanghai and left 15th idem for Newchwang; 10, H.B.M. troopship Adventure, from Yokohama, &c. Vessels in port—British, Adventure and Ocean; Russian, Almaz, Boyarin, Haydamack, and Vsadnick.

Messrs. V. and L. Pignatel have announced by circular that they will continue the business lately carried on by their deceased father under the same name, Pignatel and Co.

The mineral springs at Simabara have been thrown open to Europeans, and those who are willing to submit to certain restrictions can visit them if they feel so inclined. H.B.M. Consul made public the rules on the 10th inst., which are as follows:—"It is not allowed to overstep the boundary of the hot spring, nor to go out in the night. Should anything be wanted during the day, it should be applied for to the officer in charge; nobody should buy anything by himself. The provisions will not be provided in an European manner, but Japanese. Visitors to the hot-spring should go from here to Obama (village of Simabara) by water." The above is a copy of the Japanese document, but I hear that a passport from the Japanese authorities, countersigned by the applicant's Consul, is also required. From persons who have used the baths I learn this so-called boundary of the hot springs consists of a very large garden which surrounds the Temple, set apart for the accommodation of the visitors; the charge for board and residence is one rio, equal (in English money at the present rate of exchange) to about 4s. 6d. per day each person. A bath when engaged by any person is kept exclusively for his use, or of that of his party ad libitum, for which a charge of three rios per day is made. About the premises are chambers fitted up as vapour baths. Those used by Europeans are separated from those used by the natives, and great attention to cleanliness is paid to those of the former, which are emptied on every occasion after they have been used. I hear that samples from each different spring have been submitted to Dr. van Mansvell, the superintendent of the Japanese Hospital at this port. If the Japanese were less fickle I have no doubt they could derive considerable profits from their mineral springs in different parts of the empire; but I expect to hear of those at Simabara being closed again, like those at Hozen were in 1869.

The summer here was brought to a close by a typhoon, which visited our port on the evening of the 1st instant, and lasted about twelve hours. Although the wind during this time blew with great violence, no damage was done; the natural protection our port has with the islands at the entrance forming breakwaters, together with the hills on both sides of the harbour, affording great shelter, makes accidents to the shipping events almost unknown here. The past summer has been a warm one, temperature during the entire months of July, August, and September having averaged 84 deg. 78 min. by day, and 72 deg. 71 min. by night—the extreme range by day being from 75 2-10 deg. on the 3rd July, to 93 2-10 deg. 24th July, while that by night was from 60 1-10 deg. on the 3rd July, up to 79 2-10 deg. on the 11th Aug.

The Japanese festival, or "Odori," was carried to an extent which, according to the statements made by some of the oldest residents, exceeded all they had ever seen in extravagance; and the Nagasaki Express states that the street processions alone cost, at the lowest estimate, $20,000, and that the natives are compelled to subscribe to these festivals; the present is only one of many which occur in the course of the year. I was not prepared to think the cost was so great—although it was well known that one street (or at least one-half of it) contributed a "dragon boat and fittings," which cost considerably over $1,200—not so bad for people who are continually pleading poverty as an excuse for not buying piece goods.

Exchange on London nominal. Nebus 402 to 408. No vessel loading for London.

P.S., Sunday, 16th.—Salamis, it is said, has taken up twelve marines and one sergeant for the protection of the British residents at Newchwang. It may interest your German readers to know that the North German barques Alexandra II. and Papa have arrived here (14th inst.); one of them reports that the masters of the North German vessels at Newchwang had determined to put to sea and run the risk of capture by French men-of-war rather than get fixed up. To-day (although it is Sunday) the English, Russian, and Japanese men-of war dressed ships and fired a salute at noon, to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of H.M, the Mikado. The Government battery also saluted the flag.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

The correspondent of the Courier writes on Oct. 17 :—Since my last the city has been thrown into the greatest state of excitement. Friday, the 14th, was appointed for the execution of those fifteen poor wretches condemned to die for their participation in the massacre of June 21. On Monday it was discovered that Tls. 500 had been given to each of the families of the condemned, and that silk robes had been given to the criminals themselves, in which to be executed, and after death they were to be placed in most costly coffins and handed to their friends for burial. A further sum of money was distributed among the families of those to be banished, some say each family received Tls. 300, while others name Tls. 100 as the amount.

For some reason the execution has been delayed, and there have been great efforts made to get the money returned—this being found no easy matter. Orders have been given to the banker to stop payment of all notes, drafts, &c., until after the execution. The mandarins have thus taken even the very appearance of punishment from the appointed death of these fifteen men, nay, have even turned into something deserving of reward. Report says that the officials say that neither the Emperor nor themselves desire their death, but the foreigner insists upon it or declares war. Thus even the death of the guilty, if guilty they be, will be made an instrument to foster hostile feeling against us, while no one can predict the effect of the money giving—upon the "roughs" of the place.

Intelligence of fresh outbreaks have just reached us. At one of the country stations of the A. B. C. F. M. Mission here a chapel has been looted, and some of the converts injured. But more serious news comes to us from Ta-san-tawang, in Wu-ching-hsien, between this city and Peking. A mob, led on by a gong, attacked a Roman Catholic chapel there, which was utterly demolished, as were, also, some houses of the converts. Foreigners were inquired for, but the infuriated mob being told there were no foreigners there, the attack was directed against the converts, several of whom were left (by the man who fled here to give the alarm) in a dying state, their heads cut open, and other deadly wounds inflicted. Another report speaks of the death of three. The Roman Catholic priests here have communicated with the mandarins, who of course promise to see into it. Great fears are entertained of the safety of neighbouring stations, where there are two foreign priests and over a thousand converts.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are to the 25th Oct. The outward mail of 9th Sept. (P. and O.) arrived on the 23rd Oct., with telegrams to 30th Sept.

The following items are from the North China Herald :—

A snake, measuring four feet ten inches, was killed on Friday, in Messrs. Coutts and Co.'s compound, situate in the heart of the Settlement. Two more of nearly equal length have lately been killed in the same neighbourhood.

M. Le Soullier, of the French Circus Company, is rapidly rearing his canvas structure, and the arrangements of the interior are in a forward state. The place is comfortably and substantially galleried. The pole of the tent is, with its flagstaff, fifty-one feet high.

Messrs. Kohler and Birch gave performances at the Lyceum Theatre, under the title of "Variety Entertainments." The mimetic, descriptive and vocal powers of Mr. Birch, with the surprising command which Mr. Kohler has over a number of instruments, enabled them to carry through their varied programme with great success. Messrs. Kohler and Birch leave for India by this mail.

The committee of the Gibson Memorial Fund have published a statement of their intromissions. From the amount realised by subscription, £1,098 19s. 8d. has been remitted home, and invested in a Government annuity on the joint lives of the late Mr. Consul Gibson's mother and sister, which will give them an income of about £70 per annum.

A Hankow correspondent writes :—The health of the foreign members of the large community, which has suffered from the annual flood, is good. Insurance offices may be assured that the physical condition of their clients here scarcely suffers from any ill influence positively engendered by the inundation which makes Hankow peninsular for some weeks or months. The British church has apparently not suffered from the flood, although such freedom can hardly be insured for it in future years. The missionaries of the London and Wesleyan Societies have arranged to conduct a single service on the Sunday for the present, according to the English ritual. This is economy for certain, but the presence of several families in the community seems to call for the exercise of the pastoral office in their midst, as well as the mere preaching function.

A Chefoo correspondent writes :—There was quite an excitement here yesterday (October 16th) over the arrival of a North-German ship from Passiet. She had escaped the French cruisers which are said to have been looking out for her, and are now watching four other North-German ships lying in Newchwang; these must run the gauntlet soon, or submit to be frozen up for the winter. H.M. Dwarf left here for Newchang on the 10th, having on board Mr. Adkins, who goes to take over charge of the British Consulate from Mr. King.

We have little to notice from Tientsin. It is quite settled that Chung How is to go to Paris, and the Chinese wish that further negotiations should take place there. This is a course thoroughly consistent with the evasion and procrastination peculiar to Chinese diplomacy, but doubtless the mediator will be received very coolly, perhaps not at all. Chung How was to start on the 20th inst. Four gunboats are to be kept in the Peiho, a force which Mr. Wade considers sufficient to keep down trouble till the spring. It is not thought that any of the Ministers will withdraw from Peking during the winter. The Italian Minister has left for Japan, there to remain till spring, and has appointed M. le Chevalier Vignale Chargé d'Affaires.

By the Shantung, which arrived on the 20th, we have the news confirmed that the gun-boats are to remain at Tientsin during the winter; and that the proceedings of the Chinese at the Taku Forts are under observation, but of the precise nature of their operations there we are not at present informed.

The Hon. W. H. Seward, the eminent coadjutor of the late President Lincoln in the U.S. Cabinet, his nephew, Mr. G. F. Seward, U.S. Consul-General in China, and lady, together with Admiral Rodgers and suite, and a party of ladies, have gone North, to visit Tientsin and Peking.

As we go to press we hear, per Chihli, from Tientsin, that in Shantung a Protestant chapel has been destroyed, and also another situate between Tientsin and Peking, and three converts killed.

A correspondent of the Courier writes from Tientsin Oct. 14 :—The execution of the fifteen criminals (?) was to have taken place to-morrow, but has been officially postponed for some days. In Tientsin city it is reported in every street that the families of those about to be executed have already received coffin money, and that they are further to receive Tls. 300 each family. This will no doubt show every one but the wilfully blind what a farce the whole thing is in the eyes of the Chinese. From this, too, we may judge what the banishment of the others will amount to.

On the 19th October the third ordinary meeting of the shareholders of the North China Insurance Company took place. Present: Mr. F. H. Bell in the chair; Messrs. A. Michie, E. H. Lavers, J. F. Brand, E. C. Smith, and F. Porter, Directors; H. S. Morris, Secretary. Shareholders: Messrs E. J. Hogg, R. Francis, Hardy, Hubener, Claussen, Jos. Thorne, M. S. Gubbay, J. F. H. Trautmann, A. E. Littledale, J. F. Seaman, jun., C. H. F. Schutze, G. Bovet, &c. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, the Chairman said that the business before the meeting was very simple, and would, he believed, be satisfactory. He might, indeed, almost repeat what he had said at last meeting, for during the past year the progress of the company had been equally remarkable. The year 1869 had indeed been one of exceptionally heavy losses. Still, as would be observed, the result on the whole was not unsatisfactory. The losses of the last eighteen months had been less than those of the previous eighteen months. The premiums had been larger, and the business generally greatly extended. The report had been for some time in the hands of the shareholders, and he thought they might, as usual, hold it as read. He did not know that he had any further statement to make.

"The directors have the pleasure of laying before the shareholders the accompanying balance-sheet and statement of accounts for the half-year ended June 30, 1870. The surplus shown by the working account of Tls. 117,434 being transferred, makes a total amount at the credit of the company on that date of Tls. 724,319.79, in addition to capital paid-up, of Tls. 300,000. It is satisfactory to notice from the present report a continued increase of business, the net premia earned from January 1 to June 30 being Tls. 468,734.54, against Tls. 427,249.63 for the corresponding period of 1869. Owing to a succession of losses of an exceptional character during the past year, amongst vessels of high class, outward bound to China and Japan, the settlements have been unusually heavy. The item of Tls. 333,372.58 for losses and claims, refers principally to payments on account of policies issued in 1869, all of which risks have now terminated. In accordance with clause 91 of deed of settlement, estimates of the result of the business of the company for the year 1869 have been prepared, and the directors are enabled to propose the declaration of an interim dividend of Tls. 100 per share in respect thereof. After payment of claims settled on the underwriting account for that year, up to 30th September last, a balance remains of Tls. 349,789, of which Tls. 150,000 will be absorbed by the above dividend, and setting aside Tls. 80,000 as bonus to contributing shareholders, will leave Tls. 119,780 reserve to meet claims which may come forward hereafter. During the temporary absence of Mr. Rowley Miller from Shanghai, Mr. Augustus White has been appointed auditor of the accounts."

The Chairman moved and Mr. Michie seconded,

"That the accounts for the half-year ending 30th June, 1870, together with the report of the directors, be passed as printed; and that the payment of an interim dividend of Tls. 100 per share, in respect to the estimated profit arising from the business of the company for the year 1869, be sanctioned by the present meeting."

This having been carried unanimously, Mr. Joseph Thorne proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, which was carried by acclamation, and the meeting separated.

The first annual meeting of the American Presbyterian Synod was held on 20th inst. at South-gate Chapel, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion, the walks being hung with lanterns, and altogether presenting a very cheerful appearance.

The following is from the News Letter, an American organ:—

We have, perhaps, no right to expect that the American Minister to China should have either ability or experience, but we have a right to expect that he will not be guilty of gross negligence and a wanton disregard of duty. It is, of course, possible that Mr. Low is perfecting some secret policy, and that, for this purpose, the quiet of his retreat at the hills is necessary; but of this we have no evidence, and while he remains at the hills our interests are suffering. Whether his course has embarrassed his colleagues or not, it has certainly strengthened the hands of the Chinese. But for the absence of the Minister, the Chinese officials never could have imagined that one of the great Western Powers would treat the torture and murder of a score of innocent and deserving men and women, to say nothing of the destruction of property, as too trivial for notice. Great allowance is to be made on account of the evil influences to which Mr. Low has been subjected; but a Minister who is not superior to such influences will not be likely to accomplish much at Peking.

The first meeting of creditors of Messrs. Glover, Dow, and Co., was fixed for the 9th inst.

HONG KONG.

The dates extend to the 1st Nov. The London mail (French) of 16th Sept. arrived out on 25th Oct., with telegrams to 9th Oct.

The following items are from the China Mail:—

The French barque Nuevo Penelope, with about 300 coolies on board, left Macao for Callao on the 4th ult. She had a crew, exclusive of officers, of eighteen men. On the 10th, when about 150 miles to the southward of the Ladrones, the emigrants rose, murdered the captain and mate, and all hands except six, who were spared to navigate the ship into port. The watch on deck were all killed, except two, who were in the rigging at the time. Some females who were on board were thrown in to the water and drowned. Six of the watch below were spared and compelled to work the ship into the harbour of Tinpack, where she now lies at anchor. The news arrived at Macao on the 24th. About thirty of the coolies left the vessel, the remainder are still on board. The charterers of the ship, we learn, purpose sending a steamer to tow her back to Macao. The coolies who remain on board are said to declare that they were deceived by the representations made to induce them to emigrate.

AID TO THE SICK AND WOUNDED.

The appeal which has been made in the local journals in behalf the National Fund for the Relief of the Sick and Wounded in the war, is, we are glad to learn, likely to meet with a hearty response. The manager of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank has intimated his willingness to receive subscriptions, and we understand that he is already in receipt of money to the credit of the fund. A large amount—our contemporary says $12,000—has been sent from Hong Kong by Frenchmen and Germans, but as yet there has been no effort to identify the colony at large with the generous efforts that are being made at home, irrespectively of any national feeling, to alleviate the miseries which the war has inflicted and is inflicting upon many thousands of men. This omission, it is gratifying to learn, will shortly be rectified. It is proposed that a public concert shall be given under the auspices of his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, and of other gentlemen of high position, and that the amateur and professional talent available in Hong Kong shall be invited to assist in it

The case of the official assignee of Lyall, Still, and Co., Hong Kong, bankrupts, v. Comptoir d'Escompte de Paris and Chartered Bank (of India, Australia, and China has been decided by Chief Justice Smale in Chambers. The assignment of 22nd December, 1866, made by the bankrupts, is declared to be fraudulent (in a legal sense) and therefore void; defendants are ordered to account for everything received under it, with interest accruing and profits; and the official assignee's costs are ordered to be paid by the defendants.

There is an unpleasant rumour in circulation that one of our colonial officials took French leave of his functions and the colony at the same time, departing for Australia last week per Marquis of Argyle. It is further rumoured that his accounts obstinately refuse to balance, a hiatus of four figures in dollars existing.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to the 8th Nov. The French mail of 30th Sept., which arrived on the 2nd Nov., brought no English letters. Telegrams from London extend to the 25th Oct. We learn from the Straits Times that the Legislative Council met on the 27th and 29th Oct. and the 3rd Nov. The estimates were still under consideration, the Supply Bill having as yet only passed its second reading. At the last meeting some slight corrections and a few alterations and additions were made. Of the estimates we will merely say that some $12,000 to $14,000 have been added to the general expenditure, which will decrease the estimated surplus very materially. Under the head of "Education," the Hon. W. Adamson moved the withdrawal of the provision of $1,380 for an Inspector of Schools, which was unanimously agreed to, and then proposed that this sum be added to the grant to the Raffles Institution, which was also unanimously adopted—a very practical suggestion, and likely to be of far more utility. The Raffles Institution has a strong claim for consideration upon the local Government, being deprived of the lands with which it was endowed, and awarded a yearly money compensation instead. Hence, though the grant it will receive during the ensuing year is apparently out of proportion to that awarded to other schools, yet in reality it is but only fair. The Bankruptcy Bill, and the Bill for abolishing imprisonment for debt, are still under consideration by the council in committee. This colony, it is to be remarked, has taken the lead of all others in following the example of the home Government and adapting these two Acts of Parliament of 1869 to its local requirements. The Debtors Bill, however, has had a very material amendment in the addition of several sections providing for registration of bills of sale, in order to prevent debtors from defrauding their creditors by making over or disposing of their personal property. The Wah Whay Lottery Bill has been amended so as to include all gambling houses, and has passed into law; consequently there has already been a very perceptible check in these nuisances, which were exerting a very baneful influence among the class who patronised them. The Census Bill has also passed into law.

The question of the reintroduction of convict labour into the colony is one on which there exists considerable difference of opinion in the community. On the score of economy there is certainly a great deal to be said in favour of the resolution proposed by the Hon. W. R. Scott and adopted by the Council on the 3rd October—that the reintroduction of a limited number of convicts from India and elsewhere, under the existing arrangements would be advantageous to the colony.

The French cruisers do not appear to have effected much in this part of the world, most of the North German ships being laid up in port. We hear, however, of the capture of the G. F. Vorwerk, from Hamburg for Shanghai, with a general cargo. This vessel was reported ashore in Banka Straits in our last issue, but she got off through the assistance of a Dutch gunboat, and being found to have sustained no damage proceeded on her voyage. The Dutch steamer Singapore, however, reports having seen her taken in tow by a French cruiser, after having got out into the China Sea. She will of course be taken into Saigon.

The only arrival from home, via the Suez Canal, was the steamer Mindora, on the 4th of November. The departures were the Abbotsford, on the 27th of October, and the Eldon, on the 2nd of November. The Saida, from Macao, was still at Singapore, homeward bound, and to leave shortly.

PENANG.

Dates are down to 10th Nov. The English mail of 7th Oct, arrived on the 7th Nov., with telegrams from London to Oct. 30.

The returns show a surprising coincidence in the revenue for the three last years, the amounts standing respectively at $1,331,000, $1,312,000, and $1,348,000. That for the present year is exclusive of the sale of the Colonial steamer Rainbow, which is expected to produce $30,000.

The suggestion made for a collection in aid of the widows and orphans bereaved by the loss of H.M.S. Captain has happily taken effect, and the result is a contribution of $162.50, obtained by the circulation of a subscription paper bearing the sanction of the Manager of the Chartered Mercantile Bank. The thanks of the community are due to Mr. Bishop for thus giving an opportunity which every generous heart will gladly use to help the sufferers.

We believe that the Rev. Julian Moreton intends leaving for London, if possible, by the first mail in March, on fifteen months' leave. Mr. Moreton has been nine years out from Europe, and gave up fifteen months' leave he was entitled to on his transfer from Labuan, because it was desirable that he should take up his duties here immediately.

The result of the Court of Inquiry upon the matter of a late inquest has been that Mr. Earl has been suspended from the offices of Commissoiner of Police and Coroner, Mr. M. Thomas, of the Master Attendant's office reprimanded, as also Mr. Parkins, Coroner's clerk. We also understand that Mr. Hogan, Chief Clerk in the Court of Requests, has been also reprimanded for something amiss in his office, but particulars have not yet been published. In consequence of this, Captain Dunlop, of the Artillery, has been appointed acting Commissioner of Police and Coroner.

A meeting of merchants has been held in the Chartered Mercantile Bank to consider a question of great importance to trade in Penang. The Chetties, it is well known, are generally speaking, not principals, but representatives or agents of other Chetties on the Madras coast, &c., and it has been often found that, though using the house name or chop of their principals, they have no proper power to act as agents for the parties they assume to do, and inconvenience and loss, as may well be believed, has sometimes accrued from this, as has happened this year in Ceylon. It was, therefore, agreed at this meeting that no transactions should in future take place with any Chetty, save upon the production of a properly accredited power to him to act as agent for his assumed principal.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—The improvement which was noticeable at the date of our last advices from this port had given way to dulness in all staples except Grey Shirtings, which had been readily saleable. The Lorton and Ada had arrived. Cotton Yarn: The demand had quite subsided, and prices were weaker. Quotations: 16 to 24, $42 to 43 per picul; 28 to 32, $43 to 44; 38 to 42, $45 to 46. Grey Shirtings of all weights had met with a fair inquiry, and moved off readily. 7 lbs., $2.40 to 2.42½; 8¼ lbs., $2.90 to 2.95; 9 lbs. 44 inch, $3.40 to 3.45. Black Velvets: A few hundred pieces inferior quality placed at $7.50. Best worth $8.75. In other cotton goods nothing had been done. In Woollens a small business had been transacted, in Orleans figures at $4.50 and Black Lastings at $12.50. A lot of Alpacas realised $7.75. Metals exceedingly dull, supplies being excessive; Nail Rod Iron, $2.40 to 3 per picul; Lead, $5.25 to 6; Tin Plates, $5.25 to 5.50 per box; Coal, $8.50 to 9 per ton.

HANKOW.—Business had been disorganised by the stoppage of several native banks. Grey Shirtings: Notwithstanding that holders had been very firm and supplies short, only 2 to 3 candareens per piece advance, on the lighter weights, had been obtained; no desire to purchase, except for immediate requirements, and but few sales made. Heavy goods again lower and very quiet. Quotations: Tls. 1.75 to 1.80 for 7 lbs.; Tls. 2.25 to 2.29 for 8¼ lbs.; and Tls. 2.30 to 2.42 per piece for 9¾ lbs. White Shirtings: Small sales reported showed no change. T-Cloths: Had proved a slight exception to the prevailing dullness, low ruling rates having induced fair purchases; demand for chiefly 7 lbs. Mexicans at Tls. 1.50 to 1.55; a small quantity of "extra" quality had been sold at Tls. 1.60 to 1.65 per piece; no change in the value of 36 inch. Drills: Prices of Dutch and English unchanged, but less inquiry; American declined 5 candareens, and quoted Tls. 3.15 per piece. Fancy Cottons: Not asked for; quotations nominal. Woollens and Worsteds:—Camlets and Long Ells: Almost unsaleable. Lastings: Only small sales of well known chops at previous rates. Spanish Stripes: Good assortments taken to limited extent, at Tls. 0.49 to 0.52 per yard. Figured Orleans: A few lots of fine found buyers, sales of ordinary impracticable. Metals:—Lead: No inquiry at a decline of about 5 candareens per picul on last mail's rates. Quicksilver: At the high rate of Tls. 61.00 per picul buyers were holding off for a decline, and contracts were only entered into for positive requirements.

SHANGHAI.—The business generally in imports continued dull, and rates depressed. For 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings, ordinary quality, demand had been steady, but business was still confined to godown cargo, and to the supply on board ships in harbour. Goods to arrive had found few buyers. Dewhurst's Eagle chop continued at a discount; price of ordinary unchanged, but Dewhurst's a candareen per piece lower. 7 lb. in more request, at last rates; 9 lbs. and 9¾ lbs., from their cheapness, attracting more attention; but only a small trade reported. White Shirtings in no demand; quotations nominal. T-Cloths: Common counts of 7 lbs. improved in value, and a decidedly better feeling apparent for "Mexicans." Deliveries very large, stock reduced to under 800,000 pieces. 8 lbs. in fair request, at an advance on last mail's rates. 6 lbs. T-Cloths also been dealt in to some extent, and firmer. Drills: English and Dutch sold to the extent of 35,000 to 40,000 pieces at last quotations, and were still wanted; of American only 1,200 pieces placed; market steady. Jeans: Little doing, but holders generally withdrawing their goods from the market, electing to hold until spring rather than accept the offers tendered. Fancy Cottons, with the exception of Dyed Brocades, had not been wanted, and had been taken in small lots only. Chintzes and Turkey Reds easier; in other kinds no change. Woollens: Of Plain and Figured Lustres some 12,000 pieces had changed hands, and for good assortments and patterns better prices had ruled. Long Ells, Lastings, and Crapes as last quoted, with little doing. Camlets sold at a decline; moderate inquiry. Spanish Stripes quieter, without change in value. Metals—Lead: A few sales, at Tls. 4.45 for L. B. Coals: Market unaltered; the absence of arrivals tended to firmness in price.

FOOCHOW.—Sales are reported of 650 pieces 8 lbs. Grey Shirtings at $3.15, 1,800 pieces 7 lbs. T-Cloths at $1.30 to 2.35, and 800 pieces 6 lbs. T-Cloths at $1.95.

HONG KONG.—Messrs. Oliphant and Co. report as follows, under date Oct. 31:—Cotton Yarns: Fairly large quantities of Nos. 16/24 have been received of late, and as importers, in the face of these receipts, have shown considerable anxiety to move their parcels, dealers have been induced to operate fairly freely at a decline in prices of $5 to 7.50 per bale. Nos. 28/32 are but little wanted, and a further concession of $2.50 per bale has not been an incentive to other than very small purchases. Stocks of Nos. 38.42 are still small, and values are unchanged; Eagle chop finds favour while Lion is neglected. Piece Goods: A very moderate business has been transacted during the past fortnight, and prices generally have ruled lower for the staple goods. 7 lb Grey Shirtings have again been comparatively neglected, and a decline of 2 cents per piece is noted; 8.4 lb goods of favourite chops maintain last values, but the less known marks can only be placed at a reduction. Previous quotations for White Shirtings are repeated, though all qualities of these goods are difficult of sale. Prices of Drills are unchanged; 14 lb. and 15 lb. English and Dutch manufactures find buyers at current figures, but 13 lb. and 13½ lb. weights are not wanted. No further sales of American Drills have been made, and the market is very quiet for such goods. Sheetings are dearer. Demand for common 6 lb. T-Cloths has entirely subsided, and as stocks of this weight are large, a drop of 5 cents in value has taken place; Mexicans continue unchanged and altogether neglected; 7 lbs. goods have been moderately bought, but prices of Mexicans have not been maintained, and slightly lower figures have ruled; 8 lbs. have continued to receive some attention, but holders have not been able to maintain the advance last noted. Turkey Red Shirtings are saleable at an advance of 5 cents. Supplies of Chintzes are large, and rates are lower. Woollens: Small sales only have been effected, and values for most articles are weaker. Long Ells are quoted 10 cents lower. Spanish Stripes, though less wanted, are unchanged in value. Prices of 7 lbs. and 8 lbs. Blankets have fallen 30 cents per piece; 10 lbs. are unaltered. Lastings can only be placed at a reduction of 25 cents, and Crape Lastings at a fall of 50 cents per piece. Camlets have attracted no attention, as natives still hold a greater portion of the large purchases made during the previous interval. Coals: There have been no arrivals, and the only sales have been, 988 tons Australian at $7, and 200 tons Cardiff (ex godown) at $10 per ton. The latter description is in good demand at full currencies. Anthracite Coal has not been enquired for. Metals.—Iron Nail Rod is nominally unchanged, but purchases could doubtless be made upon easier terms than those last ruling. Soft Bar Iron is wanted at an advance of 10 cents. The stock of Wire is small, but sales have been made at prices 10 to 25 cents lower. Lead and Steel are quoted as before. Tin is 50 cents lower. A rise of $15 is noticeable in values of Quicksilver. The current quotations are:—Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $112.00 to 120.00 per bale; Nos. 28 to 32, $125.00 to 130.00; Nos. 38 to 42, $135.00 to 145.00. Grey Shirtings: 7 lbs., $2.22½ to 2.25 per piece; 8.4 lbs., $2.75 to 2.82½; 9.12 to 10 lbs., $3.30 to 3.50. White Shirtings, 52 to 66 reed $2.10 to 2.80. T-Cloths, 6 lbs., ordinary, $1.60 to 1.65; Mexicans, $1.75 to 1.80; ordinary, $1.85 to 1.95; Mexicans, $2.05 to 2.32½; 8 to 8.4 oz., 36 in., $2.45 to 2.60. PENANG.—The market had been very dull indeed during the fortnight, more so than for a long time previously. The demand had weakened considerably, and prices of almost all articles had declined. No further fall was anticipated, but there was little prospect of a favourable reaction until the beginning of next year. EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—For the fortnight after the departure of the last Pacific mail only a very small business was done, amounting to about 500 piculs, but subsequently several purchasers entered the market, and had increased settlements to about 4,500 piculs for the month. Unfavourable advices received via San Francisco from New York almost entirely suspended business during the early part of the month, and consequently dealers with large and increasing stocks became anxious sellers at a decline on last quotations. Afterwards several large settlements were made of good medium to fine Teas, which show a decline on our last quotations of $2 to 4 for good medium, and about $2 on fine and choice grades, which were becoming scarce and inferior in quality. Quotations:—Common, $23 to 26; good common, $28 to 30; medium, $31 to 34; good medium, $36 to 38; fine, $40 to 43; finest, $45 to 48; choice, nominal, $50 upwards. Detailed export: For New York, Sept. 23, Great Republic, 49,130 lbs.; Sept. 28, Laju, 667,543 lbs.; Sept. 30, Black Prince, 711,036 lbs. For San Francisco, Sept. 22, Comet, 62,527 lbs.; Sept. 23, Great Republic, 282,832 lbs.

HANKOW.—The following is Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co.'s Report:—The business has been but limited, and is characterised by the almost entire absence of shipments to Shanghai on native account. Parcels have come down one or two at a time, and in nearly all cases have found ready sale here. The teas are of very low character, prices, however, show little or no change, one or two small chops having realised up to Tls. 14¼. The customs' returns show a slight decrease in the total export compared with last year; there will, however, probably not be much falling off at the close of the season. Quotations remain about the same. Sales of fair leafy Oopack teas have been made at from Tls. 13½ to 14¼, and of Shuntam kinds at Tls. 11½ to 11.60.

SHANGHAI.—Black: Owing to the receipt of slightly more favourable advices from London, many buyers had entered the market, and the result had been a very large business at gradually stiffening prices, the advance on nearly all kinds being from half to one tael per picul. The tone of the market at the close was, however, quiet. The stock had been considerably lessened Settlements for the fortnight, 37,500 chests; reshipments on owners' account, 4,500 chests; stock, 93 chops, or 29,000 packages. Quotations (duty paid, exchange for credits, 5s. 10¾d., freight at £2):—Hohow, low to fair, Tls. 13½ to 18¾, equal to 9½d. to 1s. 0¼d.; Oonam, common to fair, Tls. 15 to 17½, equal to 10½d. to 1s.; Ningchow, common to fair, Tls. 17 to 19½, equal to 11½d. to 1s. 1d.; Oopack, common to fair, Tls. 16½ to 21, equal to 11¼d. to 1s. 2d. Green: A considerable business had been transacted. Settlements for the fortnight amounting to 36,200 half chests. There had been a further decline of about Tl. 1 per picul on fair medium chops, but all fine parcels were if anything firmer, as the market was almost cleared of these grades. The stock had again increased, and amounted to 86,000 half-chests, a large portion being common and fair Teas. Quotations:—Fair to finest Moyunes and Teenkais, Tls. 34 to 44½; Fychow, Tls. 26 to 35. Settlements for the fortnight, 36,230 half-chests; Re-shipments on owners' account, 2,170 half-chests. Stock, 164 chops, or 77,360 packages of Fychow, Moyune and Teenkai Teas; 17 chops, or 8,360 packages of Pingsuey and Shanghai-packed Teas.

FOOCHOW.—A large business had been done for London in consequence of more encouraging news of that market. Considerable settlements had also been made for Australia. For the United States no purchases of Oolongs were reported. The settlements of Congou and Souchong had been 33,472 chests; arrivals, 17,557 chests. Congou: Attention of buyers chiefly turned to Common Congou and the flavoury kinds, and for these an advance of one tael had been established. The lower grades, of which a large proportion of the stock consisted, remained at the former value. The following were the current quotations (cost at which Teas lay down in London calculated at exchange 4s. 5¾d., freight £2):—Dust and siftings, Tls. 4¾ to 7½; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 8 to 11½; fair to good common, Tls. 12½ to 14½; flavoury to fair flavoury, Tls. 15 to 17½; good flavoury, none on the market. Souchong: Large business, and prices well maintained; quotations:—Common, Tls. 13 to 16; medium, Tls. 17 to 22. Oolongs: No settlements made; quotations nominal. Scented Teas: A few purchases made at previous rates. Flowery Pekoe: No business had been done.

AMOY.—The season for Congou may be considered finished. Holders of the small stock on offer were not prepared to meet the views of buyers, and no settlements had been made. Some 9,000 packages Oolongs had been taken at in some instances an advance of $1. This had particularly been the case with the fine grades, as much as $38.50 having been paid for the finest. Quotations:—Common to fair, $15 to 24; good, $25 to 27; superior, $28 to 30; fine, $31 to 34; and finest, $35 to 38½. The season's crop was estimated at from 132,000 to 135,000 half-chests.

CANTON.—The principal business of the fortnight had been confined to the settlement of six chops Country Congous at prices which, although slightly over last London quotations, were considered fairly moderate. It was probable that further purchases would be made from the remaining stock. In Scented Teas, both Medium and Fine kinds maintained their former value, while Common descriptions were neglected. The departures of the fortnight had consisted of the Cathaya, Tamesa, and str. Saida for London, and the Game Cock for New York. Settlements from 13th to 27th October: Country Congous, 6 chops or 2,585 chests and 585 boxes, at Tls. 15 to 23; Canton District Congous, Nil; Scented Orange Pekoe, 3,200, at Tls. 16½ to 26; Scented Caper, 6,000, at 13 to 24; Canton Greens, 1,000, at Tls. 14 to 17; Young Hyson, Nil; Country Greens, No stock. Stocks estimated at 12 chops or 4,429 chests Country Congous; Canton District Congous, 1,000 boxes; Scented Orange Pekoe, 18,000 boxes; Scented Caper, 20,000 boxes; Gunpowder, 15,000 boxes; Imperial, 1,000 boxes; Young Hyson, 3,000 boxes.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—During the interval a few transactions had taken place, but owing to the inferiority of the parcels purchased, most had been rejected on inspection. Arrivals had been very small, and unsold stock was only about 2,300 bales. Settlements to date, 4,670 bales, against 6,430. Stocks 2,300 bales. Quotations nominal. Silkworms' Eggs: Total arrivals to date about 1,500,000 cards, of which about 700,000 had been settled; prices were quoted $4 for the best annuals on offer, and $2.50 to 3.25 for good medium; Bivoltinis were quite neglected.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular is as follows:—Latest London telegrams are via Galle to 3rd October, reporting chop, 3rd, 29s. 6d. Red Peacocks, 26s. 6d. Market firm. We have to report a very quiet business in Silk during the past fortnight, settlements in all not amounting to more than 300 to 400 bales, consisting mostly of No. 4 and 5 Tsatlee at Tls. 460 to 510, equal to 23s. 7d. to 26s. 1d.; 4 and 5 Kahing at Tls. 400 to 420, equal to 20s. 7d. to 21s. 7d., and some few Long reels at Tls. 380, equal to 19s. 7d. No transactions have taken place in Chop Silks. Prices in interior are about the same as those ruling here; dealers consequently are less disposed to sell, and any desire on the part of Europeans to buy would be sure to cause an advance in prices. The French mail left on the 19th Oct. without taking any Silk.

CANTON.—In the early part of the fortnight a few bales of Tsatlee reels were secured at prices which showed an advance of $15 to 20 per picul over last quotations, but the news brought by the mail of Sept. 9 checked further business, and since then nothing had been done. Several failures among Indian firms had also had a quieting effect upon the market. For America, beyond a small quantity of contract Silk, there was no tendency to operate. The stock was estimated at 120 bales Loongkongs, 1,200 bales Tsatlee reels, 65 bales Kowkongs, 540 bales Cumchucks, Lacklows, &c., and 400 bales of inferior descriptions.

JAVA AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—During the fortnight there has been a fair demand for most staples, the market had continued firm, and an average amount of business had transpired. Gambier opened higher, $3.05 per picul being paid in the early part of the fortnight, but the price soon receded to $3.02½ and $3, at which rates the bulk of the business had been done, the market closed firm, about 1,550 tons had been contracted for. Tin slightly easier, a moderate business had transpired. Bontyne Coffee: Fair demand, price firmer; market nearly cleared. Bally Coffee: Offering, but no business transpired. Pearl Sago advanced in value; fair demand; moderate business done. Sago Flour also risen, demand brisk. India Rubber rather easier. Gutta Percha in fair request at about previous prices. Black Pepper arriving in very small lots, which were readily taken up. Supplies of White Pepper trifling; higher prices paid. Hides lower. Horns bought at a decline on last quotations.

PENANG.—There had been a fair supply of most of the principal articles of export during the fortnight. Tin had come forward pretty freely and had been purchased at prices ranging from $29.80 to 30.05 per picul. There was still a considerable quantity offering in the market. Intending purchasers were not inclined to go beyond $30, but sellers were holding for an advance. Black Pepper: West Coast had come forward in small quantities, a part of old import taken at $9.25 and 9.35 per picul; what remained offered at $9.50 per picul—no purchaser at that figure. East Coast and Acheen in restricted supply, arrivals taken at $9 to 9.15 per picul. White very scarce, only one purchase reported at $12.05 per picul. Sugar in fair inquiry—sales of Penang No. 1 at $6½ and 6¾, No. 2 at $4¼ and 4.90, prices with a rising tendency. In Sugar of Chinese manufacture there had been no operations. Cloves in moderate supply, and taken at $6½ for Zanzibar, and $18 for Penang. Small parcels of Coffee offering and taken at $12 per picul. Cutch in free supply; purchases at $4.18 and $4.17½ per picul, in boxes. Gum Benjamin offering, but no purchasers; quotations nominal. Gutta Percha $20 to 50 per picul, according to quality. Hides in moderate supply; Buffalo taken at $9, Cow at $13.10 per picul. Horns scarce; arrivals secured at $9. India Rubber: No transactions. Mace: No. 1 taken at $80 to 82 per picul, picked. Nutmegs: Transactions reported in 66 nuts per lb. at $80, and in 78 per lb. at $59¼ to 60 per picul; also purchases at private prices.

THE JAPANESE LOAN AND RAILWAYS.

IN our issue of October 31 we stated that the powers entrusted to Mr. LAY had been transferred to the Oriental Bank; this is now confirmed by a notice in The Times. It would be satisfactory to know the reasons which have caused this transfer. We have already given the shipments of railway material—for which the Loan was raised—and we believe the contracts have been all made on the most advantageous terms. In the appointment of Mr. WHYTE, C.E., as consulting engineer of the railway, Mr. LAY secured a gentleman of known ability and integrity. Mr. WHYTE has long held the appointment of Consulting Engineer to the Indian Council, and it was under his direction that Mr. LAY entered into contracts for the requisite material for the proposed railway. For the small sections of railway decided upon as a commencement—viz., from Yedo to Yokohama, and from Osaka to Kobe—it was natural that the selected contractors should use every effort to supply material of the best quality, and at the lowest rates, with the view of securing the contracts for the great line which we hope ere long to see traversing Japan from Yedo to Osaka. We believe that the entire cost of the plant and material is £1,300 per mile, which is very considerably under the average.

DECLINE OF FOREIGN PRESTIGE IN CHINA.

IF there be one point more than another which the Foreign Plenipotentiaries in China should be watchful of, it is in maintaining the prestige secured by their predecessors at the Court of Peking. Circumstances have transpired, in consequence of the Tientsin Massacre, which lead us to infer that the prestige of the Legations has seriously declined since they were first established. This, however, refers more to the British and French Embassies than those of Russia, America, and other Treaty Powers; and it is to them that our remarks more immediately apply. After the millions of treasure that have been spent, and the thousands of lives sacrificed to secure direct diplomatic relations with the central Government, it would appear that the advantages thereby gained are rapidly fading away. The Ministers who inaugurated a vigorous policy, and took up their residence within the precincts of the Imperial Court in 1860, have been succeeded by Plenipotentiaries in 1870, whose mild diplomacy, during momentous times, is bringing the nations which they represent into contempt.

We have no desire to deal harshly with the French Minister under the exceptional position of affairs in which he is placed. M. ROCHECHOUART committed a serious error in threatening to draw down his flag upon a certain day if his terms were not complied with, and allowing it to fly ingloriously afterwards without any sign of action to enforce his claims. In like manner it would appear that Mr. WADE, the British Chargé d'Affaires, has allowed himself to be cajoled by the Chinese Government when he telegraphs to the Foreign Office that he does not expect military force will be required anywhere to protect the lives and property of our countrymen. Yet it is notorious that the Chinese are concentrating their forces at the expected points of attack, and have augmented their fleet of war vessels after the European model. Moreover, it would appear that his first telegrams, via Kiachta, announcing the Tientsin Massacre, were tampered with, and stopped in transmission, doubtless through the underhand work of the Chinese. If so, this would show that the officials are becoming every day more emboldened in their plans of thwarting the actions of our Plenipotentiary. From these and other significant indications we may infer that the British and French Legations have lost much of their prestige at the Court of Peking. From being the leading foreign authorities in communication with the Tsung li Yamen, they are rapidly taking secondary and third-rate positions. Under these circumstances, it behoves our Government to accredit a Minister to the Court of Peking, who will restore the prestige we have lost by inaugurating a dignified and vigorous policy, which does not at present obtain, through the Philo-Chinese diplomacy of Mr. WADE.

NEUTRALITY IN JAPAN.

A RATHER undignified dispute, in which Western civilisation does not appear to advantage beside Eastern "barbarism," has occurred between the German and French Ministers at Yokohama, apropos of the Japanese Government's proclamation of neutrality, on which we lately expressed the hope that it would have the effect of preventing any unseemly display of hostile feeling between the representatives or men-of-war belonging to the belligerent nations stationed in Japanese waters for the general protection of European interests. As both Ministers had been consulted, and had agreed upon the terms of the proclamation, which was very clearly expressed, and had for its object only the prevention of hostilities, which would be repugnant to a friendly Government, while they could exercise no appreciable influence on the events of the war, it required nothing more than mutual forbearance and a liberal interpretation of its regulations to secure the non-interruption of peace in the Japanese ports frequented by both Powers. This, however, seems to have been jeopardised by the conduct of M. OUTREY, the French Minister, in connection with a North German steamer, the Rhein, belonging to Messrs. TEXTOR and Co., of Yokohama. No sooner had she left her anchorage than the French war steamer Linois steamed out to the entrance of the Bay, betraying, as we are informed, the general object of her departure by firing a gun across the bows of a British ship.

M. VON BRANDT, the German Minister, naturally astonished at this proceeding, lost no time in representing to M. OUTREY that such acts were inconsistent with his views of the neutrality which should be preserved in Japanese waters, and opposed both to the principles of international law and the terms on which they had mutually agreed. M. OUTREY, however, refused to concede the point; and M. VON BRANDT therefore proceeded to Yedo, and by representing the matter to the Japanese Foreign Minister, persuaded him to insert two additional clauses, which would give German shipping the required protection. This step M. OUTREY appears to have felt as a slight to himself, and the consequence was some excitement in the fleets of the two belligerent nations. We must confess that we can see no reason, and very little excuse, for M. OUTREY'S resentment, giving him credit, of course, for the wish to preserve the broad principles of neutrality as laid down in the proclamation. No sort of advantage that was not strictly mutual was involved in the addition of the clauses suggested by M. VON BRANDT. On the contrary, the German Minister's action seems to us to have been thoroughly open, practical, and, coming as it did from the representative of the victorious Power, peculiarly graceful and high-minded. It proved beyond doubt that he was thoroughly in earnest, not only not to take advantage in his turn of the omitted clauses, but also to prevent his countrymen from involving themselves in the ungracious position towards the Japanese Government which had been assumed by the French. It is clear that M. VON BRANDT'S sole object was the preservation of local peace; and, as that was precisely the object of the proclamation of neutrality, M. OUTREY'S objection to the terms of the proclamation being made more explicit appears so frivolous as to suggest a doubt of his having been sincere in the assistance he rendered in drawing it up.

AT the meeting of the P. and O. Company, held on the 6th, the directors' report—noticed in our last—which recommended a dividend of 4 per cent. for the half-year, was adopted, after the usual criticism and discussion, which, as a rule, generally misses the mark. Although the new contract fixing the subsidy at £450,000 was cavilled at, the shareholders seemed to have entirely overlooked the advantageous bargain the directors obtained, in receiving the same subsidy for running the mails to Brindisi as to Marseilles, the difference in the sea passage being about one-half.

The P. and O. steamer Delhi, from Yokohama with silkworms eggs, is expected to pass through the Suez Canal about the 18th inst., and will proceed direct for Genoa and Marseilles. After landing her cargo at these ports she will return by the Canal to Bombay, and take up her station on the Hong Kong line.

THE FUTURE OF THE DUTCH EAST INDIES.

WHEN it became known in Holland that a Royal decree had been promulgated in Java by which the Agrarian Bill was put in force, our Dutch correspondent protested most energetically against such an illiberal proceeding. It is not necessary to recall the enormous difficulties which the Liberal party in the Dutch Parliament had to overcome before this Bill became law; it is sufficient to state that both in Holland and in her colonies abroad general satisfaction prevailed at the fact that at last a measure had been carried which tended to annihilate the principal of the grievances imposed by the Dutch colonial policy, and that at length the tide of European capital would flow towards Java. This prospect has, however, been overturned; the Agrarian law is practically a dead letter. It is certainly a very strange system upon which to enact laws. Parliament passes a Bill, it is confirmed by Royal assent, and then wholly annulled by a Royal decree stipulating the conditions under which it is to be set in force. We have not far to seek for the origin of this proceeding. For several years past a Ministerial anarchy has prevailed in Holland—Ministers coming in and going out of power at very short intervals. This was solely caused by a division in the Liberal ranks, the Conservatives being really in the minority. These changes have exercised a bad influence. The Dutch Parliament has taken very little account of the grievances of Java, and nothing has been done to promote the welfare of that country. Samarang asks for a better harbour, the Javanese for an improved system of education, trade interests urge the adoption of a truly free trade policy, a steam communication with Australia is wished for, the penal code needs revision, railway communication advances very slowly, and last, but not least, the Dutch policy with regard to the natives remains what it has always been—to "squeeze." It is very strange that Dutch statesmen are unable to comprehend that a policy thoroughly Liberal would be the best guarantee for the future existence of that small kingdom and its colonies. A forcible argument in support of this is contained in the news brought by last mail, by which we hear not only a good deal about failures amongst the Chinese merchants, but also of respectable Dutch houses having stopped payment—amongst them Messrs. OVERZEE and Co., at Padang, with liabilities amounting to 1,500,000 guilders—and it was generally feared that further suspensions would ensue. We learn from the Java papers that the bad time which now seems to have set in was foreseen years ago, and it is even asserted that everyone is astonished that the crisis has been so long postponed. The Government policy has reduced the natives to the most wretched state; all the branches of revenue are monopolised by the Government, the first-class trading firms are unable to guard against the tricks of the Chinamen, who are permitted to keep their books in a language and in a manner which no one is able to decipher, and which, of course, opens the way for the greatest abuses. Indeed it is time, more than time, that a truly liberal Dutch Government should take the reins in hand and fulfil its legitimate task with energy. The present political and social condition of Java is absolutely intolerable, and it is impossible to calculate the evil effects that will ensue from a postponement of a radical change in the system of conducting affairs.

POSTAGE TO THE FAR EAST.

WITH the commencement of the P. and O. service via Brindisi, on the 16th inst., the rates of postage to Straits, China, and Japan will be 1s. 3d. per ½ oz. on letters; to India and Ceylon, 1s.; to Australia, 9d.; and 4d. (not 3d., as was printed in our last) on newspapers not exceeding 4 oz.; books 7d. per 4 oz. Much surprise is felt that the reduction of rates on letters should not have been accompanied by a corresponding reduction in the newspaper postage. It is altogether contrary to the spirit of the age to throw any impediment in the way of the press, and, besides being utterly indefensible on economic grounds, the present rate—fourpence for each paper—is simply prohibitory. The feeling of the English public will scarcely be satisfied until "ocean penny postage" is an accomplished institution. In the meantime, to reduce the postage of newspapers 50 per cent. in the United Kingdom, and to raise it 25 per cent. to our greatest dependencies, is a glaring contradiction, and we trust that the matter will form the subject of a deputation to the POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

WE call attention to a very able article in Macmillan's Magazine, to be found in another column, which, with some exceptions, exhibits an amount of knowledge of the subject entitled "Missionaries and Mandarins." As a rule, magazine contributions on China exhibit lamentable ignorance.

THE P. AND O. COMPANY'S MEETING.

The annual meeting of the shareholders in this company was held at the offices, Leadenhall-street, on the 6th inst., under the presidency of Mr. P. DOUGLAS HADOW. The report of the directors, which gave the results of the operations of the company, and which appeared in our last, was taken as read.

The CHAIRMAN, in moving its adoption, said he looked upon the report with almost unmixed satisfaction, and begged in the first instance to offer his congratulations to the proprietors upon the fact that, bad as the year had been, the company had passed through it without a single accident to its fleet. Though the company's ships had traversed over 1,500,000 miles, and had encountered many storms, typhoons, and such like, yet not a single ship had been lost. (Hear, hear.) This simple fact spoke volumes as to the efficiency of the commanders and crews of the vessels, and he was desirous of taking that the earliest opportunity of paying that well-merited compliment to the captains and officers in command. (Loud cheers.) But the board were not quite content to let things remain as they were, and though they thought they had every reason to be satisfied with the efficiency of the fleet, and those who commanded it, yet they had endeavoured, in the interests of the company generally, to improve it as far as possible, so as to make it not only comparable, but superior to any similar navy, and put it in a position to compete with the best fleet which modern science could produce. Having that end in view, the board had during the past year parted with four of the company's ships with an apparent loss. He said "apparent loss" because, though those ships had been sold, yet the company was replacing them with ships of a more modern build, which would have the maximum of speed with the minimum consumption of fuel, and they, with all recent scientific improvements, could be built at the present time at a price which was at least twenty per cent. less than that at which the old ships of the company were constructed. (Loud cheers.) They would cost less, consume less fuel, run at a greater speed—having equally as great a capacity for cargo, or greater—than those which were displaced, and he hoped would in the end earn considerably larger dividends for the shareholders. (Renewed cheering.) The Australia, which was one of the new ships, and was but the precursor of others, had gone out to India. The company had heard of her arriving at Singapore, having maintained an average speed of 10¼ knots per hour, whilst the consumption of coal was only thirty-five tons per diem. That, he thought, would be as satisfactory to the shareholders to hear as it was to himself and the court of directors to be in a position to make that statement. (Hear, hear.)

THE NEW CONTRACT.

The contract with the Post-office—entered into three years and a half ago, when the company was compelled to enter into a kind of quasi-partnership with the Government—had been revised. There had been a very long—not to say a tedious—discussion between the officials of the Government and the directors of the company upon this subject, and as each party took different views as to the interpretation of certain clauses of the new contract, and both took counsel's opinion, the result was to strengthen and confirm each side in its own views. Nothing loomed in the future but a reference to arbitration, but eventually the Gordian knot was cut by the company accepting a certain fixed payment of £450,000 from the Government, and that was, he thought, upon the whole, a very satisfactory arrangement for the company. (Hear, hear.) The Postmaster-General was equally well satisfied with the new arrangement, and the report stated very fully the reasons that functionary of the Government assigned for his satisfaction. The board were equally well satisfied, because they not only got rid of some vexed questions in dispute, but the company also was freed from the inspection of the accounts by Government officials, who seemed systematically to take different views from those of the board as to certain charges. Now, however, the board had only themselves to consult, and, as managing partners, were at liberty to take their own views and do the very best for the shareholders generally. (Loud cheers.)

THE WAR AND THE SUEZ CANAL.

In common with every Englishman he deeply regretted the war raging on the Continent, but the more so as it had inflicted great injury upon the company of which he was the head and mouthpiece. Singularly enough, many shareholders had imagined—very foolishly, to his mind—that the breaking out of the war would benefit this company, because the Messageries Imperiales, which was a highly subsidised company, would have to cease running. But the reverse was the case. The effect of the declaration of war had been really to paralyse trade in the Orient, and he read a number of extracts from various correspondents of the company in India and China tending to bear out that statement, and to show that the effect of the declaration of war by France had been to produce a total cessation of traffic between India and Marseilles. Coming to the alteration of the route of the ships he said the company was in the hands of the Government. The board could not alter the route of the mail steamers without Her Majesty's Government sanctioned or ordered it. At present the company could not use the Suez Canal. Heavy ships might have used and no doubt did use it, but then it did not matter to them if they had to lie upon a sand-bank for a few days, but such a detention would make a very great difference to this company, whose ships had to meet others at certain ports at regular times and bring home the mails within a given time. Ultimately, perhaps, the company's ships might go via the Canal when its navigation had been considerably improved; but at present there was no quicker way of sending the mails than by the overland route. (Cheers.)

THE BRINDISI ROUTE.

As to the Brindisi route, the Government had been sending mails by it for the last ten months. This company found itself—shortly after the outbreak of the war—with steamers running from Marseilles with nothing in them; and that fact having been duly represented to Her Majesty's Government, the Post-office had agreed that this company should change its route, and run its steamers via Brindisi, which it would commence doing within the next fortnight, on the same subsidy as now existing. (Loud cheers.) The capital of the company remained as it was before, and though the year, taken as a whole, had not been a good one for the company, yet he considered that in such troublous times as the present a total dividend of 7 per cent. was no mean return upon the capital embarked, and one which the shareholders had every reason to be satisfied with. He concluded by moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. ALLEN briefly seconded the motion, and Mr. LYNDE supported it with a great deal of pleasure, and thought the directors deserved the best thanks of the meeting for having done so well.

Mr. MURRAY was glad to see so large a saving effected in the working expenses, the more so as he found it was principally due to the diminished cost of coal, through the company having used more Indian and Australian coal instead of Welsh. The Indian railways were using native coal now, and the fire-bars of the locomotives had been widened to admit of its use. Some time ago the chairman stated that the company was trying experiments as to the use of Indian coal, and he would be glad if the chairman would tell the meeting the results. He was glad to notice that though the company had run 46,000 miles more in the year, it had consumed 3,786 tons of coal less, and that the cost appeared to be 4s. 10d. per ton less (owing perhaps to reduced freight). He quoted the more detailed way adopted by the Royal Mail Company in making up accounts for the shareholders, and suggested that the directors should do the same.

Mr. GLIDDON did not consider the new arrangement with Government, by which the subsidy was fixed at £450,000 per annum, was satisfactory, and he complained of the heavy loss on ships sold, being £80,000 on two steamers taken over by Caird and Co., who were now building new ones. With regard to the saving of £5,000 on provisions, as they had earned £55,000 less passage money, it was no doubt caused by the diminished number of passengers. He found that they had received from Government £110,000 more than in 1868.

Mr. JONES, as usual, favoured the meeting with a long and humorous speech, passing in review the altered conduct of the directors, whom he thought deserved much credit for earning a dividend of 7 per cent. with such strong opposition. He remembered when it was quite useless suggesting any changes to meet the altered state of things; they would go on in the old grand style. Now, they carried goods to India at 50s. per ton, and he expected soon to see them bringing home corn. He urged the board to use every effort to get Government to make Galle a safe harbour. He was glad to see that the insurance fund had yielded them 2 per cent. of their dividend, and he suggested that the Board should increase their profits by insuring cargo carried in their steamers. He believed their experience of underwriting their own vessels was that it cost 25s., while current rates showed a considerable margin for profit.

Mr. FRANKS, who claimed to know something about Indian coal, said it was much more easy to use it by land, where stations for coaling locomotives could be made frequent, than at sea, where it was necessary to carry a very great quantity, often to the displacement of most valuable freight.

Mr. CAMPBELL was of opinion that the accounts should be rendered so as to show the nature of the earnings and expenditure more in detail, and he considered that such an important matter as a new arrangement with Government should be first submitted to the shareholders before closing. He would like to have some particulars as to the loss the company sustained in an action by the family of a passenger lost in the Carnatic.

The CHAIRMAN, in reply, said the board were using both Indian and Australian coal as far as practicable, especially the latter, which was found to be remarkably good, and to improve in quality as the cuttings in the mines went deeper. As to the publication of the accounts, it was a question entirely in the hands of the shareholders. The board had nothing to conceal, and not only had the shareholders the statement in the report, but the accounts were prepared in very great detail, and laid on the table for every shareholder to see; and any additional information which might be required was always most cheerfully accorded by the gentleman who was especially in attendance for that purpose. With regard to the loss on the sale of old ships, he quoted a statement made by Mr. Burns on the sale of the Persia, belonging to the Cunard Company, owing to her large consumption of fuel, on which they lost £60,000, and considered themselves well off even at that sacrifice; he considered the Cunard Company good judges of the matter. With respect to the Galle Harbour, they had continually urged on the Government to build breakwaters. As to insuring cargo by their vessels, they were not authorised by their deed. As to concluding contracts without referring to the shareholders, such matters formed part of their duties as directors enjoying the confidence of the shareholders. (Hear, hear.) With regard to the verdict against them on behalf of a passenger lost in the Carnatic, they considered the award arbitrary, and the case was under appeal. He could not say whether it would be for the interest of the company to remove their vessels from Southampton to Liverpool—certainly not for the present, and, like the use of the Suez Canal, it was a matter for the future.

Mr. HOWELL, the secretary, read a statistical statement, from which it appeared that in 1862 the company had forty-two ships, aggregate tonnage 60,442 tons, and they stood in the company's books at £35 14s. per ton; in 1869 the company had forty-six ships, and the aggregate tonnage amounted to 83,000 tons, and they stood in the company's books at £35 10s. per ton. In 1862 the company had nine ships only under five years old, and in 1869 they had twelve ships under five years old.

The report was adopted nem. con., and the dividend declared. The proceedings closed with votes of thanks to the chairman, directors, secretary, and officers.

MISSIONARIES AND MANDARINS.

(MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE.)

The whole point of the conflict between the mandarin and the missionary lies in the fact that the former knows full well that he and Christianity cannot co-exist. If Christianity were to establish itself in China as the religion of the country, the mandarin would become an extinct animal. Confucianism being the State religion, and the Confucian books being the basis upon which the statecraft of China is founded, the mandarin, whose stock in trade as a ruler and politician consists of a deep knowledge of those books, cannot afford to see the "Analects" and the "Great Learning" replaced by the Gospel. When the misrule of the mandarins shall have reached such a pitch that it can be no longer borne—when other nations, wearied out of all patience, shall interfere to blot out the hideous mass of corruption, and shall force upon the country a new system of government—then, and not till then, may we hope to see some signs of progress and reform; then, and not till then, may the missionary hope to reap where he sows. Your Chinaman may be irreligious, but he is eminently practical, and if he saw good governing depending upon a new religion he would soon become a convert.

It is a fallacy to suppose that the intelligent Chinese operative is averse to progress: does he show himself to be so when he arrives in America or in Australia? Is not the fact of his consenting to emigrate a proof of a desire to advance? But we have all read of the firm of Spenlow and Jorkins. Is any concession wanted? Mr. Spenlow would be only too delighted to yield, but he is restrained by the inexorable Jorkins. Mr. Spenlow is all affability, all pliancy; but there is Jorkins in the background, whose feelings and prejudices must be consulted. This is precisely the case in China. Every time that there is a proposal for the construction of a railway or a telegraph, the mandarins, with the Prince of Kung and his fidus Achates, Wen Siang, at their head, are as conciliatory as possible; they will be delighted to witness any experiment to which they may be invited, and will talk in the most glowing terms of the beauties of Western science. Nothing would give them more pleasure than to see railroads and telegraphs intersecting China from one end of the land to the other. They are burning with good intentions, but they are unhappily so situated that they cannot carry out their wishes; they have to deal with a very peculiar people, a people devoted to the traditions of the past, and jealous of any innovations; above all, there is a certain mystery, called the Fung Shui, which must not be disturbed; now, inasmuch as the lines to be followed by railroads and telegraphs must be guided by the laws of engineering, and would certainly take no notice of the Fung Shui, the establishment of such constructions, although they would be of undoubted utility and benefit, would lead only to disturbances and difficulties, of which it would not be easy to foretell the issue. And so poor Jorkins gets the blame, and foreign capitalists are told that the country is not yet ripe for the introduction of new inventions. But who is it that encourages the people in their absurd belief in the Fung Shui, or "wind and water"—a system of divination in accordance with the laws of which all buildings and roads and works of any kind must be made? Who but Mr. Mandarin Spenlow, who knows that railroads and telegraphs mean progress, and that progress means an end of him and of his monopoly of government?

It is much to be regretted that better use should not have been made of the vantage-ground in argument which we held in 1860, when Mr. Loch took home the Treaty of Peace: there would have been little talk of the fitness or unfitness of the country for progress when the gates of Peking were thrown open to our troops. Unfortunately, the year was far advanced, and the allied commanders, dreading the severities of a winter almost as cold as that of Russia, were eager to remove their armies southwards as fast as possible. The negotiations for peace were hurried through, and a golden opportunity was lost. Since that time we have been losing ground steadily: it would be impossible for Western diplomacy to show a single advantage gained during the last ten years, while the Chinese, on the other hand, may point with triumph to many a victory of wit and cunning, culminating in the mission of Mr. Burlingame as the herald of peace and goodwill, and the preacher of the great doctrine of the equality of men. It is not a little significant that, while that remarkable orator, now deceased, was stumping upon every platform of Europe and America, evidence of the strongest feeling against foreigners was cropping up at almost every port in China; and while his legation, no longer graced by the presence of its chief, was still disporting itself at some European Court, to the great profit of certain interpreters, decked out in the peacock's feathers of Secretaries of Legation, the very mandarins whose virtues they were paid to preach were preparing that revolting massacre, the horrors of which have been sufficient to attract the attention of Europe, even when she was absorbed by the terrible tragedy which was being acted at home.

We have been very patient and long-suffering with these Chinamen, but there are limits to all powers of endurance. The cup of their iniquities is full even to overflowing, and it is time that they should be made to kiss the rod. Our missionaries have been murdered, our trade has been hindered and obstructed in every way, and each succeeding telegram brings us the news that the lives of our merchants are threatened at some fresh place. The winter is at hand, and, by the time these lines appear in print, our countrymen at Tientsin, Peking, and Newchwang will be cut off from all help from without by the ice of the Gulf of Pechili, and at the mercy of mobs hounded on by ruffians without ruth or mercy.

It is not easy to imagine a more disagreeable position than that in which the representatives of European Government at the Court of Peking are placed. If they determine to remain for the winter at Peking or Tientsin, they will do so evidently at the peril of their lives and of the lives of those committed to their charge. If, on the other hand, they agree to retire southward to Shanghai, they will in all probability find the Peiho barred to them on their return in the spring; and, this time, the Taku Forts, which even in 1859 were sufficiently strong and well manned to beat back Sir Frederick Bruce and the British Admiral, will bristle with the best guns that Western science can invent, served by men drilled by European officers. For all of which great thanks are due to Mr. Robert Hart, an Irishman, who serves the Chinese Government as Inspector-General of Customs, and to whose account may be laid most of the grievances of which Europeans have to complain.

Mr. Magniac has written a letter to The Times, enclosing a letter received by him from the Foreign-office, in which he is informed that "a battalion of Marines will be shortly sent to China to be at the disposal of the Admiral; and if he and Mr. Wade should be of opinion that British interests at Shanghai are in danger, they are instructed to draw from Hong Kong or Japan a detachment of infantry, which, in case of emergency, might be landed for the purposes of protection." We shall indeed be agreeably disappointed if these means suffice to effect the punishment of the past, or to avert the evils which we cannot help foreseeing in the future. The troops at Hong Kong consist of half a battalion of infantry of the line and half a battalion of Indian native infantry, with a small force of artillery, while at Yokohama we have one battalion of the 10th Regiment; at any moment it might become inexpedient to remove these troops from their present quarters, so that the only reinforcement to be depended upon is one battalion of Marines. It is true that at the present moment affairs in Japan wear a very promising aspect; but there is a strong anti-foreign party still leavening the opinions of the country, and it is very doubtful whether it would be wise to withdraw a wholesome demonstration of force: and no one, we should imagine, would wish to weaken Hong Kong at a time when our interests in the South of China are threatened no less than those in the North.

Our fear is lest the Chinese, seeing the inability of the French to avenge the murders of Tientsin, should take courage and attack other foreigners as well. In that case we shall have no alternative but to engage ourselves in a new Chinese expedition. Should this unfortunately prove to be the case, there can be no doubt that the European Powers, making a common cause, will be successful in the end, and will bring the mandarins to reason; and this time we hope that the past will be a lesson for the future, and that such conditions will be imposed as will secure our commerce and our countrymen, be they laymen or missionaries, from outrage, and will prevent China from remaining the one bar to the progress and civilisation of the world.

It is not within the province of a magazine article to suggest what those conditions should be; but we cannot help hinting that if the Treaty Powers were to treat China as Peter the Great did Russia, and transplant the capital and Court from Peking back to Nanking, whence it was removed by the Emperor Tai Tsung, who reigned under the style of Yung Lo at the beginning of the fifteenth century, the headquarters of obstructiveness and mandarinism would be destroyed, the power of the viceroys would be brought under the control of the Central Government, and a new era might be inaugurated which should be as conducive to the welfare and happiness of the Chinese people as to the safety and profit of the European trader. Above all, the representatives of European Powers, instead of being boxed up in Peking like rats in a trap, would, in the not improbable event of their having from time to time certain demands and requisitions to make of the Chinese Government, be backed up by the presence of their men-of-war on the spot. It is wonderful how distance weakens a threat, and how wholesomely the sight of power acts upon the Oriental mind. Had the capital been at Nanking it may be doubted whether the Cabinet of China would have appointed such a man as Tseng-kwo-Fan, the chief enemy of foreigners, to succeed the friendly Viceroy Ma; and it is not too much to say that with a few French and English ships in the river, orders would have been given which would have insured the immediate punishment of the perpetrators of the Tientsin outrage.

One thing is certain, and that is, that if our trade with China is to continue it must be protected. Do not its statistics show that it is worth paying a high insurance for? In China, above all other countries, does the old proverb hold good, "Si vis pacem para bellum."

ARRIVAL OF THE "MAGDALA" FROM SHANGHAI.

(NEW YORK HERALD.)

"Seventy days from China, eh, captain?"

"No, not exactly; ninety-five days from Shanghai. I could have made the passage in seventy days but for my ill-luck. We encountered very heavy weather in the Red Sea, a cyclone and hurricane in the Atlantic, and head winds all the way."

This interrogatory and sufficient answer were the commencement of an interesting conversation that took place between Captain Davidson and a Herald reporter. The Magdala arrived at this port, direct from Shanghai, China, via the Suez Canal and Red Sea route. She is the first ship from the East, which, passing through the newly-opened channel between the oceans, has arrived in New York or some other port of the United States. The event, therefore, is both interesting and important. It marks a new era in our commercial history, and points to a new field of enterprise. But, unfortunately, there is nothing connected with it in which Americans can rejoice. The gallant ship is English; the profits of her cargo are for the benefit of English enterprising merchants, and when she leaves these shores the wealth of our commercial city will not have been added by one dollar. So, while the arrival of the Magdala direct from the Flowery Land by the Suez route demands attention as an historical event, there is no room for America rejoicing over it.

THE VOYAGE OF THE "MAGDALA" was an eventful one. Leaving Shanghai on the 16th of August, she touched at Hong Kong; on the 20th coaled, and left the following day. Singapore was reached on the 29th of the same month. The next day she put to sea again, arriving at Galle on the 8th of September, which port she left on the 9th, arriving at Aden on the 22nd. On the 23rd she left Aden. Up to her arrival at the latter port she had a favourable passage, but she encountered very severe weather in the Red Sea, and owing to this circumstance, which, of course, could not have been avoided, she did not reach Suez until the 8th of October. Had the weather continued as favourable after she had left Aden as it had prevailed previous to her leaving that port she would have accomplished the distance to Suez in five or six days. The Magdala passed safely through the canal in the manner hereafter described by Captain Davidson himself and left on the 14th of October, where she arrived five days later. There was but a short delay here, the ship's head being turned toward the sea and the island of Malta the same evening. The Rock was sighted on the 25th, and on the 28th the gallant vessel steamed out of Gibraltar and headed for New York.

PORT SAID FOR MALTA

"What sort of weather did you have, Captain?" asked the reporter, when some of the foregoing facts were elicited.

"Well, the weather was very severe in the Red Sea, but after passing the Isthmus moderate enough until the 28th of October, when the weather was awful, you know."

The reporter intimated that he did not know, but anxiously waited the captain's

DESCRIPTION OF THE STORM.

It blew furiously on the 28th. We were in the middle of a cyclone, which lasted until the 10th of this month. We lost several sails, and at one time I thought we should go to the bottom. It blew a perfect hurricane the first six hours of the storm. A succession of heavy gales from the north-west to the south-west followed, but we managed to weather them without damage. On Saturday last, off Cape Hatteras, in latitude 38, longitude 71, we had another tough gale, which continued to howl in our wake long after we had passed that dangerous locality. The weather moderated on Sunday, much to our relief, and we arrived to-day safe and sound, as you are already informed.

Reporter: What was your experience in passing the Suez Canal, Captain?

Captain Davidson: Highly satisfactory. Beyond a slight detention, caused by the bad steering of a fellow ahead of us, there was no delay. We steamed through in sixteen hours going, steaming from five to six knots an hour. There is drawing from twenty-one to twenty-two feet of water, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The Magdala never touched bottom once from Suez to Port Said. It is now the route for the Peninsular and Oriental ships and those of the French Oriental Mail line. The traffic in the Canal is increasing; improvements are constantly going on, and it is without doubt a great success. Fears were entertained that the sides of the Canal would fall in, but there is no sign of any such catastrophe. The mud of the embankments has hardened in the sun, and in many places vegetation shows itself. Where vegetation is there is solidity. The width of the Canal is 175 feet, but it is not considered safe for vessels to pass one another. In fact, the numerous harbours on the route render it unnecessary that they should. The enterprise is entirely in the hands of the French, and is well managed. There are telegraph and signal stations all the way from port to port, which renders navigation easy and safe. The dues are, for cargoes eight francs per ton and for passengers eight francs per head. We carried no passengers, yet paid £500 in dues.

Reporter: Cheap, no doubt; but does it pay to bring cargoes from China to America by that route?

Captain Davidson: Pay! Certainly it will. In having the opportunity of paying £500 we save twice as much; not perhaps in time but in another respect. After the teas are well packed on board in China they are not again touched until landed here on your docks, and that importers know full well, if the public does not. This tea I have brought is of the finest green—a quality that comes in to the China seaports from the interior in August. To bring it by ship to San Francisco and from thence by your new railroad would cost more, would scarcely be quicker, and certainly the damage to the herb would be certain. This is understood in England. Messrs. Turnbull and Co., of Leith, commenced the construction of a line of steamships for this very trade, and the Magdala is the first of the fleet. Messrs. Charles L. Wright and Co., of No. 56, Water-street, are the agents.

IN RE THE BANK OF HINDOSTAN, CHINA, AND JAPAN.

This company has been for some time past under liquidation. The present case arises upon an adjourned summons taken out by the liquidators for the purpose of having the register of members, or list of contributories, rectified by inserting the name of Mr. Charles Harrison as a member or contributory in respect of 640 shares (which were on or before the 28th of September, 1866, standing in his name, but which were then transferred by him into the name of Mr. Chas. John Johnson) in lieu of the name of Mr. Johnson, and for costs of the application. It appeared that soon after the transfer a call was made of £3 per share, and Mr. Harrison advanced £1,920, the amount of the call made on Mr. Johnson as transferee. The question to be decided was upon what terms did the directors sanction the transfer.

The Vice-Chancellor said that the evidence of three directors of great respectability left no doubt on his mind of the nature of the transaction, and he could arrive at no other conclusion than that the transfer was sanctioned by the directors on the distinct understanding that Mr. Harrison was to be made liable for all calls, not for one call only. He therefore made an order that Mr. Charles Harrison was liable to pay calls, which practically amounted to allowing the official liquidator to substitute his name for that of Johnson on the list of contributories.

Monetary and Commercial.

A meeting of shipowners was held on the 9th instant, to consider the desirability of making an alteration in the present terms of freight outwards by sailing ships, which give shippers a credit of sixty days after the delivery of bills of lading, and leaves the owner with no lien on the goods. Mr. John Willis proposed that the freight should be due and payable on the delivery of bills of lading. After a long discussion it was agreed that, if any change was effected, freight per sailing vessels should be made payable in exchange for bills of lading, according to the present custom with steam vessels.

The report of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company (Limited), to be presented on the 14th inst., shows a net profit of £15,496 for the three and a-half months from the opening of the line on the 12th of June to the 30th of September last, and recommends a dividend of 4s. per share of £10 each, which will absorb £13,200, and leave £2,296 to be carried to reserve. The company have obtained from the Post-office the exclusive use of a wire between London and Penzance, together with permission to open an office at 74, Old Broad-street, where messages are received by the company's own officers, and transmitted direct by wire to their destination, and from the Portuguese Government an exclusive concession has been obtained of the right to establish submarine telegraph lines between Portugal, England, Gibraltar, and Malta for twenty years. It is added:—

Since the last report the cables of the British-Indian Company from Suez to Bombay and a duplicate cable from Malta and Alexandria have been successfully laid. Three other companies have also been formed in connection with this company's line to Malta—viz., the British-Indian Extension Company from Madras to Singapore, the China Submarine Company from Singapore to Hong Kong, and the British Australian Company from Singapore to Java and Australia. The shareholders will be glad to learn that the line from Madras to Singapore is now being laid, and will, it is expected, be completed by the end of the year. The China and Australian lines are expected to be completed in the course of next year, thus bringing England and her Eastern dependencies into direct telegraphic communication, and opening up new sources of revenue to this company. The directors have unanimously elected Lord Alfred Paget (late a director of the Electric and International Telegraph Company) to the vacant seat at the Board.

The directors of the British Indian Company state that experience has shown that the reduced rates of £2 17s. to Bombay instead of £3, and £2 17s. to Calcutta instead of £3 10s. 6d., are unremunerative, and it is therefore the intention of the directors, at the Telegraph Conference to be held in May, 1871 (if the requisite permission cannot be obtained sooner), to apply, in conjunction with the Indo-European Company, for permission to increase them.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were allotted—to Calcutta, £297,800; to Bombay, £100,000; and to Madras, £2,200. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10d. on all the Presidencies, and tenders on Calcutta and Madras, at 1s. 10¼d., will receive about 43 per cent.; on Bombay, at that price, about 72 per cent.; and above in full. These results show a slight diminution in the demand for means of remittance for the East.

A return of the Liverpool Dock revenue for the year ended the 24th June last has been issued. Vessels from the East Indies, China, and Japan paid dock rates and tonnage dues to the amount of £65,948; from New South Wales, New Zealand, and the Australian colonies, £4,828; from the west coast of South America, £22,203; from the Brazils and east coast of South America £31,716; from the West Indies and Gulf of Mexico, £24,773; from the United States, £192,276; from British America and Newfoundland, £42,893; from the west coast of Africa and Cape of Good Hope, £10,510; from the Mediterranean, £76,924; from Baltic ports, £2,351; from other European ports, £28,980; from coasters, £32,316. The total tonnage of the vessels using the Liverpool and Birkenhead Docks was 5,139,488 tons; the total dock rates received on goods amounted to £253,429; and the total tonnage dues received on vessels to £282,293.

It appears that the French Atlantic Cable, upon which, for the present, our telegraphic communication with America entirely depends, is working satisfactorily both ways. The temporary fracture of the other two Cables has led to reports of renewed attempts to get up competing concerns of the character of those which the investing public have hitherto refused to entertain. When the existing Cables are in order their capacity is far beyond the amount of work required from them, so that there can be no prospect of profitable rivalry on the part of fresh ones. On the other hand, if, as there is not the slightest reason to conjecture, the broken lines should prove to be irrecoverable, the temptation hastily to embark in new ventures exposed to a similar risk would be proportionably affected.

The Ferdinand de Lesseps, which was despatched to-day by Messrs. Gellatley, Hankey, Sewell, and Co. for Colombo via Suez Canal, with a general cargo and a detachment of the 73rd Regiment, will be followed by a fortnightly steamer for that port.

The new steamer Sarpedon, of 1,619 tons, one of Holt's line of steamers to Straits, China, and Japan, is announced to leave Liverpool on the 28th inst. This line now includes fifteen steamers.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market shows no change; arrivals have been small. The advent of Christmas tends to limit business, the country dealers being occupied in their fruit department.

The Laudedale cargo is the only one on offer since our last report. The sales reported, say 3,000 to 4,000 packages (mostly half-chests), range at 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9½d. per lb. for good medium to fine quality, Ningchow kinds chiefly. Other blacks no change. Japans and greens sell easier, with a view to close invoices, and owing to the knowledge that ample supplies are at hand.

SILK.

The market continues very dull, business during the week having been very dragging; Importers, however, are not pushing their Silk; prices consequently have been sustained, and in China Silk anything offering at any approach to easier rates is at once taken. For Japans the demand has entirely ceased, and at the moment there is nothing doing. Cantons are selling daily in moderate quantities, and the good deliveries prove that this Silk finds a ready consumption. From Dec. 1 to 6 inclusive the deliveries were 584 bales China, &c., and 53 bales Japan.

COFFEE.

There is no alteration to report in the market for Ceylon; the supply of both Native and Plantation has been moderate, and has gone off at steady rates; the last prices paid were—Plantation, triage and ordinary, 41s. to 53s.; small grey, 52s. to 53s. 6d.; low middling to middling grey, 58s. to 60s.; bold ditto, 61s. 6d. to 69s. 6d.; small coloury, 54s. to 59s.; middling to good middling coloury, 61s. to 70s. 6d.; fine middling to good bold, 71s. to 80s.; superior bold bright, 87s. 6d. to 89s. 6d.; peaberry, 71s. to 76s. Native, small, 46s.; good ordinary, 52s. to 52s. 6d.; fine ordinary, 54s.; bold, 55s. 6d. to 56s.; peaberry, 55s.; by private contract about 700 bags Native have been sold at 52s. 6d. to 53s. 6d. for good to fine ordinary. In other East India descriptions no business has been done.

The landings for the week do not differ materially from those in the corresponding week last year, as the deliveries maintain their former rate, and are 500 tons more than in 1869, the surplus in the stock is further reduced, being now 2,500 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 56,115 cwt., against 75,239 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 2,466 cwt., against 19,284 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is nil. The quantity of Coffee landed in the forty-eight weeks ended Dec. 3, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 40,205 tons, against 39,040 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 68,920 tons, against 67,888 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 9,642 tons, against 10,231 tons; of all descriptions, 17,566 tons, against 17,833 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 28,924 tons, against 25,587 tons; of all descriptions, 47,929 tons, against 44,188 tons. The stock on Dec. 3 was, of Ceylon, 15,505 tons, against 14,217 tons; of all descriptions, 27,644 tons, against 25,187 tons.

SUGAR.

A quieter tone pervades the market than was shown a week since; the active inquiry for Manila which we then reported has wholly fallen off, and for other kinds only a moderate inquiry has prevailed. The business done has consequently been limited, but holders have not pressed sales, and prices have steadily maintained the range last quoted. Penang: Of 3,103 baskets date sort (duty 4s.) offered at auction 820 baskets sold low at 18s., one lot 17s. 6d., washed at 17s., common at 19s. to 19s. 6d., the remainder, common to medium, being bought in at 19s. to 21s. Java: In auction 1,990 bags low dark quality syrups were bought in at 18s. 6d. to 19s. Manila: There have been no offers at the public sales; privately 1,800 bags unclayed Taal have been sold at 19s., and 4,000 bags Zebu at 20s. 6d.

The landings for the week are slightly above those in the previous year, one-half consisting of Beetroot; deliveries for home use are again larger, including 900 tons of Beet, and are 1,600 tons in excess of last year; the exports, although amounting to 600 tons, chiefly foreign kinds, are but little above last year's. The stock is now nearly 4,000 tons less than last year. Stock, Nov. 26, 77,740 tons, against 79,944 tons; Dec. 3, 74,962 tons, against 78,713 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the forty-eight weeks ended Dec. 3, 1870, was, of Penang, 3,028 tons, against 4,722 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 19,902 tons, against 32,935 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,243 tons, against 2,602 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 24,067 tons, against 20,457 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 152 tons, against 193 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 3,850 tons, against 2,191 tons. The stock on Dec. 3 was, of Penang, 2,963 tons, against 2,306 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 27,775 tons, against 38,551 tons.

COIR GOODS.—At the last public sales a good supply of Yarn met with a good demand, and the whole was taken off at full rates to a further advance of about £2 per ton. Fibre and Rope sold without material alteration. 1,408 bales Cochin Yarn sold, roping, £21 5s. to £22 10s.; common to good common mixed kinds, £21 10s. to £23 10s.; medium to good medium, £24 5s. to £29 5s.; good, £30 to £32; fine, £33 10s. to £37 5s.; 21 tons in dholls sold, low, £18 10s.; common, £20 to £20 15s.; 75 bales Ceylon sold, common, £20 15s.; middling, £26 5s.; fine, £40 5s.; superior, £45 to £52 5s.; 62 tons ditto chiefly sold, low coarse, £19 to £19 5s.; common to good common, £20 15s. to £23; medium to good, £24 to £30. 47 bales Cochin Fibre sold at £19 10s. to £20 5s.; 11 bales Ceylon partly sold at £27, 3 tons in ballot sold at £16 15s. to £17 5s. 1,434 coils Cochin Rope chiefly sold, 1½ in. at £27 5s.; 2¼ in. to 3 in. at £23 15s. to £24; 2¾ in. to 4 in. at £25 5s.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

AND OINTMENT.—DERANGED STOMACH, SICK HEADACHE.—These symptoms, too frequently regarded as nugatory, and therefore neglected, would have instant attention if sufferers from them reflect that our comfort, happiness, and security depend on the knowledge that most diseases originate from apparently a trifling beginning, and that the large proportion of them spring from inattention to the state of the stomach. Professor Holloway has turned this knowledge to good account by discovering medicines which cure, without exception, the attendants on disordered digestion. They likewise ward off torturing sick headache. The Ointment should be well rubbed twice daily over the stomach, liver, and bowels; to them it penetrates, and, aided by the Pills, immediately works such a revolution as establishes perfect digestion.

PASSAGES from the ENGLISH NOTE-BOOKS of NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. 2 vols., post 8vo. 24s.

"These two volumes, intended to give us Hawthorne's impressions of England and the English, give us incidentally his own disposition and character from a thousand points of view, and form one of the minutest and most finished self-portraits that was ever drawn. . . . Our rural life seems to have had an especial charm for him. The cottages, not very old, perhaps, but still all of them older than the oldest building in America; the aged men in their antiquated coats and breeches, sunning themselves by the wayside; a servant-girl, a gatekeeper, a Westmoreland peasant over his ale—these he delights to touch with stroke after stroke, but rank and fashion do not occupy his pen. He keeps us in the open air, in the streets and green lanes, and shows us 'England and the English as they are.'"—Times, Nov. 8.

GINX'S BABY; his Birth and other Misfortunes. Fifth Edition. Crown 8vo, 5s.

"The strangely clever and tragical history of 'Ginx's Baby' . . . We can assure the reader, if he has not yet seen the story of 'Ginx's Baby,' that there is that in it will make him smile and make him groan, and perhaps give him in the end a truer sense of the misery of his fellow-creatures and their need of Christian succour than the appeals of many societies or the beggar's cunningest wail."—Blackwood's Mag., Nov.

RELIGIOUS LIFE in GERMANY during the WARS OF INDEPENDENCE. In a Series of Historical and Biographical Sketches. By WILLIAM BAUR. 2 vols, post 8vo. 16s.

"There is hardly a sketch in the whole work but is an education to read. . . . The book, in short, is full of a rich humanity, in which few readers will fail to take delight. The English, too, is of the pleasantest kind."—Athenæum.

PEASANT LIFE in the NORTH. New and Cheaper Edition. Post 8vo. 6s.

"This book has already passed the first ordeal of public judgment, and is in a second edition—in this case a tribute to real excellence, and a truth to life and nature quite extraordinary among the many varieties of fiction. . . . Literature and the world are the better for a picture so homely, so pure and so elevated in feeling, as the picture of Muckle Jock's courtship. The description of the beginning of his love is as perfect as any classic idyll, yet as true to all the homely associations of the ploughman's life as the simplest history could be. The other stories in the volume are full of the truest feeling for Scottish nature, both in landscape and humanity."—Blackwood's Magazine, Nov.

MEMORIALS of CHARLES PARRY, Commander, Royal Navy. By his Brother, the Right Rev. EDWARD PARRY, D.D., Bishop Suffragan of Dover. Second Edition, small 8vo. 5s.

"By a judicious selection from his letters, strung together by a minimum of explanatory information, Bishop Parry has succeeded in placing before us what might be called an undesigned religious autobiography of very high value. . . . It ought to find a place in every young officer's outfit." Record.

NAGASAKI.

OCT. 24, 1870.

The English mail of September 9, due at Shanghai on the 25th inst., is expected here on the 27th idem by H.M.S. Zebra, and on her arrival H.B.M.S. Ocean, it is said, will go out on a cruise.

Only nine days have elapsed since my last, on the 15th instant, and sent via San Francisco; since then very little news of interest has occurred. The local authorities have received instructions from Yedo to suppress opium smoking amongst the Chinese residents at this port, and are carrying out the instructions after a fashion which is likely to defeat the good intentions of the Government, who take the measures in consequence of the evil spreading to their own people, which is much to be regretted. It is a matter of surprise that the authorities have such a fondness for the pigtail race, who are continually doing something or other by which they set a bad example to the Japanese. It was only three months ago they were engaged in dealing in children, and now we hear they are charged with spreading opium smoking amongst the natives, and yet the authorities take no steps to get rid of them—indeed they seem to favour them, for we have a novelty in this settlement in the person of a semi-crazy Chinese beggar woman; as if we had not enough native mendicant cripples.

H. M. S. Adventure left this for Hong Kong via Shanghai on the 17th instant. U. S. gunboat Monocacy arrived from Hiogo on the 23rd intant; with these exceptions I have no change to note in the men-of-war in harbour. The bands of the Ocean and Almaz each come on shore once a week, so that the residents have plenty of music just now.

I omitted to say in my last that the Portuguese Consulate has been handed over to Mr. W. P. Mangum, U.S. Consul, until further orders from Portugal. Mr. Jose Loureiro goes home very shortly; likewise does Mons. E. Rousset, French consular agent, and Mons. W. F. Gaymans, who fills the same post for Italy, leaves for Europe about the commencement of next month. I have not yet heard who are to succeed them. Consulate appointments are not sought after much now, and as there is no exchange obtainable, the post is considered to be one producing more plague than profit.

An official notice issued by H.B.M. Acting Consul, 19th inst., makes publicly known that F. P. Tombrink, Esq, has been appointed, and is hereby declared to be trustee, under the liquidation of Glover and Co.. Messrs. Julius Adrian, S. Howard Church, and William Robertson are appointed a committee of inspection. The above is simply a repetition of what I informed you on the 1st inst., now officially declared.

The Chinese have lately been shipping considerable quantities of chow chow articles to Taku, which is rather an unusual thing at this time of the year; it is being done, no doubt, in anticipation of foreign vessels not being allowed to go there in the spring, as most of the Cantonese here believe that war is certain to take place then, and even go so far as to tell you, with a serio-comic semi sarcastic grin, "if you foreign men no begin that Peking man darin will!" I hear that the Chinese have instructed foreign r to buy up firearms at the various ports in Japan, and that the persons operating are taking means to place the Chinese in possession of arms likely to make them different opponents to what they were in 1860-1861 ; in fact this is one of the reasons why the Celestials have got so cheeky and openly tell you that they can lick foreigners now as they savey fighting, judging very well just now.

Coals lately have formed a considerable item in the exports from this place to the ports of Taku, Chefoo, and Shanghai.

No vessel is on the berth for London, and the rate of freight is quite nominal. Exchange on London is nominally quoted at 4s. 5d. to 4s. 6d., and to account for quoting a nominal rate for Exchange on London I may add that these are generally negotiated at Shanghai or Yokohama, to which places the drafts are usually sent if the amount is large and a very slight demand exists at Nagasaki.

PEKING.

We hear that Count Rochechouart has definitely accepted on behalf of France the terms of settlement for the Tientsin outrage offered by Li-Hung-Chang. These conditions are :—

1. An indemnity of Tls. 50,000 for the cathedral, and a like sum for the orphanage and Consulate.

2. Tls. 1,500 for each of the Sisters of Charity murdered on the 21st.

3. Banishment of the Fu and Hsien Prefect and Magistrate, decapitation of fifteen ringleaders, and banishment to the Amoor of thirty more.

The question of indemnity to the French Government for the expenses of maintaining gunboats in the Peiho during the winter is reserved for after discussion.

TIENTSIN.

The correspondent of the Courier writes on Oct. 23 :—

The Kiushu is outside the bar at Taku and cannot get in, owing to the very low neap tides ; the Chihli is ashore on the bar, the Shansi ashore in the river. The Manchu has not water enough to come up to Tientsin, so has to tranship into the Millet at Taku. Even the latter took the ground coming up, drawing only nine feet four inches ; and, worst of all, no money in the Imperial Treasury to buy a dredging machine, nor likely to be for years to come. It is devoutly to be wished that the next spare money will be applied to the purchase of dredgers, or, better still, the construction of railways, instead of another Embassy to the "outside nations." I was glad to see your article on dredgers for the Woosung bar and river. They are greatly needed for all the rivers debouching on the coast of China.

A few days ago we had a strong example of how the tides are influenced by the winds in the Gulf. The tide at Taku had flowed, and high water showed twelve feet on the bar. It then ebbed to ten feet and a-half ; but a strong wind from the east then sprang up, and sent the tide in again up to thirteen feet. I did not notice at the time that the wind was particularly strong at Tientsin ; but I saw on the following morning, by the barometer, that it had risen two-tenths.

According to information got from a Chinese friend just returned from Peking to Tientsin, strips of paper with the following spirituel verses are everywhere posted on the walls of Peking.

In Chinese :—Tseng-sun, Ch'ung-sun, Ch'en-hung-sun.

Ying-tsu, O tsu, Ta-fa-tsu.

Or in English :—Oh grandson Tseng-kwo-Fan, oh grandson Ch'en-chung.

Oh our English ancestors,
Oh our Russian ancestors,
Oh our ancestors from glorious France.

Ch'en-chung is a mandarin (expectant Taot'ai), who came up with Tseng-kwo-Fan for the investigation of the Tientsin affairs. The meaning of grandson and ancestors as words of abuse have been already explained by me in a former letter, the contents of which I have since seen published in the Courier.

The Grasshopper left here this morning for Newchwang, and the Elk arrived to take her place here for the winter. Count Rochechouart was to leave Peking for the South in a few days. To calm the troubled minds of the residents there he said he would be back before winter : this is greatly doubted. It is reported that H.E. Chung How since he has heard that Earl Granville proposed to take common action with France does not half like it.

The Chinese have begun to rebuild some of the premises in the city belonging to the A. M. C. F. Missions. The British missionaries have not yet made up their estimates ; and I don't see how they can make more than approximate estimate until they are really to work again. They certainly cannot do so at present.

OCT. 26.

Telegrams arrived here yesterday morning up to the 12th Oct. They state that communication with Paris is only possible in balloons, it is so closely invested. Gambetta, the Minister of the Interior, left Paris by this aerial conveyance, and has arrived at Amiens. The bombardment of Paris had not commenced. Garibaldi had arrived at Tours to aid the French. Rome is incorporated with Italy, the Pope to receive an annuity of one million florins.

Rochechouart is hourly expected here from Peking, and Chung-How also, the latter en route for Paris.

There was a fire last night, in the city of Tientsin, but the fire brigade did not turn out to extinguish it. Soldiers had to be called in instead, who by pulling down the houses succeeded in putting a stop to the conflagration. It is said that the mandarins went to the fire brigade and begged them to come to the fire, but the latter told them that they would not do so, lest it should again happen that their lives should be taken simply for doing the bidding of the mandarins.

It was at first said that 100 houses had been destroyed, but foreigners who have visited the spot say that 700 chang have been laid bare, which at an average of 4 chang to each house gives 175 houses. Yet the Futa, when he is paying an official visit, in answer to a question on the subject, coolly said that there were a dozen houses burned ! A fair specimen of the veracity of the high officials.

LETTER FROM CONSUL LAY.

TIENTSIN, Oct. 19, 1870.

Sir,—Referring to your letter of the 3rd instant, addressed to H.B M's charge d'Affaires, on the subject of the protection of the British settlement at Tientsin during the approaching winter, I am instructed by Mr. Wade to state that he has received your letter. It does not appear to Mr. Wade essential that he should re-traverse, step by step, the ground taken by you ; but he thinks that you and the community are fairly entitled to an answer to the question : What guarantee is there against danger to the lives and property of British subjects at Tientsin during the winter ? The one danger, in Mr. Wade's opinion, to be apprehended is from the action of the dangerous classes, who might be induced, were there nothing to deter them, to attempt the pillage of the foreign settlement. He thinks that they will be sufficiently deterred by the naval force stationed at Tientsin. This will consist of a gun-vessel and gunboat of our own navy, four gunboats of the French navy, and probably two other vessels of war under other flags. Besides this, it is the intention of the Government to keep the new Governor-General, Li-hung-Chang, at Tientsin until the spring ; and the presence of a man of his known energy and capacity would be, Mr. Wade says, to him, were he a resident at Tientsin, of itself a sufficient guarantee against an invasion of the ill-disposed.

As to the occupation of forts and other precautions suggested, Mr. Wade states that, without at all under-estimating the gravity of recent events, and in these he includes the fact that nearly four months have elapsed between the massacre of the 21st June and the award of the Supreme Government which has just been published—he does not consider that the present position of British interests at Tientsin is such as to call for an occupation of Chinese territory by the forces, military or naval, of Her Majesty.

As to war, such as you appear to apprehend, I am directed to state that this could not be undertaken without the express authority of the Central Government ; and that it must be war, not with one Power, but with several of the largest Powers in the world. The representatives of these reside in Peking, and as I am informed by Mr. Wade, it is to be doubted whether any of them will leave the capital this winter.

This circumstance and the fact that an Imperial Commissioner of the Chinese Government is about to start for Paris should, Mr. Wade thinks, avail something towards satisfying the Tientsin community that aggressive operations are not contemplated by the Imperial Government.

The aggressiveness of the ill-conditioned classes of the Tientsin population is, Mr. Wade states, a contingency entirely apart ; and I am informed by him that, did he conceive the community insufficiently secured against it, he would not hesitate about the acceptance of any additional responsibility in their behalf.

(Signed) W. H. LAY, Acting Consul.

J. Henderson, Esq., Chairman of the Municipal Council, Tientsin.

SHANGHAI.

Dates by this mail are to Nov. 1. The London mail (French) Sept. 16 arrived out Nov. 1, with telegrams to Oct. 9, and via Kiachta dates reached to Oct. 11.

The well-known clipper screw steamer Erl King, Captain Steel, arrived on the 27th October. This fine vessel has just accomplished a feat unprecedented in the history of the China trade. On the 8th June last she left Shanghai, racing with the Diomed which would take the first new season's teas to England. and she was in London two days before that vessel. Her cargo was discharged, and another full general cargo shipped for Singapore, Hong Kong, and Shanghai ; and now, having discharged her cargo at the two former ports, she is here again, having accomplished the round voyage in 141 days, which not so long ago would not have been an intolerably long single passage A most interesting account of the outward voyage appeared in the China Mail on the arrival of the Erl King in Hong Kong, the main facts of which we summarised shortly afterwards. Among other important notes, was the record that between London and Port Said the average speed was 10 1-7th knots; while from Suez to Galle it was 9 14-15ths. Getting bad coal at Galle, her speed from that point was much reduced.

The first ordinary half-yearly meeting of the China and Japan Insurance Company was held on Oct. 28. The balance-sheet to June 30 shows an amount of net premia taken of Tls. 35,424.72. More shares were applied for than the directors deemed it advisable to allot, and the whole of the company's stock has been taken up, with the exception of 212 shares, which they reserve for the present. The report was adopted unanimously, and the qualification of the directors was fixed at ten shares.

The majority of the American missionaries returned to Tungchow on the 19th Oct. on board the U.S. man-of-war Benicia, Captain Kimberly. Mr. Solbe, interpreter for the English Consulate at Chefoo, accompanied them, and kindly acted as interpreter for Captain Kimberly. On the evening of their arrival these two gentlemen called on the Chifu, and had a long interview with him on the subject of the residence of the missionaries and their protection from violence. The Chifu said he was both able and willing to protect them under all circumstances.

The British community are again, by the departure of the Zebra, bereft of the protection of the inevitable gunboat. As against this, however, we have to place a statement we have heard, that telegrams have gone to the Legation at Peking, which will, probably involve the wintering of the British fleet at Shanghai.

In our commercial article last week we stated we had heard, from a reliable source, that Mr. Hart would shortly retire from the position of Inspector-General of Customs. Circumstances to a certain extent contradict this.

MEETING OF THE MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

The monthly meeting of the above conference was held at the residence of Rev. J. Wherry, a number of missionaries from other ports being also present. Rev. Mr. Nelson read a paper, drawing attention to the importance of the missionary body giving expression to their views regarding the Tientsin Massacre and the present crisis. Pointing out that considering the amount of capital which the various missionary societies have invested in China; the perilous posts occupied by their missionaries all over the country; and the interest which from the nature of their calling they take in the Chinese people, it was but their plain duty to make themselves heard at a time like the present

A general discussion then ensued, in which several of the missionaries took a prominent part, and almost all fell in with the views expressed in the paper which had been just read.

The Rev. Mr. Muirhead differed somewhat from the opinions of his missionary brethren, who wished to address their societies on the subject, and said that so far as the London Missionary Society was concerned he did not think they desired any further information. He was content to leave the matter in the hands of Providence, who would no doubt bring good out of evil. The majority, however, leaning to the views of Mr. Nelson, a committee was appointed consisting of the Revs. Messrs. Nelson, Syle, Mateer, and Allen, to draw up a statement of their views for transmission home. Measures are to be taken to secure for it as great publicity as possible.

HONG KONG.

Advices by this mail are to Nov. 8; the London mail (P. and O.) of Sept. 23 arrived Nov. 2 with telegrams from London to Oct. 17.

There is but little local news; the papers are filled chiefly with the European war.

The Chinese gunboat Tching-tsing from Ticupak reports having found thirty-three of the pirates who were at the capture of the French barque Nouvelle Penelope. The Portuguese Government have seized eighteen coolies who were on board the above ship as passengers. His Excellency the Governor of Macao has placed all the miscreants at the disposition of the Consul for France. H.M. gunboat Starling and the gunboat Tienpo are still engaged in making a further search. The gunboat Tching-tsing has also been on the same expedition with the French Consul from Canton, Mon. D'Abry.

The rebellion which has broken out in Hoonan is headed by a number of revolted troops or braves, and in fact is the repetition of the old story in China of soldiers turning against their leaders. The outbreak of hostilities in Hoonan is noticeable at the present time, as that province is the birthplace of Tseng-kwo-Fan, and it has long been suspected among the Chinese that his hardly disguised disagreement with the Imperial authorities might result in disturbances in that direction. The feeling that this magnate is deeply engaged in intrigues seems at present to be more widely spread than ever.

The Daily Press says:—"The question of the desirability of appointing a bishop for Ningpo to take charge of the various missionary stations and of the chaplaincies in the North has been again revived. The measure, as might be expected, was vigorously opposed by the Bishop of Victoria, who, doubtless, regards a step which will deprive him of a great deal of his influence with natural aversion. But really, when it is remembered how Hong Kong bishops, as a rule, perform their duties, it may fairly be considered that any change will be for the better. Abusing their flocks at home, instead of improving them in China, is the form in which Christian zeal is, as a rule, manifested by those who enjoy episcopal dignity in this colony; and if a suitable bishop were appointed for the duties of superintending matters connected with the missions and the various Consular Chaplaincies, the step would probably prove to be one in the right direction; and further, if when it was accomplished, Hong Kong were supplied with a really energetic and earnest parish clergyman, perhaps we should not be much the worse off for the withdrawal of the bishops, whose connections with the colony for any practical purpose is for the most part confined to the pension list.

The American ship Adelia Carleton, which left Yokohama bound for this port on Oct. 6, has not since been heard of, and fears are entertained that she has met with some accident during the late typhoon, to which from the probable course steered she must have been exposed.

A cricket match was played on the 1st and 2nd inst., between the merchants and the bankers and brokers, and after a well-contested tussle the mercantile element prevailed (as it ever has in all matters of moment in China), and they were declared the victors by fourteen runs. The account current of the former footed up 70 plus 87-157. The balance-sheet of the latter only exhibited 80 plus 63-143. The weather was unusually favourable, the night showers keeping down the dust, and the cool north-easters tempering the scorching heat of the sun. The band of the 75th Regiment supplied excellent and exhilarating music, and everything passed off very pleasantly.

The coolie emigration, says the China Mail, to the United States has to struggle against unusual difficulties, which have at last assumed an aspect more serious that any with which it has previously been threatened. A San Francisco paper says—"Suits have been commenced in the Twelfth District Court, by District Attorney Byrne, against the steamships Montana and America, for violation of the Passenger Act; to recover against the Montana $7,000 damages, and against the America the sum of $437,000 damages." In the latter case, if the plaint should be legally established, a heavy blow will be dealt at the interests of the P. M. S. S Co.

We regret to learn the death of one of the pioneers in Hong Kong, Captain James B Endicott, formerly of Salem, Mass., who visited China first about thirty-five years ago, when quite a young man, as mate of a tea ship. He entered the employ of Messrs. Russell and Co. as commander of their opium hulk, until in connection with the late Thomas Hunt and Mr. J. B. Cook he founded the well known house of Thomas Hunt and Co. at Whampoa. A branch of this firm was established at Hong Kong, soon after the cession of the island. Captain Endicott resided principally at Macao, and established and maintained a line of steamers between that city and Canton. He was one of the largest stock holders in the Hong Kong, Canton, and Macao Steamboat Company, and chairman of the Board. He was very generally respected, and his sound and shrewd counsels will be missed by many who have profited largely by them.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

Dates are down to the 13th November. The nomination of a municipal commission, to carry on the business of the city pending the reconstruction of the Municipal Council consequent on the change of Government at home, was almost the only local subject of interest. Several persons were, however, announced to be returning to France, in order to enlist in the army, for which purpose they were allowed free passages home. From the interior the reports are that trade is very good. Some new dye-works were being established at Cangioc; a second sugar-factory was being built at Bien-hoa; and the prospects of the crops both of rice and sugar were generally very good. Wood-cutting was greatly on the increase in Baria, and large quantities were exported to all parts of the colony, handsome public buildings being erected in many villages at their own expense. The fifth list of subscriptions for the sick and wounded was published, and raised the total sum subscribed in Saigon to f.54,567.

Messrs. Kaltenbaich, Engler, and Co., of Saigon, notify by circular that the order of the Governor, compelling all Germans to leave Saigon, will not affect them, in consequence of the various nationalties of their firm, and their business will consequently be carried on as usual.

BANGKOK.

Dates extend to the 4th Nov.; the London mail of 23rd Sept. had been received.

The following items are from the Bangkok Summary:—

A Royal command has been issued from the Throne, by H.M. the Wang Hluang, to widen the street called Tanon Bumrong Muang, constructed during the reign of H.M. Somdet Pra Chawm Klow, the late King of Siam. This great thoroughfare is to be widened twelve or fourteen feet, making it straight throughout its whole length.

The new laws for regulating and clearing the canals in the kingdom of Siam having been issued, those in charge of the business are losing no time in putting them into force. A thorough clearing is going on around the city, and the alteration is even now so great that they appear like new canals.

His Majesty the Supreme King commenced the annual visitation of the Wats on the 15th Oct., and was to continue it daily till the whole of the Royal Wats have been visited.

There is now in course of erection at Wat Kok a substantial wharf whereat to land and ship the cargoes of the British steamer Bangkok. The wharf is to be at the present landing leading into the market at the stores of the klings.

At the auction sale on the 19th Oct., in the Consulat de France, the barque Jasmin was bought for the sum of $4,000, by Chowsua P'ow.

The heavy and incessant rains have ceased, the weather has become somewhat settled, and the N.E. monsoon begins to assert her sway. The river has overflown its banks, and the water from up country is now running to join the waters of the gulf at the mouth of the Menam Chow Phya. So strong is the current in the river, that the influence of the flood tide is scarcely felt; vessels at anchor continue to head up stream, and this, too, with a rising tide, whilst boats bound up stream have the whole force of the current to contend against. Owing to the quantity of water in the river at high tide the city has been completely inundated.

BORNEO.

LABUAN.

We gather the following from the Sarawak Gazette of the 3rd Nov.:—

The Rajah has been pleased to appoint Mr. George Gueritz to extra service in the Sarawak Residency, to date from 25th Sept., 1870, and Major F. A. Walter, late 97th Foot, Commandant, to date from 1st Oct. 1870.

The absence of the Rajah, and uncertainty as to his return to Sarawak, induced the Commander of the "Kapuas" to ask Mr. Crookshank, the Resident of Sarawak as to the advisability of the "Kapuas" awaiting his Highness's return. Mr. Crookshank, though reluctant to shorten the stay of such a guest as Captain Vander Egk proved himself to be, considered it would be indiscreet to keep the "Kapuas" here, and mentioned that the Rajah could proceed to Pontianak in the gunboat Heartsease; at the same time he much feared that the impending attack on the Katibas Dyaks would delay, if it did not prevent his Highness accepting the friendly invitation of the Resident of Pontianak, but that a suitable reply would be forwarded as soon as possible after he had communicated with the Rajah. The "Kapuas" then left, carrying the good wishes of our small community, as although their stay had been short they had proved themselves to be most pleasant and agreeable guests.

The revenue collector in charge of Sadong has reported that the Dyak tribes of Engkias or Muallang belonging to the Netherland's India, have again made a head-hunting excursion into the Sarawak Territory, at Milikin on the Sandong-river. The Sadong tribe are peaceable and inoffensive. We trust the Dutch officer in charge of those tribes will see the necessity of ordering them to make reparation.

The Resident of Bintulu writes, under date October 25th:—

Our relations with Brunei remain in the same unsatisfactory state, and the continued enquiries of the natives as to the prospect of a cessation of insult on the part of people under the rule of the Sultan of Brunei, living on the rivers between Barram and Bintulu, have caused me some uneasiness. The Bintulu people are, I believe, as a rule, loyal, but they naturally feel that such shame should not be given them, living, as they do, under the Sarawak flag; and many have openly said that, had they not trusted in the Government to redress their wrongs, long ere this they would have taken the case into their own hands.

A telegram has been received this morning, dated Batavia, the 6th Dec., stating that Wankang, a native chief, had attacked Bintulu, but was repulsed. Sixty Dyaks and four Europeans were killed, and two officers wounded.

With the view to spread cattle on the coast to be reared by natives, the Government have distributed about sixty head within the last six months; some given with the engagement that one-fifth of the produce belongs to Government, and the rest to be handed over to the most deserving natives, with the understanding that the cows are not to be killed or sold for food.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates by this mail are to Nov. 16; the London mail of Oct. 7 was received on Nov. 9, with telegrams to Oct. 31.

Captain Langlois, master of the steamer Fair Singapore, writes from Klang, that two men, part of the crew of a Dutch schooner, have been picked up by some Langat people. All that can be learned from them is, that the schooner was commanded by a Dutch officer, a baron (name unknown), who was Commandant of the N.E. coast of Sumatra. The schooner was on her way from Klang to Rhio, and either capsized or sunk, and these men were saved.

Captain Suckling, of the British barque Lota, reports that on the 13th Nov. he saw a full rigged ship ashore off Brackett Point, Bintang Island. The distance was too great to make out the vessel's colours, if any were flying. She seemed to be bumping very heavily among the breakers.

A number of cases of small-pox have occurred in the pilgrim lodging-houses in the Campong Glam district, but owing to the timely action of the police and the Government medical officers in providing for those already suffering, the sanitary precautions taken, and the system of compulsory vaccination established here, the ravages of this pestilence cannot in any event be so serious as might otherwise have been the case.

The quarrel between the Ghee Hok and Seh Tan Kongsees, reported some time ago as settled, has again broken out afresh, and but for the vigilance of the police might have resulted in a serious disturbance. This, however, was prevented, and eventually the preservation of the peace ordinance was put in force in this settlement by a proclamation of the Governor in Council. All the headmen of the two Kongsees were enrolled as special constables, and after doing police duty for some days, were on Saturday last bound over to keep the peace for six months. It is to be hoped, this will deter them from any further hostile demonstrations.

The opium farmers of this Settlement have effected an arrangement by which they will be able to materially increase their profits, and at the same time greatly reduce the opportunity for smuggling. This arrangement is, we learn, the amalgamation of the Singapore, Rhio, Malacca, and Johore farms into one, and they have, we hear, admitted Mr. Tan Seng Poh, former Singapore farmer and present holder of the Rhio farm, into their partnership. By this means they will be able to establish a uniform price for chandoo at the four farms, thus removing the opportunity of purchasing chandoo at one Settlement and selling it at a profit in another; and in securing the co-operation of the former farmer, who possesses great influence among the Chinese, they have gained a valuable assistant in crushing out the organised system of smuggling.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—The market continued very dull, and prices for all imports showed but little change, with the exception of Coals in which there had been a slight improvement. Business had been interfered with by the regatta and the races, which commenced on the 2nd Nov., and no resumption was expected for a week or a fortnight. Piece Goods: There is little to add to our report for last mail; 8¼ lbs. Grey Shirtings were still wanted for immediate delivery at the quotations then given, ordinary chops being still preferred. In White Shirtings business was reported at Tls. 1.80 to 2.16 per piece for 56 R. and 64 R., but the market was weak. T-Cloths: The improvement noticed in our last continued; common 7 lb. makes, from their scarcity, had commanded a further advance, and the few remaining in stock were firmly held for higher rates. The prices for Mexicans showed little change, but the low rates ruling had led to a large trade in them. Of 8 lb. goods the stock was light; they had been in moderate request, and prices tended upwards. Drills were unchanged. For Jeans there had been a fair inquiry, but owing to the firmness of holders only a small quantity had changed hands. In Fancy Cottons or Woollen Manufactures there was nothing interesting to report. Camlets had been sold at last mail's rates. The market for Long Ells was quiet; C.P.H. Scarlets nominally worth Tls. 5.35 per piece. In Figured Orleans and Spanish Stripes there was less doing. The quotations for Coals were—Cardiff, per ton, Tls. 9.5; English, Tls. 7.2 5; Anthracite, Tls. 9.5. Metals.—Iron: Only a trifling business had been transacted during the week, at about former rates. Nail Rods were quoted Tls. 1.90 to 2.0 for small sizes, and Tls. 1.86 for good assortments. Lead: Nothing doing; stock considerable, and rates without change.

HONG KONG.—Messrs. Oliphant and Co. report as follows:—Very little business has been transacted in Imports since the despatch of the English mail, and prices of most staple goods are now lower. In Yarns, Nos. 16 to 24 and 28 to 32 have declined $1 to 1.50 per bale and are now difficult to move; Nos. 38 to 42 are firmly held at maintained figures. 7lb Grey Shirtings are lower and are little wanted; 8.4lb are weak and difficult to place at a reduction of 5 cents per piece for well known chops; a sale "to arrive" of 10,000 pieces of this weight is reported at $2.65 per piece. 6lb T-Cloths have declined 2½ cents, and 7lb and 8lb goods attract but little attention at former figures. In Drills, only some small sales of Dutch have been effected, at low rates; Americans have not been enquired for, and no offers are reported. Woollens are very quiet, and offer no new feature for comment.

SAIGON.—At the beginning of the month a somewhat better feeling prevailed on the market, but a general improvement cannot take place as long as prices in neighbouring ports remain so extremely low. A few lots Grey Shirtings 8¼ lbs. had changed hands at $2.87½, and 7 lbs. could be placed at $2.45-50. Closing quotations were, Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., $2.87½; ditto, 7 lbs., $2.45; Grey T. Cloth, 4 lbs., $1.32; ditto, 4½ lbs., $1.42; ditto, 5 lbs., $1,55; White Irishes $1.95.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: There had been a very small business done during the week, and the settlements recorded were partly made before the departure of last mail. There was no change in prices. Teamen were firm, and buyers not anxious, so that there was a slight pause in the market. Settlements and shipments 7,800 chests; stock 24,000 chests. Green: A considerable business had been done at about previous rates for fine kinds, and at some small concessions for lower sorts. One chop "Yooke Ga" had been taken at Tls. 47. Stocks were large, and Teamen were stating that 3-4ths of the crop had come to hand. Settlements 24,000 half-chests, stocks 96,000 half-chests.

FOOCHOW.—Owing to the intelligence by the mail of September 9th being disappointing to shippers of new season's teas, the market had been dull, and the business for England during the week had been small. Purchases of Oolongs for the United States had been resumed. The settlements of Congou and Souchong had been 14,360 chests, and the arrivals 11,061 chests. The arrivals of Oolongs had been 5,622 half-chests. Congou: Buyers had shown little disposition to operate, and the teamen were firm in asking former rates. There was no change to quote in the price of Congou. The transactions had been chiefly in fair to good common at Taels 12 to 14½. The following were the current quotations to which Taels 2.8 must be added for duty. The (cost at which teas lay down in London calculated at an exchange of 4s. 5½d., freight £2) per ton:—Dust and siftings, Tls. 4⅜ to 7½; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 8 to 11½; fair to good common, Tls. 12⅜ to 14½; flavoury to fair flavoury, Tls. 15 to 17½; good flavoury, none on the market. Souchong: Small purchases continued to be made at previous quotations. The stock consisted principally of common quality. Oolongs: The only reported transaction was a purchase of 140 half-chests. 7,000, to 8,000 half-chests were said to have been settled privately, but the price had not been declared. Quotations were as formerly given, but were quite nominal. Scented Teas: Settlements 3,125 boxes at previous rates, viz.:—Common to fair, Tls. 16 to 17; Medium, Tls. 18 to 20; Flowery Pekoe, 191 chests had been bought at Tls. 24½ to 52.

AMOY.—The Oolong market had been comparatively quiet. The demand for fine Teas had continued steady however, and about 1,500 half-chests of this description had been settled at prices ranging from $33 to 40; of the common kinds about 1,000 half-chests had been taken at $18.25 per picul. The stock comprised 10,000 half-chests. Four chops of Congou had found buyers at $17.50 to 19 per picul.

SIAM PRODUCE.

The following is from Messrs. Markwald and Co.'s report, dated Bangkok, Nov. 4:—

RICE.—Our market maintained during the past month a firm aspect, notwithstanding the unfavourable accounts from China and Japan. Our natives evinced much reluctance to sell at lower rates, and kept the market from time to time insufficiently supplied with grain, which has tended to keep prices up. The weather, however, has been very favourable, and the prospects for the new crop are so propitious that there is every probability of an early decline of our prices. To-day's quotations are, for Steam Mill Namuang or Field Rice, $1.35 per picul; Steam Mill Nasuan or Garden Rice, $1.55; Native Cleaned Garden Rice, resifted, $1.55; Native Cleaned, White, No. 1, Tls. 63 per covan; ditto No. 2, Tls. 60; good cargo Rice, Tls. 46.

SUGAR.—The season is now approaching its end, and stocks are much reduced. Sugar of the new crop cannot be expected before January or February. To-day's prices are for White, superior, Tls.11½ per picul; do., No. 1, Tls.11; No. 2, Tls.10½; No. 3, Tls.10.

BLACK PEPPER.—The active demand for Hong Hong, where high prices ($10 per picul) have been paid for the article, has drained our stocks, and the market is now cleared.

SAPANWOOD.—Without alteration; 3 to 5 pieces per picul, Ticals 3 per picul; 5 to 6, Ticals 2½; 6 to 7, Ticals 1¾. Cut Sapanwood (roots dressed off), for shipment to Europe, Ticals 2 per picul—equal to £6 15s. 9d. per ton of 20 cwt. f.o.b.

TEAKWOOD.—Ticals 10¾ per yoke, equal to £6 12s. 3d. per ton of 50 cubic feet f.o.b.

COW HIDES.—Tls. 16 per picul, equal to 4.40d. per pound f.o.b.

BUFFALO HIDES.—Tls. 10 per picul, equal to 2.87d. per pound f.o.b.

BUFFALO HORNS—Tls. 13½ per picul, equal to 33s. 1d. per cwt. f.o.b.

DEER HORNS.—Tls. 11½ per picul, equal to 28s. 4d. per cwt. f.o.b.

GUM BENJAMIN.—No. 1, Tls. 120 per picul, equal to £14 17s. per cwt. f.o.b.; Inferior, Tls. 45 per picul, equal to £5. 19s. 19d. per cwt. f.o.b.

TEELSEED.—Is in moderate supply at the following prices:—No. 1, Tls. 7½ per coyan, equal to 35s. 3¼d. per quarter of 384 lbs. f.o.b.; No. 2, Tls. 68, equal to 34s.

STICKLAC.—In good demand; none in the market at present:—No. 1, Tls. 19 per picul, equal to 52s. 9d. per cwt. f.o.b.; No. 2, Tls. 16½, equal to 46s. 10d.

GAMBOGE.—Tls. 88 per picul.

IVORY.—Large teeth, Tls. 350 per picul; small teeth, 20 pieces, Tls. 256.

SAIGON PRODUCE.

RICE: The downward tendency had made further progress and $1.46 to $1.44 were successively accepted for about 30,000 piculs round grain. Vinlong was at the same time offered freely at $1 34-33 and still lower rates were expected for both qualities. Through scarcity of arrivals and reports of a slight improvement in the Hong Kong market, this retrograde movement was not only stopped, but $1.53 have since been paid for 28,560 piculs round and $1.38 for 7,500 piculs long grain. Nothing has been done for European account, Chinese asking again higher prices say 1.57 Gocong and $1.45 for Vinlong, which may be considered as closing quotations. Close to the new crop and with fair prospects in China and Japan, these prices will certainly give way as soon as new rice, of which a few hundred piculs are already shipped for Singapore, becomes more abundant. Exports for the month amounted to 180,085 piculs.

PADDY was worth 90 cents. to $1 per picul, according to quality.

FISH: The stock on the market was exhausted, and no further arrivals were expected during this season. About 700 piculs had been exported during the month.

COTTON: Several lots of uncleaned were in the market, the demand, however, was limited and prices declined to $6.50 per picul. Cleaned No. 1 quoted $21.50; No. 2, $18 per picul. The export for the month amounted to about 500 piculs.

PEPPER: The Marie Gabrielle had sailed with about 1,700 piculs, and with small quantities still coming forward, there was hardly any doubt, that the total export of this season will not reach 10,000 piculs.

BATAVIA.—Arrack, f.65 to 70 per leaguer, without transactions. Cloves, f.25 per picul, nominal. Coffee, f.27, for ordinary quality. Cubebs, f.15 per picul, no stock. Gutta Percha, f.190 to 150 per picul, in less request. Gum Dammar, f.25 to f.26 per picul. Hides—Cow, f.30 to 40; Buffalo, f.22 to 26 per lb., in little demand. India Rubber, f.96 to 100 per picul; sales to a small extent. Indigo, nominal. Mace, f.175 to 190 per picul—sales. Nutmegs, f.90 to 105, according to quality. Pepper—Black, f.21 to f.22 per picul—sales. Rice—Table, f.198, without transactions; first quality, f.145 to 160 per coyang—sales; second quality, f.125 to 135; cargo, f.100 to 110. Rattans—Borneo, at f.11 to 13 per picul; Padang, f.8 to 9.25. Sapan Wood: Manila, no stocks. Java, f.2.50 to 3. Sugar, f.13.50 to 14.20; according to quality. The Government auction on 29th Oct. averaged as follows:—26,000 piculs No. 20, f.13.66.; 38,500 No. 19, f.13.74; 23,500 No. 18, f.13.94; 9,000 No. 17, f.13.97; 3,500 No. 15, f.14.46; 16,500 No. 14, f.14.45; 6,500 No. 13, f.14.47; 1,500 No. 12, f.14.53. Total 125,000 piculs. Tin—Billiton: None in the market.

REPORTS AND CASUALTIES.

The Humberstone, Hong Kong, to Foochow, in ballast, has been totally lost off Formosa.

YOKOHAMA.

The P. M. S. S. Company's lighter No. 9 arrived from San Francisco, sixty-one days out. She is built of iron, schooner rigged, and 100 tons burthen.

The British barque Violette reports having left Hong Kong September 9th, experienced fresh N.E. monsoon till 16th; then light northerly winds and calms, from thence variable winds and calms, passed through the Bashee Channel, from thence strong N.E. monsoon till 23rd at 8 A.M., when wind veered to S.E., strong gale, with falling barometer, took in all sail and laid ship to under bare poles; noon blowing a furious gale, with fearful high confused sea. 24th wind moderated a little, set fore and mizen staysails; 4 P.M. wind hauled to E., wore ship, stood to N.E.; 6 P.M., wind increasing, took in sail; 7 P.M. blowing a furious gale with heavy squalls, accompanied with rain; midnight wind moderated, and hauled to S.E. with heavy sea, shipping great quantities of water. Barometer rising; 29th wind N., with heavy S.E. sea. Barometer falling rapidly, and other indications of an approaching typhoon. Wind suddenly flew into the S.E., and blew with unabated violence for five hours, veering westerly at about a point an hour. During the height of the typhoon barometer stood at 29.00, Anneroid 29.15; shipping great quantities of water; midnight moderated, still under bare poles; 30th, heavy S.E. gale, a tremendous sea broke over the starboard quarter, washing away skylight, filling cabin, storeroom, and officers' berths full of water, and doing other damage. Oct. 1st, still blowing from N.E.; 2nd, S.W. strong gale; 3rd, moderate S.W. wind; 4th, northerly winds and moderate, and from thence till arrival moderate northerly wind.

P. and O. steamer Sunda reports having left Hong Kong on the 3rd Oct. at 5 P.M. Experienced strong N.E. winds up the coast as far as Checakoff; from thence strong E.N.E. winds till noon of the 11th, when the barometer began to fall rapidly, showing indications of an approaching typhoon; wind E.N.E., with heavy sea, barometer 29.15. At 9.30 P.M. the typhoon was at its height, blowing furiously, everything invisible through rain and spray; a lifeboat and cutter were washed away and the decks swept of the benecops, &c., barometer 28.36. At 10 P.M. the barometer began to rise, wind S., the centre of the typhoon passing to the westward. At midnight the wind moderated, and from thence the Sunda had fine weather till her arrival. She saw no vessels, but passed large quantities of wreck.

The Mary Miller, from Newchwang, was towed in on the 20th Oct. by the French war steamer Dupleix, having lost her fore and main lower masts, heads, and all gear.

The British barque Lorton, from London 147 days. Left May 20th (had mostly fine weather all the passage to Anjer); crossed the Equator June 27th, passed Cape of Good Hope July 23rd, and had variable wind and fair weather, running down the Easting in lat. 38 to 39 degrees S. Had strong S.E. trades and arrived at Anjer Aug 31st. Had changeable weather with heavy squalls and much rain up the China sea as far as north end of Luzon Island, but encountered a severe typhoon off the south end of Formosa on Sept. 24th and 25th (bar. 29.32), but which did not do much damage to the ship. Encountered another typhoon between Formosa and Foochow (S.W.), which lasted about eighteen hours, but having plenty of sea room were enabled to keep clear of the vortex. Had easterly wind and fair weather till Oct. 11th, and when Omae Saki bore East, distant about twenty miles, it commenced to blow from E.N.E. with a high bar. (30.10), ther. 76, wind increasing as fast as sail could be reduced. Hove to under a lower maintopsail, and at daylight passed a barque supposed to be Mary Miller (spoken two days previous), heading north under a close-reefed maintopsail; gale and sea increasing rapidly, barometer very irregular, falling three to four tenths of an inch, then rising a tenth and falling again till nine P.M. on the twelfth, when it was down 28.03. It had then been blowing a terrific typhoon for about ten hours, every hour increasing in violence, with a fearful high and turbulent sea, and the atmosphere so thick with rain and foam that we were not able to see twenty yards from the ship. Wind during the whole time hauling from E.N.E. to S.E.S. and S.W. At eleven, gale abating perceptibly, we wore ship to northward to avoid a lee shore. At daylight, wind W.S.W., moderate gale, gradually decreasing, we kept away and made sail. At noon Fusiyama bore N.N.E. At six P.M. passed Rock; at seven P.M. on the 14th arrived in the bay.

COMMERCIAL POSTSCRIPT.

Messrs. J. C. Sillar and Co.'s Circular says:—The chief feature in the trade has been the large "Rummage" sale, which commenced on the 5th instant and terminated on the 8th, at which upwards of 3,000 packages passed the hammer. These Teas as a rule fetched high prices considering their age; some Bohea, however, of 1837 import, unfit for consumption, sold for four shillings per lot of six chests, or less than half a farthing a pound; Congou of 1838 import for £19 5s. per lot of 9 half-chests, of 1839 import £20 to £24 10s. per lot of 6 chests; Hyson, of 1856 import, £42 10s. per lot of 9 half-chests. Unless the authorities interfere, the above "Bohea" will, doubtless, be mixed with Muloo Mixture, and eventually be consumed by the sick in our hospitals and workhouses, or purchased by the poorer classes. The duty upon every eight pounds weight of this rubbish due to Her Majesty's Government is equal to the cost of six chests.

THE P. and O. steamer Delhi, has on board 1650 cases silk worms eggs, for Genoa, and 650 cases for Marseilles.

RECENT TELEGRAMS FROM CHINA.

(THE GLOBE.)

The news brought by the last mail from China, that Chung How, the late Governor of Tientsin, was about to start on a mission to Paris, to negotiate terms with the French Government with regard to the massacre at the former place, reads almost like a piece of mockery in view of the present condition of the capital of France. As is usually the case with all telegrams from China, those received lately have been very contradictory. On the one hand we have the messages sent to the Foreign-office by Mr. Wade, and on the other those despatched by members of mercantile firms and newspaper correspondents. The former have invariably represented the aspect of affairs as being, on the whole, satisfactory, and the latter have with equal persistency drawn an exactly opposite picture. This conflict of testimony is doubtless perplexing, but it is to some extent susceptible of explanation. China is at the present moment torn asunder by two opposing parties. One is in favour of the faithful fulfilment of the obligations entailed on the Government by the foreign treaties—not from any real love for the foreigner or of progress, but because they are far-sighted enough to see that it is the interest of the Government to act honourably towards us,—and the other advocates without ceasing the expulsion of all Europeans from the country. These two parties are, as far as power is concerned, very evenly balanced. This the result of the inquiry into the Tientsin Massacre proves, for while it was there found impossible to bring to justice the real instigators of the outrage, protected as they were by the war party, the advocates for peace had still influence enough to smooth down the passions which had been aroused, and to prevent the mischief from spreading further. It is with the leading members of this latter party that Mr. Wade holds official intercourse, and to the support accorded to them by the English Government, acting mainly on his advice, they are in a great measure indebted for the powerful position they now hold. Thus they are in a sort of way his proteges, although they have for some years thrown off the leading strings imposed upon them by the foreign Legations, and as such are in no fear of having their conduct viewed by him in a harshly unfavourable light. Further, Chinese statesmen are proverbially the best diplomatists in the world; and it is quite conceivable that, removed as Mr. Wade has been from the scenes of the recent outrages, and having had by the necessity of his position more prominently brought before him the Chinese gloss put upon those local outbreaks than the evidence procurable anent them, he has been more inclined to accept the protestations of innocence and promises of amendment made by the Government than to realise the legitimate importance of the movements. The merchants, missionaries, and consular body, on the other hand, being to a great extent ignorant of the efforts made by the Peking Government to maintain friendly relations with us, and being fully cognisant of the local hostile movements resulting from the machinations of the war party, are naturally disposed to attach greater weight to these unfriendly ebullitions than a more perfect knowledge of the situation would lead them to do.

The English public are thus left to judge, between the two opposite colourings given to every event which occurs in China, of the real position of affairs. And in this as in every case the middle course is the safest. To accept wholesale either the official or the mercantile versions would be to adopt on either hand the views of partisans. There is no doubt that our relations with China have recently passed through a very trying crisis. The balance of power between the two great parties of the empire is so evenly divided that, after the massacre at Tientsin, the least additional weight thrown into the scale of the anti-foreign following would have been sufficient to have caused the proclamation of a war of extermination against foreigners. Happily, the imminent peril has for the time being passed away, and Mr. Wade considers that there is now no fear of a recurrence of hostilities. But it should never be forgotten that China is a country of surprises. It was when Sir Frederick Bruce was on his way to the capital at the express invitation of the Emperor, to exchange the ratifications of the treaty, that our gunboats were treacherously attacked at the Taku Forts, and it was after a night spent in arranging the terms of a Convention of Peace with the Imperial Commissioners that Sir Harry Parkes and his escort were, in violation of all the known laws of war and honour, made prisoners. We have no wish to take a gloomy view of things, but the gradual spread of hostile feeling which, commencing with the Yangchow affair, has now made itself apparent in a greater or less degree at every treaty port, combined with the increasing activity displayed by the high officials of the empire in collecting war material and in organising their troops, force upon us the conviction that our peaceful relations with the Celestial Empire stand upon a very precarious footing.

THE UNITED STATES AND CHINA.

The full text of the President's Address at the assembling of Congress on the 5th inst. has been received. The Speech contained the following allusion to affairs in China:—"The massacres of French and Russian residents at Tientsin, under circumstances of great barbarity, were supposed by some to have been premeditated, and to indicate a purpose among the populace to exterminate foreigners in the Chinese Empire. The evidence fails to establish such a supposition, but shows a complicity between the local authorities and the mob. The Government at Peking, however, seems to have been disposed to fulfil its Treaty obligations so far as it was able to do so. Unfortunately, the news of the war between the German States and France reached China soon after the massacre. It would appear that the popular mind became possessed with the idea that this contest, extending to Chinese waters, would neutralise the Christian influence and power, and that the time was coming when the superstitious masses might expel all foreigners and restore mandarian influence. Anticipating trouble from this cause, I invited France and North Germany to make an authorised suspension of hostilities in the East (where they were temporarily suspended by act of the commanders), and to act together for the future protection in China of the lives and properties of Americans and Europeans."

A collection of diplomatic correspondence which has recently been published at Washington, shows that Mr. Fish announces to Minister Low, in China, that the United States will co-operate with the European Powers to repress Chinese piracy.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

The Ellenborough, Captain Robb, which left Hong Kong on the 22nd May, arrived at Spithead on the 13th inst. with the following officers and troops:—Capt. Carr, 1st batt. 10th regt., in command of military; Lieut. Gambier, late of H.M.S. Sylvia, in naval command; Dr. Kinahan, assistant-surgeon military staff, in charge of military invalids, and Mrs. Kinahan; Dr. Featherstonhaugh, assistant-surgeon R.N., in charge of naval invalids; Assistant-Surgeon Reman, Lieut. Clabburn, 75th regt.; two midshipmen, invalided from China squadron; three staff sergeants, and 159 privates. The Ellenborough reached Singapore on the 9th of July, passed Anjer on the 2nd of Aug., and arrived at Simon's Bay, Cape of Good Hope, on the 21st of Sept. She sailed from Simon's Bay again on the 3rd of Oct., arrived at Ascension on the 20th, and left again on the 21st. The troops were landed at Portsmouth, the invalids being forwarded to the Royal Victoria Military Hospital at Netley, and the time-expired men to the depot at Chichester. The few naval invalids were transferred to the flag and receiving ship in Portsmouth harbour—the Duke of Wellington, Captain Hancock.

The reinforcements for the 73rd Regiment, under the command of Captain W. Gordon, have embarked at Gravesend for Ceylon on board the screw steamer Ferdinand de Lesseps. The troops consist of the following:—73rd Regt.—2 officers, 165 men, 6 women, and 6 children; Staff—2 medical officers, 1 lady, 1 child, and 1 female servant; Ceylon Rifles—1 officer; Royal Artillery—1 staff sergeant, and 1 wife; Royal Engineers—1 staff sergeant, 1 wife, and 1 child.

Captain S. Dunlop, of the Royal Artillery, has been appointed Acting Deputy Commissioner of Police for the Island of Penang, subject to the approval of his Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief.

A DRAUGHT of the 1st battalion 10th Regiment is expected at Plymouth this day, per steam troopship Orontes, from Dublin, and will be quartered at Milbay Barracks preparatory to embarkation at Plymouth, in the hired troopship Silver Eagle, for Japan.

MR. E. T. BIRD, Chief Engineer, who was lately appointed to Her Majesty's ship Ocean, on the China Station, sailed from Liverpool last week on board the steamer Ajax, for passage to Hong Kong.

LIEUTENANT H. R. E. GREY, in command of the Algerine on the China station, has been advanced to the rank of commander.

THE steamer Great Republic, which sailed from San Francisco for Yokohama on Dec. 1, had on board 563 passengers, all but sixteen of whom are described as "Chinese going home to spend the winter."

THE will of Mr. Albert L. Freeman, formerly a partner in the firm of Messrs. Fogg and Co., of Shanghai, but afterwards domiciled in England, and late of Bath, has been proved in the principal registry under £60,000 in England.

LITERATURE.

The English Governess at the Siamese Court. By Anna Harriet Leonowens. London: Trübner and Co.—Mrs. Leonowens has given an account of her experiences while a resident at the palace superintending the education of some of the eighty-one children of the late Supreme King of Siam. The narrative extends over thirty chapters, illustrated by engravings and letters from the King, who was proud of his English. The authoress acknowledges the literary assistance which she has received from Dr. J. W. Palmer.

Mrs. Leonowens, in her description of the palace and the King, condescends to a tirade of abuse really quite unseemly for a governess in the pay of the King. The taste which suggested her replying to the King that she was 150 years old is, to say the least of it, very questionable. One would suppose that to inculcate truth would be one of the chief attributes of a governess. The revelations of the King's temper and habits are really unpardonable, and must prevent his successors from ever employing English tutors. Here is a specimen, at page 94, under the head "Ways of the Palace":—

"Most of the women who composed his harem were of gentle blood, the fairest of the daughters of Siamese nobles and of princes of the adjacent tributary states; the late Queen Consort was his own half-sister. Beside many choice Chinese and Indian girls purchased annually for the Royal harem by agents stationed at Peking, Foochow, and different points in Bengal, enormous sums were offered year after year, through 'solicitors' at Bangkok and Singapore, for an English woman of beauty and good parentage to crown the sensational collection; but when I took my leave of Bangkok, in 1868, the coveted specimen had not yet appeared in the market. The cunning commissionnaires contrived to keep their places and make a living by sending his majesty now and then a piquant photograph of some British nourmahal of the period freshly caught, and duly shipped in good order for the harem, but the goods never arrived. Had the King's tastes been Gallic his requisition might have been filled. I remember a score of genuine offers from French demoiselles, who enclosed their cartes in billets more surprising and enterprising than any other "proposals" it was my office to translate. But his whimsical majesty entertained a lively horror of French intrigue, whether of priests, consuls, or lionnes, and stood in vigilant fear of being beguiled, through one of these adventurous sirens, into fathering the innovation of a Franco-Siamese heir to the throne of the celestial P'hrabatts."

Again at pages 274 and 275 the King is accused of visiting the second King's harem and transferring some of the favourites to his own seraglio. Surely Mrs. Leonowens might have touched lightly on these subjects, and filled her book with other experiences and reminiscences of her six years' service at the Palace.

"Shadows and Whispers of the Harem" portray a most alarming condition of things, before which Dante's Inferno pales, and the King must have been a very demon. The Kalahome and present Regent comes in for a large share of abuse; and in chapter twenty-seven a broad hint is given that the food on board the King's yacht provided by him was poisoned. The praise bestowed on Mr. Knox, the British Consul, and Sir John Bowring is strangely at variance with the style of the revelations. Altogether the production is prurient and sensational, quite unfit for a drawing room table, as might reasonably be supposed by its title, and not creditable to an "English Governess."

The Natural History of Commerce. By John Yeats, LL.D. London: Cassell, Petter, and Galpin.—This is a very valuable work, especially to young persons who have lately left school and are entering on commercial life. It comprises the geography and natural history of raw materials, and affords in English the same information concerning the earth and its productions as is given in the Handels-Schulen of Leipsic, Berlin, Antwerp, and Amsterdam. The plan of the work was submitted by the author to the late Lord Brougham so long ago as 1862, and had the advantage of some suggestions from the veteran philosopher. Dr. Yeats may be congratulated on having compiled a handbook of national value, and one which may be consulted with advantage by students and merchants, as well as by the class to which it is more immediately addressed.

The War of 1870; Events and Incidents of the Battle Fields. By Count de La Chapelle, French Correspondent of the Standard Newspaper at the Seat of War. London: Chapman and Hall.—A very stirring narrative of the principal events of the campaign from the arrival of the Emperor at the headquarters of the ill-fated "Armée du Rhin" at Metz to the battle of Orleans on the 11th of October. The author's account of the memorable capitulation at Sedan, and his diary of the siege of Strasburg, will be found especially vivid and interesting.

A Short History of Lorraine and Alsace. By Adelaide Thrupp. London: Stanford.—This opportune little manual contains a vast deal of information concerning the provinces which have so often been the Louis-le-Débonnaire divided his dominions by the treaty of Verdun. The battle field of Western Europe, from the time when the three sons of list of authorities, given in the first page, testifies to the industry and conscientiousness which Miss Thrupp has brought to bear upon her subject, and will probably induce many of her readers to study for themselves the history of places which are probably now entering on another phase of their changeful existence.

The Royal Edition of Operas. London: Boosey and Co.—Two parts of this handsome and valuable series—containing respectively the full operas of Fidelio and Don Giovanni—are before us, and afford excellent reason to recommend it as a most compact and welcome work for reference for musicians abroad or at home. The beauty of the typography and the lowness of the price testify the enterprise of the publishers, and the name of the editor—the popular and promising young composer, Mr. Arthur Sullivan—is a sufficient guarantee for the conscientious revision of the score. The libretti are given in both Italian and English words, and, in fine, the appearance of the chefs d'œuvres of Beethoven and Mozart in their present form may be regarded as one of the most hopeful evidence of the growing taste of the day for good music. These volumes can be transmitted by book post to the Far East, and are certainly a great boon to all residents there.

Detained in France; a Tale of the First French Empire. By Agnes Giberne. London: Seeley, Jackson, and Halliday.—A tale of the time of Napoleon, which professes to give a faithful account of the kind of life led by his prisoners in the great war sixty years ago, can hardly fail to be read at a time when the Second Empire is passing from the roll of existing dynasties, and the French, who in 1809 were the gaolers of the English at Verdun, are now the captives of the Germans. The subject has been already so finely treated in Douglas Jerrold's Prisoner of War that it must have demanded some courage on the part of the writer of the present volume to enter on the same field of description; but Miss Giberne's style is very different from that of the great satirist, and her story will have charms of its own for the readers of the present day.

Beeton's Englishwoman's Almanac.—London: Ward, Lock, and Tyler. A marvellous union of information and entertainment in a very inviting form, and at a very low price. Besides the usual contents of an almanac there are some half-dozen very pleasing coloured plates, and as many more needlework patterns printed in colours. The tables for housekeeping expenses are compact and useful; and the severely practical character of this part of the book is pleasantly relieved by a couple of tales, the first of which, Ladylike Girls and Frugal Housewives, is especially characteristic and healthy in its tone.

Foreign Intelligence.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, Dec. 13.

By far the most important and interesting intelligence by this mail for your German readers in the Far East is the revival of the ancient Empire of Germany in the person of the King of Prussia, with succession in the dynasty of the Hohenzollerns. In my last letter I communicated the news that by the adherence of the Southern States all Germany had now become united in one great Confederation, embracing all the sovereign Princes and the Free Hanseatic cities. Bavaria was the last to give in her adhesion, as there were some difficulties in the way which had first to be overcome. It cannot be denied that, owing to her antecedents, position, and population (more than six millions), Bavaria was entitled to claim greater concessions for joining the Confederation than the lesser ones had a right to expect, and accordingly there are some reservations made in her favour. Thus, whilst all the contingents of the German States are placed unconditionally in times of peace and warfare under the command of Prussia and form one national army with the same uniform, armament, regulations, formation, and exercise, Bavaria is allowed to have a separate military existence, to a certain extent, and retain her uniform and regulations under the King, as commander-in-chief, who, however, in time of war is bound to place his army under the orders of Prussia. On the other hand, Bavaria agrees to give up her separate diplomatic representation abroad, as a set-off for which there is to be a diplomatic committee in the Federal Council, consisting of the representatives of Bavaria, Saxony, and Wurtemburg, who must be consulted on all questions of foreign policy, and Bavaria retains her own administration of the post and telegraphs, though the public will not suffer by this arrangement, as the treaties with South Germany remain in full force. If everything required has not been obtained, no blame can attach to Count Bismark, who has been indefatigable in his endeavours during the arduous period of the negotiations, but who most wisely determined to throw no further obstacles in the way and risk an abrupt termination, but rather to take as much as he could and leave the rest for future consideration, when time shall have consolidated the whole, and shown by experience what other alterations may be expedient and desirable.

The credit of taking the initiative is entirely due to the youthful King of Bavaria, who, partly perhaps in acknowledgment of the concessions made to him in the treaties, wrote autograph letters to the sovereigns of Saxony and Wurtemburg, proposing to them, with the joint consent of the other sovereign Princes and the Free cities, to revive the dignity of German Emperor, and confer the title on the King of Prussia as Perpetual President of the German Confederation. Those two potentates having joyfully expressed their ready assent, the King of Bavaria addressed himself to the Grand-Dukes and other Princes, as well as the Senates of Hamburg, Lubeck, and Bremen, and the proposal has everywhere met the most enthusiastic reception. As the King of Prussia has been sounded on the subject, and intimated his willingness to accept and bear the title, it is understood that the King of Bavaria is about to pay a visit to the Royal head-quarters at Versailles, to make the Prussian Sovereign the formal and voluntary offer of the Imperial crown of Germany, in the name of himself and the other sovereigns of this country. The Reichstag has been convened at Berlin to confirm the treaties with the South German States and vote further supplies for carrying on the war with vigour, which, of course, were unanimously agreed to. When Herr Delbruck, the Minister of State, proposed to the Assembly to substitute the words Deutscher Kaiser for King of Prussia, where such alterations become needful in the German Constitution, the proposition was enthusiastically received and passed unanimously without a division, but with long and vociferous cheering—a proof of the confidence reposed in the new Emperor by the nation, and the popularity he enjoys among all political parties.

The supplies required for carrying on the war amount to a further sum of a hundred millions of Prussian dollars, and were immediately granted, the Minister of Finance being authorised to raise that sum by further war loans, on the best terms he could make. Since the first loan of 120 million thalers was made in July public confidence has been greatly increased by the successes of the German arms in France, which has enabled the Minister to make more favourable conditions than in the summer; for an association of capitalists was formed in Berlin, who offered to subscribe the full sum; but this has been declined, and a part of it is to be raised in London. The former loan (a six per cent. one) was issued at 88¼ per cent., and is now quoted at 95, whilst the new one is only a five per cent. loan, and is offered at 95, which shows how strong the feeling is that Germany will be able to obtain full compensation from France for the expenses of the war.

Among the students who have just been entered on the rolls of the University of Berlin are three young natives of Japan. Two of them are studying medicine, whilst the third, who is said to be a son of the Court Physician of the Tycoon, devotes himself to the legal profession. All three have been residing for some time at Berlin, and have acquired a good knowledge of the German language.

We have had a week's sharp frost, and the Elbe is full of floating ice; but the navigation by steamers and sailing ships, towed by steam-tugs, is not yet interrupted. Of the French fleet in the German Ocean nothing has been seen or heard since my last letter, and yet the light-houses remain dark all night, and the floating lights and buoys have not been replaced on their stations, which makes it very dangerous for vessels, a good many of which have in consequence been lost lately at the mouths of the Elbe and Weser.

COMMERCIAL.

Cassia Lignea and Pepper continue in favour, but there is no alteration in the quotations. Cleaned Rice moves off quietly, partly for local consumption, and partly for the interior of Germany; a cargo of rough Moulmain (12,500 bags), to hand per Dorette, has been sold to the millers. In Tea but little has been done, the sales amounting only to about 650 chests of Congo, Souchong, and Peko. No alteration to notice in prices. Among the sales of last week were 15,000 mats of clayed Manila Sugar, for delivery on arrival, at 16 marks bance per 100 lbs. Spelter, totally neglected. Discount, 4½ to 5 per cent.

CARGO LISTS.

Dorette, from Rangoon, 12,500 bags rice.

Eastern Belle, from Batavia, 8,445 buffalo hides, 200 leggers arrac, 100 chests gum damar, 665 bags rice, 135 piculs sapanwood, 316 bundles malacca canes, 9,807 bundles rattans, 661 kranjangs and 36,860 bags sugar.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 14.

Both the weather and the political horizon become more cloudy every day, and a survey of Europe at this hour is anything but encouraging. Two great nations are engaged in a war à outrance; a third Power has seized the occasion to repudiate its engagements; and the New World makes the state of affairs more complicated—indeed, every day brings a new question. The last surprise of this year of surprises is that the little Grand Duchy of Luxemburg has come to grief. The facts are known; the telegraph has already transmitted to you the news how Bismark the almighty has denounced the Treaty of 1867—which means nothing more or less than the first step towards the annexation of the diminutive State. I shall not enumerate the several pretences upon which the Prussian Chancellor's assertions are based; they can be summarised in three words—"breach of neutrality." How far that assertion is well founded I will not decide. Of course the Luxemburgers protest its incorrectness—although it must be asserted, "with the hand upon the heart," that their sympathies are with France. But all this matters very little indeed. Whether or not the inhabitants have given material proof of their partiality to the French, one thing is pretty sure—that Bismark has found a stick to beat them with, and will not let the opportunity pass. Russia has thought fit to denounce the Treaty of 1856; Prussia, on pretexts equally worthless, throws up its obligations with regard to Luxemburg. It is both curious and significant to remark the resemblance between the position taken up by Prussia and Russia. It is as if both Governments rule the world, and that they do and take what they like. It is no wonder that we ask, whose turn will be next for annexation? It is, I repeat, of little interest to know whether Count Bismark—who in a few days will bear the title of duke—has or has not any grounds of complaint against the Luxemburg Government. Had it been his wish to let the duchy alone and to maintain its independence, he would surely have winked at any such offences as he alludes to. If he had the right to complain his duty was to make formal declarations to the guaranteeing Powers, and then, in the event of their being unable to give adequate redress, to demand the abolition of a restriction which had operated unequally. What are the sympathies or antipathies—what is the love or hatred of the petty country to such a nation as United Germany? It is simply ridiculous to suppose that any demonstrations of the good Luxemburgers, that even any material aid afforded by them to a score of French fugitives—and this has occurred also in this country—should have kindled the wrath of such a statesman as Count Bismark. Here we have the fable of the wolf and the lamb over and over again. The wolf will find fault with the lamb; he will find him trespassing in his grounds—because he wants to devour him. This reflection is most painful to us Dutch. Bismark does not shrink from violence to the lamb—why should he be more scrupulous with regard to the big, fat, woolly sheep, to which the lamb clings in its need, and whose guardian is the lamb's guardian too? These are bad days, and no friendly assurances can make us easy.

To add to the distressing position of affairs, the political state of our country is such that it seems an impossibility to find seven men to take the reins of Government. That under ordinary circumstances our leading men should be scrupulous I can quite understand, but in such times as we now live in there ought not to be personal influences. The resignation of Mr. Roest van Limberg, as Minister for Foreign Affairs, has been accepted, and General van Mulken, who has declined to be any longer Minister of War, take charge of the Foreign-office ad interim. Perhaps we shall now hear something definite, the King having at last resolved to quit het Loo, in order to return where his duties required him some weeks ago. The Second Chamber met yesterday. The information given by Mr. Brocx about the crisis did not add to what we already knew. Mr. Brocx stated that he and Mr. Fock had not succeeded in finding the necessary colleagues, that they had given up their task, and . . . . nothing more. So we are as wise as before. Mr. Jonckbloet urged the necessity that an end should be put to the crisis—of course he only repeated the general wish. Mr. Gericke has returned to London.

A general meeting of the creditors of the Oost Indische Maatschappy van Lyfrenten has taken place at Amsterdam. It was stated that Mr. J. G. C. A. de Vogel will start in a few days for Java, to fill the place of Mr. V. G. van Dolder. With the greatest pleasure I hear that the scheme to reconstruct the important iron works of Paul van Vlissengen and Dudok van Heel has some chance of success. The creditors will lose about sixty per cent., for which they will receive shares in the new company. The Bourse is flat, for, although capital is abundant, it is waiting for future events.

The First Chamber of the States General will meet on the 20th inst.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 16.

In to-day's sitting of the Second Chamber the Minister of Justice, replying to an interpellation of M. Casembroot, referring to the French prisoners said to have escaped, declared that the reports which had been published were partially true, but very exaggerated. A careful inquiry had been instituted. There had never been a question of the prisoners being delivered to Prussia, still less of their being shot. In reply to an interpellation of M. Sypesteyn, the Minister of Marine confirmed the news that negotiations for the cession of Guinea were pending, and he stated that the treaty in reference thereto would previously be submitted for the approval of the House.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

A want of activity has been the prevailing characteristic of our Produce Market since my last letter, but hardly any alteration has occurred in the position of our leading articles, which upon the whole exhibit a firm appearance.

COFFEE looks very firm at the late advance, notwithstanding the difficult transit to Germany on account of the impeded river conveyance. About 1,700 bags of Java and Java Triage were sold by public auction at various prices, according to quality. About 1,295 bags Java and Java Triage, ex Philips van Marnix, will be put up for sale here to-morrow.

SUGAR keeps very firm, but the tenacity of holders checks transactions. About 1,000 baskets Java No. 18/20 afloat changed hands in the proportion of f.1⅛ under November value.

TEA.—Sales have been closed by private treaty at Amsterdam of 62/4 ch. Java Pekoe, mark Bolang Thungbie, at 250c.; and the following parcels were sold by tender on the 12th inst., viz.:— 10/4 ch. Java Dust, 540/4 ch. Java Souchong, 80/12 ch. Java Hyson, and 10/12 ch. Young Hyson Residency Bagelen, and 42/4 ch. Java Souchong Residency Waspada.

TOBACCO.—Offers by secret tender are invited for 636 bales Java, headmark T. and B. Sawangan; 470 bales do., Demangan; 751 bales do., Banteng; 264 bales, Sienggo. The sales closed from first hands are mainly confined to 214 bales Java, headmarks, Wachman, Blitar, and Kedirie.

SPICES.—Sales by secret tender were closed here last Saturday of 6 casks and 4 cases Nutmegs, and of 20 casks and 13 cases Mace of private importation. The market keeps firm.

RICE.—Nothing worth reporting. The demand remains inactive.

RATTANS.—The following parcels changed hands at secret prices, viz., 150 pic. ex Maria Louise Antoinette, 65 pic. ex Fop Smit, and 150 pic. ex Æolus.

BANCA TIN.—The late advance for this article could not be maintained. Sales have been making of Banca for public sales prompt at f.75½ to f.75¼, and for delivery ex the coming Spring sale at f.74¼. Billiton has not been dealt in, from being held too high, both for spot and afloat.

HEMP.—In public auction were sold 10 bales Manila at f.48 to f.48¼.

INDIGO.—Several small lots of Java changed hands at former rates. Steady demand prevails to meet actual wants. The late arrivals, ex Philips van Marnix and County of Berwick have been landed, and will soon be placed on the market.

DRUGS.—Without private transactions to report; but to-day were sold by private tender 1,350 kilograms Sumatra Gutta percha, ex Hendrik Ido Ambacht, 3,400 kilograms ditto, ex Zeenimph.

COTTON.—A languid tone has pervaded the market, consequent upon large receipts at the shipping ports in America, so that hardly any business has been doing since my last, whilst lower prices have had to be accepted to meet buyers.

ARRACK.—Sales have been closed here by secret tender of 25/1 and 1/2 casks Batavia, ex Louise, but the price has not been allowed to transpire.

SHIPPING.

DEPARTURES.—Dec. 8, from Texel, for Batavia, Electra; 9, from Brouwershaven, for Batavia, Hendrik Ido Ambacht; 10, at Flushing, from Callao, Carolina; 11, from Brouwershaven, for Capetown, Willy.

THE JAPAN LOAN AND RAILWAYS.

A NOTICE has been issued by the Oriental Bank—which will be found in our advertising columns—announcing that Mr. LAY had ceased to represent the Japanese Government, and that the Oriental Bank had been appointed agents to carry out all matters connected with the Loan and the contracts for railway material, &c. This seems very conclusively to confirm the opinions we have repeatedly expressed as to the dissatisfaction of the Japanese Government at the manner in which the negotiations for the Loan were carried out. It is to be regretted that such should have occurred on their first introduction into the London money market, and we must not lose sight of the fact that whatever may have been their grounds for dismissing Mr. LAY from the post of Special Commissioner, the public will not feel that confidence in future which is necessary to carry out financial operations. It is, therefore, very desirable that the public should know on what grounds Mr. LAY's powers were so summarily withdrawn. We believe that the details of the arrangement with the Oriental Bank were carried out by the Japanese Commissioner, assisted by Baron VON SIEBOLD, now in Europe, and that Mr. W. W. CARGILL, the Inspector of the Oriental Bank, has left for Yokohama, for the purpose of conferring with the Japanese Government as to the further development of the railways proposed. The present quotation of the Loan is 98.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

CERTAIN rumours having obtained comparative currency to the effect that the Suez Canal was likely to be transferred to an English company, under limited liability, with the Duke of SUTHERLAND for its chairman, the noble duke has published a formal denial of the statement, for which he says there is absolutely no foundation. It is probable that the report gained credit from the well-known intimacy of the Duke of SUTHERLAND with the Prince of WALES, whose visit to the Suez Canal on the occasion of its being opened bore testimony to the interest he took in the great international work of M. DE LESSEPS. Whatever value may still attach to the rumour that the great Canal is likely to be brought upon the London Stock Exchange, it cannot be doubted that the present condition of the undertaking is embarrassed by many considerations besides the engineering difficulties which M. DE LESSEPS may fairly be considered to have practically surmounted. In the present state of her Government it seems more than unlikely that France can alone sustain the achievement of the great French engineer; and the re-opening of the Eastern Question by Russia at the moment of France's prostration suggests the grave inquiry—what would be the best proprietorship to which the Canal could be committed, if it is no longer possible to retain it exclusively in French hands? As the central mart of the monied world, London immediately suggests itself, as the capital where all nationalities would be most likely to unite, in subscribing for the preservation of a work almost equally essential to the prosperity and peace of all. It is of great importance to English commerce that we should have a voice in the Suez Canal destinies. The receipts to the present time afford a very fair basis for the calculations of investors. They are, in August, on forty-two vessels, about £20,000; in September, on thirty-two vessels, about £17,600; in October, on thirty-nine vessels, about £21,600; in November, on about forty vessels (not yet made up).

NATIVE CHIEFS IN THE STRAITS.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing from Singapore, under date November 7, adds new reasons to the arguments already advanced in our columns, as to the advantage to be derived by a conciliatory policy towards native chiefs—a policy, the reverse of which, as he conceives, is now being pursued by the local Government. So far as experience enables him to judge, the persuasive course adopted by Sir STAMFORD RAFFLES and Sir JAMES BROOKE was far more successful in its results, as well as more pacific in its operation, than the system of the present Governor. Without going so far as our correspondent, when he says that "the overbearing "system which has been in vogue for the last three years "has made us the laughing stock of the Malays, who know "that we have not the means of putting our threats into "execution," we must admit that he makes out a good prima facie case against the Government in more than one recent case which he instances. A claim for the full value of a vessel called the Wild Curlew, which was lately wrecked, and, after being abandoned by the captain and crew, was sacked by pirates, has resulted in the refusal of the Sultan of TRINGANU to pay the indemnity demanded, and may perhaps lead to an appeal to the Government of Siam, of which the Sultan is a vassal. Considering that the ship was lost "by the act of GOD," that she was abandoned by the captain and crew, and that the wreck and cargo were sold by auction in Singapore, and realised only about $2,000, the matter does not seem sufficiently grave to be permitted to lead to such important results as a possible complication with the Government of Siam. Our correspondent has already alluded to Pahang, and expressed his opinion that the Governor was disposed to reward the Maharajah at the expense of the Burdarajah. He now reports that Sir HARRY ORD intended to visit this place very shortly, and that he had expressed his determination to "make" the Burdarajah "sign the treaty this time" in a very off-handed way. We trust that he may succeed in inducing the Burdarajah not only to sign the treaty, but to see the advantage of doing so; and we think that the disputed claim on the Sultan of TRINGANU might easily have been adjusted without reference to the Government of Siam, the more especially as the Sultan evinced no desire to "beg the question" or evade the responsibility that attached to him in the matter. All that the Sultan did in resisting the excessive demand made upon him was to argue—as it appears very reasonably—that, if the captain of the Wild Curlew had gone to Tringanu soon after the loss of his vessel, he (the Sultan) would have been placed in a position to defend the wreck from plunder. In this case it is clearly wrong to make him answerable for the consequences of a wrong which he was not informed of, and consequently had no power to prevent. This is not the way to inspire confidence with the natives, either in the justice of our demands or in our power of enforcing them. Every appeal to a higher or a different Government from the issue of a dispute with us is, prima facie, a confession of inability on our part to conciliate the natives more immediately concerned; and, whichever way they are decided, such appeals are not likely to add to the reputation of the British Government, while they may not impossibly involve it in war.

POSTAGE TO THE FAR EAST, AND MEMORIAL TO THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

THE Postmaster-General having expressed his intention not to remove the increased rate of postage on newspapers to the Far East, referred to in our last, the following memorial has been drawn up, and lies at our office, where it has already received the signatures of many influential bankers, merchants, and others:—

To the Right Honourable the Marquis of Hartington, Her Majesty's Postmaster-General, &c., &c.

The Memorial of the undersigned Bankers, Merchants, Brokers, Newspaper proprietors, and others engaged in the trade of India, China, Japan, and Australia,

Digitized by Google

Respectfully showeth,—

1. That your memorialists have learned with great surprise that the reduction decided on in the postage of letters to India, China, and Australia, via Brindisi, has not been accompanied by a reduction in the charge of 4d. on newspapers for every ½lb.

2. That your memorialists beg to inform your Lordship that by far the greatest part of the commercial correspondence of manufacturers and brokers, is carried on by periodical publications or prices current, and that a charge of 4d. on such is a grievous tax on their business.

3. That the increased cost of transmission of the mails to Brindisi by Germany and the Brenner pass, should be more than covered by a reduction in the cost of the sea transit from Brindisi to Alexandria, a passage of three days only, while the passage from Marseilles occupied six days.

4. That it is an anomaly that a newspaper like The Times should be carried throughout the United Kingdom for one halfpenny, while the same paper costs, according to the present tariff, eightpence, for transmission to India, China, or Australia, which is virtually a prohibition. Your memorialists would call your Lordship's attention to the fact that the postage on letters to San Francisco—a distance of over 6,000 miles—is only 3d., and newspapers 1d.

Your memorialists therefore pray that your Lordship will be induced to reduce the present excessive tax of 4d. on each newspaper.

The service from Brindisi to Alexandria commenced by the P and O. Company's steamers with the last mail, and the passage will no doubt be performed by them under three days, while the present transit from London through Ostend, Germany, and the Brenner Pass occupies also three days, a gain of nearly two days on the Marseilles route; but with the opening of the tunnel through Mont Cenis next year this will be increased to three days. To maintain the present rate, which was increased only, as it was alleged, on account of the war, while the service is carried through an entirely undisturbed country, and at greatly reduced expense, is a monstrous perversion of Post-office arbitrariness It is to be hoped that the hands of the memorialists may be strengthened by the signatures of all who have friends in the Far East, so that a vigorous attempt may be made to bring the matter before the House of Commons immediately on the re-assembling of Parliament.

We are glad to announce that the steamer Evora, for Colombo via Suez Canal, takes out about 700 tons of plant and material for the Colombo Gas Company, and that the remaining portion necessary for the erection of the works will be shipped in the course of next month. Several mechanics are also leaving by the Evora to assist in building the works. Mr. Simpson, the company's engineer, who is already on the spot, will, it is expected, have the works completed about next June.

In another column a correspondent's letter will be found which fully bears out our views in regard to the importance of keeping up our treaty rights in Formosa. We understand that the question is not yet decided by the Board of Trade.

CEYLON.—THE CASE OF MR. PILKINGTON.

Our readers interested in Ceylon will readily understand that Mr. Brabazon Pilkington's appearance before the sitting magistrate at Marlborough-street attracted general attention. To us, of course, there was nothing new in the charges which the late police magistrate of Kornegalle preferred against the Governor, and some other leading personages, of Ceylon. We had read the reports in the so-called lunacy case at Colombo, and we were so convinced that they would not be allowed to terminate with the decision of the Judge of the District Court that we postponed any allusion to the questions involved in the local inquiry into the state of Mr. Pilkington's mind until the proceedings passed into another stage. This has now occurred, and, as the case is presented to the English public, it is very startling, to say the least of it. An escaped lunatic makes his appearance in a London police-court six weeks after he has been ordered into custody in Ceylon, and then and there applies to his brother magistrate for warrants against Sir Hercules Robinson and other gentlemen, whom he charges with having falsely imprisoned him, and with being guilty of conspiring to drive him mad. The applicant is described as appearing in ill health, but to be perfectly collected in manner, and unassisted by professional advice. We use the phrase "escaped lunatic" in connection with him only because we find that he was declared to be insane on the 25th of October last by Mr. Berwick, the Judge of the District Court of Colombo, who then ordered him into the care and guardianship of Captain A. C. Forster, of the Ceylon Rifles. There is nothing in the report of the proceedings at Marlborough-street to lead to the belief that he is insane now; and, from the report of his trial in Colombo six weeks ago, we find very great difficulty in coming to the conclusion that he ever was really insane—that is, that he was ever so dangerous or irresponsible a person as to justify the proceedings taken against him, and the restraint which he appears to have thrown off almost at the moment when it was imposed. The most extraordinary part of the judge's finding is, however, its conclusion, which seems to us to be so unaccountable that we prefer to give it in his own words. After finding Mr. Pilkington to have been "suffering from total or nearly total loss of reason," and to be "partially insane," the judge proceeded thus:—"I wish Mr. Pilkington to understand that, unless he, at an early date, procures a friend to give the necessary guarantee, and will willingly assent to such arrangements as may be proposed and approved of by the Court, the Court will have to take such alternative steps as the nature of the case may seem to it to require." This is vagueness itself, but, if it can be reduced into sense at all, it means that, unless Mr. Pilkington consented to be considered insane, he must make up his mind to be treated as if he were insane. It would seem that he availed himself of the "alternative" proposed by the Judge, to consent to be placed under the charge of Captain Forster; that this proceeding was, more or less, a mere matter of form; and that, immediately after complying with it, either with or without the acquiescence of the "curator and guardian" appointed in consequence of his insanity, the alleged lunatic very sensibly made his way to England by the mail steamer, and in perfectly clear and consistent language explained his situation to his brother magistrate. Mr. Lushington was unable to interfere on Mr. Pilkington's behalf, but the latter gentleman may rest assured that the public attention which has been drawn to his case through the London press will not be satisfied without a thorough explanation of what appears prima facie to be a very questionable chain of circumstances.

THE PROPOSED SURRENDER OF FORMOSA.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

Sir,—The rumour that the British Government contemplates the withdrawal of the consular establishments from the island of Formosa, and, as a consequence, the right to trade with it, induced me to obtain the published despatches of the late Lord Clarendon and Sir Rutherford Alcock on the subject, with the view of gaining from them some information regarding a step so inimical to my countrymen in that part of the world, and to the vested interests, not only in Formosa but also in the Treaty port of Amoy, the injury to which place, as a result of cutting off our trade with Formosa, seems to have been entirely overlooked by our Minister.

The despatch of Lord Clarendon to Sir R. Alcock, under date May 1869, is upon the subject of economising the consular establishments of China. After alluding to the abandonment of particular ports as a mode of saving, he enjoins Sir Rutherford to consider whether well-founded complaints might not arise of injury to vested interests by such a course, and suggests a doubt of the prudence of it.

Sir Rutherford, in his reply, under date October, 1869, writes:—"We cannot wisely confine our views to the present, and ought not, by a short-sighted economy, or any mistaken policy, to risk all that is prospective. . . . The breaking up of a Consulate, and with it putting a stop to British trade at any particular port, is a measure which should only be resorted to after mature consideration. . . . And the probability of the traffic increasing at some later period—a prospect which in many cases will be contingent on a Consular establishment being retained on the spot—must not be lost sight of." After the enunciation of such sound principles, those who have watched the growing trade with Formosa will find it difficult to reconcile Sir Rutherford's theory with his practice, when he declares his conclusion that "the whole of the interests connected with the island of Formosa, either present or prospective, are not such as to make it worth while to persevere in keeping up Consular establishments, which cost annually some £4,000.

The information upon which his Excellency based this conclusion must have been very defective, especially as to the prospective state of the trade, for at the date of his despatch, the increasing development of commerce with Formosa, consequent greatly on the efforts of the British merchants of Amoy, was easy to be seen. Sir Rutherford goes on to state that. "a paltry trade in camphor and sugar, and a very small import of Foreign goods, are all the inducement Formosa offers for retaining an establishment in one of the unhealthiest places in China. The natural products of the island, consisting chiefly of camphor, sugar and rice, can only furnish scant supplies for a coasting trade."

Now the export of sugar alone from Formosa (Tai-wan-Foo and Takao), the supply of which must have been in preparation when he was forwarding his despatch, amounted during the last season to over 526,000 piculs, or say 31,300 tons. Tea, camphor, oil seeds, sulphur, coal, petroleum, indigo, timber, tobacco, rattans, jute, hemp, grasses for textile fabrics, are amongst the products of the island, which in fact is one of the richest in the world, and well warrants the hope expressed by Mr. Swinhoe in "Notes on Formosa," that the day is not far distant when its valuable mineral and vegetable wealth will be developed by European enterprise.

As to its being "one of the unhealthiest places in China," his Excellency's informant has been guilty of great exaggeration, for, to quote from a well-known writer on China, there are at Takao no records of the prevalence of any special disease likely to affect the European settler, and at Tai-wan-Foo "the climate is very fine." Subsequent experiences do not contradict him. And whilst on this subject I may mention that in another portion of Sir Rutherford's despatch he stigmatises Amoy as the "most unhealthy place in China, except perhaps Formosa." This remark alone will, to those acquainted with the East coast of China, show how little value is to be attached to his Excellency's information. Amoy has ever since its settlement as a treaty port, held a high reputation for salubrity, and, so far from being the most unhealthy place in China, is absolutely one of, if not the, most healthy, and highly deserves the remark made by Dennys, in his work on "Treaty Ports," which will be corroborated by residents and visitors, that "compared with other ports in China, Amoy may be said to be exceptionally healthy."

A rumour exists of Germany's intention to occupy Formosa. Our continental friends will find something more than "scant supplies for a coasting trade." Such occupation would be a severe blow to British interests in China, but how could we object, if we pave the way to it by abandoning the field as too insignificant to warrant the protection and encouragement of the Government of a commercial country to its subjects during their endeavours to develop its resources?—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

AN OLD RESIDENT ON THE EAST COAST OF CHINA.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

The New York Times has the following:—

The total cost of passing through the eighty-six miles and a-half of Canal is, to vessels of fifteen hundred tons, about £700 sterling, or some $3,200. And this suggests the question of income. It will be remembered that in June last the directors of the company declared their inability to pay up the interest of the coupon bonds due about that date, and it does not, unfortunately, seem that their financial prospects have since improved. The total capital is put down at £16,500,000, of which a considerable portion is held by the Viceroy of Egypt. But to pay the interest due to outside shareholders alone an annual income must accrue of £840,000, while the cost of maintenance, dredging, &c., is estimated at £160,000 for the same period. There must, therefore, be a total annual income of £1,000,000, or about $4,800,000, to make the Canal a bare success, quite irrespective of any profit to the Egyptian Government; and to furnish this, at the rate of ten francs a ton, will require the daily transit of 6,850 tons.

Monetary and Commercial.

The British Indian Extension Telegraph Company (Limited) announce that intelligence has been received of the laying of the cable by the ships Edinburgh and Scanderia, from Singapore to Penang.

The P. and O. Company's steamer Delhi, with a cargo of silkworms'-eggs from Japan, arrived at Suez on the 16th inst., and will proceed, via the Canal, to Genoa and Marseilles, where she will land her cargo, and then return to Bombay and Hong Kong.

The Times published an alarming account of failures of compradores, &c., at Shanghai, but found out that the story had no foundation, and inserted the following:—

With regard to the telegram from China of the 26th of November, stating that a great commercial crisis was believed to be impending, it appears that other telegrams of an equally late date have been received by leading London firms, which not only make no mention of any exposed difficulties, but describe great steadiness in the import markets.

The report of the Ceylon Company (Limited), to be presented on the 20th inst., recommends an interim dividend for the six months ended the 30th of September last at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, but states that, owing to the effects of the war on the Continent on the price of coffee, the amount realised from the Ceylon produce of this year, though remunerative, will be less than would have been obtained under ordinary circumstances. At the same time, the general sugar crop in the Mauritius is not expected to be more than two-thirds of that of last season. The manager of the company, however, anticipates that the produce of its estates will exceed the average of the island; and that, with the improved prices now current, the result of the operations of the year will be satisfactory.

At an ordinary general meeting of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company, held at the City Terminus Hotel, the report, recommending a dividend of 4s. per share, free of income-tax, for the first three and a-half working months, was adopted unanimously. The chairman (Mr. John Pender) said that about ten days ago a break had occurred in their cable between Lisbon and Gibraltar, which had caused an interruption of the submarine communication with India. Until the cable could be repaired messages were sent over a land line, by which means the through communication was kept up.

It is notified that the transfer-books of the China Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited) will be closed from the 27th to 31st inst., "for the purpose of issuing the warrants for payment of interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum on the paid-up capital of this company."

The directors of the Union Bank of London have issued a circular to their employés, announcing that if any clerk with a salary under £150 marries, it will be taken as a resignation.

According to a promise given in the report recently issued by the Commission appointed by the Lords of the Treasury to inquire into the system of trade statistics, the Board of Trade Returns will in future be published about the 7th of the month, instead of he 27th.

According to the Manchester Examiner and Times, the suspension of payment of the old and highly respectable firm of Churton, Bankart, and Hirst, stuff merchants, of Bradford, has been announced. The liabilities are £60,000. The firm has long stood in high repute.

At the meeting of creditors under the proceedings for liquidation instituted by Edward Bigg and Co., of Manchester and Bombay, it was resolved that the estate should be wound up in bankruptcy. Messrs. Reed, Phelps, and Sedgwick were entrusted with the registration of the resolutions. The total liabilities were stated to be £120,000, but many of the claims are covered by securities.

The return of Joint-Stock Companies, just printed on the motion of Mr. Alderman Lusk, M.P., shows that, in 1869, 469 companies, 453 of which were "Limited," were registered under the Act of 1862, with a total nominal capital of 141 millions sterling. In the first five months of 1870, 280 companies, of which 272 were "Limited," were similarly registered, with a nominal capital of 23 millions.

At the meeting of the British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited), held on the 15th instant, a dividend of 5s. per share, free of income-tax, was declared for the six months.

The interest on the shares of the Great Northern Telegraph Company, at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, is announced for payment on the 2nd of January by Messrs. C. J. Hambro and Son.

Messrs. J. C. Sillar and Co., tea-brokers, of Mincing-lane, have issued an elaborately-compiled table, showing the imports, deliveries, and stocks of tea in each year, from 1836 to 1870, also the exports, changes of duty, and other statistics of the tea supply during that period.

BULLION AND SPECIE.

GOLD.—The arrivals this week have been very small; they consist only of £45,200 per Douro, from the Brazils, and a small amount by the Elbe, from the West Indies. There have been a few orders for the Continent, but not sufficient to absorb all the sums that have been offered for sale, and the Bank has therefore received about £15,000 during the past few days; on the other hand, sovereigns to the value of £131,440 have been withdrawn, for shipment to Brazils and Alexandria.

SILVER continues to arrive from New York; the amounts to hand from thence comprise £98,000. The market continues firm at 60¼d. per oz. standard, the demand being only for Holland.

MEXICAN DOLLARS arrive in small amounts from America, and we have received during the week about £25,000; the coin is chiefly taken for refining purposes, and the price remains firm at 58¾d. per oz. for the old coinage. A shipment has been made of £3,000 to Shanghai, but this is an exceptional operation.

EXCHANGE on India for Banks Drafts at 60 days' sight is, as last quoted by us, 1s. 10¼d. to 1s. 10½d. on all three presidencies. India Government Loan Notes show no material change. We quote 4 per Cents. 89 to 91; 5 per Cents. 98 to 100; and 5½ per Cents. 105 to 107.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The market has been generally quiet; until the last few days there has been an absence of fresh arrivals, and, as usual at this time of year, without there is some special attraction, business is much curtailed. Prices, however, show but little alteration, common Teas being a shade lower, and medium red leaf kinds being rather difficult of sale at lower prices, whilst good black-leaf kinds have been fairly supported. Public sales of 8 204 packages took place on the 14th inst., and 6,867 packages were sold without reserve, a considerable portion being Green Teas of recent import, which sold with spirit at fair prices.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings were sold at 5¼d. to 5½d. per lb., being ¼d. per lb. decline. Broken-leaf kinds have sold from 8d. to 9d. per lb., being a similar reduction. Fair to good common have been dull at the decline last quoted. Fair to good Kaisows, of recent import, have sold irregularly at a decline of fully 1d. per lb.; fine to finest show no change, the supplies being limited. Paklins show no alteration; the demand is only moderate. Black-leaf kinds: There has been rather more inquiry for the better kinds of low quality at former prices; superior common is still scarce, but quotations are somewhat nominal at 1s. to 1s. 0½d. per lb. In good medium kinds sales ex Lauderdale and Thyatira have been made from 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 8d., showing but little change; fine to finest remain very firm, the supplies being much reduced. Amoy kinds have been still difficult of sale at rather lower prices. Oolongs show no material alteration. Souchongs have been saleable at former prices. In Flowery Pekoes there has been no alteration to notice. Scented Teas—Canton Capers remain steady at previous prices. Foo Chow kinds show no change. Canton Orange Pekoes sell only slowly at about previous prices. Foo Chow kinds have sold rather lower in price, but the quality has not been so good as previously offering. Uncoloured Japans remain much as before. Green Teas: Business has been moderate during the fortnight, and prices show but little alteration; the common Japan kinds are very heavy of sale, even at the low prices current. Canton-made kinds are without change.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard, Harrison, and Rehden's Circular:—During the early part of the past fortnight a quiet tone prevailed, supplies on offer being limited; the past week several ships have arrived, with a good selection of fair to good medium Congous, which have been taken freely at satisfactory prices, particularly those ex Lauderdale, and the market closes firm, with the prospect of large transactions before the close of the year, as most importers are showing every desire to meet the views of buyers. Late advices from Shanghai report the season as drawing to a close, but at Foochow free supplies were arriving from up country. There is no new feature as to the export trade, which may be considered closed till the spring. Deliveries, as far as home consumption is concerned, show a most satisfactory development:—

Export do. do.	28,700,000	32,607.000

SILK.

There is little, if any, change in the market since the beginning of the month. Importers continue to show the same determination to hold for full quotations, especially for Chinas, and thus business is difficult. Manufacturers buy only as they require silk, and find themselves reluctantly compelled to pay the asking rates; values are, consequently, as follows:—29s. for chop 3rd Tsatlees, 25s. 6d. for Red Peacocks, and 24s. 6d. for No. 4½, with good deliveries. In Canton silk there is some business still doing in Tsatlee reel at 16s. to 17s. 6d. for common to good ordinary, and 18s. to 19s. for superior; these rates seem to stimulate consumption. Japan silk is as dull as ever, and deliveries small. In Bengals there have been a few transaction in recent arrivals where the silk has been of suitable quality, at 16s. to 19s. for fair to good native; filatures are not enquired for. The deliveries from the London warehouses from 1st to 14th inst. were 1,158 bales China, 106 Japan, 303 Canton, and 144 Bengal. Total 1,711 bales.

COFFEE.

There is again but little change to report in the market for Ceylon; ordinary and pale kinds have again sold readily, and firmer prices have been obtained; the better qualities above 59s., however, continue in moderate request at previous rates. For Native the demand is not active, and a considerable portion of the quantity placed upon offer has been bought in. The current rates are—Plantation triage, 36s. to 52s.; small, 55s. 6d. to 57s. 6d.; middling, 61s. to 64s. 6d.; good middling, 66s. to 68s.; good bright coloury, of well known mark, 76s. 6d. to 77s.; fine bold ditto, 84s. to 85s.; peaberrry, 74s. to 75s. Of 962 bags Manila offered 100 bags sold, good to fine ordinary mixed palish at 51s. to 52s. 6d., the remainder being bought in at 53s. A parcel consisting of 126 bags very low dark Java was offered and withdrawn.

SUGAR.

Without any great activity a fair demand has been exhibited, and prices have been well supported, especially for good and medium qualities, for which there is more inquiry than for low kinds. The chief business has been in Manila, which has been in request. The following are the particulars of the sales effected since our last report:—Manila at auction 5,500 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) sold at 24s. to 24s. 6d.; 6,000 bags fair clayed (duty 4s.), import 1866, at 25s.; 4,000 bags superior clayed (duty 4s.), at 26s. 6d. to 26s. 9d.; 2,000 bags (duty 4s. 9d.), at 27s.; and 5,000 bags superior unclayed Tasl, at 21s.; privately 6,000 bags clayed (duty 4s. 9d.) have been sold at 24s.; 9,200 fine (duty 4s. 9d.), at 27s.; and 20,000 bags good unclayed Tasl, at 21s. CAMPHOR.—The market is quiet; 100 cases China have been sold in auction at 67s. 6d. to 68s. 6d. per cwt. for good quality, but no private transactions are reported.

Auctions confined to 1,172 bales, part sold at 15s. 9d. to 16s. per cwt. for good block; and 16s. 3d. for dark pressed Cubes.

Singapore and Penang Cow and Buffalo were chiefly bought in; 12,201 Singapore and Penang Cow Hides offered 2,226 sold. Extra Heavy, 7¼d. to 7½d.; small, 7d. to 8½d.; thirds, 5¾d., brined, extra heavy, 7½d. per lb. 225 Ceylon Hides offered and sold; thirds and fourths, 5d.; Buffalo, 3d. per lb. 3,829 Singapore and Penang Buffalo Hides offered, 791 sold: Best heavy, 4d.; Seconds, 3½d.; light, 5¾d. per lb.

JAPAN WAX.—There is a fair enquiry with business doing in fine quality at 73s., and in medium at 70s.; 40 cases were offered at auction, of which about two-thirds sold at 69s., for medium rather soft.

MUSK.—Market pretty firm, and fine quality scarce; 4 caddies Tonquin brought to auction and sold at 16s. 6d. to 17s. 6d. per oz. for middling rough and bally; 1 tin grain also offered, and retired.

OILS.—Cinnamon scarce, and wanted; 1 case ordinary at auction retired. Citronelle firm; 45 cases sold at auction at 2d. to 2⅛d. per oz. Lemon Grass dearer; 7 cases at auction, of which part sold at 3¼d. per oz. for fine. Black: On the spot 200 bags Penang, West Coast, sold at 5⅞ d.; afloat 500 bags Penang, July shipment, sold at 5⅞d., 3,300 bags August shipment at 5½d. to 5 5-16d., and 1,000 bags distant shipment at 5 1-16d.; of Singapore there have been no sales. White: On the spot 300 bags Singapore have been sold at 6¾d. to 6½d., and afloat 200 bags distant shipment at 7d.

Since these transactions the business has been limited, and the sales on the spot have been in retail quantities only, but prices are firmly maintained; afloat the cargo per India, 885 tons Rangoon has been sold at 9s. 9d. Continental terms. The floating cargo, per Camilla, 650 tons Rangoon, has been sold at 9s. 10½d., Continental terms.

RHUBARB.—China: Does not maintain its value, especially inferior, of which the stock is large. At auction barely half of 271 cases offered found buyers at 4s. per lb. for a few cases of good coat and fracture, and 2s. 7d. to 2s. 10d. for good root, fairly trimmed, and fair greyish and pinky fracture, and 4½d. to 1s. per lb. for ordinary wormy to fair, rather rough and dark fractured root.

RATTANS.—The market is nominally without alteration, but there have been no transactions.

SPICES.—Cassia Lignea without change, and transactions partake of only a retail character. Buds: 20 cases sold privately at £9 10s. to £9 15s. per cwt. Cloves: Penang quiet: 36 cases at auction retired: 53 packages Amboyna offered, and half sold at 4¼d. per lb. for middling, rather dull. Cinnamon: Steady; 106 bales and 365 packages chips at auction, chiefly sold in strict accordance with the prices obtained in the last periodical sales. TAPIOCA.—Very quiet, and little business done. Auctions have embraced 205 bags Singapore, and 357 bags Pearl retired, and 288 bags Flour, of which half sold at 2¼d. per lb. for fair.

TIN.—Shortly subsequent to our report of the 2nd inst. a demanh sprung up, and prices of Straits advanced to £131 per ton, at which figure, and a little under, considerable business was transacted both in Straits and Banca; latterly, however, the market has been rather quieter, and £1 to £2 per ton less than these figures has been accepted, but at the close a little better tone prevails, and prices rule at £130 for Straits, Banca, and Billiton.

TUMERIC.—A new arrival of 500 bags China having been placed upon the market, the nominal prices recently quoted were quite overthrown, and the whole 500 bags, when brought to sale, fetched 22s. 6d. to 24s. per cwt. for fair to good. Nothing doing in Java.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

There is no material alteration to report in the condition of this Market. The certainty of a plentiful supply of the raw material for the requirements of the ensuing season renders it unlikely that any advance in values will occur; whilst, on the other hand, the engagements of producers, especially in India and China Shirtings, extending in some instances over the next two or three months, prevent any immediate decline. In exceptional instances a little advantage in price may be obtained, but on the whole the tone of the Market is steady, with a moderate business going on.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Olendorf, Case and Gillespie's Report, dated November 30:—The new crop Japans began arriving in August, and we have been getting increased supplies by every steamer arriving at San Francisco, also of Greens and Oolongs by later arrivals, besides the cargo of steam-ship Magdala, via Suez Canal, so that we have received supplies sufficient to test the present market, which is not flattering; it is now having a severe test of its strength, for the reasons that the trade are buying in the smallest possible amounts, on account of the reduction of duties that takes place on the first of January, and the large and we think unwise shipments made to arrive here in the worst possible time; yet with all the market is very firm, and improving daily. The Edward Herbert, which arrived on the 19th inst., brings the last of the Season's 1869-1870 product from China and Japan for our market. The business of the season just ending we believe to have been, as a whole, satisfactory, but of varied success the early arrivals being most favourable; Japans and Oolongs realising the best profits to owners; Green Teas, owing to their dusty condition, proved a great annoyance by continued claims being made which in many instances resulted in heavy losses to owners. The following have been the importers during the season 1869-1870. Jno. Caswell and Co., 95,907 packages; Heinemann and Payson 62,748; A. A. Low and Brothers, 61,351; E. Pavenstedt and Co., 56,269; W. B. Hunter and Co., 26,547; Hewlett and Torrance, 25,367; Howland and Aspinwall, 23,694; Weston and Gray, 21,202; Morewood and Co., 20,977; F. Hathaway, 20,504; Olyphant and Co., 16,956; Cary and Co., 15,396; Busk and Jevons, 15,087; C. T. Smith and Son, 13,345; W. H. Smith and Co., 13,070; Mackay and Phillips, 12,642; Duinsteun, Wood and Co., 12,431; Tyers and Talbot, 10.229; Gossler and Co., 9,479; Munzinger and Pitzipie, 9,167; W. H. Wisner and Co., 9 069; Tudor and Co., 8,853; Wetmore, Cryder and Co., 8,803; McKean, Borie and Co., 7,995; Aymar and Co., 7,306; R. D. Morgan and Co., 6,901; W. H Fogg and Co., 6,076; Archer and Bull, 4,985; Everett and Co., 3,430; Sundries, 131,442; total, 737.028.

Messrs. Beebe's Circular is as follows:—Our market for Tea still retains the firmness of tone noted in our last, with business during the past two weeks, to a fair extent only, in Greens and Japans, other descriptions having been held above the views of buyers. At the close there is but little inclination to operate beyond meeting the limited demand for consumption, and a moderate inquiry for goods in bond from the larger cities of the interior, dealers generally preferring to await the reduction in duty to take effect on the 1st Jan.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty paid):—Greens (Moyune, Twanki, and Pychow): Gunpowder, common to good, 55c. to 95c.; fine to finest, 82c. to 125c.; Imperial, common to good, 48c. to 90c.; fine to finest, 53c. to 108c.; Young Hyson, common to good, 40c. to 80c.; fine to finest, 47c. to 115c.; Hyson, common to good, 47c. to 75c.; fine to finest, 50c. to 90c.; Hyson Skin, 35c. to 45c.; Foocho v, Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 53c. to 58c.; superior and fine, 60c. to 68c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 52c. to 57c.; superior and fine, 59c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 70c.; Souchong and Congou (old crop), common and good, 40c. to 52c.; superior and fine, 55c. to 65c.; finest, 68c. to 90c.; Japans (new crop), common, nominal; medium, 70c. to 73c.; good medium, 75c. to 77c.; fine and finest, 80c. to 87c.; choice, 88c. to 92c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Nov. 30, 1870, were as follows:—Greens, 21,348,164 lbs.; Japans, 10,294,086 lbs.; Souchongs, 2,971,880 lbs.; Oolongs, 8,559,880 lbs.; other sorts, 154,464 lbs.; total, 43,328,424 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 9,866,167 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 53,194,591 lbs. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Nov. 30, 5,556,027 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 32,819,500 lbs., there remains a total of 14,819,064 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Nov. 16 to Nov. 30 amounted to 1,172,049 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 535,877 lbs.; and the exports to 216,137 lbs.

SILK.

The following is from Mr. O'Donoghue's report:—There is but little change to note in the state of the market since my last. The demand for all classes of Silks for actual consumption has been but moderate: within the past week, however, there has been considerable speculation in re-reeled Canton, and several large parcels, principally Cumchuck, have been purchased to arrive. Re-reeled Tsatlee and Haineen have been in fair demand; prices are steady at quotations. Usual Reel Tsatlee and Tayeaam: The very finest grades only of these Silks are saleable, to any extent, at present. The stock of good and ordinary is quite large, and holders are anxious to realise at quotations. Japans are in small stock, and are not wanted.

The following are the ruling prices (currency):—China, Tsatlee, No. 2, $9.75; No. 3, $9.50; Nos. 4 and 5, $8.5-8 to 8.7-8. Tayeaam, No. 1, $8.50; No. 2 and 3, $7.25 to 7.7-8; Nos. 4 and 5, $6.75 to 7; Canton, re-reeled, good, $7 to 7.25; fair, $6.5-8 to 6.75; medium, $6.3-8 to 6 50. Tsatlee, re-reeled, good, $9.7-8; fair and medium, $9.50 to 9.5 8. Haineen, best, $9.75.; fair, $9.25 to 9 50; common, $8.25 to 8.50. Canton, re-reeled, extra fine, $8.25. Japans: Maibash and Koshio, nominal; no demand. Sodai, good fair to medium, $9.25 to nominal.

Total imports: 1st of January to the 31st of Oct., 1870, 4,025 bales, value $2,112,941; corresponding period last year, 4,781 bales, value, $2,363,738.

Coffee.—The current quotations for East India kinds are Java Government bags 21c. to 23c.; Java mats, 21c. to 23c.; Singapore, 18c. to 19c.; Manila, 16c. to 17c.; Native Ceylon, 17½c. to 19c., showing no change from those last given. There is a steady demand for Brazil chiefly concentrated on good qualities, for which firm rates are maintained. For East India descriptions the market is quiet, the demand is limited, but holders show no anxiety to effect sales, and prices are unaltered. Java is quitted in small parcels at the quoted rates, and we note sales of 5,000 mats Java ex Nicoline, 7,500 bags Singapore ex Mercur, and 1,000 bags Native Ceylon ex Aleppo on private terms.

Cordage.—The market is quiet but steady at the prices previously current, viz.:—Manila Cordage, 20½c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread (4 and 5-16 in. diameter), 21½c.; do. 12-thread (⅜ in. diameter). 21; Manila Hay Rope, 21c.; Manila Cordage, Bolt Rope Yarns, 22½c.; do., 6-thread and 9-thread, 23½c.; Tarred Manila, 20; fine Tarred Manila Lath Yarn, 21½c.

Camphor.—China is quoted 15c. to 16c. gold (in bond).

Essential Oils.—Aniseed is quoted $2.10 to 2.20; Cassia, $1.10 to 1.20 gold (in bond).

Fire Crackers have been neglected for some time past, and are offered at easier prices; sales have been made of 300 boxes. Extra No. 1 at $3.70 to 3.75, cash.

Gunny Cloth.—There is no movement, but holders seem to have more confidence in the future of the article, and are less disposed to press stocks. We quote Native and Borneo 26½c. to 27c.

Gambier.—The current quotation is 3 65-100c. to 3 70-100c. gold (duty paid).

Hemp.—The market for Manila continues extremely dull, and without transactions; the nominal quotation is still 13c. gold. The stock of Manila on Nov. 1 was estimated at 13.731 bales, against 5,357 bales at the corresponding date of 1869, and 10,936 bales in 1868. The imports into the United States from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1870, were 122,147 bales, against 123,997 bales during the corresponding period of last year, and the quantity afloat on Oct. 31 was 39,867 bales, against 13,728 bales at the same date last year.

Indigo.—There is a steady market for Manila, but without any extensive enquiry; about 30 cases have found buyers at $1.15 to 1.30 currency.

Preserved Ginger.—China is quoted $9 currency (duty paid).

Rhubarb.—The quotation for China is 75c. to $1.75 currency (duty paid).

Rice.—There are extensive supplies of all kinds with but little demand, and prices generally show a declining tendency. There is nothing doing in East India; the sale of 200 bags Rangoon in bond for export at $6.28 gold, which was effected immediately after our last report, has been the only transaction.

Sugar.—The market generally is steady, and prices have not varied for some time; there have been no transactions in East India kinds.

Spices.—Following our last report sales were effected of 150 cases prime Penang Nutmegs ex Mercur, in Boston, at 52½c. gold, in bond; and 100 do. Cassia per same, on private terms; besides in lots to the trade, 40 to 50 cases Nutmegs at $1.02½ for Penang; a few cases Mace, $1.30; 200 to 300 bales Cloves, 26c., and 7½c. in bond; 500 to 600 bags Pepper, 25½c. to 26c., and 11c. in bond; and 2,000 to 3,000 mats Cassia, 47½c. Since these sales there have been several arrivals of Pepper, Nutmegs, and Mace, but the most of the Pepper was sold previous to arrive and then reported; the market has been quiet, the business being confined to a small jobbing trade; prices generally are steady and firm.

Tin.—The stagnation which for some time past has prevailed in the market has been followed by an active demand, resulting in considerable business, at an advance of 1c. to 2½c. gold on the prices ruling at the date of our last report; the sales amount to about 13,000 slabs Straits on the spot at 31½c. to 32½c. gold, and 2,750 slabs to arrive at 30½c. to 32½c. gold; the closing quotation for Straits is 32½c. to 33c.; no sales are reported of Banca, but the current quotations are 36½c. to 37c. gold.

CASUALTIES.

The Eme, Gunn, from Foochow to London, which arrived at Gravesend Dec. 11, reported having been on shore at Dungeness the previous night.

A telegram from Shanghai, dated Nov. 23, received at Liverpool, states Chusan must dock, damage not serious.

The Gesina (ewer), with cargo ex the Eastern Belle, from Batavia, which vessel was stranded on Schaarhorn, had grounded near Twielenfleth.

Advices from New York, by cable, state that the Balnaguith, from Padang to that port, had put into Bermuda, leaky.

The Larnax, Anderson, from Batavia to Rotterdam, which arrived at Falmouth Dec. 6, had lost sails and strained during bad weather.

LOSS OF THE "CARADOC."

We briefly noticed under "Latest" in our last issue the loss of the Caradoc. Further particulars have since been reported from Queenstown. Captain Williams and eight seamen, part of the crew of the barque Caradoc, have been landed at that port by the steam-tug Warrior, of Liverpool. The Caradoc, with a cargo of coals, left Liverpool, bound for Singapore, on the 7th inst. When about seventeen hours out she came into violent collision with another barque. She immediately began to sink. The crew took to the boats at once, and only just in time. They were able to save nothing. Two boats were launched; into one of them the captain and eight of the crew got; the carpenter and eight sailors took to the other boat. The last-named boat was found only on 15th. None of the crew of the Caradoc knew the name of the ship which they struck, but they supposed that she had gone down, and their supposition was correct. The American ship Emily M'Near, bound for Liverpool, picked up her crew, and finds that she was the Norwegian ship Ausgar, bound from Liverpool to Philadelphia. The Caradoc, 499 tons, Captain Needham, was built by Messrs. Pile and Co., Sunderland, and was owned by Messrs. Gray Brothers and Co., of that port.

THE STRAITS TIMES.—Daily, weekly and fortnightly editions; published in Singapore for circulation throughout the STRAITS SETTLEMENTS JAVA, BORNEO, SIAM, FRENCH COCHIN CHINA, CHINA and JAPAN.

This paper, which is the oldest in Singapore, and the most widely circulated throughout the FAR EAST, offers an excellent medium for the advertisements of ships builders, machinists, manufacturers, patentees, &c., in the United Kingdom.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—OLD SORES, WOUNDS, AND ULCERS.—The readiness with which Holloway's unguent removes all obstructions in the circulation of the vessels and lymphatics explains their irresistible influence in healing old sores, bad wounds, and indolent ulcers. To insure the desired effect, the skin surrounding the diseased part should be fomented, dried, and immediately well rubbed with the Ointment. This will give purity to the foul blood, and strength to the weakened nerves, the only conditions necessary for the cure of all those hideous ulcerations which render life almost intolerable. No sooner is this Ointment's protective power exerted than the destructive process ceases and the constructive business begins—new healthy growth appears to fill up the lately painful excavated pit.

Summary of News from the Far East.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates are to Nov. 6. The Japan Mail says:—

The object of the mission of the Japanese official Sabejima, who is going to England via the United States by the next American mail, is, we understand, to make an inspection as to the progress of the Japanese students in that country. It is almost needless to contradict the report that he is to be invested with the rank of an Envoy Extraordinary. A Daijo, or third class clerk of the Foreign-office, is not exactly the person who would be chosen by the Japanese Government to be the first permanent representative duly accredited at the Court of St. James's. Sabejima will be accompanied, we hear, by Shiwoda, formerly interpreter to the French Legation.

The arrival from China of the new Italian Minister, Conte Fe, is expected in the course of a few days. He has been accredited to the Courts of Peking and Yedo, and will take up his permanent residence at the former capital. His visit to Japan will not be protracted beyond the time necessary for presenting his credentials to the Mikado, and making himself acquainted with the interests placed under his charge.

Considerable activity is being displayed upon the railway works; contracts for all the earthworks between Yokohama and Yedo are let to be completed within three months from this time. The bridge over the Rokugo at Kawasaki may possibly be delayed beyond that time on account of the difficulty of providing a sufficient quantity of seasoned Kiaki timber. The mechanics who recently arrived are all employed on the line, and the work of the masons is specially observable on the Kanagawa bridge. We see that rails are down in the Kanagawa cutting and earthwork waggons are running. The Japanese seem specially amused as the waggons run to and fro under the bridge. We understand that a further supply of rails has been sent for to Kobe. These rails were originally imported for a proposed railway between Osaka and Temposan, but they have lain neglected for a long time, and will now come in handily as contractor's plant. Quarters have been provided for the European artisans in a large yashiki at Benten, and by their neatness and liberality of arrangement afford a gratifying proof that the Government realise the value of these men's services.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

The correspondent of the Courier writes on Oct. 30:—H.E. Chung-How has arrived here from Peking, where he has been feasted at each of the Legations. It is reported he will not land in Shanghai, but will arrange to join the French mail outside Woosung. Should H. E., however, pay you a visit it is to be hoped he will be received—as he deserves. Messrs. O'Brien, Novion, and Imbert, and Teh-ming, a college student who has been in Europe with the two former missions, accompany him; also his barber, tailor, and cook, some twenty-five or twenty-seven in all. He goes to France officially, and also to Italy, Belgium, England and Russia, the nations whose subjects he slew. France, if he ever gets there, will surely ask Chung-How why he did not answer the three notes of the British Consul before the massacre? and Fontanier's were no doubt of a similar tenour. He carries the blood of the sixteen martyred patriots with him, as an evidence of the sorrow and sincerity of the Chinese Government. A pity he does not take a model in clay,—in which work Tientsin excels,—of the coffins, grave clothes and place of execution; and to keep himself cool in the Red Sea, a few sets of the bloody fans.

He takes first class credentials with him; but, on every account except a personal one, his going to Europe at present would appear to be a great mistake, just at the moment when will go with him the news of the tardy punishment of the offenders, and the execution and its attendant circumstances, which will awaken the home public to a juster appreciation of the position of foreigners here. I believe these executions will injure the Chinese more in the eyes of Europe than even the massacre did. There was no excitement to palliate an act done in pursuance of an Imperial edict and after four months' deliberation. The sewing on of the heads again was the most significant circumstance. It is asked and granted only as a great mark of Imperial favour.

The report sent you a few days since, that Taku is to become the head-quarters of the army in Chihli, is confirmed, as also the transfer of the seat of government from Paouting-fu to Tientsin. To the question, for what purpose are the troops being removed to Taku? the only answer is, Foreigners! These forts are in fact a standing menace to foreigners, and ought to have been destroyed while they were in our power, as the small forts a short distance up the river were. The Chinese are reported to be desirous of rebuilding the latter if the gunboats will allow them.

DESPATCHES ON THE MASSACRE.

The official despatches relating to the Tientsin compensation which have been communicated to the Chamber of Commerce by the French Consul-General, consist of a circular letter by Count Rochechouart to the French Consuls in China, a communication from Prince Kung to Count Rochechouart, giving a succinct statement of what the Chinese Government had done towards a setlement of the Tientsin troubles, a list of those condemned in connection with that affair, and a schedule of the pecuniary indemnities already agreed on. We have already given the purport of Count Rochechouart's communication, so we need say no more now than that the French Minister, speaking of the action of the Chinese Government, says he neither approved or rejected the programme, for it is not his. "Moreover," he says, "it has been already executed." And with regard to the Tls. 250,000, which has been awarded as compensation, it is to be noted that it is to be ordered contributed by the Maritime Customs —that is, by the duties on foreign goods and the goods exported from China for foreign use. It will be, no doubt, highly satisfactory to the Chinese to reflect that they are making the foreigners themselves pay the indemnity; but it may be questioned if the European Powers will permit such an insult to be added to the injury that has been already inflicted.

The following is the full text of the official despatch from Prince Kung to Count Rochechouart:—I have had the honour of receiving from your Excellency, and in reference to the occurrences at Tientsin, a despatch relating to the Tientsin massacre, expressive of the indignation and grief it has produced. To that document was subjoined a list of the victims. The news of a misfortune so unexpected caused us very great grief. Considering the many years China and France have been on friendly terms no one anticipated such a catastrophe; even now we are overwhelmed with confusion and emotion. It has been decided that the sum of Tls. 250,000 be paid as an indemnity, which, according to the decision of the Minister of Finance, your Excellency will be able to draw from the revenue of the Custom Houses of Kiang-Nan and Kuang-tung, to be divided according to the apprehended statement, between the families of Consul Fontanier and the other officials and merchants; the Church will receive what is due to her. On the 12th I received your despatch informing me that the material losses sustained by the religious establishments and others amounted to the sum of Tls. 250,000. The Hoo-poo has already decided that the payment of this compensation will be made by the Maritime Customs of Tientsin. Such is the purport of the present communication:—

DISTRIBUTION OF THE INDEMNITIES AWARDED.

The North China Herald, writing on this subject, says:—Let us glance at the terms of Prince Kung's despatch, in regard to this monetary indemnity. "It has been decided that a sum of Tls. 250,000 shall be paid as indemnity, which, under the arrangements of the Minister of Finance, your Excellency can receive from the Customs Administration of Kiang-nan and Kwantung, to divide it subsequently between the families of Consul Fontanier, the other functionaries and the merchants. The Church will receive that which belongs to it. I received on the 12th inst. our despatch, informing me that the material losses sustained by the religious establishments, and others, reached the sum of Tls. 210,000. The Hoo-poo has already decided that the payment of this reimbursement shall be made by the Maritime Customs of Tientsin." At the outset of the negotiation, we urged, among other points, that whatever pecuniary compensation was exacted should be levied, as a punishment, from the city of Tientsin. But we find here a mulct laid on the Customs revenues of Shanghai and Canton for the larger half, and those of Tientsin for the smaller half of the sum assessed. We can hardly doubt that the local authorities will take care to reimburse themselves by an additional le-kin squeeze, which will indirectly affect foreign goods; and all will be happily arranged.

From every point of view, therefore, we cannot but regard the whole proposed settlement as unsatisfactory and inadequate; and we have confidence that the majority of the Foreign Ministers at Peking will share the views which we strongly express. There is a degree of plausibility about Prince Kung's despatches which sheds a halo, at the first glance, over the terms which he sets forth. But a brief analysis only is needed to reveal their intrinsic inadequacy.

HANKOW.

An interesting ceremony was held in the British church of St. John the Evangelist, at Hankow, on Friday, Oct. 28. The Right Rev. Dr. Williams, Missionary Bishop of the American Protestant Episcopal Church, held an ordination at the church at 11 A.M. The Rev. W. J. Boone, son of the late Bishop Boone, of Shanghai, and the Rev. Yung-king-yen were "ordered" priests by the Bishop, assisted by his clergy, the Revs. A. C. Hohing and S. Hoyt, of Wuchang. A sermon was preached by the Rev. A. C. Hohing after the morning service had been read, and a kind of charge was given by him to the two deacons, standing up in the usual form. The service proceeded in the usual way, and the Sacrament was duly partaken of. Perhaps the most interesting scene of all was that at the close, when the Rev. A. C. Hohing administered the Sacrament in the vernacular to the Chinese members of their church. Few persons were present, owing to some alteration in the time of the service, otherwise the choir would have attended to perform a choral service.

SHANGHAI.

Dates are to the 8th Nov. The French mail of 16th Sept. arrived out on the 1st Nov., and the mail of 23rd was hourly expected. The American mails, via San Francisco, arrived on the 5th Nov.

The following summary is from the North China Herald of 8th Nov.:—

One half of the community has been up country shooting during the past week, and the remainder has been intent on the Shanghai Races; so that our local news is rather limited. The weather has not been very favourable for the meeting—bright but with cold wind on the first, overcast on the second, and raw and rainy on the third and fourth days. The attendance at the Grand Stand under these circumstances was not very large, but the racing is generally admitted to have been quite up to muster.

The French Circus troupe, whose arrival across Siberia we mentioned very lately, has recovered from its fatigues sufficiently to commence its performances. These are well spoken of, and have been well attended. The chief features we observed were the fine training of several of the horses, and the excellence of the riding and trapeze performances. The circus is well appointed generally, and has exceedingly comfortable accommodation, considering the temporary character of the structure.

The steamer Lismore, in coming up the Yangtsze, ran on the well-known old wreck of a junk, near the red buoy; it was low water when she went on, and as the tide rose her stern rose with it, but her bow remained fixed in the wreck. The water has since made its way into her after compartments, and she has sunk completely. Endeavours were made to raise her by passing chains underneath her, but they have had to be temporarily given up, in consequence of the heavy weather; and the wreck has been advertised for sale as it now lies. The loss of time is unfortunate, as she will, of course, settle deeper in the mud, and it will become more difficult to raise her. We think it is high time that, considering that the immense revenue derived from the trade of the harbour, something were done to remove the very dangerous impediment which has caused the mishap.

An inquest has been held to inquire into the death of a Chinese, named Hoo-a-kow, who was accidentally shot by a foreigner named Ross. The latter has been committed for trial.

A second unfortunate accident has happened at the Rifle Butts. One of the men of H.M. Zebra accidentally discharged his rifle, and killed a Chinaman on the spot.

The last Municipal report informs us that a new iron bridge is on its way to replace the inconvenient pyramid which now spans the Hongkew creek; that a fence has at last been made to protect drunken sailors and runaway ponies from the Yang-king-pang creek; that mile-stones are being erected for the benefit of athletes who wish to train on the Bubbling Well and Sikawei roads, and that the usual struggles are going on with the jetties, fire-wells, drains, and Municipal buildings. But the most weighty paragraph of the report is that which invites sanction to the purchase of the valuable estate known as the Kungping corner. The founders of the settlement committed the error of making our roads too narrow, never anticipating the increase and multiplication of brokers' traps till they became a perpetual menace to pedestrians and a source of no small danger to each other. The Council have tried to remedy the defect as far as possible by rounding off corner walls; and many land-owners have readily permitted the slight infringement on the corners of their compound which this process involved. Mr. Hanbury, as Messrs. Sykes and Schwabe's attorney, of course, assumed that they would follow the liberal example. The Municipal Council were allowed to cut off the eighteen feet they required from the corner of the compound on which his hong stands, in anticipation of their assent: but now, instead of this assent, he receives instructions to demand the "restitution of the rightful boundary of the said land, and the rebuilding and restoration, in a fit and proper manner, of the boundary walls thereof." And all this is about eighteen square feet which it was desired to cut off the compound, to obviate the sharp turn at the junction of two busy streets. It must have cost as much as the land is worth to get hold of the legal phraseology in which the demand is couched. The Council treat the matter fittingly, by suggesting that the municipality should purchase this important territory. Its value is about Tls. 14.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

Nov. 8.

I forward a paper containing the correspondence between Prince Kung and Count Rochechouart as to the final wind up of the Tientsin tragedy. It seems to every one here a most lame and impotent conclusion. The main actors and leaders in the massacre go free; a few coolies are bought up by the mandarins at £150, or Tls. 500 per head, and executed. After their execution, instead of their heads being fixed on poles in the usual manner, they are sewed on to the bodies, handsome coffins provided by the mandarins, and a grand funeral given them after laying in state for some days. They are looked upon as martyrs by the people, offered up as a holocaust to the foreigners, who will be hated more than ever. It is, in fact, unsafe for a foreigner to move about at Tientsin, and will be until an adequate punishment falls upon the people.

Count Rochechouart seems to have been completely hoodwinked by the Peking mandarins, as the universal opinion in China is that Chung How, if not actually guilty of the murders, was a consenting party to them, and had full power to prevent their occurrence. Since the execution of the supposed murderers a fire broke out in Tientsin, and the fire brigade (who murdered the Sisters) refused to turn out at the call of the authorities, on the ground that they had deceived them in the massacre affair, and that they would not obey their orders any more. Two hundred houses were burned, and the fire only extinguished by the soldiers themselves. This is merely another proof, if any were wanting, of the complicity of the mandarins in the murder of foreigners on the 21st June.

This Chung How, at whose door the murder took place, and almost in whose house and presence the French Consul was murdered, actually goes to France as an envoy to explain the occurrence. The Russian Consul protested against the men being executed for the murder of Russian subjects until their guilt was first established by examination in his presence. The Chinese Government are more afraid of the Russians than any other people.

A book has lately come to light which has been circulated all over China, accusing foreigners of the most atrocious crimes and practices, doubtless by the mandarins and literati, to arouse a feeling of hatred. This was going on at the same time that the Chinese Embassy was gulling the people in Europe about the advancement of the Chinese, shining crosses, &c. So much for the duplicity of the Chinese; if foreign envoys or Governments think they can cope with the Chinese in diplomacy they are egregiously mistaken.

Count Rochechouart sends Chung How to Europe, who is considered here accessory to the massacre. Count Rochechouart considers his countrymen safe on the word of Prince Kung, but they do not consider themselves safe, and are taking measures to protect themselves. Prince Kung states that the massacre was in consequence of the kidnapping of individuals. This is simply a falsehood. Placards were posted up by the mandarins denouncing foreigners before the massacre. The first person murdered was the Consul, whose house was first attacked. The murders were committed by the Fire Brigade, called out by beat of drum, and the Chinese soldiers, led on by Chung-quo-Jui, the mandarin who came to Tientsin for the express purpose, and whose head was demanded by this same Count Rochechouart, who, having no force at his back, was laughed at by the Peking authorities. At the very time this statement is put forth as a justification of the good faith of the Chinese Government they are massing troops at Taku and Tientsin, and have appointed the generalissimo of their troops to reside at Taku, a mere collection of mud huts, but where the forts are situated which defend the Peiho or entrance to Peking. The banishment of the mandarins is certainly illusory, as no foreigner can ascertain where they go to, or how long they remain. Lastly, the criminals were not examined in the presence of any foreign authority, nor was any foreigner present at their execution. The sum total of the whole is, that the inhabitants of Tientsin consider they have performed a patriotic and meritorious act in ridding the world of a nest of foreigners, guilty of unheard of crimes, that some of their number have been executed to appease these same execrable foreigners, and that, on every favourable opportunity, they are ready and willing to murder more of them. If the British Government does not give full authority to their representatives out here to act and punish any outrage on the spot, they will soon have a war on their hands, as the Chinese are only waiting a favourable opportunity to make another attempt to expel foreigners. At the present moment, and while they are putting forth those plausible statements, they are purchasing arms and ammunition wherever they are to be had. They have just purchased ten thousand stand of arms at Yokohama.

I forward you a copy of Death Blow to Corrupt Doctrines, which is a pamphlet published and circulated all over China by the literati and mandarins to excite hatred to foreigners. This compilation ought to show people at home what the Chinese really are; as, if not guilty themselves of practising what they impute to foreigners, they could not have thought of such disgusting details

HONG KONG.

Dates are to the 15th Nov. The outward mail of Sept. 23 arrived on the 2nd Nov., per P. and O. steamer Australia, via Suez Canal, with telegrams to Oct. 15. The French mail steamer of Sept. 29 arrived out on 14th Nov., but with no mail.

We learn that M. Dabry, the French Consul at Canton, has gone in a Chinese gunboat to Tienpak, to inquire into the facts and causes of the seizure of the Nouvelle Penelope, a French coolie ship bound from Macao to Peru, with 350 coolies on board.

The circumstances of the seizure were reported in our columns a few days since, and the French Consul with two of the Viceroy of Canton's gunboats has gone to the port indicated with a view to the recapture of the vessel and the rescue of any of the crew who may have escaped the massacre.

We hear from Foochow that for some reason or other Baron de Meritens, Commissioner of Customs, has seized the North German barque Taikun, laden with tea. We have no particulars of the circumstances under which the seizure was made.

The Peiho made the shortest run ever performed from Marseilles to Hong Kong, the whole voyage occupying only thirty-four days and about seven hours. This feat has, we believe, never been equalled in the history of maritime enterprise.

The China Mail has the following items:—

Our accounts from the coast show that the gale of the 3rd to 6th November was a very heavy and destructive one. The sea is reported as running higher than ever before seen in these waters. The Venus, hence to Shanghai, put into Amoy on the 5th, with loss of jibboom, &c. She left again on the morning of the 7th, but returned about three P.M., with her steering gear all carried away, and sundry other damage. It was doubtful when she would get away. The Rona also put in on the 5th, with loss of bowsprit and topgallant forecastle started, and in fact, lifted from its fastenings by the sea. She made some slight repairs, and again left for Shanghai on the 7th November. She had not arrived back when the Formosa left. The cake on board, intended for the nuptials at Shanghai of one of our coast commanders, will scarcely arrive in time for the ceremony. The Yesso left Swatow on the 4th and got as far as Namoa Straits, where she anchored until the 6th. Twice she left her anchorage and attempted to proceed on her voyage, and twice the force of the winds and waves compelled her to return to her anchorage. Captain Ashton's conduct under the trying circumstances in which he was placed is spoken of in the highest terms by his passengers, who praise his coolness, prudence, and the care and skill with which he handled his vessel, in no stinted terms. The American ship Witch, hence for Shanghai, has put back in distress, and the British barque Eaglet, from Newchwang to Swatow, has come in also in distress. The reports of these latter two vessels will be found under the head of Shipping.

The Legislative Council met on the 11th. The Colonial Secretary, in moving the second reading of the Ordinance, authorising the expenditure of a sum not exceeding $688,000 for the current expenses of the coming year, observed that the sum to be voted exceeded the amount required in 1870 by some $50,000. This was to be accounted for in various ways. Of the money received from the sale of the Mint a large sum was paid this year, while next year but a small balance of $5,000 remained to be received; many Crown lots had been resumed by the Government, reducing the land rental; the opium farm yielded $7,000 less than before, and there were sundry other deductions. The special fund amounted to $340,264.41, which was duly invested at 5 per cent. in the banks.

The allowance of $740 to the Governor was passed. In the Colonial Secretary's Department there had been a saving effected of the allowance for an interpreter and his teacher by the transfer of Mr. Russell to the Bench of the Police Court. In the Surveyor-General's Department there was a saving of $7,780. In the Auditor-General's Department there was an increase of $600 in the allowances for printing and stationery, caused by the great numbers of blank forms required in the different departments by the various ordinances which had gone into effect during the last few years. The Chinese Passenger Act, that of the Money Changers, Market, Storekeepers, Revenue Stamps, Post-office Money Orders, Junks, Registration of Servants, &c., all these required a large amount of printing and paper. The Junk passes alone, which in October, 1869, amounted to 13,000, in the same month this year were 14,083. For the year 1869 they numbered 34,891, and so far in 1870 they mount up to 36,000. The Postmaster-General's Department showed a reduction of $1,000 by the abolition of the Marine sorters between this and Shanghai. In the Registrar-General's Department no change. In the Harbour-Master's there must be an increase for the support of the Victoria. The Colonial Secretary said he had been in hopes to have sold her before this, but now there was no knowing how long she might be on their hands. The Medical Department was reduced $960 by the engagement of Dr. Young at £300 per annum, while Dr. Cochrane had £500. Under the head of Police Magistrates appeared an item for compensation of witnesses, which the Chief Justice complained should have been under the head of "Justice," as he found it often difficult to get witnesses without the power to order them recompense. The Police Department showed an increase of $6,320; this was to be accounted for by the necessity of buying new arms for the force. The Colonial Secretary explained the creation of the new office of paymaster; it was simply a new name for the same thing. Mr. Quin was before first clerk; he was now called first master, with the same salary.

On the reading of the appropriation of $29,000 for miscellaneous services, the Colonial Secretary said he wished to add an amount of $3,500 to be expended in the construction of a new chancel in St. John's Cathedral. When H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh was here he was invited to lay the corner stone of this projected enterprise, which his Royal Highness did. Sir Richard MacDonnell, on being applied to for Government aid to complete this work, had told the applicants, who assured him that the whole work could be done for $7,000, that if one-half (i.e., $3,500) were raised by voluntary subscription, collected and paid into some bank, he would have no objection to placing on the estimates the further sum of $3,500 from the public revenues of the colony—to be appropriated for this purpose. Already some $2,900 had been subscribed, and he (the Colonial Secretary) knew that one gentleman of ample means had promised to furnish the remainder himself, if required. Under these circumstances he proposed that the sum mentioned be placed on the estimates. Mr. Ryrie objected to the money of the tax-payers being extended on useless and unneeded buildings. If an enlarged chancil was required for the Cathedral, the people who felt the need thereof should supply it at their own cost. After a short discussion four votes were recorded against the grant, and, as there remained only the Attorney-General and Colonial Secretary to be polled, Mr. Forth's suggestion to allow the matter to stand over until the supplementary estimates came up for discussion was accepted by the friends of the measure as preferable to defeat. The ordinance was then passed.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are down to Nov. 22. On Nov. 9 the Travancore arrived with the London mails of Oct. 8 (via Brindisi,) and bringing also the mails which had been left behind by the French mail steamer. Telegraphic advices from London to Nov. 7 had been received.

The Legislative Council had held two meetings, which were chiefly taken up with the consideration of the Bankruptcy and Debtors Bills, and the Contagious Disease Bill, in committee. The Bills which have been passed are the Supply Bill for 1871, a Bill to extend the operation of the Dangerous Societies Sbppression Ordinance, and a Bill to provide for witnesses' expenses. The Bankruptcy and Debtors Bills were fixed for their third reading at the next meeting, as also a Bill to provide for the recovery of debts due to the Government.

The following items are from the Straits Times:—

The town has enjoyed a fortnight of undisturbed quiet from the secret societies, and there is now every prospect that, if the quarrel has not been finally settled, at all events there will be no more outbreaks for some time to come. The danger that threatened us has happily been averted through the vigilance of the police and the promptitude with which the headmen were enrolled as special constables. By a proclamation of the Governor in Council the Preservation of the Ordinance was put in force here, and the headmen were bound over to keep the peace for six months, since which there has been no further trouble.

The principal event of local interest during the fortnight has been the successful laying of the telegraph cable between Java and Singapore, by the steamer Hibernia, under the direction of Captain Reed, R.N., late of Her Majesty's ship Rifleman, and Captain Halpin, late of the Great Eastern. The Hibernia began laying the cable from Batavia on the 7th inst., and on Saturday, the 19th instant, the line was open to traffic. The William Cory will proceed to lay the cable between this and Penang in a few days, and thence the line will be continued by the steamers Scanderia and Edinburgh to Madras.

Most of the Germans who received notice to quit Saigon have come to Singapore, where they are awaiting the termination of the war. From a private letter we learn that the Government made a few temporary exceptions to the order, viz., Mr. Saltzkorn, because he represented an English house, and because the British Consul was absent; Mr. Speidel, because he represented the American Consul; and Mr. Schwanbeck, because Messrs. Raczynskie, Barbier and Co.—a new French firm who have recently taken over Messrs. Schwanbeck and Thiel's business—had no one else to manage their affairs.

The arrivals of steamers via the Suez Canal during the fortnight have been the William Cory and Acantha on the 11th, the Danube on the 15th, and the Una on the 22nd. The only departure for home by this route has been the Saida, on the 11th Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—There had been a fortnight of inactivity, business having been almost entirely confined to Grey Shirtings, the value of which had slightly given way. For Yarns there had been scarcely any demand, and the few sales reported show a further decline. Taffachelas and Turkey Reds had met with some attention; but all Woollen and Worsted Goods, with the exception of Mousselines de Laine, had been comparatively neglected.

HANKOW.—Grey Shirtings, moderate sales, holders firm at last quotations. T-Cloths in good demand at Tls. 1.3.0 to 1.5.5 for 7 lbs., and Tls. 1.7.5 to 1.8.0 for 8 lbs. Drills quoted as follows; market weak: American, Tls. 3.1.2 to 3.1.8; English, Tls. 2.9.0 to 3.0.2; Dutch, Tls. 2.8.0 to 3.0.0. Jeans almost nominal. White Shirtings, little inquiry. Fancy Cottons very dull. Woollens: Camlets, best chops only wanted in small quantity; S quoted Tls. 11.5.0 to 12.0.0; and SS Tls. 10.3.0 to 10.7.5. Long Ells unsaleable. Spanish Stripes and Medium Cloths dull at last quotations. Figured Orleans sold to a moderate extent.

SHANGHAI.—Cottons: The market had been quiet but steady. Grey Shirtings, 8¼ lbs., moderate demand at former rates; 7 lbs. had continued to improve; 9 10-12ths lbs. were beginning to attract more attention, though transactions as yet were very limited in this weight. Business generally confined to purchases on the spot, dealers still refusing to buy "for arrival." White Shirtings sold to some extent, principally 64-reed, at very irregular prices. T-Cloths: Good inquiry for nearly all makes; common and Mexican, 7 lbs., most in request at higher rates; stock of the latter almost exhausted. Drills still wanted. A large sale of American PMCD reported at Tls. 3.4.5, but since held for 5c. higher. Jeans quiet at the late advance. Sheetings: Some English changed hands at Tls. 3.3.0 to 3.4.0. Fancy Cottons: Assorted Brocades in moderate demand, other descriptions very dull. Woollens: Figured Orleans of good assortments in good request. Camlets saleable at current low prices. Spanish Stripes slightly lower. Long Ells only in limited inquiry.

HONG KONG.—The quietude noticed in our last report had become more marked, and a still smaller amount of business had been transacted. The principal cause of this was set down to a scarcity of money among the natives, an unusually high rate of interest being enforced at Canton; but the action of importers in continually offering to make sales at lower prices had also much to do with the dulness, as dealers hardly knew when to consider it safe to lay in stocks. Quotations were again lower all round, and to add to the decline exchange had likewise fallen during the interval.

BATAVIA.—The demand had been very quiet, and this, coupled with the fact that lower priced goods were arriving via the Suez Canal every mail, had made importers more anxious to realise their stocks at current rates, so that it was expected that prices would rule low for some time to come. Cambrics, 45 inch by 12 yards, generally neglected: sales only at very low rates. Best quality 15/16s valued at f.4.20 to f.4.30; medium, f.4.10 to f.4.15; ordinary, f.4 to f.4.05 per piece. No. 24s, f.3.75 to f.3; 30s, f.3.50 to f.3.75 per piece, all short credit. White Shirtings, 40 yards: Demand confined to 36 inch, 64/6 reeds, for which f.8.25 to f.8.50 per piece was paid. Grey Shirtings, 38½ yards: All weights difficult to place; 39 inch 7 lb., f.6.50 to f.6.75; 8½ lb., f.7.50 to f.7.75; 45 inch 8 lb., f.7.75 to f.8 per piece. Grey Twist materially declined; sales of 40s at f.385 to f.390; 30s valued at f.370, 24s f.355, and 20s f.340 credit per bale.

SINGAPORE.—During the fortnight there had not been much alteration in the market for Manchester goods, the demand had been less active for most cotton staples, and business had been limited; quotations generally were unchanged. Grey Shirtings 39 inch 8¼ lbs.: Good demand and fair business; stocks much reduced, prices firmer. Grey Maddapollams unchanged, little inquiry. T-Cloths remained very dull. Drills unsaleable, stocks accumulating, prices nominal. White Shirtings: Medium to fine qualities in moderate request at last rates; lower reeds very quiet. Imitation Irish linens inactive, lower rates accepted. Cambrics without improvement, little inquiry and few sales. Figured Shirtings weaker; demand dull. Yarn unaltered, little demand.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Continued unfavourable advices from America had caused further depression; and although native merchants showed some anxiety to realise, stocks being very heavy, they would not make sufficient reduction in prices to enable would-be purchasers to operate; consequently the business for the fortnight had been limited to the settlement of about 1,800 piculs of good medium and fine grades for the New York market, at somewhat easier rates. Supplies continued to come in fairly, thereby increasing stocks, which were unprecedentedly heavy. The last [American [Mail steamer took from this port 105,743 lbs. for San Francisco, and 273,461 lbs. for New York. The Min, Abbey Bacon, and Horatio were loading for New York. Quotations.—Common, $22 to 24 per picul; good common, $25 to 27; medium, $29 to 32; good medium, $34 to 37; fine, $39 to 42; finest and choice, nominal.

HANKOW.—About twelve chops of Shuntaam leaf, which arrived immediately after the departure of last mail, were eagerly taken at an advance of half a tael per picul. The market was bare of stock, but further arrivals were said to be close at hand. A few parcels of Common Oopack and Local-packed Teas had found buyers at firm rates. Settlements for the fortnight 11,753 chests. Quotations were:—Oopacks, common, Tls. 11.6.0 to 13.8.0. Oonams, common, Tls. 11.6.0 to 13.8.0 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—Black: A smaller business had been transacted, owing in a measure to the intervention of the autumn holidays, and also to less favourable advices from London. Common Teas had been bought at about previous prices; others, rather preferable, at fully former rates, Late advices from Hankow would confirm the opinion previously expressed, that further supplies of Shuntaam Teas would probably come forward, consequent on the large business in Shanghai a month back. Stocks remained nearly the same. Green: An active demand had existed for these sorts, resulting in the settlement of 43,000 half-chests. Common and fair sorts had been sold at a reduction of Tls. 1 to 2 on last quotations, but good medium to fine Teas continued firm, and even a slight advance had been paid on some of the late purchases of fine Teas. Quotations:—Common to fair Moyune and Fychow, Tls. 25 to 36; medium to finest Moyunes and Teenkais, Tls. 38 to 47.

FOOCHOW.—Inactivity continued to characterise the business. The settlements of Congou and Souchong had been 13,642 chests and the arrivals 14,873 chests. In Oolongs no further transactions had taken place. The arrivals had been 4,759 half-chests. Congou: Prices well maintained by the teamen who showed little anxiety to realise. Settlements chiefly fair to good common at Tls. 12 to 14½. Souchong: A moderate business had resulted from a concession by the teamen of Tls. 1 to 2 in the price of those of better quality. Scented Teas: Business limited to the purchase of 960 boxes at Tls. 17½ to 18. Holders asked higher prices. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements 187 chests at Tls. 28¾ to 34.

AMOY.—During the fortnight a few settlements of Congou had been made at about $1 under last quotation, and holders were showing more disposition to meet the views of buyers. Oolong: Market had been very quiet, and only some 1,500 packages had been taken. Of these the finest, bought principally for the English market, show a further advance of $1, while the commoner grades had been settled on easier terms, and show a decline of from $1 to 2. Closing rates were: Common to Fair, $15 to 22; Good, $25 to 27; Superior, 28 to 30; Fine, $31 to 35; and Finest, $37 to 40.

CANTON.—The business in Scented Teas had been on a fair scale, principally in the common grades, which were offered at comparatively low prices. The settlements reported of the finer descriptions showed an advance of about two taels for both Orange Pekoes and Capers, and for the few parcels remaining on the market holders were trying to obtain still higher prices. Canton-made Green Teas had been in some demand for shipment to the Continent. No further business reported in Country Congous.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been quiet, and only a few purchases, amounting to about 100 bales, had been made; native holders were still firm. Unsold stock about 2,500 bales. One third of the season had elapsed, and export to date was 976 bales, against 4,578 bales last year. Silkworms' Eggs: Total arrivals, 1,540,000 cards, of which 1,000,000 to 1,100,000 had been settled; prices lower, say $2 to 3, for good cards on offer; inferior, $1 to 1.50. Bivoltinis almost unsaleable at any price.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular of 8th Nov. is as follows:—We have to report a very small business during the past fortnight, not more than 200 bales having found buyers. Foreigners generally, not liking the tone of the telegrams, prefer waiting for more definite news before operating, while on the other hand Chinese show little disposition to sell unless they obtain full prices. The great bulk of the Silk on offer is very inferior, especially the Red Peacock descriptions, for which Tls. 510, equal to 25s. 9d., is asked. The following are a few of the purchases:—Dragon chop, No. 3, Tls. 580 to 585; Old Lion chop, Tls. 520; Red Peacocks, Tls. 510; Elephant chop, Euke Fong, Tls. 520; Pang-E-Tah Re-reeled Hainin, Nos. 1 and 2, Tls. 590 to 600; Medium, 4 and 5 Tsatlee, Tls. 465 to 510; Skein Taysaams, Tls. 370 to 380; Long Reels, Tls. 390 to 410.

CANTON.—There had been little or no business, purchasers showing no inclination to enter the market after the receipt of the latest telegrams quoting Cantons 17s. 6d. in London. Heavy losses incurred by recent failure of several Indian firms had to a great extent stopped business for the Bombay market. For America there had been more doing in Re-reeled than for some time past, and prices were much firmer. Quotations were nominally the same as those given in last report.

JAVA AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BATAVIA.—Arrack 4 per cent. overproof: Sales at f.67.50 to f.72.50 per leaguer. Coffee, Java: Improved accounts from Holland had made planters firmer, and for 9,000 piculs Pamanoekan f.31.53 per picul was offered and refused, since then it had been sold at a secret rate. Ordinary valued at f.28 to f.29. Padang: None in the market. Gum Damar remained at last quotation, f.26 per picul. Pepper, Black: In better demand at f.21 to f.22.50 per picul. Pepper, White: None in the market.

SINGAPORE.—During the interval the tendency of prices had been upwards, owing partly to the lower rates of freights ruling; there had not been any material change in the position of the market; a fair demand had existed for most staples, and a moderate business had transpired. Tin in good demand for England, about 1,800 piculs taken for that market at $30.30 to 30¾ per picul. About 970 piculs sold for America at $30¾ to 30¾ per picul; stock, 160 piculs, held at $30¾ to 31 per picul. Gambier: Sales about 700 tons at $3.02½ to 3.05 per picul; dealers firm at the latter price. Black Pepper in great demand at $8.65 to 8.70, but supplies from old crop entirely exhausted. Arrivals from the new crop expected about the end of December, but dealers unwilling to contract. White Pepper out of stock, worth $12 per picul. Coffee: Sales for England 4,200 piculs Bontyne at $10¾ to 11.10 per picul, about 1,500 piculs in stock held for an advance in price. Sago Flour in good demand; 1,700 piculs Sarawak sold at $2.65 per picul and 600 piculs Siak at $2.62½ per picul. Tapioca in better enquiry, sales at $3¼ to 3.30.

REPORTS AND CASUALTIES.

HONG KONG.

The Lord of the Isles left Plymouth on the 3rd September, and arrived at Port Said, on the 18th September, on the 19th proceeded through the Suez Canal and having gone about twenty miles the vessel grounded, and after discharging about 200 tons of cargo, in the attempt to back, heave, and tow her off, an eight-inch hawser broke, and unfortunately fouled the propeller of the vessel, which it was found impossible to remove, and the vessel's progress, through this unforeseen accident, has been retarded at least two miles per hour; on the 29th of October, owing to the broken hawser having worked itself so tightly round the propeller, the coupling of the shaft gave way, which caused further delay in effecting repairs. The total time under steam from Plymouth to Hong Kong is forty-six days, but there was one day expended at Port Said, one day at Aden, five in the canal, five in Penang, four in Singapore, and two through the accident to the shaft in the typhoon; in all sixty-five days. Through this unfortunate accident, the Lord of the Isles will have to proceed to dock here, to have the hawser removed from the propeller; she will then proceed on her destination to Shanghai.

SINGAPORE.

The crew were landed at Anjer on Oct. 12th.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 21.

The old year will not bring us a new Ministry, and the greatest doubt still prevails upon the question which party will take the reins of government in hand. Rumours say that Mr. Thorbecke will be asked to form a Cabinet; but the Conservative papers are still pleading for a Ministry under Heemskerk. What will be the ultimate result of this prolonged crisis I do not know; but it is quite certain that it has a very bad influence upon the affairs of the State. The Second Chamber has debated, in the meanwhile, some important questions. The Minister of Justice—interpellated by Mr. de Casembroot about rumours spread by the papers respecting French prisoners who have escaped from Germany, and who should have been surrendered to Germany, to be duly shot by the Prussian authorities, Mr. Lilaar—declared that these rumours were partially true, but very exaggerated. It was true that French prisoners had escaped to Holland; but he could state, after a careful inquiry had been instituted, that there had never been any question of the prisoners being delivered to Prussia, still less of their being shot. Mr. Sypesteyn asked Mr. Brocx, as Minister ad interim of the Colonies, some particulars about the on dit which is making the round of the English papers, stating that negotiations were going on between Holland and England about the cession of Guinea. The Minister confirmed the news, but, of course, stated that the treaty in reference thereto would be submitted for the approval of the Chamber. Last, but not least, Mr. Kerstens asked the Government if there was any intention to intervene in the affairs of the Pope—viz., to endeavour by diplomatic means to restore Pius IX. to his temporal power, according to the address forwarded by the thousands of Catholics to the Government. Mr. van Mulken, as Minister of Foreign Affairs ad interim, declared positively that the Government had no intention to act in the manner referred to. A very long debate ensued, which, however, terminated in the Chamber approving, by 39 against 35 votes, the non possumus declaration of the Government. I need not add that this very large minority resulted partially from the very confused political situation. It would have been most laughable if the House had resolved that Holland should send a diplomatic note to Italy to force the "Ré Galantuomo" to evacuate Rome, and to restore Pius to his temporal power; and, if Italy had refused, of course our Government, according to the wishes of our good Catholics, ought to send a declaration of war to Florence!

The Luxemburg question seems less critical. Let me first state that the Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant and the Luxemburger Zeitung have denied, on good authority, the Belgian statement that the German Government had come, so long as a month ago, to an understanding with the Grand Duke for the transfer of the Duchy; but I have reason to believe that the King will finally make no objection to abdicate. In Holland the general wish is that he may do so, and that the Duchy will be transferred to one of those minor German Princes who at present does not possess a sovereignty of his own. If, for instance, the ex-Duke of Nassau or his son, who are nearly related to our King, were to ascend the Luxemburg throne, and join the federal empire, the Luxemburgers could remain as they are, keep their local Government, and yet return to that relation to Germany in which they, until recently, stood. I named these Nassau Princes, but some papers give the Prince of Wied as the future candidate. His Highness arrived some days ago from Versailles at the Hague; he assisted at the obsequies of Princess Frederick, which will take place to-day. Contrary to this opinion is the tenour of the telegram which was forwarded by our King to Prince Henry in Luxemburg, by which the Grand Duke declared that he would defend the Treaty of 1867, and the honour and independence of the Grand Duchy. "I approve," he said, "all the acts of the Prince and the Grand Ducal Government." This telegram was read in the Luxemburg Chamber, and, of course, was much applauded, because the Luxemburgers are greatly in favour of preserving their autonomy. But, as I stated before, the general wish in Holland is that the King will transfer his rights to the Duchy, so that Holland will have henceforth nothing to do with the German Empire. It has made some sensation that Earl von Bylands arrived some days ago at the Hague. I am, however, able to assert that our ambassador at the Prussian Court has only left Berlin on private family affairs.

I hear that large sums of money are being contributed to the Multatuli Fund. The heirs of Mr. Jacob van Lennep presented to it their share of the produce of the copyright of "Max Havelaar."

According to the Gazette van Gent, the sculptor, Mr. de Plym, from Antwerp, has been charged with the construction of the statue of Jan Pieterszoon Koen, which will be erected at Batavia.

I regret that in several towns an epidemic of small-pox prevails.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The approaching Christmas holidays and turn of the year cause the reservedness of buyers to increase, so that purchases are now mainly confined to actual requirements, and the business done in our produce market since my last has consequently been on a limited scale. Our leading articles continue, however, upon the whole, to exhibit a firm appearance, and prices are well supported.

COFFEE exhibits a healthy appearance, without much actual business doing, owing to the approaching close of the year, and also to the impediments to the export to Germany. Sales have been closed by public auction of 1,295 bags Java and Java Triage, ex Philips van Marnix, at various prices, according to quality, and by private treaty of 597 bags Java, ex the same vessel.

SUGAR.—The market remains firm. Some shipments of Java were sold afloat at a partial advance, whilst spot parcels continue to be saleable at the value of the late November sale.

TEA is firm, and prices are fully maintained; but the business doing is on a limited scale.

JAVA TOBACCO.—A fair business has been doing in second hands, but no particulars have transpired. Some parcels lately offered by private tender, but which were not quitted, have been sold now by private treaty.

SPICES.—Without any alteration to report. Sales have been closed of 23 casks Nutmegs and 7 cases Mace on secret terms, whilst 18 casks Nutmegs and 5 cases Mace, of late importation on private account at Amsterdam, per Fop Smit, changed hands at full prices; also 100 bags Penang Pepper, at 31c.

RICE.—Quiet, without change in prices.

ARRACK continues in good demand. Sales have been closed at Amsterdam of 70 casks, ex Helena and Henriette; and of 25 casks Indramayoe, ex Louise, at secret prices.

DRUGS.—The trade rules upon the whole very quiet. A shipment of 3,755 tubs Japan Camphor has come to hand at Amsterdam, and another one of 4,678 tubs has arrived here, both for account of the Dutch Trading Company. The business doing in this article is unimportant, and prices are hardly better than nominal. Some parcels Long Pepper have changed hands at advanced rates, the current market value being now 22c. to 22½c. Cassia Vera is in but little demand at the present currency; 298 packages ex St. Jan, and about 100 packages ex Agra, were disposed of. Gutta-percha looks dull; 4,500 kilograms Sumatra put up for tender remain unsold, for want of acceptable offers. A partial demand has manifested itself for India-rubber, and Batavia of fine quality would be saleable at present at f.125 to f.130. Gum Damar has been little dealt in of late, but the article is now attracting rather more attention, and 30c. has been paid afloat.

INDIGO.—A want of activity has lately characterised the trade, mainly attributable to the advanced season of the year. Only a few small lots of Java have changed hands at former rates. Several parcels, recently arrived per Philips van Marnix, have been placed on the market, which affords now a better choice.

HIDES.—The market is firm, but inactive.

METALS.—Banca Tin has been selling at f.75½, f.75, f.74¾, f.75; f.75¼ and f.75⅝ for public sales prompt, and at f.74, f.74½, f.74¼ and f.75 for delivery ex the next spring sale. Billiton afloat has changed hands at f.74, and is now held for f.75.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.—Dec. 16, at Texel, from Batavia, Singapore; at Flushing, from Akyab, Talavera.

PASSENGERS INWARD.—From Java, per Honigby: Mr. Harting and family.

FREIGHTS.—The Trading Company has chartered two vessels to convey produce from India to Amsterdam—viz., the Australie, 355 lasts, f.73.49c., and to Rotterdam; and the Johanna and Margaretha, 598 lasts, f.73.87c.

LITERATURE

The November number of the Phœnix opens with "A Month in Mongolia," a well-written paper very acceptable at the present time. Mr. Hyde Clark contributes a brief sketch of the "Tibetan Affinities of the Paleogengian Language;" and Mr. C. Carroll continues his diverting translation of the "Cure for Jealousy." Mr. B. H. Hodgson's papers on the Buddhists are always valuable, and the list of "Recent Changes in Japan" will interest more persons than are likely to be affected by them. We regret to observe that the present number contains evidence of carelessness in getting up, which the editor will do well to bring to the notice of the printer.

Conjurers in Java—De Beauvoir's Travels.

The conjurer-priest called some children about ten or twelve years old, who crawled up to his feet; he took a box of steel needles, about twenty inches long, and thrust one into each child's face. The needle penetrated the flesh in the middle of one cheek, and came out in the middle of the other; then he opened their mouths, to show that it crossed them like a bit, between the tongue and the palate. Thus spitted through they came in a row to show themselves to us. The operator then drew out the steel with a sharp pull, licked over the hole with his tongue, and the children looked perfectly happy—showed no trace of this piercing. But I can tell you that the sight curdled my blood. The last act of this burlesque of fanatics was acted by "tjagoga," or Chinese singers, with their faces thickly painted with yellow, and it all finished like Punch or a fight. Naked wrestlers beat one another about with sticks or clubs, to the great delight of the enchanted populace, who rallied the vanquished. The combatants gave such terrible blows, owing to their great muscular strength, and so excited themselves with wild shrieks that the police were sometimes obliged to interfere to prevent their being killed. All this time an intoxicated orchestra beat bamboo drums with all their strength, and the enthusiastic crowd wandered about beneath the feathery branches of the lighted-up bananas and tulip trees; Bengal fires illuminated the luxuriant clusters of the avenues at intervals.

Java—Extracts from De Beauvoir's Voyage Round the World.

Imagine what a new source of wealth will be opened to this country when over 2,000,000 porters (for all the Javanese are liable to forced labour) and more than 500,000 beasts of burden and draught horses, who painfully carry some 4,000,000 tons of merchandise, will be replaced by steam engines and carriages. Then the porters will be converted into labourers, the beasts of burden will be used for field work, and by a most desirable change of labour the immense spaces, hitherto uncultivated, will be explored, the virgin forests cut down for building ships, and the crowded inhabitants can emerge, and Java, instead of being behindhand, will become as flourishing and advanced as North America.

THE UNION BANK OF LONDON ON MARRIAGE.

Christmas is, par excellence, the season of liberality; the time when generous Englishmen vie with one another in giving, according to their abundance, of those good things of this life which their less fortunate neighbours stand most in need of. Banks, which are well known to be among the most liberal institutions of the age, are ordinarily most distinguished at this season for their bounty to their clerks. Directors feel that the enormous profits which they divide among their shareholders depend on the integrity of their subordinates, and they would be ashamed to reflect that those patient toilers of the desk should want any reasonable comfort, or be deprived of any reasonable privilege. They know, too, that the gentlemen whom they employ are persons of more than ordinary prudence and foresight, and they therefore feel sure that whatever they bestow on them at Christmas will be certain to be made good use of. Under these circumstances some of the London banks have this year given their clerks advanced salaries, and others have presented them with a douceur calculated on a pro rata per centage on profits. The directors of the Union Bank of London, however, determined to exceed all their competitors in liberality, have embraced the opportunity of bestowing upon their clerical staff the cheap gift, with which they seem to be redundantly supplied, of—good advice; advice which, however, they do not seek to render more palatable by any disguise of the threat by which it is accompanied. In a word, the directors of the Union Bank have just published a "resolution" that their clerks shall not be permitted to marry until they are in receipt of a salary of £150 a year, and they warn them that any clerk who, after this notice, shall contract marriage on any smaller salary, "shall be considered to have resigned his appointment, which will cease accordingly."

The reasons which have influenced the directors in coming to this decision are thus stated in a published extract from their minutes:—

"The directors have been frequently impressed with the distress and difficulties resulting from the early and improvident marriages of some of the junior clerks, who, without any other resources than their commencing salaries, soon find their incomes inadequate to meet the increased expenses entailed by marriage, and often by sickness in addition, and in recent cases junior clerks have died, leaving their widows and children without any provision or means of livelihood.

"Salaries in this bank are increased at intervals according to merit, and the exercise of ordinary prudence and foresight for a few years would in most cases enable even the junior clerks to contract marriage with incomes which, if administered with due economy, would better enable them to avoid debt and distress, and enable them to come to the discharge of their duties without the anxiety and pressure of domestic difficulties."

The matrimonial minimum of stipend is unquestionably a modest one; and the abstract prudence of the new rule may, perhaps, save some young couples from the miseries of a life of "genteel poverty," and even reconcile some affianced pairs to the hardships of a "long engagement." But the new "resolution" suggests some unexpected and anxious considerations. How many of the clerks in the Union Bank, and other London establishments of the same kind, have reached the age when sensible men prepare to take the most important action of their lives, without being remunerated for their services with the bare pittance required to maintain a wife according to the new directorial estimate? Why should bank clerks, of all people in the world, be the class selected for the trial of an experiment which no merchant or manufacturer in the country would venture to attempt with his assistants? If bank directors are to be invested with more arbitrary powers than other employers, is there any limit to the despotic authority they may claim to exercise over the private lives of their business dependents? If they are allowed to prohibit marriage under £150 a-year, is there anything to prevent them from insisting on all their unmarried clerks entering into the holy state as soon as their salaries are raised to the prescribed minimum? How will the new regulation apply to widowers with young families? and what are the views of bank directors generally on the collateral questions of compulsory vaccination and marriage with a deceased wife's sister? None of these inquiries seem to us more far-fetched than the one suggested by the resolution by which the directors of the Union Bank have initiated their anti-matrimonial crusade. If their example should be followed by other banks, it is highly important that the sentiments of directors generally on all social subjects should be embodied in a code, and published as a banking "handy-book," to be referred to as a standing authority, like Fenn on the Funds and the Investors' Manual. There should be a congress of directors—none of them men of less than £10,000 a year—to settle the basis of the salaries on which all their employes might be permitted to marry—for there certainly can be no reason why the new system should be limited to one class, and that probably the most prudent and economical of all. But it does not seem likely that, after the public attention that has been drawn to the recent resolution of the directors of the Union Bank, and the comments of the press, many other establishments will be found to lend themselves to a regulation which is alike arbitrary and humiliating to their most trusted servants. It is true that one correspondent, who represents himself to be a clerk, has written to The Times expressing his gratitude to the directors for the restriction they have imposed on his class; but the general feeling is that, so long as bank clerks discharge their duties efficiently, and so long as they are expected to give the present guarantees for their fidelity, any interference with the economy of their private lives is a gratuitous and unwarrantable attack on their independence, and, as such, can only have the effect of deterring men of spirit from entering such a service.

UNITED STATES CONTULATES ABROAD.

During the last fiscal year the total amount of fees collected and accounted for by the one hundred and eighty-two United States Consulates was $534,670. The year's salaries paid amounted to $451,030, and the loss by exchange wss $9,934, leaving an excess of fees over salaries and loss in exchange of $73,706. The most profitable Consulate, prior to the Franco-Prussian war, was Paris, the fees received there during the last fiscal year having amounted to $53,169, while the salaries were but $7,619. The year's fees at Liverpool were $35,887, and the salaries $11,510. At Manchester the fees were $28,535, and the salaries $3,682. At London the fees were $19,573, and the salaries $3,750. At Havana the fees were $18,805, and the salaries $7,708. At Sheffield the fees were $18,684, and the salaries $8,674. At Moscow the fees were only $9, and the salaries $2,288. At Brindisi the fees were $250, and the salaries $2,064. At Tripoli and Tunis there was not a dollar of fees collected, but the Consuls at each place receive $3,000 salary. The Department of State has also to engage and pay interpreters and guards for the Consulates in Turkey, China, Japan, and Siam, besides keeping up prisons there for American criminals at an annual expense of about $7,000, and Consular Courts, which cost nearly $10,000 more. These small consulates, which cost so much more than they come to, ought clearly to be abolished.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favourite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps has attained by his homœopathic preparation of Cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in tin-lined packets labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.

EXPIATION FOR THE TIENTSIN MASSACRE.

WE understand that CHUNG HOW, who is accompanied by Mr. H. O. BROWN, of the Chinese Customs Service, and formerly on Col. GORDON'S Staff (a British subject), Messieurs. IMBERT and NOVION, also of the Customs Service, and Mons. DEVERIA, Interpreter to the French Legation at Peking (all French subjects), will, in the first place, arrive in London, of course unofficially, with a view of obtaining information as to the course to be pursued in carrying out the object of the mission. In the present distracted state of the Government of France it does not seem probable that any sort of negotiation will be possible. Still we are glad that CHUNG HOW has the opportunity of landing on our shores, and we feel sure that he will return to China a wiser and better man. Before this dreadful Tientsin Massacre he was known for his good offices towards foreigners. The last mail has brought us something like detailed accounts of the proceedings taken by the Chinese Government, four months after the occurrence of the massacre, to make a show of punishing its perpetrators. These accounts have by no means made it clear that the persons most implicated in the outrage have been brought to justice, or even involved in the act of punishment at all. A correspondent of our own informs us that, for even the mockery of justice which has been meted out, the French Minister is mainly indebted to the support of his colleagues, his own representations having been received with supreme contempt as soon as the telegraph announced the French reverses at home. It is hoped, however, that, whatever may be the arrangement made by Count ROCHECHOUART, it will not preclude the eventual action of the French Government in placing its relations with the Chinese on a more solid basis than hitherto. It will be remembered that when the proposed execution of the alleged criminals in the Tientsin affair was announced by telegraph we expressed our fears that justice might be frustrated again by a repetition of the sacrifices of Hwang-chu-kee, some twenty years ago, when a number of persons perfectly innocent of the crimes attributed to them were ostentatiously executed, merely as an expedient to pacify the indignation of England, and without any real intention of checking or over-awing the hatred of the foreigners which the mandarins have laboured so unremittingly to implant among the lower classes of the natives.

The correspondent of The Times, we are sorry to say, fully bears out these anticipations. He says that the execution of the fifteen alleged criminals was ordered for 5.30 A.M.—nearly an hour before sunrise—and the victims loudly declaimed against the officials for having sold them to the foreigners, after having encouraged the outbreak. Moreover, "instead of the ordinary dress of their class, they were "clothed in silks and mandarin-shaped hats, and were "treated altogether as heroes rather than assassins. The "officials, it is said, have cast the whole odium of the affair "on foreigners, to appease whom the sacrifice of some lives "was necessary, and gave Tls. 500 to each prisoner for the "benefit of his family. It is easy in China to buy a life. There "are plenty of men in any large city who would willingly "sell themselves for less than Tls. 500—to say nothing of the "feasting and laudation which have, in the present case, been "added." We prefer on this occasion to take the report of a perfectly disinterested contemporary rather than to publish the accounts of correspondents of our own, whom journals like the Pall Mall Gazette and Saturday Review would be certain to stigmatise as prejudiced and unreliable, according to their wont. The whole subject of our relations with China requires a thorough investigation and straightening out, and we hope that our Foreign-office authorities will not neglect the opportunity afforded by the visit of CHUNG How to take the preliminary steps.

THE PILGRIMS TO MECCA.

In our issue of the 28th ult. we noticed the letter of Mr. W. H. READ, the Netherlands Consul, exposing the extortion and ill-treatment to which pilgrims to Mecca are subjected in Singapore. The New Batavia Handelsblad has recently published a special account of them. The pilgrims are represented to be simple country people who undertake the journey on purely religious grounds. The vessels which take them to Jeddah are so over-crowded that death frequently results from the effects of it. On their arrival at Jeddah the pilgrims are handed over to their respective Sechs, who are men appointed by the High Priest at Mecca to convoy the pilgrims from Jeddah to that place, and to lodge and look after them while there. The Sech who is deputed to attend on the pilgrims from Netherlands India is a Chinaman from Batavia, who has been converted to Mahommedanism. This man plunders the pilgrims as much as possible while at Mecca, and further charges each a fee of sixteen Spanish dollars on their becoming Hajis. No captain will take a single Haji on board until he has paid on his behalf to the Sech $3½, for the Sech himself, half a dollar for the high priest at Mecca, the same sum for the consular visa of the pilgrim's pass, and also the advances made to the pilgrim during his stay in Mecca. Above and beyond these sums he pays to the Sech a premium, and the captain who pays the highest premium gets the cargo. Before sailing an account is handed over by the Sech to the captain of the advances paid on behalf of each pilgrim. With these vouchers the captain sails with his passengers to the Straits Settlements, where he sells them in lots to the Chinese planters in the interior, under cover of a voluntary agreement between the Haji and the planters, by the terms of which the latter pay to the captain the debts of the former as well as the charges for freight, and the Hajis agree to work for the planters on a stipulated rate of wages until the money advanced be paid off. It has been calculated that half the pilgrims who sail for Mecca never return, and the Government is loudly appealed to to put a stop to this infamous traffic.

THE Italian Adriatic Oriental Company has addressed a protest to the Government, against the arrangement established with the Peninsular and Oriental Company for traffic between Brindisi and Alexandria. The protest states that the advantages which have been granted to the English company are not in harmony with previous agreements between the Government of the Italian company, and would prejudice the interests of the latter.

THE retirement of Mr. BRIGHT from the Cabinet will not be likely to excite the regret of our readers however much they may sympathise with the cause of it. No politician has ever more thoroughly misunderstood our relations with China, or more strenuously opposed the best interests of our countrymen in the Far East. We understand that Mr. OTWAY has resigned, and will be succeeded by Lord ENFIELD, M.P. for Middlesex, as Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

WE have much pleasure in drawing attention to the letter of a correspondent at Ceylon, printed in another column, which gives a very practical and encouraging view of the prospects of coffee-planters throughout the island, and entirely confirms the views we advanced in these columns last year concerning the eligibility of investing in plantations in Ceylon.

WE are glad to perceive by the extract from the PRESIDENT'S Address, published in our last, that the Government of the United States takes so just a view of the recent transactions in China, and that the SECRETARY of STATE has instructed the American Minister at Peking to co-operate with the European Powers to repress piracy.

WE understand that Sir HARRY ORD has obtained leave, and may be expected home early in the spring, and that Colonel ANSON will succeed him as Acting Governor. Judge MAXWELL is also expected home, and we understand retires on his pension. Mr. BIRCH, the Colonial Secretary, returns to Singapore in February.

THE "ELLENBOROUGH" AND HER COST.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

Sir,—I am glad to see by your shipping lists that the British ship Ellenborough, Captain Robb. has at last arrived in England, and that the military and other invalids (about 170) who left Hong Kong in her on the 22nd of May last, and were towed well into the China Sea by one of H.M.'s steam transports, will have the satisfaction of eating their Christmas dinner with friends at home. I have to congratulate the public, too, on the completion of a voyage so expensive in its maintenance, the sum paid by or for each officer in the cabin being, as I am advised, £50, and ten shillings a day mess money—so making for the seven months an aggregate of £150 a-head—say a fifth more than the P. and O. S. N. Company would have brought them overland for in under a fourth of the time occupied, the three-fourths so saved being also a saving of so much full pay for time wasted—the total of all being large. very, and all to come out of the public pocket.

But some of your readers will say—how were those in whom was vested the duty of engaging passages for these invalids to know that the Ellenborough would be so long over the work? Well. the answer to this is simple enough. When a ship had taken something like half a year to convey soldiers from England to Hong Kong, and at one period of that time had to be sought by a war steamer and relieved with provisions among the intricate passages of the Malayan archipelago, we might safely infer that in the face of the South-west Monsoon in the China Sea she was hardly likely to do the run with much greater celerity than the Ellenborough has; indeed, the character of ships for speed under canvas only is now so well appreciated that when the Taiping left Macao, on the 10th of June (or nearly three weeks after the Ellenborough left Hong Kong), thos who backed her were not far out in saying that she would be in England some eleven weeks before her less speedy competitor (as was the case), my opinion on this head being strenghtened by the fact that another ship (not a clipper), which left Hong Kong a week after the Ellenborough, was at the mouth of the Channel about the same time that the Ellenborough was leaving the Cape of Good Hope in October.

Leaving China after the summer was well on, two months in the sweltering heat of the China Sea and Straits, winter off the Cape, another summer in the Atlantic tropics, and then into the depth of an English winter—could such a course as this be deemed calculated to benefit the men for whom the public pay the passage money? Do the Hong Kong military doctors advise such things?

In view of the circumstances here detailed, therefore, I would beg to suggest through your columns to some industrious working politician (a Joe Hume kind of fellow) the propriety of ascertaining the reasons for an engagement of such a ship as the Ellenborough to convey invalids to England over such a wide expanse of ocean; and in anticipation of action being taken on the matter, I would mention one or two things of which I am cognisant —1. That long prior to the arrival of the Ellenborough the naval storekeeper in Hong Kong had advertised for tenders to convey the invalids in question, and that, for certain, he received an offer of one ship which, from her general good qualities, could hardly have failed in putting the living freight on the shores of England some two months before the Ellenborough did.

2. The question might be asked as to what means were taken for ascertaining the Ellenborough's sea worthiness. Was she docked? Did her log-book show an unusually small or an unusually large use of the pumps on the way out; and, finally, was it the ship's agents, the military, or the naval authorities that had the most to do in the getting the job arranged?

Believe me, Sir, that in making these suggestions I am only prompted by a desire to see the public purse better conserved than is at all apparent in the case under notice, and remain your obedient servant,

Conservative.

VALUE OF COFFEE PROPERTIES IN CEYLON.

Although the market for coffee beans is temporarily depressed, it does not in the least degree affect the sale of coffee estates. These, when put in at their fair value, although many may have cost more, will generally find purchasers. One gentleman in Kandy, we are told, has passed through his hands no less than twenty-eight coffee plantations in little more than a year; and some of them at very fine prices; others have gone at great bargains to the purchaser. All depends on where the property is situated. Previous to last year, for about seven years we had excessively dry seasons. These told severely on low-lying estates, causing quite an exodus from these, and a rush to the high lands. Two new districts, Dimboola and Dickoya, have lately been the most attractive; and in these fancy prices are freely given—£4, £5, and even £6 per acre for the available forest land is frequently paid, and the present average may be said to be about £4. But both districts have great advantages. Roads into the heart of them are made and being continued. The proposed railway extension to Nawelapittia will come within twenty miles of the estates. Their climate is one of the finest in Ceylon. One young gentleman came out three years ago, bought a piece of land, opened up 200 acres, of which 100 were only just planted, sold the estate, consisting as above, and with about 100 acres remaining forest, for £4,500 cash, of which £3,000 are said to have been clear profit. The proprietors of another estate bought their land at a high figure, planted about one-third of it, and in the fifth year it cleared itself, and they had a property worth £18,000.

Another gentleman, who came to Ceylon about seven years ago a stranger to it and coffee, bought land, planted an estate, and sold out the half share a year ago at a clear profit of £5,000; while £17 per acre have lately been offered for land just planted, and £8 per acre for forest. Such is the demand for coffee property in the favourite districts, that £40 to £50 per acre can readily be obtained for coffee in bearing. Other districts, although not so much run upon at present, however, offer equal, and, in many instances greater, advantages. In some of the now despised low districts great bargains can be got, and in this kind a few thousand pounds can do a great deal. It is not because they are bad that they have lately been selling at low prices, but just because the run has been upon high lands. Should we now, as seems probable, judging from this year, get a succession of wet seasons, those low-lying properties would far outstrip their higher neighbours in the race of production. Under any circumstances, at present prices such properties offer a splendid opportunity for investments. Money lent upon such securities, too, has considerable advantages; 8, 9, and 10 per cent. are frequently obtainable in primary mortgage.

Under ordinarily favourable circumstances land can be planted and brought into bearing for £15 an acre; under particularly favourable circumstances at £10; and under exceptionally favourable at £8, when it will be worth from £40 to £50 per acre. It should yield in good land 6 to 8 cwt., and in some cases 10 cwt. per acre. These are moderate estimates, which, under ordinary circumstances and seasons, may be relied on; but 12 to 15 cwt. per acre are frequently obtained, and I know two estates—one in Dimboola and one in Dickoya—that are this year yielding 15 cwt. per acre. I know the same in other districts, but those quoted are the only convenient parts of the coffee country where large blocks of land in any great quantity are to be had. Bearing at the above-quoted rates, the produce should be put free on board ship at 20s. to 30s. per cwt, i.e., supposing the estate has been kept clean from the commencement (by far the most economical and profitable plan), and at 30s. to 40s. per cwt. if weedy, and weeded as often as required This includes coolie labour, superintendence, repairs to buildings, and every needful expenditure on the property. Such produce is worth on the average 55s. to 65s. f.o.b. Of low-lying plantations, owing to excessive timidity of holders, and their determination to realise whatever they could get, rare bargains have lately been procurable. In fact. sales have been made at rates which one or two crops would clear. Buyers at such prices can afford to have their estates in the low country. Low country estates, too, are generally very convenient for roads, for supplies, for labour, for transport, and many other items that go to cheapen production. On the other hand, the quality of their bean is somewhat inferior, but their production in ordinarily favourable seasons is generally higher than that of the mountain plantations. And they afford greater facilities for manuring, which after all is what preserves the vigour and bearing of all such properties, whether high or low. By the aid of the railway to Kandy this style of cultivation has greatly increased of late years. At present the railway terminus is at Kandy—the mountain capital —but engineers are at work surveying a line thence to Nawelapittia, which is within a few miles of the fine districts of Dimboola and Dickoya—as well as of Ambegamoa, Dolosbagy, Komalie, Pusilawa and Rambodde. If that extension be carried out, as we confidently expect it will within a couple of years, the impetus it will give to cultivation in those districts will be immense.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Dent v. Nickalls.

This was an action to recover damages for loss sustained by the plaintiff, in consequence of the defendant not having nominated a proper person to take a transfer of some shares which had been sold by the plaintiff, and the case was one which had a very important bearing upon the custom of the Stock Exchange. The shares had been sold by Mr. Dent, but he signed a blank transfer, and it turned out that the purchaser. whose name was afterwards filled in, was a youth named Eaton, seventeen years of age, and now residing in Japan. It was contended for the defence that such a mode of doing business was one of the customs of the Stock Exchange, a statement which elicited the disapproval of Chief Justice Bovill. A nominal verdict was returned for the plaintiff, with leave for the defendant to move for a new trial.

The Transfer of Shares.—The Pall Mall Gazette has the following upon the case of "Dent v. Nickalls:"—It would be well for those who dabble in what are called "City transactions" to study attentively the case of Dent versus Nickalls, which came before the Court of Common Pleas on Monday. Mr. Dent, it seems, held, in 1866, 160 shares in the Bank of Hindostan, China and Japan—the shares being £100 each, and £25 paid. On the 4th of September in that year he sold 100 of these shares through a broker to Mr. Nickalls, a stock-jobber, the settling day being the 14th. On this day, according to the custom of the Stock Exchange, the transfer was made to the last purchaser, and the name given was George Eaton, of Upton, near Macclesfield, drysalter; in December an order was made for the voluntary winding up of the company, and the liquidator found that George Eaton was a youth a little over seventeen years old, who was then a clerk in the office of his father, Mr. Edward Eaton, a drysalter at Upton, and was now in Japan. The Vice-Chancellor held that the transfer was a nullity, and in July, 1869, he restored the name of Mr. Dent to the register of shareholders, and that gentleman had since to pay £2,080 on account of the 160 shares, and there was yet further some contingent liability. Under these circumstances he contended that the defendant was bound to reimburse him, not having given the name of a proper person to receive the transfer. On the other hand, it was contended that, no objection having been made to the name of the transferee within ten days, the jobber was free from liability by the usage of the Stock Exchange. The Lord Chief Justice, however, was of opinion that the plaintiff was entitled to the verdict, which was accordingly entered for him for the nominal sum of £7,000, to stand as security for the sum to which he should be found entitled. It was further arranged that the defendant should move for a new trial, and that either party might appeal from the judgment of the Court of Common Pleas, so that this little transaction is likely, at all events, to prove a lucky windfall for the lawyers; but it should make people who are anxious to avoid litigation very careful in their proceedings when they sell the shares of any company, if those shares are not fully paid up. As a general rule, few persons after they have received the money for their shares trouble themselves further on the subject; they seldom even take the trouble to ascertain whether the transfer has been registered, still less to find out whether the transferee is a responsible person.

AMERICAN VIEWS ON CHINA.—The Rev. Mr. Baldwin, of Foochow, delivered a lecture in Boston, United States, on Nov. 16, on the Methodist Mission in China with which he has been connected for the last twelve years. The Hong Kong correspondent of the New York Times reports new troubles at Chinkiang, and adds. You will have learned by telegraph of the threatened danger to American missionaries at Tungchow. It was given out that they and their families would be seized and held as hostages, and cut to pieces gradually according to the success which might attend foreign arms. Happily, they have succeeded in escaping unmolested, and, in my opinion, not a moment too soon. Much indignation is felt in Hong Kong at the neglect of the British Government to send a portion of the garrison to the north, where its presence might insure foreigners of all nationalities against a repetition of the June tragedy.

THE ROUTE TO BRINDISI.—The time occupied by the route through Ostend, Cologne, Germany, and the Brenner Pass is now reduced to three days. After leaving Cologne, the railway runs for miles along the bank of the Rhine, and three hours after quitting Munich you enter the wild Alpine scenery of the Tyrol. After passing Innspruck the scenery is in places sublime. The change from the savage beauty of high towering rocks, black ravines, and madly rushing mountain floods to the rich sunny plains of Italy, with vines and orange trees, soft pasture lands, and broad majestic rivers, is startling. The route from Verona is through Padua and Bologna. At Rimini you come upon the shore of the Adriatic, and from thence for nearly the whole way to Brindisi the railway passes over the sands. The South Italian Railway Company have built a commodious hotel at Brindisi, close to the quay where the steamers for Alexandria are moored.

OVERLAND NEWSPAPER POSTAGE.—The Homeward Mail says:—An organised movement will shortly be set on foot in this country to ensure the reduction of the fourpenny postage charge now made on each newspaper sent by the Overland route via Brindisi. The Press and Chambers of Commerce in the East are not neglecting their duty. The supposition that because the mail passes through one more country than formerly there must necessarily be an extra penny on each paper is not tenable. The Post-office authorities must view the question as a whole. We meet the point that now Germany and Italy claim one penny each, whereas by Marseilles there was only the penny to France, by the assertion that one penny divided equally between the Home and India or China offices ought to be sufficient. The Southampton newspaper postage (now twopence) ought certainly to be reduced to a penny, to make it the same as the rate for newspapers via Southampton to Australia.

MINISTERS' AND CONSULS' PRIVILEGES.—We are requested to state that the arrangements which have hitherto existed for receiving and forwarding letters, newspapers, reviews, and parcels through the Foreign-office to Her Majesty's Missions and Consulates will cease from this time. A reasonable number of letters of limited size and weight, provided they are delivered at the Foreign-office free of porterage or postage charge, will be forwarded to members of the missions to which messengers or bags by British packets are periodically despatched. Similar facilities will be accorded to Consular officers who are connected with or subordinate to such missions. No newspapers or parcels for Her Majesty's Missions or Consulates will be received at the Foreign-office.

A WATERPROOF COMPOSITION.—Dr. Scherzer, has just sent from Peking to the Austrian Government some specimens of a Chinese composition called "Schioicao," which has the property of making wood and other substances perfectly water-tight. He says that he has seen in Peking wooden chests which had been to St. Petersburg, and had come back uninjured, and that the Chinese use the composition also for covering straw baskets, which are afterwards employed in carrying oil for long distances. Cardboard, when covered with the composition, becomes as hard as wood; and most wooden buildings in Peking have a coating of it. It consists of three parts of blood deprived of its fibrine, four of lime, and a little alum.

WITH reference to the engagements of H.M.S. gunboat Cockchafer with Chinese pirates, in October, 1863, February, 1864, and March, 1865, Commander Dayrell, and the rest of the officers and crew of the vessel at the time of the respective engagements have moved the Admiralty Court to accept the affidavits of Commander Dayrell and Mr. Roots, late engineer of the Cockchafer, as to the alleged occurrences, and, by interlocutory decree, to pronounce that in one affair 400 were attacked and two captured, and that in the other 120 were attacked. Sir R. Phillimore granted the decree prayed for.

THE Juno, which sailed from Plymouth on the 4th ult. with the detachment of Marines for the China station, arrived at Suez on the 1st. inst., having made the passage through the Canal in two days, and was to leave for Adens, on the 3rd. The health of the detachment had been good, only one death having occurred.

AMONGST the members elected at the last meeting of the Royal Geographical Society were Mr. F. H. Gottlieb, magistrate, Singapore, and Mr. C. A. Winchester, late H.M. Consul at Shanghai.

THE P. and O. Company's steamers have ceased calling at Lisbon.

Monetary and Commercial.

The failure of Messrs. Higson, West, and Co., merchants, of Manchester, has been announced. The liabilities are variously stated, the gross amount, including those on bills and in all other ways, being estimated at £230,000. The unsecured, however, are about £80,000, of which from £25,000 to £35,000 is due to Manchester houses. The firm was originally in the South American trade, but has more lately been exporting to India and China. It is feared that the liquidation will not be favourable. This failure has been followed by that of Mr. John Higson, of Hamburg.

The failure of Messrs. Parke Pittar and Co., in the India trade has been announced. The subjoined circular will explain the circumstances; and it is thought the direct liabilities will not be large. As far as can at present be ascertained, it is believed the liquidation will be favourable, some parties being sanguine enough to look for 20s. in the pound. Everything will, however, depend upon the realisation of assets in Calcutta:—

Oriental Agency Office, 26, Gresham-street, Bank of England, London, and 30. Rue le Peletier, Paris.

Sir,—We regret to have to imform you that in consequence of the failure of our correspondents, Messrs. Charles Nephew and Co., of Calcutta, and the receipt this morning of a telegram from our senior partner, Mr. Parke Pittar, from Calcutta, we find it necessary to suspend payment. We have placed our books in the hands of Messrs. Harding, Whinney, Gibbons and Co., who are preparing a statement of affairs to be submitted to our creditors immediately. In the meantime, asking your forbearance, we remain, Sir, your obedient servants, PARKE PITTAR and Co.

The tenders for £400,000 in bills on India were received at the Bank of England, when the amounts allotted were—to Calcutta £300,000, and to Bombay £100,000. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 10d. on all the Presidencies; tenders on Calcutta, at 1s. 10¼d., will receive about 36 per cent., and on Bombay, at same price, about 90 per cent. These results show no alteration.

We are glad to see, by the Colombo Observer, that Messrs John Gibson Thomson and Co. have resisted the unwarrantable combinations among the Chetties, which have too long been a reproach to the island. There can be no doubt that the Chetties have succeeded in many cases in extorting considerable sums of money from European firms, ostensibly as the result of business disputes, but really applied to the support of their Hindoo temples. It is difficult to understand how business men can have reconciled themselves to such an imposition, but, now that Messrs. Thomson and Co. have laid the axe to the root of the evil, we hope that they will be sustained in their endeavour to put a stop to it by the earnest co-operation of the other European firms.

The half-yearly meeting of the Ceylon Company (Limited) was held at the offices, Palmerston-buildings, Broad-street; Mr. Acland in the chair. The Chairman said that, although this was only the meeting for declaring an interim dividend, he felt it necessary to remark that the war now raging on the Continent had produced a serious depreciation in the price of coffee, which had fallen from 12s. to 10s. per cwt., and as the company imported yearly about 60,000 cwt. of coffee, this fall had materially affected the receipts. A better demand had, however, lately set in, and prices had risen from 5s. to 6s. per cwt. In the Mauritius, also, there had been a considerable falling off in the sugar crop, which had not produced more than two-thirds of that of last season, but the latest advices received were more encouraging. Since the last meeting the directors had done their best to dispose of several of the estates in Ceylon which had been taken by foreclosure, and some estates had been sold. A new estate had been acquired in Ceylon of 2,000 acres, of which 1,100 had been planted with coffee, and promised very favourable results. Under all these circumstances the directors felt pleasure in declaring an interim dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax. Mr. Simpson saw nothing discouraging in the state of the company. He thought, however, it would be advisable to increase their capital by making a call upon the A shares and reduce the amount of debentures. The Chairman said the directors were opposed to any further call. The dividend was then declared, and a vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

An action has been decided in the Court of Admiralty by Sir R. J. Phillimore, brought by the owners of the Fusiyama against the Liverpool. On the 26th of July last the Fusiyama, from London for Hong Kong, and the Liverpool, from New York for London, came into collision about thirty miles W. of the Start Light, and the result was that the Liverpool sank with the captain and four of the crew. Evidence was given on both sides, and Sir R. Phillimore held that the Fusiyama was alone to blame for the collision, and pronounced a decree to that effect.

The following note conveys the satisfactory announcement that the claims will be settled of the holders of manufactured sugar who were injured, according to the extent of their stock, by the change in the sugar duties last April, which was effected without notice :—

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

The dulness usually apparent at the present season of the year has set in, and there is but little doing in any of the articles of imported produce. The Cotton, Coffee and Sugar markets are closed until the new year.

TEA.

There is an entire suspension of business, no transactions having been entered into since the public sales on the 19th inst. at which 2,994 packages China were offered without reserve, on account of the importers, and were all sold. An invoice of new season's Moyune Green met a fair competition, though prices were moderate as compared with those paid in the private market. Congou sold on easier terms, as follows :—1,277 chests black leaf Congou, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6½d; 708 half-chests black leaf Congou, 1s. 3¾d. to 1s. 4½d.; 530 half-chests red leaf Congou, 1s. 2¾d. to 1s. 3d.

SILK.

During the past week there has been a little more business doing in China Silks. Common and ordinary Tsatlees have again attracted chief attention, and the market seems cleared of Tsatlees at 24s. 6d.; Red Peacocks have realised 25s. 9d., best No. 4 27s.; Che Ling Haineen, 25s. Holders generally are very firm for all descriptions. Deliveries, 1st to 20th inst., 1,639 bales. Japan Silk is still wholly neglected, there having been no transactions; there is a considerable stock of this kind on hand.

COFFEE.

The sales during the week have consisted chiefly of Brazil and other Foreign descriptions, and have comprised but few parcels of Colonial kinds. Prices for Ceylon are, however, firmly maintained, and will probably continue without alteration until the re-opening of the market early next month; the prices paid at the last sales were :—Plantation, bold, 85s.; small, 57s.; peaberry, 76s. 6d.; grey, 59s. to 59s. 6d.; garblings, 11s. to 15s.; triage, 34s. 6d. to 52s. Native, small, 48s.; good ordinary, 52s. 6d. to 53s.; peaberry, 57s. During the week 2,000 bags Native have been sold for arrival at 53s., without guarantee of quality; also 800 bags at 53s. 6d. No East India other than Ceylon has been offered.

The landings for the week are similar to those at the corresponding date last year, and the delivery, although equal to the very large quantity of the previous week, being nearly 600 tons more, the stock is reduced to 25,427 tons, showing a surplus of 1,000 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows :—Plantation, 98,902 cwt., against 82,779 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1869; Native, 5,815 cwt., against 20,277 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is nil. The quantity of Coffee landed in the fifty weeks ended Dec. 17, 1870, was, of Ceylon, 40,986 tons, against 39,850 tons during the corresponding period of 1869; of all descriptions, 70,170 tons, against 69,242 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 10,057 tons, against 10,586 tons; of all descriptions, 18,342 tons, against 18,454 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 30,488 tons, against 26,348 tons; of all descriptions, 50,620 tons, against 45,632 tons. The stock on Dec. 17 was, of Ceylon, 14,307 tons, against 13,911 tons; of all descriptions, 25,427 tons, against 24,476 tons.

SUGAR.

The market has, as usual at this period, assumed a quiet tone, and in the absence of any important business there is no alteration in prices to be reported. Manila: There has been no transactions; at auction 11,786 bags clayed (duty 4s.), import 1866 and 1867, were offered and bought in at 24s. 6d. and 25s. Penang: At auction 1,354 bags sold at previous rates—good to fine brown (duty 4s. and 4s. 9d.), 27s. to 28s. 6d.; yellow (duty 4s. 9d.), 30s. to 30s. 6d.; good do., 31s. 6d.; fine chrystallised (duty 5s. 8d.), 35s. 6d.; subsequently 317 bags soft grey and white (duty 5s. 3d. to 5s. 8d.) were offered and bought in at 34s. to 35s. 6d.; also 477 baskets, low date, at 19s. The offers of other East India have comprised 4,236 bags low Java syrups bought in at 20s. to 20s. 6d., and 666 bags low syrupy Siam bought in at 20s. 6d. The market will close this day, and will be reopened on the 3rd January.

The weekly landings are only slightly in excess of last year's, deliveries for home use show some falling off, and are only 400 tons more than last year; although large quantities have been exported, they are but fifty tons larger than in 1869, and the position of the stock is but slightly altered. Stock, Dec. 10, 72,283 tons against 76,296 tons; Dec. 17, 70,294 tons against 74,539 tons. The quantity of Sugar landed in the fifty weeks ended Dec. 17, 1870, was, of Penang, 3,104 tons, against 4,977 tons in the corresponding period of 1869; of Manila, Java, and China, 21,089 tons, against 33,054 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 2,349 tons, against 2,741 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 24,839 tons, against 22,244 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 170 tons, against 199 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 4,168 tons, against 2,937 tons. The stock on Dec. 17 was, of Penang, 2,915 tons, against 2,396 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 27,872 tons against 36,137 tons.

CUTCH.—The activity noticed in our last report led to increased firmness on the part of holders, and prices have been maintained in the face of a gradually decreasing demand; following our last, 1,100 boxes fine Pegue, ex Arabia, offered at auction, were bought in at 22s., except 74 boxes which sold at 21s. 6d., damaged 18s. 6d. to 19s. 9d.; of 1,000 bags only 100 bags sold at 20s. 6d. to 21s. 3d., the remainder inferior being bought in at 20s.; also 268 boxes mixed at 16s.; at a subsequent auction 2,765 boxes fine Elephant mark Pegue were offered and bought in at 22s. 6d.; and 450 boxes middling Fish mark at 21s., but the last-named parcel was afterwards sold at 20s. 6d. Privately there has been somewhat more concessions to holders' demands, and about 2,000 boxes fine Pegue have been sold at 22s. per cwt.

CAMPHOR.—The dull tone lately apparent has given place to some activity, resulting in advanced rates, and sales to the extent of about 240 boxes China and Japan are reported, at 75s. for the former and 76s. for the latter description; small sales of Japan have since been made at 77s. 6d. to 80s.

COIR GOODS.—The public sales of Yarn have been less extensive than for some time past, consisting chiefly of good to superior qualities, which were readily disposed of at a further advance, inferior kinds also selling on higher terms; Fibre also sold at an advance of £3 to £4 per ton. 526 bales Ceylon Yarn all sold—good, £32 15s.; chiefly fine qualities, £38 5s. to £44 5s.; very fine, £46 15s. to £50 5s.; superior bright thin, £52 5s. to £58s.; also 45 tons in dholls—good common to medium, £22 to £25; good medium to good, £28 5s. to £33 5s.; fine, £39 10s.; of 268 bales Cochin one-half common sold at £22 15s. to £23 10s.; 44 bales 3 tons Ceylon Fibre sold—fine bright, £34 5s. to £35 10s.; fair, £29 5s.; middling, £23 15s.

ARTICLES OF EXPORT.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

There has been a fair amount of business done during the week, especially in India and China staples, and prices, particularly of cloth, have been fully maintained. The majority of purchases has been in 8¼lbs. Grey Shirtings, and production of most of the favourite makes is engaged for many weeks to come. For the lighter weights of Shirtings and Yarns the demand has only been limited, but prices are not quotably altered. The report of the failure of Messrs. Higson, West, and Co. has had a depressing effect on the market.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

SHOULD BE TAKEN FOR THE CURE OF DROPSY. Fema es at a certain period of life become liable to this complaint, which first makes its appearance in the swelling of the feet, legs, and hands, and thus making strong inroads on the constitution. Numbers of dropsical patients, even when their cases were pronounced hopeless, have been cured by taking Holloway's Pills, and this medicine having stood the test of years as a certain remedy for this malady, no one so afflicted should delay giving it a trial A time of life called the critical period is common to both sexes; when this is passed hale old age invariably follows. These admirable Pills are expressly adapted for that period.
